Third Destroyer Escort Launched February 19

OTTAWA (CP)—The third destroyer escort vessel of Canada's planned fleet of 14 will be launched Feb. 19 in North Vancouver, naval headquarters announced Thursday.

The ship, to be launched at the yard of the Burrard Drydock Company, will be christened HMCS Fraser by Mrs. E. R. Mainguy, wife of the chief of the naval staff. On launching, she will be towed to Yarrows Ltd., shipyard at Esquimalt for completion.

The Canadian destroyer escorts are the first warships designed specifically for action against modern, high-speed submarines.

Shelve Fluorine Plan

GALT (CP)—The board of health has temporarily shelved any fluoridation program for Galt.

Dr. J. B. Smith, medical officer of health, Wednesday night gave the city's good dental health record as the reason for the cancellation. He said Galt's water supply has some fluorine in it, though it does not measure up to standards recommended by the Canadian Medical Association and the Canadian Dental Association.

CCF Fears US Asian Policy Dangerous One, May Lead To Third War

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons heard a CCF suggestion Thursday that the United States' new, stiffer Asian policy was dangerous and could lead to a third world war.

It came from Angus MacInnis, acting CCF leader, as spokesmen for parties in opposition expressed views about Canada's foreign policy. They agreed on only one thing — Canada should never hesitate to speak out in the councils of the world.

Members of the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties saw nothing alarming in the stiffer U. S. policy as signalled by President Eisenhower's removal of the 7th fleet from neutralizing Formosa.

In fact Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said it might be followed with a blockade of the Red Chinese coast to halt the flow of war material to the Reds. He said there must be a change in policy to terminate the "debacle" of Korea.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative foreign affairs specialist, suggested a firm U. S. policy more likely would bring peace than one of "hesitation and appeasement."

NOT CONSULTED

Canada had been "informed" but not "consulted" about the new U. S. move. If there was room for criticism because of this, it pinpointed the need for Canada's entry into an over-all Pacific defence pact.

Rodney Adamson (PC - York West) strongly supported the U.S. Formosan action and also suggested a blockade of the Red China coast. Of the Formosa move, he said it is a step in the direction of leading from strength, the only thing the Russians understand.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) also urged a Pacific pact. It was time that "the Canadian government demanded a full voice in Pacific affairs."

Mr. MacInnis said the danger in the new U. S. action "is not the probability that this will extend the Korean war but that it is only the first in a series of decisions that will bring world war three." Canada "should say in a firm voice that cannot be mistaken that we won't be bound by this or any other order taken without consultation with us."

POLITICAL DANGERS

There were political dangers in giving aid to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek whom he described as a "corrupt, reactionary remnant of old Asia." Asiatics in non-Communist countries now so vital would not be pleased with any move to help the general and his Nationalist forces on Formosa regain power in China.

"We have a major responsibility to exert the strongest pressure to prevent U. S. steps that bring us any closer to war," Mr. MacInnis said.

Mr. Graydon said Canada should never be hesitant about raising her voice with respect to formulations of policy "but after the state of the union message I was not one of those who thought there was nothing in the speech for the Canadian people or the Canadian government to be worked up about."

There were some Canadians who believed Canada should have the right of consultation on matters such as Formosa. This, he believed, could best be done "through having a Pacific pact so that the opportunity would be there."

The funeral service for Bernard Flood, 79, of Ennismore, who died Tuesday after a prolonged illness, was held Thursday at St. Martin's Church, where the Rev. G. J. Weis said the requiem mass.

The pallbearers were Fred Joliffe, Jack O'Donoghue, Frank Killen, Albert Davis, Joseph Holland, and Vincent Murphy. Burial was in the St. Martin's cemetery.

Fine Transport Driver

STRATFORD (CP)—Donald R. Aspden, Kitchener transport driver, was fined $10 and costs Thursday when convicted of careless driving Dec. 22. Police said Aspden was driving a tractor-trailer transport near St. Mary's on highway No. 7, which forced a car driven by Dr. L. Haigmeier of Thetford from the road, then collided with it when the trailer jacknifed. They said Aspden was passing another car at the time.

Committed For Trial

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Veronica Langlois Thursday was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter laid following the death of her husband, Charles, last Dec. 4. Landlois was found sitting at the side of the front steps of their home with his spine dislocated. Cyril Jenkins, a roomer, testified: "I saw Mrs. Langlois standing over her husband, cursing him. There was a flurry of arms and he was lying at her feet."

Huge Hydro Development Predicted On Yukon Border

VANCOUVER (CP)—A huge hydro-electric development on the British Columbia-Yukon border, "the base of one of the world's largest metallurgical and chemical industries," was forecast Thursday by the Vancouver Province.

The paper said in a newspage story that the project would dwarf the giant Aluminum Company of Canada development at Kitimat, 400 miles north of here.

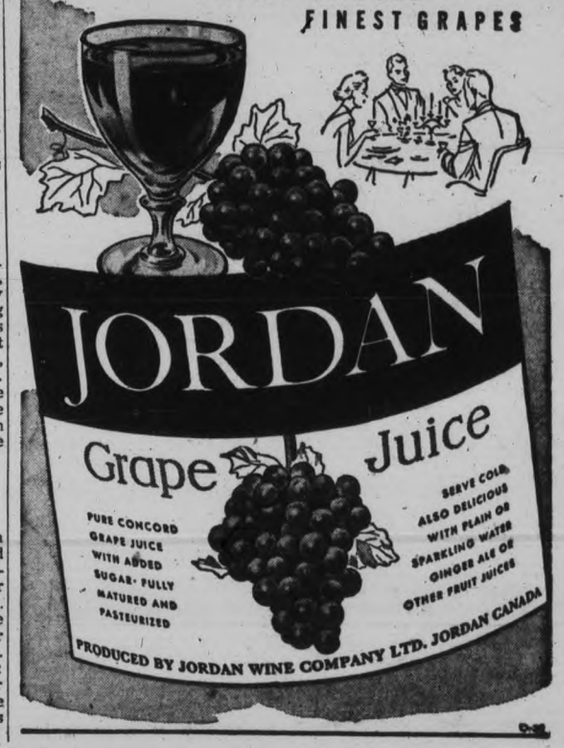
"This was learned today following an announcement (at Toronto) from Thayer Lindsley, president of Frobisher Ltd., big exploration and development company," the Province said.

"Mr. Lindsley announced that funds were being set aside for survey of the water power resources of the Yukon, under a permit from the Dominion director of water power."

AREA CONCERNED

The area concerned involves "the 17,000-square-mile Atlin lake, Taku lake and Lake Laberge basin which drains into the Yukon river and holds a potential of more than 5,000,000 horsepower."

"This compares with a total of 1,600,000 horsepower which Alcan hopes to develop in its $550,000,000 Kitimat project."



The Province adds:

"Although aluminum and magnesium are reported to be important in the new project, the company's plans are said to involve a wide range of metals which can be smelted by cheap electricity."

Shareholders of Frobisher, Ltd., at their annual meeting Tuesday in Toronto approved an increase of authorized capital to 7,500,000 shares by the creation of 1,500,000 additional shares of no par value.

The funds will be used in part for a survey of the water power resources of a part of the Yukon Territory and an estimate of the metallurgical uses to which that power can be put in the expansion of the activities of Quebec Metallurgical Industries, Ltd., a subsidiary.

Asked To X-Ray Prisoners Entering Gaol

Future prisoners in the Peterborough County Gaol may be X-rayed as part of their commitment procedure.

The executive of the Peterborough County Tuberculosis Association decided that this would be a good idea at their meeting on Thursday night. A motion was passed that a letter be sent to Gaol Physician, Dr. Ralph Clark, asking if this project can be carried out.

"We realize that there are a number of alcoholics among the individuals committed to the county gaol and because of this feel that tuberculosis may be present too," James Heffernan, president of the association said today. This plan is part of our fight against tuberculosis in the city and county and if it is adopted the X-rays will be paid for by the association."

FIRST TIME?

"As far as I know Peterborough is the first Canadian community to consider this project," he said.

If the association is successful in securing the adoption of this plan, all prisoners will have a police-escorted trip to one of the city hospitals when they are committed.

Mr. Heffernan also reported that the association hopes to offer X-rays to persons entering all institutions in the city and county.

A decision was made at the meeting to purchase a wheel-chair for a Peterborough patient in the Kingston sanitorium.

THE AMBULANCE PROBLEM

Aldermen found no light and direction in the news report of Oshawa council criticism of its ambulance service as operated by Alex. Boyd on a civic subsidy of $2,500 a year. This experience has prompted appointment of a four-man committee to investigate the prospect of Oshawa council operating the city's ambulance service. Peterborough council has a similar enquiry on its hands as a promise to local funeral directors.

Holstein Show To Be Held In Peterborough

East-Central Ontario Holstein championship show will be held again at Morrow Park on Wednesday Oct. 14. This was decided at the meeting here this week of the show committee.

Nominated for judge at the Peterborough show were E. A. Innes of Brantford and Dr. Ed Harrison of Camden, N.Y. They were recommended to the consideration of the national directors at the Ontario extension meeting Feb. 28.

Chairman of the district committee meeting was George McLaughlin of Oshawa, and with him were: Bruce Tink of Durham county; Earl Burnside of Hastings county; Harold McCaul, Lennox-Addington; Orvan Chambers, Ontario county; Stanley Wood, Peterborough; Lindsay Anderson, Campbellford, Northumberland; J. J. E. McCague of Alliston, from Simcoe county; William J. Murphy, Victoria; Percy Barker of York. Only Prince Edward county was not represented.

Others present were Jerry Nelson, Port Perry, fieldman; George McLaughlin and James T. Brown, national directors; Charles Cerswell and Roy Barker of York county; Norman McConkey, F. C. Paterson and K. E. Best.

WIDELY KNOWN

These are widely known Canadian Holstein breeders whose establishments are within the area of the East-Central Ontario counties.

The committee accepted the motion of Lindsay Anderson moving the county herd class forward from the final spot in the show up to the place immediately after the female championships. It will be first of the group classes instead of last. Many spectators are interested in the county herd award, but after spending the afternoon at the show quite a number decide not to wait until five or six o'clock for the herd feature.

Another decision cancels the ringside judging competition. It was agreed that it stimulated spectator interest, but consumed valuable time. Mr. Cerswell's motion dispensing with this spectator judging of several classes, which was adopted at Peterborough last year, was seconded by Earl Burnside of Madoc.

35 Girls Tour Hospital Interested In Nursing Career

Thirty-five high school girls, students in senior grades, visited Civic Hospital Thursday afternoon in a part of the vocational guidance program at PCVS. Throughout the latter part of the school year, pupils from the school visit various industries and services in the city in which they have shown interest. If a sufficient number are interested — as in nursing — a tour is organized.

In charge of the school's vocational guidance program is Howard Moebus. Already interest groups have visited city schools, and interested individuals have toured the factories or firms they feel may offer them a future.

SEE MAJOR FUNCTIONS

At Civic Hospital on Thursday, the girls were split into four groups and shown the workings of the hospital. Because the group was large and time was limited, they had an opportunity to observe only the major functions of the hospital.

They started their tour after a brief speech of welcome from Miss Evelyn Robson, director of nursing and principal of the school of nursing. She touched on the work a student nurse might expect and the future the profession offered.

After their visit, the girls were shown a film at the nurses' residence on "The Way To Nursing."

Unemployment Down Slightly From Year Ago

Unemployment in the city and district has decreased only slightly from this time last year, A. B. Collins, acting manager of the National Employment Service said today.

A few more jobs were available, and claims decreased slightly.

Jobs available were mostly for skilled workers; they were positions that were not usually easily filled, said Mr. Collins.

2,078 APPLICANTS

Unplaced applicants in January amounted to 2,078, a slight decrease from the 2,122 unplaced in the same month of 1952. Vacancies for last month numbered 33, compared to the 25 of January last year.

Claims, both local and postal, totalled 1,916 during January, against 2,007 for the same month last year.

Generally speaking, said Mr. Collins, the situation was about the same. Across the country, it had improved slightly over 1952, but he felt that an upswing in employment because of the open fall and winter and made the difference.

Dr. R. W. Frank Dies Suddenly In Vancouver

Dr. Reg. W. Frank, a dentist in Peterborough for several years, died suddenly today in Vancouver.

He first came to Peterborough shortly before the First World War started. On his graduation in dentistry from University of Toronto in 1916, he joined the Royal Canadian Dental Corps and served overseas, leaving the corps with the rank of captain.

After the war, he practiced dentistry in a number of communities — Picton, Toronto and Detroit, Mich., among them. Shortly before the Second World War he returned to Peterborough and established a practice here. He rejoined the dental corps at the start of the war and again received the rank of captain.

An intercollegiate track and field champion during his college days, he won the high jumping championship of the allied forces overseas during the First World War.

He was a keen student of economics and regularly attended the economic conferences held each summer at Lake Couchiching.

After leaving the dental corps at the end of the Second World War, Dr. Frank took his dentistry board in British Columbia and set up a practice in Vancouver.

Surviving are his widow and one son, Lt. (E.) John Frank, RCN, of Halifax.

Half Girls 14-16 In Lindsay Have Had Liquor

LINDSAY (ENS) — Half of Lindsay's 'teen-age girls, between 14 and 16 years, have either been drunk or have at some time or other been drinking. And despite more recreational facilities juvenile delinquency in Lindsay is increasing.

Bill Cummins, former recreation director and now a Children's Aid representative, made this charge in an address to the Kiwanis Club. His statements have provoked comment—pro and con — and may prove one of the most controversial subjects of the year.

Parents came in for a verbal spanking as well.

Adolescents are flouting the law all over the town, he charged. And he confessed that he personally didn't know the answer to the problem.

INCREASES DELINQUENCY

"The trend is toward more recreation, yet in Lindsay and probably in other towns this has increased delinquency," said the 39-year-old CA representative. "There seems to be no respect for certain things."

"At the arena there are no smoking signs; yet I have smoked there, the fire chief (Alex Wylie) has smoked there, and the kids are smoking.

"We have a curfew law but it is a joke.

'There is a rule against children being in theatres when the entertainment is for adults only, but sometimes you see them there.

"Under-age boys cannot loiter in poolrooms but sometimes they are there, too.

"Sooner or later something will have to be done about these things," said Mr. Cummins. "Most of these kids are really good kids.

DELINQUENT PARENTS.

"The root of the trouble is in the home and lack of parental control . . . there are already too many delinquent adults. That's the problem but I haven't got the answers."

Mr. Cummins then turned to the subject of drinking among juvenile girls: "The girls are just as bad as the boys in these matters. Do you know that four or five out of every 10 girls in Lindsay from 14 to 16 have either been drunk or have been drinking?"

In conclusion Mr. Cummins said: "Of course, there are many good girls and boys but I'm giving you the other side of the picture."

He said he didn't know what could be done and threw the problem into the lap of the Kiwanis Club.

In an interview today Mr. Cummins said the practice (juvenile drinking) continues despite the prosecution of bootleggers.

"It is a trend of the times and I do not suppose the situation is any better in other towns. . .Possibly the automobile has something to do with the present situation, but whatever it is, conditions are a disgrace."

Mr. Cummins said he believed "practically all these young boys and girls. . .will grow out of the habit."

Slippery Streets Blamed For Three Crashes

Slippery, snow-coated streets were blamed for two of three minor accidents reported to city police Thursday. No persons were injured, and property damage was light.

In one, Mrs. Maud Anderson, RR3, Peterborough, was driving west on Chamberlain St. She stopped at Monaghan Rd., and pulled out when the road was clear. A car driven by O. C. Wainman, 664 Hawley St., hit her right rear fender. Wainman said he applied his brakes when he saw the car, but skidded into it.

Harold Grafstein, 623 Homewood Ave., was driving east on McDonnel St. When he braked his car at Cambridge St., it skidded into a car parked on the south curb. Owner of the parked car was Donald Montgomery, RR 4, Lakefield.

A city bus and a passenger car were in collision at the intersection of Albert and Park Sts. Both vehicles were travelling east on Albert St. Robert Watkins, 411 Dublin St., stopped at the intersection and a passenger opened the right front door to get out. The bus, driven by Michael McAuliffe, Ennismore, pulled to the right of the car and hit the open door.

Constable W. A. Scott investigated the first accident, Constable Harold Andrew the last two.

Land Assembly Lots To Sell For $200-$400 As First Plans Discussed

Initial Layout of 540-Acre Plot In Smith Still Tentative; Water Services, Schools, Drainage present Problems

Lots in the 540-acre area the city plans to take over from Smith township under the federal-provincial-municipal Land Assembly Scheme will cost between $200 and $400. The 540 acres are less than half of the proposed area to be annexed, which totals 1,256 acres. However, it is the largest single block of land which will be developed under the LAS. The estimate of cost came from Arthur Bunnell, director of planning and development for Ontario. This guessed-at cost would not include services.

Mr. Bunnell and some 20 representatives of city departments were discussing first plans drawn for the area by the department with a view to making them jibe with local problems. The plans were discussed Thursday.

Main problems seemed to be schools, drainage and water supply.

DIDN'T AGREE

Speaking for the Board of Education, K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools, said that the plan offered by the department did not fall in line with the board's present policy of establishing small neighborhood primary schools for early grades.

Mr. Bunnell remarked—as he did several times through the meeting—that the plans already drawn up were tentative in the extreme. He said the plans were merely a starting point that had to exist before any real advances could be made.

Mr. Wightman said that the board found smaller schools—up to 180 pupils—were successful for the first four or five grades of primary education. He advocated several of these scattered through the area, with a large, central school for the senior primary grades.

NEW TRUNK LINE

Ross L. Dobbin, general manager of the Utilities Commisison, said that a problem would certainly arise in providing water for the area. He felt a new trunk line would have to be established, running from the pumping station almost due east of the area.

This trunk line would pass over land not included in the area, land which is still owned privately. At present, water could come only via the existing lines to the south of the new section, and a substation for pumping would have to be built to force the water higher.

Drainage problems would certainly arise, said city engineer A. E. Chalmers. These would perhaps not be as extensive as those concerned with schools and water supply.

Mr. Bunnell said that in the 540 acres included in the planning there would be roughly 1,700 lots, which would in time take care of a population of about 7,000 people.

The plan provides for two shopping centres, a theatre, apartment houses, plenty of parkland, through streets to carry heavy traffic, and three primary schools. There is also space provided for churches.

WINDING STREETS

George Wreglesworth, of the planning department, was the designer of the first plan shown. He said that because of the contours of the land, most of the residential streets would be winding, only main traffic arteries were straight.

Mr. Bunnell, who carried the brunt of explaining the plan, said that he expected the department would undertake to subdivide the area as the need for housing arose.

The cost of services within the section would be borne by the two senior governments. The city would provide the costs of trunk services from existing lines. In this way, the area would require only the minimum of financing by the city.

When the meeting adjourned, Mr. Bunnell advised each interested group to set down their problems and mark them on a copy of the plan. When this had been accomplished, a team of two from the department would come to the city and spend roughly a week here, discussing the problems of each group and of the city as a whole.

DOROTHY DIX:

Wife Thinks Husband Too Friendly With Girls

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife is a fine person, albeit too sensitive. She is the only girl I ever loved, or ever would love.

We do have one point of disagreement. I bel in being friendly and giv sonal touch to all my contacts. I hate the formality of Mr., Mrs., and Miss, and always like to call people by their first names. I like to know the people I ride to work with, the waitresses, taxi drivers, bank tellers, store clerks—everyone, in fact, I meet during the course of a day. My wife feels I am being too familiar in many cases. I like to kid with people, both men and women, and I admit this has backfired a few times when people have come back at me with remarks my wife didn't like.

I don't see how I can change my personality, but it is annoying my wife to the point where her usually very sweet disposition is being soured. She is getting moody and cold. I know I have hurt her on several occasions but I don't see how I can change my personality completely.

HARRY W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, Harry, I guess we might as well get on first-name basis right away. It's a fine thing to have the type of personality you have—in fact, I think the ability to make friends at sight is one of the best gifts anyone can have. Like many good things, it can be overdone, and it is in the abuse of the talent that trouble lies. You are making a travesty of friendship in the way you abuse your gift. Concentrate more effort on winning a few good friends rather than trying to include the entire human race in your arms-around-the-neck campaign. I am prone to assume, though you do not say so, that you are much more likely to be interested in spreading cheer among young ladies than among men or older women. This, doubtless, is what brings protests from your wife. While you try to give the impression that your attitude is one of creating cheer among people, it is actually much more a desire to lift your own ego by having everyone hail you as a good fellow. While it is much better to smile than to frown, you should not carry geniality to the point of overfamiliarity. A warm smile and word of greeting—yes; but the kidding angle is out.

TONE DOWN EXUBERANCE

If you are sincere in your desire to please your wife, it won't be at all difficult for you to tone down your exuberance to a pitch of good fellowship. Stop concentrating on pretty young girls, and be pleasant to children and old people, too. Cut down on the banter, and strive for more sincerity in your contacts. Face the fact that you are not an eternal adolescent, and behave like an adult. Don't turn into a sourpuss, though; the world does need smiles but direct them in the right places and at the right time, saving the major portion for the little woman at home.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to a perfectly wonderful man and we have one child. My relationship with my in-laws is fine.

When we married five years ago, I had my savings, life insurance, etc., transferred from my mother's name to my husband's; he, however, has neglected to do the same. Since we have a child, I think this detail should be given consideration. I haven't mentioned the matter to my husband, and wonder if I should.

F. R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: By all means, your husband's insurance—or, at least, most of it—should name you or his child as beneficiary. The matter of altering certain documents after marriage may not have occurred to him or he may have other ideas in mind, such as taking out special protection for you. In any event, these things should be the subject of frank discussion between husband and wife. You should ask him about them.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of teenage—just out of high school. A few weeks ago I met an officer in the Army and have come to think a great deal of him. He is several years older than I. He expects to go overseas soon, and recently told me it would be best for us not to see each other again for fear one of us would be hurt. I am willing to go on seeing him, knowing he may leave at any time.

SYLVIA T.

ANSWER: I may be reading a lot between the lines, but I think your officer has more in mind than saving your heartache because he's going overseas. There may even be a wife in the background. Better keep your emotions well in hand, at least until you know a bit more about him. You've given your affection with very little warranty in this case.

TO MY VALENTINE—Those words are being written and expressed in many different ways today and Saturday; for Saturday is Valentine Day when Cupid has a heyday with sweethearts. Today in the school classrooms children such as Gordon King and Bonnie Martin, King Edward school kindergarten pupils, gave each other cards at Valentine parties. On Saturday wives, hubbies and sweethearts will be giving each other cards and gifts with whispered sweet nothings.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

FOR PARENTS ONLY:

Here's To Saint Valentine's Day

By NANCY CLEAVER

Here's to February Fourteenth! Here's a verse of song by Robert Burns which would grace any Valentine:

"My love is like a red, red rose
That's newly sprung in June;
My love is like a melody
That's sweetly play'd in tune,
As fair art thou, my bonnie lass,
So deep in love am I;
And I will love thee still,
my dear,
Till 'a the seas gang dry."

Don't these lines make you think of Saint Valentine's Day? The winter may seem long and spring very far away—and then along comes Saint Valentine's Day! With a little planning you can make it a very pleasant break between Christmas and Easter.

SEVERAL SAINTS

Small boys and girls are full of questions and when they ask about "Saint Valentine" you can tell them that not one Saint, but several of them owned the name of "Valentine." The most famous of these Saint Valentines were two men who lived in the third century. One was a Roman priest and the other Bishop of Terni. They both met a martyr's death on February 14. The association of the Lovers' Festival with their name was accidental.

During the old pagan festivals of Pan and Juno in February, young men and young women used to draw each other's names out of a box. There was much merriment over this rite. Gradually the ordinary folk continued this custom but carried it out on Saint Valentine's Day.

Although the stores are full of pretty Valentines, and the books of Valentines to be cut out are a help to busy mothers, what about "home-made" ones? Pre-school children, especially, can spend many happy hours making Valentines if mother will provide the necessary material. Spread out newspaper on the kitchen table and then assemble old magazines with colored pictures, paper doilies for borders, blunt scissors, paste and red cardboard. Place a waste-paper basket nearby and have the children help clean up when they finish their handwork.

MAKE OWN VALENTINES

Even school age boys and girls can have a good time planning their own Valentines. They won't need help in making heart outlines, but they might like to have a little assistance in making up a rhyme. Here are two inexpensive books in the Pocket Book Series—"The Merriam-Webster Pocket Dictionary" and "Roget's Pocket Thesaurus" which are useful in any home.

Encourage your child to look up himself the spelling or pronunciation of a word when in doubt. A thesaurus gives alternative words with similar ideas and helps a student distinguish different meanings.

Language is a tool and even in making up a verse for a Valentine, a child can grow in the skillful use of words. The same words get a bit monotonous when read a number of times such as:

"Roses are red, violets are blue,
Honey is sweet and so are you!"

Strive for a little originality in the versifying which goes on in your family. You may not have a real poet in your midst but you can have a lot of fun making up "I love you" verses!

THE EXPERTS SAY:

New Applesauce Sherbet Delicious, Easy To Make

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

In a campaign to encourage homemakers to use more canned foods, new recipes have been issued by the Canned Foods Association of Ontario One in particular—an apple sauce sherbet—sounds like an attractive dessert and one that could be prepared in a hurry if necessary.

Ingredients: One No. 2 can apple sauce; one-quarter cup corn syrup or honey; few grains salt; one tablespoon lemon juice; one-quarter cup orange juice; one-half teaspoon grated orange rind; one-half cup sugar; two egg whites.

Turn freezing regulator of refrigerator to coldest point. Combine apple sauce, syrup, salt, juice and rind with half the sugar. Mix well. Beat the egg whites until stiff; add the remaining sugar gradually, beating. Fold into the apple sauce mixture. Pour into refrigerator-tray and freeze. Six generous servings.

TASTY CAKE

Something new in upside down cake is the following made with gingerbread mix and canned fruit cocktail.

Ingredients: Two cups canned fruit cocktail; two tablespoons butter; one-quarter cup brown sugar; one-half orange; one package gingerbread mixture.

Drain syrup from fruit into a heavy skillet and reduce by boiling to one-half cup. Add butter and sugar and stir until well mixed. Arrange paper-thin slices of unpeeled orange in skillet and cover with fruit. Mix the gingerbread, following directions on package. Pour carefully over the fruit mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees fahrenheit) about 40 minutes, or until cake is done. Remove from oven and allow to stand five minutes. Turn out on serving plate.

A deep baking-pan may be used instead of a skillet.

FRUIT SALAD

A recipe for fruit salad follows:

Cover a large plate with chicory or lettuce leaves and put a bowl of mayonnaise in the centre. Divide the plate, or tray, into quarters with rows of orange slices and put well-drained canned fruits in each quarter.

The four spaces may be filled with the following: Peach halves filled with cottage cheese crowned with walnut halves; pear halves topped with chili or cranberry sauce; pineapple chunks; well-drained cherries.

This salad may be served with pimento cheese and deviled ham sandwiches.

LAST NIGHT'S POTATOES

Home economists of the consumer section, Canadian department of agriculture, have a few suggestions about making an appetizing dish from leftover potatoes.

Interest is added to the mashed potato crust for meat-pie by adding a little chopped onion, diced green pepper and celery and grated Cheddar cheese to the potato mixture. This adds to both the flavor and color of the crust.

Meat and potato cakes also are an easy-to-make supper-dish. Combine 1½ cups of diced or ground cooked meat with two cups of mashed potatoes. Add a beaten egg and a little minced onion. Combine the mixture and mould into cakes. Brown the cakes in hot fat and serve piping hot. A can of condensed cream of mushroom soup or cream of celery soup makes a good sauce to serve with the cakes.

Huffman while a cast of five in appropriate costumes and setting acted the exciting lines. The cast was Mrs. Blaine Till as Dan McGrew; Mrs. R. R. McLellan as Lu; Mrs. Laurie Mitchell as the old timer; Mrs. C. H. Spearin, the waiter; and Mrs. Jack Lewis, a second miner.

Mrs. Huffman recited another Service poem, Bessie's Boil, when brought back for an encore.

Program commentator was Mrs. R. H. McClellan. Parodies on the songs were written by Mrs. Louis Zacks and Mrs. Dennis Fitzgerald was pianist.

Numerous prizes were presented during the evening by club president, Mr. Gemmell. Mr. Hubert Chown and Mr. Charles Saunders received prizes for being the oldest members present. Spot dances were won by Mr. and Mrs. Ken Wilson, Mrs. Ernest Trueman, Mrs. R. J. Faulkner and Mr. Trueman.

Ask System Labelling New Fabrics

TORONTO (CP) — The 46,000-member Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario wants the Canadian government to set up a system of labelling for new fabrics made from synthetic fibres.

A copy of the FWI resolution has been passed to the Canadian Association of Consumers which has long urged that more detailed information be put on fabric labels.

Mrs. Michael Humphries, convener of the CAC textile committee, said in a recent address that adequate labels are needed on textiles so women can apply their knowledge of the nature and function of given fabrics.

"Only the manufacturer or finisher can provide this," she said. She also reiterated a recommendation by the CAC that all fabrics made or sold in Canada be labelled to show the fibres present, the fibre in greatest proportion to be named first and the others according to the amount present.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: I discovered I have mislaid your recipes for Chocolate Marshmallow squares and cherry dream squares.—Mrs. T. A.

ANSWER:

CHOCOLATE MARSHMALLOW SQUARES

In top of double boiler over boiling water melt 2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate and one-third cup shortening or butter; remove from heat and beat in 1 cup sugar, then 2 eggs; Sift together and stir into them ¾ cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon each salt and baking powder. Add ½ cup broken walnuts. Spread this in well-buttered square 8-inch pan. Bake until top has dull crust at 350 deg. Fahr.—about 30 minutes. Remove from oven. Cover with sliced marshmallows. This covering should not be more than ¼ inch thick. The marshmallows melt and spread a little. When cool spread with Chocolate Icing: Melt over hot water 1 tablespoon butter with 1 square unsweetened chocolate. Blend in 1½ tablespoons warm water. Cool a little then stir and beat in 1 cup sifted icing sugar or enough to allow icing to spread easily. Chill, then cut into diamonds or squares with sharp knife.

CHERRY DREAM SQUARES

One-half cup shortening or butter, 1 cup sugar, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups sifted cake flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1 egg white, 1 cup brown sugar firmly packed, one-third cup each chopped nuts and candied cherries. Work and cream the shortening or butter until light then add the white sugar slowly while creaming. Add eggs, vanilla, then flour, salt and baking powder sifted together. Mix well and spread on buttered pan about 13 x 9 x 2 inches. Beat the egg white until stiff then gradually add the brown sugar while beating until very stiff. Fold in nuts or cherries. (Cocoanut may be substituted for the nuts OR cherries may be omitted and all nuts used.) Spread this over the mixture in pan and bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 25 minutes. Remove from oven and cut into squares while warm.

LETTER: I was very pleased to see your article on Beefsteak Pudding! and this is the weather for 'em, but here's my comment—"Where, oh where did the spuds and onions come into the picture? Down Devon and Somerset way where I come from nothing goes into the "puddin'" but salt and pepper and parsley. Here's the way we make it: Good steak and about one-third or more kidney—as desired. Cut up meat and roll reach piece in mixture of flour pepper and salt (I do this in a paper bag). Shake well so that all pieces are coated. Then into the suet-crust-lined basin and a generous sprinkling of parsley. Fill almost full with water and put top crust on. Steam or boil 6 to 8 hours. Incidentally the crust should not break when turned out onto the platter. My mother was alays displeased if it "busted" open. When cut there is a nice little river of rich brown gravy flowing around—but no onions or spuds please . . . having the onions or spuds in the recipe reminds me of Cornish Pasties which contain meat (steak cut up) and onion and potato (all raw) and put into pastry cases and baked in the oven. I enjoy your column every day and wish we had a whole page of your "homey" chats in plain language that we all understand—as we do every day. —Mrs. G. C.

ANSWER: Hmmm. What do I do now? Up Buckinghamshire way hwere my father came from they add potatoes and onions, and personally as a consequence I'm a potato and onions meat pudding woman. But I well know that river of rich brown gravy you talk about. Makes me want to chuck this typewriter right now and go to the kitchen and make some. Thanks Mrs. G. C.

LETTER: Two weeks ago I was at a friend's house . . . talking about when I was young, cooking beefsteak puddings . . . told her how I made them and wished I had some right then. But as I am 83 years old and on a diet I would have to do without. Well, on Tuesday morning Jan. 13 — two days after—I saw your piece in the paper. I was so pleased I had to write to you. To think after 60 years I could remember how to make the pudding! I told her just like your recipe, so I can tell Canadians it is sure worth making. They can make treacle or syrup puddings just like the meat puddings but do have a deep dish to turn the puddings out as when it is turned out and you break into it there is lots of syrup. I hope I have made this plain as I am not very good at writing as I am nearly 84. A Native of Birmingham.

ANSWER: Thanks so much, Native of Birmingham, for confirming my enthusiasm for Meat Puddings. I am so glad you were pleased. Your letter was delightful and thoughtful—and what's more I could read every word. I hope I can do half as well when I'm your age. Blessings on you.

Your dear, kind face to see.
Your loving smile, your welcome voice

For the one I loved so well.

NEWTON—In loving memory of Mrs. George H. Newton, who passed away February 13, 1952.

Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile,
A loving heart that knew no guile.
Deep trust in God that all was right,
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew
Some gentle act of love she'd do
No thought of self, but of "the other"
I know He said "well done dear mother."

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Peterborough Forums Approve Provident Loans in Discussions of Farm Credit . . . Lorne Pimmett to Receive Dryden Trophy at Guelph Dinner . . . Hog Producers to Meet Here Thursday, Feb. 26 . . . District 4-H Club Boys and Girls Win Holstein Judging Prizes.

Peterborough Farm Forums were well attended Monday night for the broadcast and ensuing discussion on farm credit.

Two specific questions were submitted for consideration and judgment or finding. They were: (1) "According to the report of a government lending department, 90 per cent of the loans borrowed by farmers in the last seven years were for farm implements and trucks, and only 3 per cent for livestock. Does this indicate good use of credit by farmers?" And (2) "When is it good business for the farm family to use credit, and when not?"

Central Smith Forum—19 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ferd Rowland, with the Rev. W. Leaton leader: "Short term credit is good when used to secure quick returns. Credit should not be used for something not needed. Long term credit is best to become established. (An elderly farmer of the community said he never borrowed a dollar in his life, and didn't see any reason for anyone else to.)"

Westwood — 20 present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Pulfer. Opinion on: (1) "Yes. In view of the fact that this report includes the machinery purchased by western farmers, and also because of the serious shortage of labor in the last few years. Also, we think these figures do not represent a true picture of livestock purchasing—that there are other sources of credit for this purpose." (2) "When a farmer is young and ambitious, it is wise to use credit to get started, and to increase operations as much as practicable. Sometimes it is wise to use credit to protect an investment, or to purchase feed to properly finish livestock rather than sell them at a much reduced rate for unfinished products."

("Mr. Lloyd Wismer, manager of the Bank of Toronto at Keene, was present, and added greatly to our discussion. Both he and we were critical of the indifference of bank officials in the placement of managers as to their preferences—managers with an interest in rural affairs should be placed in rural branches, and those not interested left in cities. Everyone would be much happier.")

Pine grove—24 present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Braden Bullock, with Chester Hamilton leader. Answers: (1) "Yes. During the last few years help was scarce, and markets called for higher production. Farmers were obliged to use credit to buy the machines needed to give them production with the available help. Electricity has become available to more farms, and credit has been used to buy electrically-operated machines to save labor." (2) "It is good business to borrow when it will increase the earning power of the farm, for seed or livestock or such improvements that are necessary to raise the standard of living. Don't borrow: (a) beyond the earning capacity of the farm; (b) if you can't see your way clear to pay it back; (c) when you are already burdened with debt." Secretary, Mrs. Elwood Dunford.

Drummond Line—26 present at the home of the David McIntyres. (1) "Only in recent years has money been available to farmers for any improvements, and the machinery on most farms was so worn that it had to be replaced first; also farm help has been so hard to get that we had to replace our farm workers with modern machinery." (2) "The proper time to borrow is when the article to be borrowed for will in some way increase our earning power, and when we feel fairly sure we are going to be able to meet our payments . . Almost every discussion this year has brought home more forcibly the fact that until we have some assurance of farm prices we can take no risks with farm credit." Secretary, Mrs. D. McIntyre.

Beaver Forum—15 present, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Raddon. (1) "Yes. Machinery cuts down labor costs, and is essential to produce crops." (2) "It is good business to borrow when you have multiple bills for necessary machinery, extra land, basic livestock, etc., and to buy feed to finish livestock ready for market." Secretary, Mrs. Geo. Geisel.

Coldsprings—21 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lamble. (1) "Banks lend more readily for implements, lending on livestock only for a foundation herd. Borrow on farm loans rather than finance. We were divided equally as to whether it is better to borrow for implements or improvements. It is good policy to borrow to the extent that you can produce enough to pay it off. Borrow if it eases labor." (2) "If a family acts as a business and enough help is able to use more equipment, both for own land and custom work, which would pay for loans. Borrow if son wants to set up in some specified line of farming." Secretary, W. Sutton.

Maple Row (Otonabee). — 14 present, at the home of the James Fitzgeralds. (1) "Yes, it is good use of credit. Machinery saves labor and cost, producing feed for livestock, which in return pays your loans." (2) "It is good business for a farmer to borrow when he stands a reasonable chance of making a profit over interest charges. A loan should not be tied up for too long a period. The return of capital should be fast enough to allow him to take advantage of other profitable ventures that are periodically open." Secretary, Mrs. J. Fitzgerald.

Springville—25 present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Preston, with the Rev. A. E. Larke leader. (1) "Credit is good only when used with common sense. In the majority of cases, yes, credit has been used wisely. Great strides have been made in the advancement of farm machinery. The need of maximum productivity along with the shortage of farm labor have necessitated the purchase of farm machinery. Many farms are established with basic herds and sufficient cattle, which are good security for loans, whereas machinery is not acceptable." (2) "It is not good business for a family to buy on credit anything which is not provident or productive. At the close of the discussion, Ernest Trueman, manager of the Imperial Bank, Peterborough, discussed the use of farm credit from the banker's viewpoint. Sound use of loans has lifted farm life from drudgery to a business with a future. To be a sound investment, the purchased article must be used to increase farm income. Only farmers whose income is 90 per cent from the farm can qualify for credit under the 'Farm Improvement Plan'."

Hog Producers' Meeting

Annual meeting of Peterborough Hog Producers is dated for Thursday, February 26, at 2 p.m. tentatively in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. If there should be a change of place it will be announced in ample time. Speaker for this meeting will be George Johnson, Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Hog Producers Association.

The Peterborough president learned in Toronto Wednesday that the hog marketing plan has been going along satisfactorily, and with some interesting experiences as a new endeavor of producers. The scheme, he said, was still in its infancy, but hogs are being sold, prices have been stronger this week.

Horizontal Silo Cheaper

Several hundred Russell County farmers visiting Experimental Farm, Ottawa, last week were shown the horizontal type of silo. Description of it as reported was simply an open pit, bounded by boards and covered with tarpaulins or light roof.

Officials cited advantages: Cost of about $150 to fill, compared with 1,500 to 2,000 for the circular type; no expensive lifting machinery to hire; less manpower is needed; original cost of construction is less.

Farm officials say that feeding results are just as good as from the accustomed vertical silos. Animals which have been fed on both types of silage were shown to the Russell County men. They also shw two operating types of the Shorizontal silo an done "super model," which is enclosed in glass.

Plowing Match Dates

F. A. Lashley, secretary-manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, announced today that the 1953 International Plowing Match would be held on October 6, 7, 8 and 9.

Winner At Kemptville

Students in agriculture and home economics at the Kemptville Agricultural School staged their annual public speaking contest January 28 with a record number of entries resulting in a win for Glen Larmer, a junior student in agriculture, from Durham county. His topic was "The Future Influence of K.A.S." The winner was closely followed by Francis Jose of Durham county who spoke on "The Revised Edition of the Bible" and Dale Cleave of Prince Edward county who stressed "The Need for Safer Automoblies."

Win Judging Prizes

Mary-Jo Doris of Otonabee took fourth prize among the girls competing in the junior judging competition sponsored by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada in connection with the selection of All-Canadian Holsteins in 1952.

A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Doris, Mary-Jo had a score of 142 points out of a possible 150. She is a member of East Peterborough 4-H Calf Club.

Top girl in the competition was Betty Storey of Seaforth with 146 points. Francis Doris of Peterborough had a score of 138 points, and Archie Davidson of Otonabee and Lila M. Seymour of Ida scored 136 points each. James Doris' score was 133 points.

The Doris boys are brothers of Mary-Jo Doris, and Lila M. Seymour is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Seymour of Cavan Township, who was a member of the West Peterborough 4-H Calf Club last year.

There were 531 boys and girls from 4-H Calf Clubs throughout the Dominion in the competition. The first 100 receive prizes.

Three contestants made perfect scores of 150 points. They were: Thirteen-year-old Vernon Butchers, Alliston, Ont., fourteen-year-old John Burton, Vars, Ont., and twenty-year-old Floyd Hunsberger, Baden, Ont. In view of this unusual three-way tie it has been decided to give three first prizes, one to each. Tied for fourth with 148 points were thirteen-year-old Charles Weaver, Belmont, Ont., and eighteen-year-old Peter Dickie, Truro, N.S. Peter had previously tied for first in the contest in 1949, with his brother Vaughan. The next highest score was 146 points shared by four competitors and including the top girl of the competition, fifteen-year-old Betty Storey, of Seaforth, Ont. The others were: Jimmy McDowell, Oxford Centre, Ont., Garth Hadlock, Iron Hill, Que., and Vaughan Dickie, Truro, N.S. The next two contestants with scores of 144 points were Bessie Horton, Lansdowne, Ont., and Gatient Tousignant, Fortierville, Que. Sixteen-year-old Bessie was second and top girl in last year's contest.

Forum Felicity

Stewart Hall Forum was guest of Mathers Corners group at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herb McFarlane, Monday night, for the discussion of the broadcast subject: How to use credits. From the city were: Mr. E. W. Armstrong, manager of the Bank of Commerce, and Mrs. Armstrong. Thirty were present and Mrs. Whittington was leader.

Quoted from the group summary: "With a planned idea in mind, based on a long term program, it is good business in certain circumstances to borrow money for an outlay that will help to put you on a quicker road to certain progress, which would be otherwise hampered and delayed by insufficient capital. But, money should not be borrowed to spend unwisely at any time."

Norwood: Junior Farmers' organization meeting in town hall at 8.30 p.m., Wednesday.

4-H Club leaders guests Thursday at Kawartha Club luncheon arranged by Frank C. Paterson. This is an indication of appreciation of the help of the leaders of the Peterborough clubs. J. Allen Francis, Stirling, assistant agricultural representative in Hastings county, has been invited to assist in the discussion of plans for the 4-H Clubs in this county for the coming season.

Bonspiel March 2

Ontario Junior Farmers curlers are returning to Peterborough for their second annual bonspiel at the Charlotte St. rink Monday, March 2. Entries are being made to Dick Hilliard, Toronto, secretary of the Junior Farmers' Association of the province.

It is expected that around 28 rinks will report for the draw at 9 a.m.

The first bonspiel here last winter was quite a success. It was organized by Frank C. Paterson and his assistant, a year ago, Robert E. Bell, now assistant agricultural representative at Woodstock.

St. Lawrence Seaway

Farm Forum groups will turn their attention next Monday night to the St. Lawrence Seaway project. The broadcast will define it, particularly in its navigational aspects, and will associate with its transportation promise the further promise of electric power development, and its facilities for exploiting the iron ore resources of northern Quebec and Labrador.

✦ ✦ ✦

Lou Shaw's Practice

Lou Shaw, president of the local Shorthorn Breeders, believes in putting first things first on his agenda. That word means the things to be done. So, at their recent annual meeting, after the preliminaries, he called for the election of officers, instead of leaving it to the last when some men are usually thinking of making a break for home.

SHEEP INDUSTRY

The world's most southern city, Punta Arenas in the Strait of Magellan, is the centre of a large sheep industry.

Lorne Pimmett To Receive Dryden Trophy

THREE BOYS HAD PERFECT SCORES of 150 points in the All-Canadian Junior Judging Competition conducted by the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada. They were 13-year-old Vernon Butchers, Alliston, Ont., (right), 14-year-old John Burton, Vars, Ont. (left) and 20-year-old Floyd Hunsberger, Baden, Ont. This is the first time in the 11-year-old history of the Competition that three perfect scores have been recorded. There were 531 boys and girls from 4-H Clubs throughout the Dominion in this competition. Holstein breeders will recognize in Vernon Butchers the son of M. W. (Mort) Butchers who was herdsman from 1926 to 1937 of the famous Mount Victoria herd founded by the late T. B. Macaulay of Sun Life Assurance Co. Mr. Butchers is now herdsman for Jack McCague at Alliston whose Glenafton herd has established a wide reputation among Holstein cattle.

Lorne J. Pimmett of Indian River is to be presented with the Will A. Dryden memorial trophy at the annual meeting and banquet of the Canadian Shorthorn Association at Guelph Wednesday, Feb. 18. This award for the best three animals, get of one sire, exhibited at the Royal Winter Fair, is highly coveted among breeders in the Shorthorn division.

Mr. Pimmett will be accompanied to this meeting by Wilbur Donaldson, formerly of Marellbar Farms of Illinois, and now manager of the Cadesky herd at Louada Manor Farms. On their way they will attend the annual Shorthorn sale at Oakville on Tuesday.

A visitor at Strathore Wednesday was John McWilliams, a young Scotsman who is manager of the Massey-Harris Farms. He had just received a telegram from a junior brother that he had won on Monday the Supreme Championship at the Shorthorn show and sale at Perth, Scotland. The bull that won this award was sold to a United States buyer for 2,000 guineas. The younger McWilliams also took the female championship at the Show.

The purpose of Mr. McWilliams' call at the Pimmett farm was to pick up the heifer that was bought for Massey-Harris at $950 at the Beath and Deacon sale last fall at Unionville. She had been left at Strathore to be bred to the Royal Winter Fair champion, Louada Barnone.

The Pimmetts consigned four Shorthorns to that invitation sale, and came home with the second top average of $650.

Canada Plans Chinchillas Start Industry

UXBRIDGE, England (CP) — Canadian plans for a new British industry are warpped up in five pairs of chinchillas.

The little squirrel-like animals, whose pelts in a full - length woman's coat may cost up to $56,000, are to provide breeding stock for Britons interested in chincilla fur farms.

Pelts produced here are thicker than Canadian pelts, experts say.

Chief of British operations is animal breeder Clifford Beswick, who says he is trying to line up "money and interest" for the project.

He was appointed by G. Grant of the Montreal Chinchilla breeding Association, which supplied the grey, vegetarian rodents. One set has reproduced already. There should be two litters annually of two or three little chinchillas if all goes well.

Beswick, 43, says he's handled everything but chinchillas in a career he started at 14. There are only about three British chinchilla breeders at present, he says. If sufficient animals are raised they'll be exported to Canada for breeding purposes, perhaps, and later for pelting. Sets for breeding cost about $84 to $140.

The animals are native to the eastern slopes of the Andes mountains in Chile and Bolivia.

Club Leaders To Be Guests

The calendar for next week includes these affairs:

Junior Farmers Choir practice at Normal School Monday night. Thirty-one attended last week.

Junior Farmers monthly meeting at Normal; farm replanning is the subject for the men's group, with a staff man from OAC expected, probably Tom Lane. Miss K. A. MacDougall of the staff of PCVS will be in charge of the girls' class in home economics. Harold Harton of the program planning board of the Ontario Department of Education will be here from Toronto to lead in square dancing.

Harold Lewis Tapes Forum At Mann Home

First recording of a Farm Forum discussion in Peterborough county was made Monday by Harold Lewis at the meeting of the Fairview group at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Clarence Mann in Smith township.

C. A. Bell, secretary, reports: "It was felt that the subject of 'How to Use Farm Credit' was not a very live topic in our Forum. We admit the need for farm credit but there is not the need for a discussion on it. With that in mind, we had a panel discussion on 'Assessment.' The panel was composed of: County Assessor S. G. Sparling; Township Clerk A. I. Edmison; Wilson Gemmell and three local farmers. We recommend this topic for discussion in other groups, but we realize that it could hardly be a subject of National Farm Forum."

As to the broadcast subject, Mr. Bell reported: "The figures of the government loaning department (90 per cent of borrowing in the last seven years by farmers for implements and trucks and 3 per cent for livestock) would not obtain in our locality. It must be admitted, however, that there has been a heavy investment in farm machinery because the existing machines were worn out in depression years; and newer types have helped the labor shortage. Livestock was on these farms and did not need replacing.

"The bank manager who was with us quoted rule 5 in the list for borrowers (Establish friendly relations with your local bank manager and consult him about your credit problems). He said there was a more important rule: 'Have in your hand a statement of your business and present it to him'.

"P.S.—The bank manager felt that the criticisms directed at his profession were not justified, to which we agreed."

All of which sounds like an interesting evening for the company of 31 Forum members at the Fairview session.

Incidentally, Mr. Lewis has already put his recording machine into the Federation service during the CHEX broadcast at a recent Saturday 12.15 p.m. It was a taping of a discussion recently in the office of F. C. Patterson, agricultural representative. With him on the panel were: H. W. Caldwell, of the agricultural economics branch of OAC; Henry Sharpe, president of the Peterborough Federation; Harry Kennedy, of Cavan, and Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative. Their subject was the business of farming. On the previous Saturday, W. W. Dawson's talk on Kawartha Co-operative Medical Services was the first use of the new Lewis machine.

Dairies Affirm 1½% Profit On The 22c Quart Of Milk

Of the 564 Farm Forum groups in Ontario who forwarded to headquarters in Toronto their summaries of discussion of the Feb. 2 subject "The Farmer and the Public," relating to intercommunity relations, 45 per cent said "there was poor understanding between farmers and the people in the neighboring towns and villages"; 30 per cent affirmed that it was fair and 25 per cent considered relations good.

The concensus of the Forums generally agreed with the findings and opinion of the 200 Peterborough county farmers who met in thirteen Forum groups.

Parker Farm Forum in Wellington county returned a typical report: "A knowledge of farm and distribution costs would clear up a lot of misunlerstanding between farm and urban people."

Another voice in the common rural opinion of the province was: "If the farmer could record an itemized account of the cost of producing his product, and get this to the city consumer, the consumer would then see what it cost him to have farm products handled by the packers, processors and wholesale salesmen."

Ontario Forums comprise a large percentage of the thoughtful farmers of most of the counties. One of their convictions is that press reports, and especially headings, tend to place too much emphasis on the prices of farm products without regard to the cost of their production. The result is that urban estimate of farm income is influenced by these reports of income without substraction of farm costs, and that the consumer information is misguided and is not correct.

MILK PRICE ANALYSIS

Reasonably accurate analysis of some costs can be obtained, as shown in the statement of the Ontario Milk Distributors' Association. And it is worth noting that this information has been prepared by the commercial dairy interests.

Their report shows that the price of 22 cents a quart for milk breaks down as follows: "12.3c paid to farmers; 5.1c paid to dairy employees: 4.3c paid for equipment, bottles, trucks, depreciation, taxes, etc.; and .3c net profit for the dairy, which is actually less than one-third of a cent per quart."

The percentage analysis included in this distributor statement relating to the 22c quart of milk is this: Paid to the farmers who produce the milk, 56 per cent; to the dairy employees 23 per cent; for equipment, bottles, truck depreciation, etc. 19½ per cent; net profit for the dairy 1½ per cent.

MILK CHEAP FOOD

According to the Milk Distributors' Association "overall food prices went up to 141 per cent from 1939 to 1951, while milk prices increased only 75 per cent during the 12-year period.

If the price of milk had risen in line with other foodstuffs, the average Ontario consumer would now be paying 30c a quart instead of the present price of 22c generally in the province."

These figures can no doubt be substantiated by the distributor reports to government, if there was any question of their accuracy.

Some dairy farmers probably have a correspondingly close approximation of their cost of producing milk, but obviously with them the accounting would have to cover a broad range of costs back to the land and its care, investment in the farm plant and so on, requiring probably more than the average man's ability to analyze all the components of cost that enter into the marketing of one quart of milk.

When the distributor says that the Ontario farmer receives 12.3 for the quart, nothing is said or can be said from that source as to whether the price at the farm actually covers the cost of production.

Distributors also say: "It takes less work to earn a quart of milk in Canada than in any other major country. Comparative figures indicate that the imperial quart of milk is earned by the average Canadian in nine minutes of work, and the corresponding time factor elsewhere is: 10 minutes work in the U.S., 15 mins. in Great Britain, 20 minutes in France, and 52 minutes in Russia."

Milk production accounts of receipts and expenditures, and profit or loss, would have to take into account the results of those channels of the business which have their outlets in so-called manufactured milk, concentrated, cheese, and so on. The main stream from the milksheds does not all find its way into the whole milk market.

Two Senators Have Clash On Sterling Convertibility

OTTAWA (CP)—A Maritime Liberal with international trading interests clashed Thursday with a Manitoba Progressive Conservative in the Senate over convertibility of sterling in the dollar area.

Senator A. N. McLean (L—New Brunswick), who has interests in Canada's fisheries trade, forecast that the pound soon will be as acceptable as dollars in trade among Western countries. This possibility was denied by Senator John T. Haig, Progressive Conservative leader.

The exchange of views came during debate on Senator McLean's proposal that the Senate establish a committee to study Canada's obligation under the North Atlantic treaty to smooth international trade by removing trade barriers.

Senator McLean suggested that Canada accept sterling for goods sold to the United Kingdom and that Canada buy sterling for her reserves.

U.S. INFLUENCE

Senator Haig said convertibility of sterling can only be brought about if the United States allows British imports into the country at prices competitive with American-produced goods or by the U.S. lending greater sums to sterling-area countries which are short of dollars.

The United States invested heavily in Canada because Canadian laws protected the investment and guaranteed the U.S. a return. Britain didn't seem to realize that without this protection money will not be invested.

Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario) said he favors the investigation by a Senate committee because co-operation between the NATO partners in defence and trade would be a major step towards federal union of the North Atlantic treaty nations.

Reserve Judgment On $770,000

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada reserved judgment Thursday in an appeal against an Ontario Supreme Court decision awarding $770,000 to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children under the will of the late John Ross Robertson.

Mr. Robertson was the founder of the Toronto Telegram. The $770,000 were reserves which were on the books of the newspaper when it was sold for $3,610,000. The hospital, residuary legatee under the Robertson will, gets the proceeds of the sale but also claims the $770,000 in reserves as part of the capital of the newspaper.

Mr. Robertson's descendants claimed the $770,000 should go to them because it represented part of the profits of the newspaper.

The Ontario Supreme Court awarded the Toronto hospital the money and the Robertson estate took an appeal to the Supreme Court.

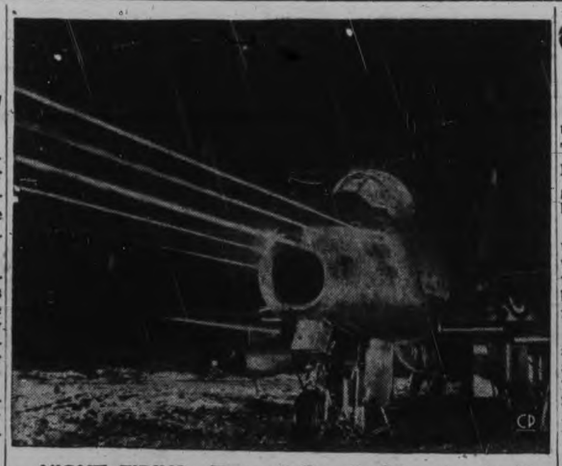
Cabinet Honors Thomas Kennedy

TORONTO (CP) — Thomas L. Kennedy, former Ontario premier who resigned recently as agriculture minister, received a unique distinction Thursday at the opening of the Ontario legislature.

Mr. Kennedy, Progressive Conservative member for Peel, was seated in the front row alongside senior cabinet members. Normally a minister who resigns his portfolio is moved to make way for his successor.

Premier Frost said Mr. Kennedy's job as a private member is almost as important as his cabinet position.

"It's more important," Mr Kennedy said amid applause.



"I can see he's still got his old zip," the premier said.

Man Pleads Innocent To Beating Daughter

OSHAWA (CP) — George McCaughey pleaded innocent Thursday to a charge of beating his seven-year-old daughter Beverly, covering her legs, arms and body with bruises.

Dr. J. Bayne testified that, apart from some children injured in autobile accidents, he had never seen a child so badly bruised.

The case was set over to today.

NIGHT FIRING—Tracer bullets fly from the six 50-calibre machine guns of the F-86 Sabre jet during night practice at RCAF station, Uplands, near Ottawa. The Canadian-built Sabre can carry bombs and rockets in addition to regular armament.

Threaten Action As School Opens

SYDNEY, N. S. (CP)—Classes opened as scheduled in new school Thursday as Protestant group started legal action to challenge the school board's action in staffing the building entirely with Roman Catholic teachers.

A meeting of the Protestant League Wednesday night decided to take legal action, the nature of which has not been disclosed.

The league said in a statement following the meeting that "our fight is not against Roman Catholic people, but against encroachments on our public schools. The school was built as a public school but when finished was handed over to a religious order."

Opposition Bypasses Unseating BC Gov't

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Opposition parties in British Columbia's legislature had a chance Thursday to defeat Premier W.A.C. Bennett's minority Social Credit government on a technical point—but didn't take it.

The issue arose over a night sitting of the house. The premier wanted a sitting Wednesday night to speed up the throne speech debate in which no Social Credit members are taking part.

The CCF, Liberal and Progressive Conservative opposition spoke against a night sitting and said they had been given only an hour's notice of a night session after an agreement that no night sitting would be held before next week.

Premier Bennett dared the opposition to defeat his government. When the vote came, the opposition abstained.

CLASH IN ASSEMBLY

Liberals and Union Nationale members clashed in the Quebec assembly as the budget debate went into its third day.

Paul Goulet (L — Temiscamingue), holding papers in his hand, claimed that the chief of Quebec's forestry service had written a letter advising that no cutting rights would be granted in Temiscamingue constituency without the recommendation of the defeated Union Nationale candidate, Nil Lariviere.

Premier Duplessis demanded immediate production of the documents, but Speaker Alexandre Tache said Mr. Goulet could make copies of them first.

DIDN'T GET MONEY

Mr. Goulet also claimed that Mr. Lariviere waved a $400 cheque from Welfare Minister Sauve during last summer's election campaign, saying he would give it to a youth organization after the election. But he was defeated and the organization never received the money.

A government bill amending the Quebec Election Act became law Thursday when Lieutenant - Governor Gaspard Fauteux gave it royal assent.

Among its provisions are the establishment of the single enumerator system throughout the province, extension of the electoral period from 46 to 53 days and nomination day to be held throughout the province 14 days before polling day.

Three legislatures opened, Ontario, New Brunswick and Saskatchewan.

FEW SURPRISES

At Regina, in the first session since the 1952 election returned the CCF government, there were few surprises. A legislative committee to study the highway accident problem was forecast as well as provision for more representative school authorities in areas where school population has become centralized.

The new Progressive Conservative government in New Brunswick revealed plans to improve labor-management relations, farm marketing, fishermen's welfare, care of polio victims and highway safety, as well as a program to attract more young people into the teaching profession. The speech also referred to the discovery of base metal ores and its indication of an "important new mining industry in New Brunswick."

In the Nova Scotia legislature, John MacDonald (L—Pictou East) hinted in the throne speech debate that the government is "giving serious consideration" to a ban on the processing of dairy substitutes from vegetable oils.

The last legal trial in Scotland of persons accused of witchcraft was in 1727.

These days most people work under pressure, worry more, sleep less. This strain on body and brain makes physical fitness easier to lose—harder to regain. U.S. Confirms Plea From Pope Pius For U.S. Atom Spies

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House announced today the receipt of new word from the Vatican on appeals filed with the Pope for intervention on behalf of the condemned atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. The new communication was a letter received Friday night from the Right Rev. Amleto Giovanni Xigognani, apostolic delegate to Washington. It related that urgent pleas for the condemned couple had been received by the head of the Roman Catholic Church who felt that U.S. officials should be informed.

The apostolic delegate was told in a reply that President Eisenhower was notified of his letter and had expressed his thanks "for this courtesy."

Asked by newspaper men whether the President might reconsider his decision of last Wednesday refusing to block the execution of the Rosenbergs, press secretary James C. Hagerty would only say:

"The statement he issued on the Rosenbergs speaks for itself."

Hagerty said the whereabouts of an earlier Vatican message, which the apostolic delegate said Friday was transmitted to the justice department through him last December, is still a mystery to both the White House and the justice department.

Roman Catholic sources at the Vatican said Friday the Pope had intervened in behalf of the husband and wife whom President Eisenhower has refused to spare from the electric chair. The apostolic delegation here said appeals from the Rosenbergs received by the Pope had been sent to the justice department without entering "into the merits of the cases." The delegation said this was done last December, before presidential clemency was sought for the Rosenbergs.

But the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said there was no official record of such a Vatican approach. He said, however, there could have been a personal contact with some justice department official before the Eisenhower administration took office Jan. 20.

Former president Truman, in office when the clemency appeal was filed Jan. 10, had no comment. James P. McGranery, Truman's last attorney-general and a prominent Catholic layman, was not reached immediately.

In New York, Judge Augustus N. Hand of the U. S. Court of Appeals turned down a defence request to stay the execution pending an

U.S. To Consult Allies On Moves In Pacific Area

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary John Foster Dulles' assurances that the Eisenhower administration will consult Congress and U. S. allies before making any dramatic moves in the Pacific took the heat out of Democratic criticism today.

Senator John Sparkman (Dem. Ala.) voiced the new feeling among congressional Democrats. He said he was satisfied the Republican administration "has slowed down what I was afraid was about to develop into a headlong rush into war."

Sparkman, the Democrats' defeated candidate for vice-president last year, said the administration now is displaying "a sharpened sensitiveness to try to work this thing (foreign policy) out with our allies."

The Alabama senator said he felt Senate foreign policy debate stimulated the administration into promising "adequate consultation on a bipartisan basis." sparkman touched off the debate last week when he asked whether the Korean war would be broadened by President Eisenhower's order directing the U. S. 7th fleet to quit "shielding" Red China from attack by Nationalists on Formosa.

NEED NEW MOVE

Senator Guy Gillette (Dem.Iowa) said he thinks the administration soon will have to make some other move in the Pacific, adding: "The 7th fleet order is a futile gesture unless it is followed up by some concrete action."

Senator H. Alexander Smith (Rep. N. J.), chairman of the Senate Far Eastern affairs sub-committee, put a lid of secrecy on Dulles' testimony in a closed meeting before the sub-committee Friday. But he said he would consult with Dulles on the possibility of releasing parts of the statements which would not endanger national security if made public.

On a CBS radio program Friday night, Smith said British and U. S. representatives ought to sit down and work out a program for cutting off trade with Red China. He commented: "We're in a terrible position (to settle the Korean problem) as long as the British recognize Communist China."

Senator Walter George (Dem. Ga.) said he agreed to the secrecy ban because he felt "if the secretary can't speak freely, without hedging, he can't speak at all."

But Sparkman said:

"I see no reason why all of these hearings can not be taken down, security information edited out, and the testimony published."

He said he made such a proposal at Friday's meeting, but was overruled.

Suspect Murder In Fatal Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—The evening Citizen said in a newspage story Friday that Quebec provincial police are investigating the possibility of a "deliberate murder plot" in a fire which took the lives last Tuesday of a mother and three young children.

The fire, which broke out in a log farm home at Lac Ste. Marie, Que., 60 miles north of here, was attributed previously to the explosion of an oil burning space heater. Mrs. Germaine Lachapelle and three children were burned to death. Her husband, Claude Lachapelle, his five-year-old daughter, and a 15-year-old nephew, escaped.

Iran Death Reports Exaggerated: Official

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The director of an Iranian relief organization said today that reports of deaths in the earthquake that struck the mountain village of Torroud had been greatly exaggerated.

Dr. Abbas Nafisi, chief of the Red Lion and Sun—Iran's equivalent of the Red Cross—said although the number of deaths had not yet been determined it was certainly below the 1,000 or more that has been reported.

Reports Friday night said at least 900 persons lost their lives in the disaster Thursday. Latest figures reaching Tehran today listed 950 of the village's 1,400 inhabitants missing or dead. Officials said, however, it was presumed that many of the missing would be found alive.

At least 23 other persons were killed by the quake in three small villages near Torroud.

Say Pair Threw Child In Furnace

ARLINGTON, Va. (CP) — Police have accused a 42-year-old housewife and her husband of throwing their week-old son alive into a fiery furnace at their home. The couple has been charged with murder.

Detective Chief Dudley Rector said the mother, Mrs. Viola Opanowich, calmly confessed the deed. She has two grown children from a previous marriage.

Mrs. Opanowich told police her husband, Peter, a 55-year-old cook, was not the father of the baby. She said the baby was born to her, unattended, in a bedroom of their seven-room brick bungalow Feb. 5.

The husband was held on a murder charge as an "accessory before the fact." Julius Sherr, 40, of nearby Washington, D. C., was booked as a material witness in the case and released on a $500 bond.

Mrs. Opanowich was arrested at home Friday after police got an anonymous tip.

Rector said Mrs. Opanowich told him she baptized the child nerself Thursday afternoon, carried it to the basement, stepped in front of the furnace, threw open the firebox door and tossed it in.

Hate War Started Pravda Says

U.S.S.R. Breaks Off Relations Following Explosion

MOSCOW (AP)—The Communist party newspaper Pravda charged today that Monday's bombing of the Soviet legation in Tel Aviv was directly connected with activities of Israeli intelligence.

The Soviet government broke off diplomatic relations with Israel following the explosion, which injured three Russians including the wife of the Soviet minister to Israel. A stern Russian note Wednesday accused Israeli leaders of inciting hostile anti-Soviet action.

The Tel Aviv government denounced the bomb attack as "dastardly," started a roundup of suspects and offered to pay reparations to the Soviets. The bombing was believed to have been in retaliation for recent anti-Zionist charges in Moscow following the arrest of nine doctors—some of them Jewish—accused of plotting against top Soviet leaders.

Pravda claimed the rulers of Israel were so enraged by the charges against the Zionist doctors that they undertook a campaign to incite hate of the Soviet Union and violence against Soviet representatives in Israel.

"PACK OF MAD DOGS"

"A pack of mad dogs from Tel Aviv is repulsive and vile in its thirst for blood," the newspaper declared. It charged the ruling group in Israel had encouraged in every way terrorist groups preparing acts against the Soviet Union.

Pravda said the Soviet people would answer the "Israeli provocation" with vigilance and still more vigilance. "With a red hot iron," declared the paper, the Russian people will "burn out a dangerous disease of terror and liquidate gullibility in all ranks."

It predicted that the Tel Aviv "criminals" will "not escape their just deserts" but will stand before the court of the people and pay in full measure for their evil doings.

Pravda said the Soviet Union had saved the Jewish people from annihilation by Hitlerites during the Second World War and now the Israel Zionists were repaying Russia with terrorist acts instead of gratitude.

U.S., U.K. Offer Egypt Money Aid

LONDON (AP)—Britain and the United States have agreed to offer Egypt economic help in a new bid for her co-operation in Middle-Eastern defence, informed diplomats said Friday night.

The two countries were reported divided, however, over when to start a program of equipping Egyptian air, land and sea forces. The United States wants to start at once but Britain, mindful of past Egyptian guerrilla war threats, would prefer to delay arms supplies until overall agreement is reached, the sources said.

Anglo-Egyptian discussions are imminent on the status of British troops in the Suez canal zone now that the two countries have settled their long-time Sudanese quarrel. They signed a pact Thursday promising independence to the Sudan.

Battle On Old Baldy Marks New Year For Chinese Reds

SEOUL (AP) — Chinese Communists celebrated their New Year's Day in Korea today by starting a bitter, five-hour battle near Old Baldy hill and temporarily cutting off Allied troops.

A Chinese company — 150 to 175 men — struck at dug-in Allied soldiers and — for a while — blocked UN reinforcements at the western front position.

The 8th army said 70 Chinese were killed or wounded in the fight. Allied losses were not given.

The Communists also jabbed at five other places along the front, but the thrusts were thrown back in clashes lasting up to two hours. The attacking groups numbered less than 80 men.

The 8th army reported 32 Chinese killed in three of those fights, bringing the total of Red casualties today to more than 100.

The attack near Old Baldy started just after midnight. Allied communications were cut. Reinforcements tried to reach the positions later, but ran into a Chinese blocking force and withdrew after a 30-minute fight. A second relief force also was stopped by intense small arms and automatic weapons fire.

The Allied defenders held their ground, however, and heavy artillery and mortar pounding forced the Reds to pull out shortly before dawn.

In addition to their assault on Allied front positions, the Reds blasted forth with propaganda appeals from loudspeakers. They said in English: "We beg of you to pause, cease fire, and end the war."

Another broadcast, aimed directly at U. S. troops, urged them to "lay down your arms and go home."

In between the propaganda measures the Communists broadcast Christmas carols.

In the air war, a Sabre jet pilot was credited with downing a MiG today to become a double ace—10 Red jet fighters destroyed.

GINGERLY STEPPING THROUGH THE SNOW, Big Ben the bear at the filtration plant is now making daily appearances outside. Ben rolled out of his straw bed earlier this week and apparently plans to stay awake to wait for spring. He doesn't like the snow and so remains in his den most of the time dozing, coming out only for his meals. On his first day out he tried to take a bath but no water; instead he chose a sun bath. —(Examiner Staff Photo)

Army Holds Enough Units For Two Divisions: Claxton

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Que. (CP)—Canada's regular army already contains "a substantial proportion of the major units necessary to constitute two divisions," Defence Minister Claxton said today. He said expansion of this full-time force to a strength of roughly 50,000 men "has modified but not changed completely" the role of the part-time reserve force and enumerated a four-fold role for the reserves.

In a speech prepared for the opening of a new armory for Shawinigan's 62nd light anti-aircraft regiment of the reserve, the minister said the reserve force is an important supplement of the regular force.

He listed these objectives for the reserve "as we see them today" without elaborating on his statement that they represent a modification:

RESERVE OBJECTIVES

1. The reserve army provides men for the regular force. Since Korea started, 10,000 men have left the reserve to go active.

2. The reserve would provide forces "to supplement the civilian agencies to safeguard communications and property and to take the other steps necessary in the event of an emergency until the situation is stabilized."

3. The reserve would provide the source of trained or partially trained officers, NCOs, tradesmen and men to supplement the active forces in the event of an emergency.

4. The reserve provides the framework for "the rapid expansion of forces to meet an emergency."

"This role of the reserve army has been modified but not changed completely in consequence of the build-up of the active force. In the year 1938-39, the strength of he active army was 4,169. It was almost entirely an administrative and training cadre.

"At the time of Korea, in addition to the administrative and training forces, we had six major units in being. Today, however, we have in the active army 26 major units, representing a substantial proportion of the major units necessary to constitute two divisions."

Inter-Faith Movement Aimed At N.Y. Crime

NEW YORK (AP) — "Depart from evil and do good; seek peace and pursue it."—34th psalm.

These biblical words well might sum up the aim of an unusual interfaith movement, organized Friday, to arouse through religious teaching a sense of civil responsibility toward stamping out crime and corruption in New York city.

Protestant, Jewish, Roman Catholic and Greek Orthodox leaders gathered under the chairmanship of the Rt. Rev. Horace W. B. Donegan, bishop of the Protestant episcopal diocese of New York.

Fireworks Blast Kills 21 Workers

TOKYO (AP) — A fireworks factory near Tokyo exploded today and Japanese police reported 21 known dead, at least 23 injured, 110 nearby homes destroyed and 150 damaged.

The victims — mostly women and girls — earlier had been numbered at between 22 and 25 with an undetermined number missing. Police said the figure might later be confirmed at 22 dead.

Bodies and parts of bodies were strewn all over the scene of the blast, which shook downtown Tokyo 15 miles away.

An AP photographer, Yuichi Ishizaki, reported that eye-witnesses said three explosions ripped the factory in suburban Fuchu.

"Everything is gone," Ishizaki reported. "Only the concrete floors of two of the factory buildings are left and I saw parts of bodies 200 yards away from the warehouse."

Police said the explosions apparently were touched off by ignition powder in a concrete warehouse. A high dirt bank around the warehouse was breached by the explosions.

The factory was a branch of one of Japan's largest fireworks manufacturers.

Court Impounds Oil From Iran

VENICE, Italy (CP)—A Venice court today ordered the Italian tanker Miriella's cargo of 5,000 tons of fuel oil from Iran to be provisionally impounded.

The blockade-running Miriella was the first ship to reach Europe with a cargo of nationalized Iranian oil.

The British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has promised legal action in whatever country Iran tries to sell the nationalized oil until the Anglo-Iranian dispute is settled. Iran nationalized the company's holdings in 1951.

The "Supor" Company which owns the Miriella has set up its own headquarters in another Venice hotel for the test case. Dr. Francesco Mortillaro, the company chief, told newspaper men his deal with Iran was "a perfectly legitimate transaction."

Mortillaro said his firm signed a five-year contract with Iran for "tens of millions of dollars." The contract is believed to provide for delivery of 2,000,000 tons of crude and 500,000 tons of refined oil in return for Italian machinery and other manufactured products.

Russians Freeze 18,000,000 With Travel Ban

BERLIN (AP) — The Russian zone has completed plans to virtually "freeze" its 18,000,000 population, much as the Soviet Union prohibits travel within its borders.

A Jewish refugee who saw the documents before he fled to West Berlin gave the details today. He asked to remain anonymous.

The key to the "freeze" lies in new identity cards which have been printed.

The cards restrict the holder to travel within a certain limit. For most East Germans the maximum will be 20 miles. State and party officials will require special travel orders to go with their cards when they have reason to visit East Berlin.

Anyone caught outside the limit of his card will be in serious trouble.

The cards will be issued, the informant said, the day the federal Parliament at Bonn ratifies the European Defence Treaty. Part of the plan, it was said, is to then proclaim the national army officially and institute a draft law.

Rumors of the "freeze" plan spread through the East zone weeks ago. They contributed to the flood of refugees to West Berlin.

The flood continues daily with another 1,014 reported in the last 24 hours. They included 80 farmers and their families, bringing the total of farmers to 5,639 since last October. They have deserted an estimated 450,000 acres of land.

Donates Pension

KINGSTON (CP)—Somewhere in flood-ravaged Europe someone can say thanks to an elderly resident of Kingston who wishes to remain anonymous.

He is a pensioner, over 80, who has turned his entire cheque over to the Red Cross Society for its flood relief fund.

"They need it over there more than I do here," he told Red Cross officials.

Say Spain Boosts Price Of Bases In Bargaining Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spain was reported today to have raised her price for an air and naval base agreement with the United States—apparently as a bargaining measure to find out how much the Eisenhower administration may be willing to give. Agreements covering development and use of bases in Spain by U.S. forces and providing for U.S. economic and military assistance to that country on a limited scale were virtually completed last year under the Truman administration. But final details were not worked out.

It is understood here the Spanish negotiators are again pressing some demands that had been rejected earlier by the United States. Negotiations had continued meanwhile without these coming up.

The Spaniards are now said to be asking that:

ASK BROAD AID

1. A total of $125,000,000 in financial aid voted by Congress be made available without any strings attached.

2. The U.S. undertake to modernize the Spanish Army, which would mean a large-scale military aid program.

3. The U.S. guarantee Spanish security in a virtual alliance.

Spain would then proceed to work out the U.S. bid for use of bases in peace and war.

There have been no indications here that the Eisenhower administration was prepared to accept the Spanish requirements or to change in any radical manner the American proposals. In essence, these were for the use of Spanish bases by American forces and a detailed $125,000,000 aid program for Spain agreed on at the same time.

Skipper Says Attacker Was Nationalist Ship

HONG KONG (AP)—The skipper of the British freighter Incharran said today it "definitely was a Chinese Nationalist vessel" that opened fire on his ship Thursday north of the Formosa strait.

Capt. George Lefver, 51, of Sydrey, Australia said he saw no identification on the attacking vessel but that it was an LST (landing ship, tank), and that "pirates do not have any such craft."

The Incharran was not hit, Lefver said, although five rounds were fired at her.

Lefver said the attacking ship signalled a halt as he was nearing the Formosa strait en route to Hong Kong from Shanghai.

U.S. Impatience Lifts Aid Hopes

MADRID (AP) — Informed sources said today that U.S. impatience over Western Europe's delay in uniting for defence is firing official Spanish hopes of a heavy flow of American aid to the Franco government.

Although no officials would comment publicly, these sources said the Spanish reasoning goes like this:

The United States has only two strategic choices in deploying its strength to guard against a possible Soviet thrust on the European front. One of these would be to work in close support of a European coalition like the projected European Defence Community and European Army.

If this proves impossible, the U.S. must adopt a peripheral defence system, massing air might in Britain, Spain, Italy, Greece, Turkey and the Middle East to blast the Russians from all sides at the opening gun.

Further Charges Said Pending Over Immigration

OTTAWA (CP)—Depending on the outcome of current trials connected with illegal immigration to Canada, the federal government may bring further charges against other individuals, it was learned authoritatively today.

However, no federal action is expected for some time at least.

An authoritative source said action against further individuals depends entirely on the outcome of current cases now before the courts. All are still at magistrate level and could involve lengthy appeals.

It is understood the further charges which might be laid are more complex and that federal authorities may not attempt to bring further cases before the courts unless convictions can be obtained in the pending cases.

These cases involve court action already launched against five individuals, including three former employees of the immigration department, one labor department employee and a Montreal travel agent. All are accused of accepting or giving bribes. They allegedly participated in a ring which brought Italian immigrants to Canada illegally by bypassing immigration laws.

The justice department is understood to be considering charges against at least one other immigration official, another travel agent, and possibly a Montreal lawyer.

The latter allegations are believed to involve a racket separate to the Italian one and more complex in its operation. One of the cases involves a former immigration official at Karlsruhe, Germany.

Withdraw Army Of Flood-Fighters

THE HAGUE (CP)—The international army which worked around the clock in The Netherlands flood disaster will be withdrawn beginning next Tuesday, War Minister Cornelis Staf announced today. He said the emergency is nearing an end.

The military forces, including Canadians, will begin withdrawing at 6 a. m. Tuesday after the weekend spring tide subsides.

The new spring tide will reach its peak in the early hours Monday but the Dutch face the new threat optimistic that the reinforced defences will hold back the sea.

The floods two weeks ago, stirred by an 80-mile-an-hour wind, inundated one-sixth of The Netherlands and took the lives of about 1,500 persons. Another 500 were drowned in Britain and Belgium.

Staf told a press conference today that the army of flood-fighters represented "Atlantic co-operation at its best."

He said the Canadian, American, Belgian, British and French soldiers had disregarded all personal comfort during the two weeks while working "like dogs under the worst weather conditions."

It Won't Happen Here

Ohio Meat Price War Sees Steaks At 39c

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — The housewives' rush to the corner grocery for low-cost meats has tapered off, but the price war is far from over.

The price battle was stepped up today as Ohio market men continued to offer slashed prices on home-grown meat to challenge New Zealand competition.

With the New Zealand beef selling at 39 cents a pound, meat markets were deluged with eager customers and at least one store limited the amount a customer could purchase.

Then a Marion beef booster, Merle Wise, began his sale of cut-rate Ohio meat Thursday at 39 to 59 cents a pound. Meat shops in other cities followed suit.

A Cleveland store sold all steaks at 39 cents a pound — offered stewing beef at nine cents a pound while hamburger went for 19 cents.

In most areas buyers were accustomed to the paring of prices. But in Marion — a day after the cut-rate sales went into effect — long lines awaited store openings and owners limited the number of customers permitted in the store at one time to prevent damage.

The quality of the foreign meat came under fire by the Cleveland Retail Meat Dealers Association. It said the New Zealand meat was an inferior grade.

But James Long, manager of an Oberlin market, said customers in the college city of 5,066 liked the imported meat.

Long's market finished selling its first purchase of 6,000 pounds of New Zealand beef Friday, but Long said he has 2,000 more pounds for today.

An outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Saskatchewan opened the way for the importing of New Zealand beef to the United States. The U. S. clamped an embargo on Canadian cattle, forcing Canada to seek other markets for her meat.

An agreement was reached whereby Canada sold the meat to Britain, taking the place of the previous supplier, New Zealand. In turn the New Zealand beef was sent to the U. S.

Bid To Rob Bank Nets Three Kingston Terms

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Three men were convicted Friday of assault with intent to rob and sentenced to a total of 39 years for their part in the bizarre attempt by two masked men to rob a bank Nov. 12 after they handcuffed 22 bank employees.

Norman Quinlan, 41, of Windsor, described by crown attorney Bruce J. S. Macdonald as the man who "masterminded" the bold attempt, was sentenced to 15 years by Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel.

Arthur McKay, 24, also of Windsor, and Robert Woods, 27, alias Sidney Clewes, Toronto, were each given 12 years.

The three were arrested several days after two men, wearing rubber Hallowe'en masks, entered the branch of the Bank of Commerce and systematically handcuffed employees as they reported for work. The employees were forced at gun point to lie on the floor while the men vainly attempted to open the bank vault.

They fled when two employees of Brinks Express Company arrived.

Although the crown contended that Woods and McKay were the two who actually entered the bank, the jury was told Quinlan, father of three children, could be found guilty as charged if it was proved the three men had a common illegal purpose.

Mr. Justice LeBel told Quinlan he was "satisfied you engineered this crime."

Car Overturns Three Shaken Up

Three ocupants of a car escaped with only a bruising and a shaking up Friday night when their car went out of control on the old Keene Road, knocked off six guard rail posts and overturned in the ditch.

Harry Shaughnessy, 25, RR 2 Peterborough was driver of the 1951-model car which was nearly wrecked in the accident. The top and both sides were bashed in and there was additional heavy damage.

The two passengers, also unhurt, were Thomas Eakins, 25, of Bridgenorth, and Helen Croft, 21, of 557 Rose Ave.

Shaughnessy was driving south on the old Keene Road and reached a point about 500 yards south of Highway 7 when his car went out of control. It went onto the west shoulder and clipped off three guard rail posts; then it swerved across the road and clipped three more off on the east shoulder.

Finally, after travelling an erratic course for some 250 feet, the car rolled over in the east ditch and landed on its roof.

OPP Constable Gordon Gray investigated.

Driver Takes To Ditch Avoids Serious Crash

A serious accident was narrowly averted late Friday night when a southbound motorist found himself trapped on a curve between another southbound car he was trying to pass and a northbound vehicle.

The motorist, Robert Pratt 17, of RR 4, Peterborough, skidded over into the east ditch—on the wrong side of the Lakefield Highway. The northbound driver, Percy Hockaday 54, of RR 4, Lakefield, slammed on his brakes, made a three-quarter spin on the slippery highway, and collided with the front of Pratt's car.

Nobody was injured, but Mr. Hockaday, his wife Grace, and a baby were all shaken up.

Pratt told OPP Constables James Healey and Harold Armstrong that he was passing the car of Jack Curtin, Cobourg, on a curve, a mile north of Lakefield, when he noticed the oncoming vehicle. He said he couldn't get back into line and knew he couldn't speed up and get by Curtin's vehicle; so he took to the east ditch.

Hockaday made his three-quarter spin and his left rear fender struck the right front bumper of Pratt's car. Damage was light, only about $60.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most prices moved narrowly Friday in dull trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. The trend reflected hesitation on U.S. market. Commercial demand was quiet, limited to domestic shipping orders in oats and barley. Prices of Class 2 and IWA wheat were unchanged.

Chou, Panyushkin Top Peiping Delegates

TOKYO (AP) — Red China's Premier Chou En-lai and Soviet ambassador A. S. Panyushkin topped Communist bigwigs from Iron Curtain countries at a huge rally in Peiping Friday. The Red radio said today that more than 1,000 representatives met in celebration of the third anniversary of the signing of the Sino-Soviet treaty of friendship, alliance and mutual assistance.

No mention was made of the presence of Red China's No. 1 man, Mao Tze-tung.

Peiping previously had broadcast messages exchanged between Mao and Stalin.

Labor Party Returns In Aussie Elections

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters)—The Labor party, which has held office in New South Wales for 12 years was returned to power in the state elections today with an estimated gain of seven seats.

The victory brings the party its fifth successive three-year term, a state record.

State of the parties tonight was Labor 55, Independent Labor one, Liberal 21, Country party 15, with two seats doubtful.

A Liberal-Country party federal government under Prime Minister Robert Menzies defeated Labor in the last election.

Commons Splits In Debate On U.S. Policy

OTTAWA (CP)—A three day Commons debate on foreign affairs has brought out sharply-differing party views on the new United States administration's Far Eastern policy.

In the debate that started Wednesday and was postponed indefinitely Friday night, the chief point of contention was the recent U.S. decision to withdraw its 7th fleet from around Formosa, loosing Formosa-based Chinese Nationalist forces against the Red China mainland.

Party attitudes ranged from outright disapproval by the CCF—which contended it might be a step towards world war—to the Social Credit's warm approval and suggestion that it should be followed by a blockade of Communist China coastal trade.

The government steered a cautious course between the two extremes. The official Progressive Conservative view leaned to favoring the U.S. decision.

URGES CAUTION

External Affairs Minister Pearson, possibly operating under wraps because of his dual job as president of the United Nations general assembly, urged caution by the Western Powers in hitting aggressors in new places and with new weapons. This might backfire.

He was apparently referring to the China coast blockade, but was not specific, and opposition members called for a more clear-cut statement of Canadian policy. Mr. Pearson's outline was described variously by them as "tip-toeing through the tulips" and "a masterpiece of circumlocution."

After waiting for the last 1½ days for a chance to close out the debate on his motion to deal with external affairs estimates — in which he would reply to criticisms — Mr. Pearson saw speakers of all parties keep the discussion going until the House rose Friday night.

He was making a flying trip to New York and Washington during the week-end, but was expected back by Monday for a possible resumption of the debate then. However, that has not been arranged.

MORE HOPEFUL

The Progressive Conservative stand on the Formosan move, as laid down by foreign affairs specialist Gordon Graydon (Peel), was that there is "nothing alarming" in President Eisenhower's decision to end the "neutralization" of Formosa. He suggested a firm policy would be more likely to bring peace than one of "hesitation and appeasement."

Rodney Adamson (PC - York West) went farther and said it would not be "unrealistic" to blockade the China mainland.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, also supported a China blockade. But Angus MacInnis, acting CCF leader, sharply criticized the U. S. Formosan action as a possible step towards a general war and rapped the Canadian government for not protesting it strongly.

In Friday's continuation of the debate, John Diefenbaker (PC - Lake Centre) — one of his party's parliamentary advisers to the Canadian UN delegation — led a demand for a sharper definition of the Canadian government stand on the Formosa move.

He said Canada cannot adopt a middle course, and uncertainty over her stand is not in keeping with her responsibilities.

Frost Says Plan Soon Ready For Greater Toronto Tangle

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Legislature will learn within 10 days the government's plan for straightening out the tangled skein of municipal affairs in the Greater Toronto area. Premier Frost said Friday legislation dealing with the conflicting problems of 13 municipalities in the area will be introduced the week of Feb. 23.

He said he is holding up the bill until after the federal budget is brought down Feb. 19, so it will be given comprehensive coverage in the newspapers.

The premier offered no clue to the nature of the legislation, but observers said it probably would cover not only the Toronto area but also would provide a pattern for other cities with populous suburban areas.

IN LONDON, TOO

An application for amalgamation with surrounding suburbs has already been made by the city of London, but action is being withheld until government policy is disclosed.

Premier Frost indicated the bill has already been drawn up and will not be submitted to a House committee before introduction. However, he said the government has no intention of trying to push it through without full debate.

"We're going to take lots of time and have the whole thing clear in the minds of all the members, before we put it to a vote," he said.

Legislature business Friday was confined to the appointment of a deputy speaker, tabling of the 1951-52 fiscal report and introduction of several bills.

A. Kelso Roberts (PC—St. Patrick), a Toronto lawyer, was appointed deputy speaker. He is the first member from a Toronto riding to be given the post in 27 years.

$1,061,438 SURPLUS

The provincial auditor's report for the year ended March 31, 1952 showed the government netted a surplus of $1,061,438, almost twice the amount forecast in the budget.

Government revenue totalled $302,320,998, exceeding the predicted amount by $45,950,998. Expenditures, forecast at $248,496,000, were $266,983,559.

Among the bills introduced for first reading was an amendment to the Charitable Institutions Act, which would provide an additional $100,000 in annual aid to hospitals supported by charity.

The amendment would raise the provincial contribution from 10 to 20 cents a day for each patient confined in such hospitals, and raise the province's total annual contribution to $230,000.

County courthouses, clogged with old and useless records, may get a chance to do some housecleaning. An amendment to the Judicature Act was put forth which would allow old records to be destroyed at the discretion of a judge.

Attorney-General Porter said 40 per cent of the space in court houses is taken up by old files which could be thrown out. An amendment to the Division Courts Act, for the same purpose, was also given first reading.

Jail Two Youths, 17, On Lottery Charges

HAMILTON (CP)—Morality officers, continuing their crackdown on illegal distribution of lottery tickets here, today arrested two 17-year-old youths and charged them with illegal possession of the tickets.

John Stone, and Roger Lehainsworth, both of no permanent address, later were remanded till Monday.

Two other men have been summonsed to appear in court on Feb. 19, on a charge of a breach of the lottery act. Police charge that George Nuttall, 46, and Frank Weston, 60, have been acting as distributors for the Quebec lottery tickets.

British Seawalls Hold Out Tides

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's east coast sea defences, smashed by gales two weeks ago and now buttressed with millions of sandbags, withstood a new flood threat today with rising spring tides.

Anxious engineers, watching for new breaches in the sea walls, reported "all quiet" along the east coast, where the North Sea broke in Jan. 31 taking a toll of at least 290 lives.

The tides early today were even higher in some places than the predicted level, but the hastily-improvised defences showed no sign of giving way. Troops and civilian volunteers stood by ready to rush to any danger zone.

Crisis point will be reached Monday, when the spring tides come up to their top level.

Britain today was free from the gales which have swept the country this week, but snow and bitter cold have hampered the flood squads sandbagging, pile-driving and bulldozing along the coastline. European countries, responding to an urgent appeal from the British government, were sending millions of sandbags to help to shore up the defences.

Sir David Maxwell Fyfe, Britain's home secretary, flew to Holland to discuss flood problems with Dutch officials who also are watching anxiously for new threats from the sea.

application for Supreme Court review of the case.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman indicated in New York he will set an early execution date, possibly within a few weeks.

He told the Rosenbergs' lawyer, who asked for a delay, that he did not believe "anything can be accomplished in too long a delay except bringing upon the prisoners mental anguish by instilling false hopes in them." Judge Kaufman will set the date Monday.

The electrocution, originally set for Jan. 14, had been postponed while the presidential appeal was pending.

PROTEST INNOCENCE

The Rosenbergs were sentenced April 5, 1951, after Mrs. Rosenberg's brother, David Greenglass, testified they persuaded him to turn over wartime atomic secrets to a Russian official in New York. The Rosenbergs have insisted they are innocent.

Greenglass and Morton Sobell were sentenced to prison in the case.

First word of the Papal intervention came out Friday when the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said the Pope "had not omitted to intervene." The paper gave no details but emphasized that the action was made public because of insinuations in the Communist press — which has been crusading against the death sentences — that the Pope was not interested in the Rosenberg's fate.

Hunters' Toll

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—A member of the Cape Breton county council urged that the provincial government be asked to increase deer hunters' fees by $1, using the extra towards a fund to reimburse farmers for slain livestock. Another member suggested an extra $2, so farmers could also be reimbursed for damage to crops.

Acquit Woman Of Manslaughter

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. June Armstrong, 24, was acquitted Friday of manslaughter in the stabbing Sept. 20 of Walter Coleman, 38, during a fight between Coleman and the man with whom the former Liverpool woman had been living.

Evidence was that Mrs Armstrong plunged a celery knife into Coleman's back after coming to the assistance of McKinzy Waters, foreman of a celery farm at nearby Holland Landing on which Coleman was employed as a field hand.

Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier of the Ontario Supreme Court said in his address to the jury that, for the purposes of the case, Mrs. Armstrong and Waters should be regarded as legally married. He said the law sometimes condones homicide in the case of a wife defending her husband.

Evidence was that Waters, a superintendent at Federal Farms, was angry because a tractor had been damaged in pulling an automobile from a ditch. Waters blamed Coleman for the damage and the men quarrelled over it.

New Casablanca City Now Streamlined

By HENRY BUCKLEY

CASABLANCA (Reuers)—In less than 50 years, Casablanca has expanded from an obscure small town of some 40,000 inhabitants into an ultra-modern, streamlined city of over 600,000 residents, described locally as "the little Paris of Africa."

The "new" Morocco was created by the French out of a wilderness, in a process which put the clock forward five centuries.

Irrigation projects, hydro-electric plants, superb highways, a mainly electrified railway system, new industries of all kinds and mining activity have transformed the panorama of what when the 20th century opened was a land mainly of nomads seeking grass for their flocks of goats and camels.

FINE VIEW

From the luxurious Restaurant Panoramique of the ultro-modern Hotel Anfa there is a view of a superb modern city with wide boulevards and skyscrapers, a booming, go-getter city pulsing with life and vitality.

Fifty years ago, there were only a handful of Europeans living here. Today, out of 600,000 residents there are 160,000 Europeans, mostly French.

This is a hard-working town full of bustle and hustle by 8 a.m.

By 10 p.m. the city is quiet, except for the few night clubs which try to keep up the entertainment side of Casablanca's boast of being "le petit Paris."

But last month eight Europeans were killed by Moroccans in an outbreak of rioting here and in the same month Moroccan spokesmen were appealing to the United Nations for self-government for Morocco.

Casablanca is a strange mixture of ancient and modern. The white, hooded Moorish "chilaba" of distinguished maids brush the latest models from Christian Dior or Balenciaga on the boulevards. Moorish women, their faces still veiled but whose long gowns are today often close fitting enough to reveal lines formerly hidden, gaze wistfully into huge windows of the great Galeries Lafayette department store.

An industrious red-fezzed guide, Mustapha showed me the sights of the gleaming modern town but was very sad about the tough and rough native quarter known as the Bousbir, or Quartier Reserve. The red-light district of Cas blanca had been closed since the December riots.

"There," he told me, "you could have drunk tea served by beautiful Mooresses."

N. J. Gainer Named President Of Park Project

A directors' meeting of the Kawartha Recreations Incorporated, Cedar Lakes Park project, enjoyed the largest attendance on Friday evening the group has ever had since its inception.

Business at hand was primarily the election of officers for the coming year. Norman J. Gainer was elected president.

Under him are vice-president Frank Booth, treasurer, Herb Schacher and secretary, Mrs. H. J. McLarnon. Three committees were drawn up, finance, grounds and publicity and program, and the following list of directors chosen:

John Madden, Isadore Black, Alex Sinclair, Eric Whitely, Lewis Bird, William Graff, Mrs. Clare Collins, Gordon Hancock, Douglas Anderson and Ed Hiland.

Kenneth Strasser, Mr. Schacher, Dr. Gordon Langley, Campbell Rowatt, Robert G. Hamilton, Mr. Gainer, Mrs. McLarnon, Alderman William Beggs, Mr. Booth, Keith McIntyre, Armar Butcher, Jack Sinclair, and Sgt. Stanley Palmateer.

Three honorary directors are Reeve Norman Wilson, Mayor Hugh Waddell and Mrs. Fred Marshall. Charter members are Max Swanston and James Fraser and immediate past president, Alderman Harold Rehill.

The next directors' meeting will be held at the Public Library on Feb. 27.

Nationalist Scots Blast Mail Box

EDINBURGH (Reuters) — Scottish Nationalists gained a point today in their campaign to make Queen Elizabeth's title read Elizabeth I in Scotland — it is Elizabeth II in England.

Authorities put up a cast iron mail box here last year bearing the government stamp "E II R," Elizabeth II.

Nationalists, who claim that the 16th century Elizabeth reigned only over England and that the present Elizabeth should therefore be Elizabeth I of Scotland, twice tried unsuccessfully to blow up the mail box. Thursday night they succeeded. It was blown to pieces.

The post office today put up a new box — without the offending initials. But officials refused to say whether the arrangement was permanent or only a temporary truce.

Many Protest Name Of New Blood Disease

LONDON (CP)—Following widespread protest, a new name will be found for the recently-discovered malady dubbed "Christmas disease," after the first person to contract it, five-year-old Stephen Christmas. It is a form of haemophilia, or a failure of the blood to clot normally.

Doctors generally have urged a change in the name to one less closely associated with the traditional holiday. The International Haemophilia Society also has lodged a protest.

A spokesman for the group of seven medical scientists that discovered the disease said: "At least our name for it seems to have attracted attention and that is what we wanted. But we weren't expecting quite such an opposition landslide."

Asks Stockmen To Wait For Good Prices

CALGARY (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner Friday advised cattlemen to withhold stock from the market for the next two weeks to maintain prices.

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Western Stock Growers' Association, Mr. Gardiner said there was enough cattle on the market now and enough beef in storage to take care of requirements.

He said the market had been dropping steadily since January and some thought it would continue to drop when the U.S. embargo was lifted March 1.

City Police Ticket Overnight Parkers

Motorists who leave their cars overnight are finding it an expensive habit—no less than 50 of them have received overtime parking tickets, and have paid their $1 minimum fines, in the past 48 hours.

The drive, by city police traffic and patrol cars, is still continuing, police stated today, until motorists have learned that overnight parking, particularly with ice packed on some curbs, as it is at present, can be a dangerous hazard.

Health Service Pool Plan To Be Discussed

By JOHN MYERS

PARIS (Reuters)—Health experts, officials, and scientists from 15 European countries will gather here in February to plan a "white pool"—a supra-national organization to co-ordinate the health services of most of free Europe.

Inspired by France, the "white pool" would be modelled on the Schuman coal and steel community and complement the European "green pool" for agriculture and the proposed transport pool.

The meeting follows a preliminary conference in Paris to which 15 states sent high-ranking representatives last Dec. 12 and 13.

The 15 states unanimously approved the spirit of the French proposal. But Britain held back all-out support, however, for the same reasons which prevent her becoming more than an associate member of other institutions of united Europe. Switzerland also held back for reasons of strict neutrality.

The other 13 countries are: Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, West Germany, Turkey, Greece, Iceland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Austria and France.

The February meeting will consider detailed French draft proposals for the organization and its field of activity.

Paul Ribeyre, French minister of health at the time of the preliminary conference, outlining the work which the pool could do in fighting illness and suffering, said it could carry out surveys of the social and health conditions in member countries and of their health legislation. There would be exchanges of doctors, health officials, professors and students.

Arsenal Favored For Soccer Cup

LONDON (Reuters)—Arsenal today became firm favorite for the Football Association Cup, defeating Burnley 2-0 in a slow day's play which generally favored the underdogs.

Gateshead, now the only Division III club left in the Cup elimination scored a hard-fought, 1-0 win over Plymouth Argyle of Division II, proving themselves the giant-killers of the season.

Chelsea went down to an inglorious defeat at the hands of second-division Birmingham, which scored four goals to Chelsea's nil. Everton, another second-division club, edged out Manchester United 2-1. Both the losers are division I teams.

Two other first-division clubs, Bolton Wanderers and Aston Villa, had all they could do to stave off defeat from second-division clubs. The Villa scored a 3-1 victory over Rotherham and Bolton eked out a 1-0 win over Luton.

Of the eight ties in Cup matches, only one ended in a draw and will be replayed. That was at Blackpool where Southampton of the second division held their division I opponent to a 1-1 draw.

MONTREAL (CP) — Saying that "nothing very much" had been written entirely about Montreal, James Mullaly, past president of St. James Literary Society, said there is need for an extensive history of the city. He said Montreal had never really had a history devoted to itself.

Rattlesnake Postmark Big Favorite With Tourists In Florida

Although there may always be a Christmas, Fla., there is considerable doubt that there will continue to be a Rattlesnake, Fla.

A civic move to enlarge the city of Tampa is well under way and this tiny community, with its own United States Post Office, proudly marked "Rattlesnake," would be one of the communities included. Actually it is nearly 10 miles from the heart of Tampa.

While Rattlesnake does not have anything like the more than 50,000 letters sent to Christmas to bear that postmark, it does handle around 10,000 letters and post cards daily during the tourist season. There seems to be a strong attraction for some travellers in letting their friends hear from them from strangely named towns.

It is estimated that there are 60 permanent families here, and everyone appears to be delightfully vague about where Rattlesnake, boundarywise, begins and ends. It is only a crossroad junction, a few filling stations, and a few typical tourist restaurants with souvenirs. Yet behind this community lies a story of determination and enterprise.

DRIVEN BY HARD LUCK

A man by the name of George Ends from Wisconsin back in the booming twenties was lured into buying some land in Florida. The land proved sterile, the only crops that thrived being Palmettoes and rattlesnakes. Getting desperate for food during the depression, Ends tried eating rattlesnake meat and found it edible.

...ly a few years later in Arcadia he established a flourishing cannery that marketed rattlesnake meat. To obtain still more customers he moved in 1937 to the spot that is now Rattlesnake and set up his cannery anew. It was Ends who petitioned the United States Post Office to name the settlement Rattlesnake.

Along with his cannery, Ends staged a daily rattlesnake show for tourists. Year after year he gave public demonstrations of how to handle a snake with bare hands; how to extract the venom from the fangs; how to permit the reptiles to coil about his arm. Nothing to it once you know how and Ends certainly knew how.

But about five years ago a rattlesnake struck him and he died shortly after. But Rattlesnake is still there, at least for the present.

PAINLESS PACKING

One of the more discouraging chores of travel—unpacking and packing suitcases—will soon be relegated in many deluxe European hotels to maids and valets trained to perform these duties for a fee of $1.

The service will work this way: Maids and valets at participating hotels will be sent to a school to learn a standard method of packing. Guests may request service on arrival and also arrange to have their bags packed for departure while they are out sightseeing, thus adding an extra hour or so of time to their visits. Bags so packed will be marked to alert the maid and butler at the next stop. The guest will also receive a diagram showing just where every item has been packed in the suitcase in case he wants to get something out en route.

Among the hotels already enrolled are: the Savoy in London; Lancaster, Paris; Gritti Palace Venice; Excelsior, Florence; Palace, Brussels; Amsto, Amsterdam; Avis, Lisbon; Palace, Madrid; and the Grand Hotels of Stockholm and Oslo.

SUMMER IN HOLLAND

One of the most comprehensive lists of events of interest to foreign visitors comes from Holland, where a unique windmill tour has been arranged as part of a sightseeing series.

Fridays from May 15 to June 15, these trips will leave Amsterdam. Of wide interest this year is the Vincent Van Gogh exhibition honoring the 100th anniversary of the painter's birth. The pictures will be shown at The Hague May 25-July 15 and in Amsterdam from July 15-August 15 at the Rijksmuseum.

From March to May 15, the Keukenhof Estate at Haarlem will open its notable gardens to the public and at the same time another flower show goes on at Heemstede.

AZALEA FESTIVAL

Mobile, Alabama, is preparing for its most dramatic celebration, the Azalea Trail Festival, which is under way this month and continues to the middle of March.

The city will celebrate Mardi Gras February 17 and the Queen of the 1953 Festival will be crowned on Sunday, March 1. The month will be filled with social activities, parades, concerts and sports events.

Centre of the attraction is the 35-mile Azalea Trail, the famous avenue of blossoming trees, leading from the centre of town westward through the residential part of the city. Since the 18th century azaleas have been developing along this trail, increasing in size and numbers until the 250-year-old city has become known as the "Azalea Capital of the World."

HERE AND THERE

Tourists will find a new train service to Yugoslavia from central Europe via the Adria Express connecting Munich with Split and Adriatic resorts.

LIFE IN EARNEST—Wonder what five Boxer pups, just five weeks old, could have on their minds that would cause such woebegone expressions? Their owners, Mr. and Mrs. Nick Harchenko, of Windsor, suggest the pups may be pondering the approaching income tax deadline as they peer out at the cold, cold world.

OLRB May Be Wrong, Right Guild Argues

OTTAWA (CP)—Counsel for the Toronto Newspaper Guild argued Friday that the Ontario labor relations board could be wrong in its procedure and still be within the bounds of its jurisdictional powers.

On the basis of that and other argument, F. A. Brewin, lawyer for Toronto Local 87 of the American Newspaper Guild (CIO), asked the Supreme Court of Canada to quash lower court rulings which revoked the guild's certification as bargaining agents for the Globe Printing Company circulation department employees.

Rooted in the Supreme Court case, climaxing a three-year dispute between the union and the company which publishes the Toronto Globe and Mail, are these significant issues:

1. Have the courts the right to overrule the board's certification decisions?
2. Has the labor tribunal the right to refuse such requests as cross-examination of witnesses during certification hearings?

REFUSED EXAMINATION

During 1950 certification hearings, the board refused company counsel the right to cross-examine a guild witness on the question of guild member resignations or allow him to scrutinize guild documents, ruling that such matters were irrelevant.

The company, arguing that it had indications that some of the guild members had resigned and this would have a bearing as to whether the guild represented a majority of the employees, asked the board to undertake its own investigation. The board gave no indication it would do so.

The Ontario Supreme Court, upheld by the Ontario Court of Appeal, ruled that all this was tantamount to a travesty of natural justice and revoked the certification.

Mr. Brewin argued that the Ontario Appeal Court's decision was "erroneous." It overlooked the powers of the board to be supreme in its decision "unless a manifest defect of jurisdiction was shown."

The court should have held, he argued, "that the failure to permit to the respondent company the right to cross-examine the appellant's witness at the hearing in respect to resignations did not affect the board's jurisdiction and, even if erroneous, could not be deemed an excess or abuse of jurisdiction."

WONDER WHY

Mr. Justice I. C. Rand and others of the seven benchers sitting at the hearing wondered why the board should find the company's request irrelevant.

Mr. Brewin suggested the board may have used the wrong word.

"Surely you are not going to suggest that the board was so stupid as to use a wrong word?" he replied.

Mr. Brewin said it was possible that laymen may use legal words in the wrong sense.

Mr. Brewin argued that however erroneous the board's procedure was, its decisions did not deprive the board of jurisdiction.

Mr. Justice J. R. Cartwright interjected that there might be a case where the board might rule that a membership could be still effective, say, 30 days after resignation. It could make this ruling and still not go beyond its jurisdiction.

Mr. Justice Roy Kellock said, however, that a public tribunal had the responsibility to see that justice was done not only in fact but also "in appearance."

"There should be nothing wrong with the board looking at the documents," he suggested.

The case continues Monday

Coroner's Jury Returns 'Open Verdict'

COBOURG —(ENS) —An open verdict was returned by a coroner's jury last night in connection with the death last Friday night of Andy Kerr, 43-year-old Cobourg butcher.

Kerr's body was found on the lawn of a house near the scene after a collision of two cars at the intersection of Chapel and Division Sts. in Cobourg. Kerr's bicycle was beside him.

The jury found that Kerr "came to his death from a blow to his head at the time of an accident at the intersection of Chapel and College Streets, between two cars".

Dr. I. M. Shaw testified that he was called to the scene and found Kerr dead. Kerr had received compound fractures of the skull and jaw, and a possible broken neck. There were no marks or injuries to the lower part of the body.

Vernal Linton, one of the drivers of the two cars involved in a collision at the intersection, said that he had been proceeding west on Chapel and had stopped at College Street and looked up and down before crossing. He said that there were no cars coming from either direction, that he saw, and he started across.

"I was part way past the centre of the intersection when I heard a smash. That is all I remember until my car stopped just the other side of College. I don't know what happened after that. I got out and went back to the other car. I didn't see anyone on a bicycle at any time," testified Linton.

Bernard Traini, driver of the other car involved was travelling north on College Street, estimated his speed at 20 to 25 miles an hour. He said he was positive nobody was stopped at the stop street, because if another car had been there he would have seen the lights.

"As I entered the intersection I looked to the left and then as I looked straight ahead I saw something flash by me and we struck. My car was flung around to the south west and I was thrown out the door," testified Traini. Witness added that at no time had he noticed anybody on a bicycle.

Constable Homer Seale testified that the Linton car stopped after the accident west of College and the Traini car remained on College but was swung around to the south west. The constable said he knew nothing of Kerr being involved until he found his body on the lawn, 25 feet north of the Chapel Street north curb, west of College. The body was 47 feet west of the west curb of College. His wrecked bicycle was nearby.

Chief H. Pearse testified that there was an inward depression in the right windshield at the top, in Linton's car and a spot of what appeared to be blood.

Government To Cover Group's Book Shortage

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott said in the Commons Friday the government has agreed conditionally to lend $100,000 to the Civil Service Co-Operative Credit Society, which has discovered a shortage of about $134,000 in its books.

Mr. Abbott said the loan will be recommended by the government to Parliament—repayable out of later society profits — provided measures are taken to straighten out the society's affairs.

He said it was clear the shortage, discovered recently and now under investigation by a committee of officials, was caused by inadequate book-keeping methods.

Frost Meets 17 MLA's On Metropolitan Mixup

TORONTO (CP)—Premier Frost met with 17 legislature members representing the Greater Toronto area Friday to discuss their protest against not being consulted on proposed legislation to solve the metropolitan muddle.

The members protested the government's action several days ago, and met with Toronto civic officials to draft a reply.

The premier declined comment on the hour-long talk. One member said he outlined the government's position and asked the members to refrain from further statements until they had studied the government's plans.

Quebec Slights Finder In Naming New Crater

QUEBEC (CP)—Canada's huge meteoric crater at the northern tip of Quebec province has been officially called "Cratere du Nouveau-Quebec," the Quebec lands department announced Friday.

At the same time the department announced it has published a new map of Quebec on which the location of the crater appears.

The phenomenon, 10,000 feet in diameter and believed to be one of the largest in the world of its kind, has been known as "Chubb Crater" since an expedition sighted it a few years ago.

The crater has been known as the Chubb Crater after Fred W. Chubb, a prospector, who first spotted the phenomenon on a map. Mr. Chubb said in Toronto: "It was a job of work and if that's the way they feel about it, it's okay with me."

High School Students Hurt In Auto Crash

TORONTO (CP) — Five high school students in suburban Scarborough were taken to hospital Friday, two in serious condition, with injuries suffered when their old-model car was forced off a highway and crashed into the back of a parked car.

Taken to hospital in serious condition suffering concussions were Sam Kane, 16, and George Fethers, 16. Both were unconscious. Edward Hoover, 16, Robert Stewart, 14, and Jack Frisk, 16, were treated for shock.

Mrs. A. Hamilton, who was sitting in the parked car with her two daughters and two other children, escaped serious injury but were treated for shock.

Police said the youths' car was forced off the road by a truck.

PROCLAMATION

In a Country such as ours, with its diversity of racial and religious groups, it is important that each of these groups should understand and respect the legitimate aspirations of the others, and that all should be able and ready to work together for the common interests of everyone.

In this day and age, it is inconceivable that the many divisions of the human family cannot come together in mutual understanding. Any unifying influence that will foster the welfare of mankind, therefore, regardless of race, colour, or creed, is to be commended and encouraged, and for this reason I whole-heartedly subscribe to the efforts of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, and other like bodies, in establishing a spiritual foundation as a common ground upon which people of different racial and religious beliefs can unite and work for the good of all.

Goodwill is the only basis upon which a brotherhood of man can be established, and to assist in the creation of mutual understanding and respect in the hearts and minds of our people, I declare the week of February 15th to 22nd as BROTHERHOOD WEEK in the City of Peterborough.

HUGH F. WADDELL,
Mayor.

The Meaning of Brotherhood Week

On February the fifteenth Brotherhood Week begins in Canada and various means will be used to call attention to it in Peterborough; we should be happy to think that by the end of that week every citizen of this city had gained a fuller knowledge of what Brotherhood Week is about, and why it is significant. It is not, of course, a fixed period of time in which we show ourselves brotherly, only to forget the whole business when the week is over; it is, rather, a time when we give special thought to an attitude of mind and heart which is already strong among us, and which we must preserve and increase.

* * *

This attitude may surprise some readers, who think that the ideal of brotherhood is weak among us. But we would like to point out that brotherhood is a basic element in our civilization and that in Canada it is stronger than we sometimes suppose, though not as strong as we should like it to be.

In discussing what brotherhood is, it is useful to take note of some of the things which it is not. It is not, for instance, a weak desire to mingle all the religious and ethical ideals of all Canadians in one bland mass. It is not a wish to rule out all the differences of opinion between one man and another, in the interest of a feeble and complacent intellectual peace. It does not mean that we have to love all men equally, and make no important distinction between right, not-so-right, and plain wrong. But it is a sincere desire to rise above pettiness and stupid prejudice, and to employ for the good of all the strength which resides in diversity.

* * *

We hear very often that strength lies in unity, and it may seem a paradox to declare that there is also a strength to be found in diversity. But, paradoxical or not, this is the truth. Consider, for instance, our religious diversity: Canada is the stronger for it, and the lives of all of us are unconsciously enriched by it, for we are the inheritors of three religious strains. We are all influenced by that deep regard for Law which is a legacy from the Jews; we are all influenced by that insistence upon spiritual and philosophical discipline which is part of the great Catholic tradition; we are all influenced by that insistence upon the sacredness of the individual conscience which is one of the foundations of Protestantism. Jew, Catholic or Protestant, we are all partakers of the benefits of these things because they have overflowed the bounds of creed and have penetrated the whole of our national life. And it may be said that another element—that of liberal humanism—has, despite its many weaknesses and follies done much to create an intellectual climate in which Jew, Protestant and Catholic can live in diversity and also in unity. It is in diversity that freedom lies, and in these times, when diversity of opinion is threatened because some people think that the only defence against Communism lies in a rigid uniformity of opinion, we must be conscious of the value of our diversity, and unite in cherishing it.

* * *

We are all the children of God. That is what brotherhood means, and so long as we remember that, we are in no danger of fanatical excess in political or religious belief. And, as members of a single family may vary greatly in opinion, and sometimes quarrel about opinions without coming to blows or letting the quarrel go on for too long, so may we enjoy the diversity of our beliefs and opinions without allowing them to poison our lives and the lives of our neighbours.

* * *

It is not only the big differences which threaten our brotherhood. Small jealousies, mean racial and religious bigotries, and a failure to realize that the worst possible motive for an action is not always the true one, can make bad blood between citizens and between countries. Our diversity of opinion in this country is great, and we should thank God for it, but we are all united in one thing—in our love of freedom. While we cherish that love we are free to disagree otherwise as much as we choose or think necessary; in that love lies the infallible safeguard against the differences which cease to be enriching, and become divisive in an important sense.

* * *

As we have said, this love of freedom and this acknowledgement of the Fatherhood of God are strong in Canada now, but they can never be too strong. Such noble ideals and precepts require constant refreshment or they quickly dwindle. That is why we devote the coming week to their sustenance.

How Canada Deals With U.N.

The Secretary-General of the United Nations recently asked Canada how this country handles its U.N. affairs. It is a question which many Canadians, perplexed by the many-sided nature of U.N., would like answered. They know that Canada has a permanent office at U.N. and a permanent representative (now Mr. A. D. P. Heeney), at the New York headquarters, that Mr. L. B. Pearson, the Minister of External Affairs is President of the General Assembly this year, and that the Department of External Affairs assumes primary responsibility, since U.N. is a major area of Canadian foreign policy. The answer Canada gave contains this information and much else which shows not only how Canada coordinates her U.N. affairs, but also how many of them she has.

Matters of a technical or specialized nature often fall precisely into the lap of departments other than External Affairs. For instance, the Minister of Finance, as Canadian member of the Boards of Governors of the International Bank and the International Monetary Fund is responsible for Canadian policy in these agencies. Here is a list of various U.N. bodies and the Canadian Departments which deal with them. (Names of Government Departments are given in capital letters, followed by the U.N. bodies with which each deals):

AGRICULTURE: Food and Agriculture Organization. CITIZENSHIP AND IMMIGRATION: Office of the High Commissioner for Refugees. CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION: All United Nations bodies (personnel questions). DOMINION BUREAU OF STATISTICS: Statistical Commission of the Economic and Social Council; Population Commission of the Economic and Social Council. FINANCE: All United Nations bodies (administrative and budgetary questions); Fiscal Commission of the Economic and Social Council. FINANCE (in consultation with the Bank of Canada): International Bank for Reconstruction and Development; International Monetary Fund. JUSTICE: Human Rights Commission of the Economic and Social Council; Ad Hoc Committee on Restrictive Business Practices of the Economic and Social Council. LABOUR: International Labour Organization. NATIONAL DEFENCE: Disarmament Commission; Collective Measures Committee; United Nations Military Observers (for example, in Kashmir). NATIONAL HEALTH AND WELFARE: World Health Organization; United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund; Social Commission of the Economic and Social Council; Narcotics Commission of the Economic and Social Council. POST OFFICE: Universal Postal Union. TRANSPORT: International Civil Aviation Organization; International Telecommunications Union; World Meteorological Organization; Transport and Communications Commission of the Economic and Social Council.

The note to the Secretary-General setting out this listing states that it is not exhaustive. In truth, U.N. is hydra-headed and needs an octopus to deal with it. The Department of External Affairs has one full division, named the U.N. Division, whose sole work is co-ordinating Canadian dealings with U.N. If some Canadians tend to think that U.N. is a side issue in Canadian foreign policy, even this partial statement of how Canada handles her U.N. affairs should disabuse them of the notion.

The Lady From Pakistan

On Monday Peterborough will be visited by the Begum Ikramullah, wife of the high commissioner to Canada from Pakistan. The University Women's Club invites the public to hear this remarkable woman speak at an open meeting, and people who are interested in international affairs will no doubt be quick to accept the invitation, for the Begum is a brilliant and accomplished speaker.

It is noteworthy that in the great advances which have been made in India during recent years, Indian women have played an important part. It has been somewhat too readily assumed in the Western World that because many women in India lived in a condition of subjection, all of them did so. The history of the Indian states, on the contrary, is filled with the names of brilliantly gifted women who have played important roles in politics. The Begum is not a modern phenomenon, but an inheritor of a tradition which has blossomed anew during the past fifty years.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A New York man, divorced because he shot his wife in the arms, says that he will miss her. He should have missed her sooner.

"Blonde Tells of Kissless Marriage to Montreal Garage Mechanic", says a headline. Oh well, she'll get around to kissing him when he cleans up after work.

A Scot calls Robert Burns "the soul and the breath of Scotland, ranking with Saint Columba and John Knox." We wonder how the genial Burns would feel in such austere company.

The Journal of Samuel Marchbanks

SUNDAY: When I was a lad naughty boys used to shout an offensive rhyme at Chinese citizens, accusing them of eating rats — of chewing them up like ginger-snaps, in fact. Today I read that Captain C. L. Cameron, the explorer, ate rats not merely from necessity, but because they were excellent food. He made a dressing of breadcrumbs, herbs, and the liver and heart of the animal, and then roasted his rat for a few minutes in a hot oven; he declared the flavour to be delicious and said it was not unlike snipe. Which just shows that we are missing a good thing through a foolish prejudice. There are constant complaints about the number and destructiveness of rats. We have merely to declare a rat a table delicacy and it will immediately become hard to raise, like turkey, and will only eat expensive special fodder, like mink. I have always said that the way to get rid of dandelions is to declare them a rare and costly flower; they would then become as fragile as orchids; the same technique would work with rats.

MONDAY: Was surprised this morning to get a letter which offered to help me "to break into a thrilling technical job in one of today's most spectacular and fast-growing fields—Television." I filled out the form which was enclosed, and in reply to the question "Do things mechanical or electrical interest you?" I said "Yes, very much but they baffle me, too" . . . To the movies tonight. It is often said that the movies are week-kneed, and never take a firm stand in favour of anything except motherhood—of a legal type, naturally. But the movie I saw came right out boldly and hinted that the movies do not think much of television. The effect of this will be far-reaching, and will doubtless cause the television people's union to picket the studios of the movie-makers. I was seeing a double feature, and the other film was about espionage. Sometimes I think I might do well as a spy, though I am poor at unravelling codes, and can never remember anything without writing it down. But I am awfully good at creeping around suspiciously and casting pregnant glances at strangers. Any offers from enemy governments? Or shall I become a television engineer after all?

TUESDAY: The papers tell me that after the House of Commons had voted on the Bill to confirm the Queen's title as Queen of Canada the members burst spontaneously into the National Anthem. I have heard these spontaneous uproars before, and while they speak well for the singers' hearts they are a trial to the musical ear. Yet this habit of singing is growing on our Commons; it is only a year or two since they sang "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow" in honour of somebody-or-other, and with Mr. Donald Gordon's wedding coming in the spring further music may confidently be expected; I should not be surprised if the four party leaders did not practise—

Hark, the echoing air a triumphs sings,
And all around, pleased cupids clap their wings—

for the occasion. Now, if the Commons is becoming a glee-club, it needs an instrument to accompany its performances, and I disagree with those who want to put a fine Casavant organ on the right of the Speaker's chair. A miniature piano would do very well. Black Rod could rush it in when music was imminent, and for an extra $5 a time one of the Hansard reporters could be asked to play it. Let's not be ostentatious.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: This evening, for the first time in weeks, I was able to listen to the CBC's Wednesday Night programs, and as I did so I was increasingly weighed down by the portentous and unctuous quality of the commentary, both in writing and delivery. The music was good, but the talk was designed to frighten the listener into respectful acceptance. I don't know why culture always affects Canadian radio in this fashion; it is a solemn, sugary degeneration—a sort of diabetes of the mind—which afflicts us when in the presence of Greatness or Sublimity. There was a piece about Hans Christian Andersen which I think I would have liked if I could have read it, but I had to listen to it, delivered in a weepy, fey, phoney style which set my teeth on edge. The CBC has this voice, and it also has a doom-filled voice, a country-jake, folksy voice, and an archly comic voice. But it has no voice which is suited to the serious, but not ponderous, discussion of important things. The trouble is, I think, that Brains and Voice are different departments in radio; the man who writes a piece rarely reads it on the air; it is given to somebody whose talent, if any, is in his larynx. The effect is jejune or, if you prefer the term, half-baked.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: Was looking at some records today belonging to a friend who collect oddities for the gramophone, and was interested in a series called "Immortal Voices and History Making Events." It was an odd jumble, but I found a record of Sarah Bernhardt reciting a Prayer for Our Enemies, and put it on. Amid the rustling and scratching inseparable from old recordings there was barely audible a passionate, female voice, speaking — or to be exact, howling — in French. In the descriptive note which went with the thing Sarah Bernhardt was described as "a great lady of the American stage," and thus France was robbed of one of its glories. The U.S. and the U.S.S.R. between them are dividing not only the earth, but the past thereof.

✧ ✧ ✧

FRIDAY: To the theatre tonight and sat behind a man who had hives, or St. Vitus' dance, or some other restless complaint. A few weeks ago it was my task to read to a small child a book by a writer named Enid Blyton, whose work I had not previously known, and whose other books I feel no urge to seek; this one was about a restless, bounding little creature called the Fairy Bobabout. I had never expected to sit behind the Fairy Bobabout in a theatre, but there was F.B., right ahead. I heard people behind me muttering, and such scraps of conversation reached me as "I wish he'd keep still," "Do you think we could change our seats" and more to the same effect. Thinking that they too were annoyed with F.B. I turned and grinned my agreement at them, to be greeted with stony glares and sniffs. And then the horrible truth dawned upon me that as Bobabout jumped to the right, I had jumped to the left, and vice versa, to avoid him, and thus, to the people behind me I was no better than he! I Was BOBABOUT! This so unnerved me that for the rest of the evening I sat crunched up in one arthritic posture, tense with shame.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: Again to the theatre; this week I have lived only for pleasure. I heard Emlyn Williams in his celebrated readings from Dickens, and it was unquestionably the finest thing I have known in the theatre in years. Two youths in their teens sat behind me. "There's a small click reads Dickens," said one; "nobody else does, any more." "Yep," said his friend; "I never read a word by him; have you?" "Nope," said the first speaker; "got no time; you have to have time for that stuff." But as the evening progressed Yep and Nope fell more and more under its spell, and I would not be surprised if they peeped into a volume of Dickens some day. But what do they do, that consumes all their time? What is more important than finding out what great men have thought about life? There is nothing—nothing at all—which one does not enjoy more and do better if one has read what one's intellectual superiors have written about it. Yep and Nope laughed and gasped and hung upon the words of the reader eagerly, and applauded uproariously; I hope he persuaded them to do some reading on their own account. For me, I have never known Dickens' genius to be more gloriously illuminated.

The Banning Bug

(BRANTFORD EXPOSITOR)

ONLY the other day this newspaper sided solidly with a Brant County farmer who wrote in to point out that the agrarians were not living on Easy Street and off the fat of the land, but had their financial worries like most other people. From this and many an earlier reference it will not be taken that what we have to say next is irresponsibly or mischievously "anti-farmer." As a matter of fact, if one looks far and deep enough, he will find that it has less to do with farmers, as such, than the latter may at first think.

The reference is to the request of the Ontario Agricultural Council for legislation that would "protect" (a handy but not entirely appropriate word) Ontario's cheese and sugar beet industries from synthetic products.

In the matter of the sugar beet business there are grounds for the demand, at least in some degree. It would be a pity to have beet growers ruined by foreign importations that are the output of disgracefully cheap labour. But when it comes to a sweeping demand for immediate passing of laws to prohibit the manufacture and sale of synthetic dairy products in Ontario "other than margarine," an important principle is involved. It is probable that the same Council would not even make the exception in the case of margarine unless it had to! It was almost scandalous that, for three decades or so, margarine was unconstitutionally kept from the Canadian market, although the blame for that lies with careless legislators and an indifferent or unalert public. As it is, the Agricultural Council has the effrontery to ask that margarine be put on a quota basis and that manufacturers be permitted to use only oils originating in Ontario.

If what is sauce for the goose is to be sauce for the gander, the Council may find the application of its narrow rule operating ultimately to the injury rather than the aid of farmers. Carry such prohibitions and restrictions far enough and the people of Ontario, farmers as well as city dwellers would find themselves denied many articles and products they are now free to buy.

Moreover, if it is right for any one group to seek and secure "protection" to the extent of impeding scientific development and progress, it should be equally permissible for others to do the same. For instance, if we accept this notion, why should not newspapers be "protected" by having governments prohibit ban and abolish magazines, books, radio and television or anything else that might be considered competitive with newspapers? Why should not the cotton and woollen trades be protected within the textile industry by the banning of all materials, such as nylon, etc., that take the place of or can be used as suitable substitutes for cotton and wool?

The argument for prohibiting synthetic dairy products or any other synthetics is basically feeble. Pursued even to the length indicated in this editorial, it reduces itself to an absurdity.

Those interested should get rid of what may be called the banning bug and concentrate, instead, on turning out produce of such superior quality that it will continue to take precedence over any competitive substance, synthetic or otherwise.

Letter To The Editor

TEN CENT GOLD MINE

Sir: The Examiner recently reported that some civic employees feared that 10c a mile allowance for the use of their private cars on city business—was not enough.

Knowing that our old friend Arithmetic is always ready to give a reliable answer—we called on him for the figures for our own Canadian-made car—bought new four years ago.

Miles travelled	32,480
Gallons gasoline used	1,891
Mileage a gallon outside city	20.4
Mileage a gallon inside city	15.5
Total costs:
1,891 gallons gasoline at 42c	$ 794.00
81 quarts oil at 45c	36.45
Licenses	48.00
Insurance at 1952 rate	150.00
Actual repairs and spare parts	324.00
Depreciation	1,070.00
Total	$2,422.90
Average cost a mile inside city	7.7c
Average cost a mile outside city	7.06c

A typical English car giving 38 miles a gallon outside the city and 29 miles a gallon in the city — would give corresponding figures:

1,000 gallons gasoline	$ 420.00
60 quarts oil	27.00
Insurance	150.00
Licenses	48.00
Repairs and parts	324.00
Depreciation	863.00
	$1,832.00
Average cost a mile inside city	5.8c
Average cost a mile outside city	5.3c

When one considers the facts:

A—Depreciation and licenses cost the same—whether or not one uses one car on city business.

B—Most cars in use were bought second-hand and would have correspondingly lower depreciation.

It does seem too bad that we can't all go digging in that nice little gold mine—named "Ten Cents a Mile."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Paul, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the commandment of God our Saviour, and Lord Jesus Christ, which is our hope; unto Timothy, my own son in the faith Grace, mercy, and peace, from God our Father and Jesus Christ our Lord. As I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus, when I went into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge some that they teach no other doctrine, neither give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which minister questions, rather than godly edifying which is in faith: so do . . .

This charge I commit unto thee, son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war a good warfare. (I Tim. 1: 1-4, 18.)

✧ ✧ ✧

I exhort therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men . . . For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour; who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth. (I Tim. 2: 1, 3, 4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thou therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also . . .

Consider what I say: and the Lord give thee understanding in all things . . . Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth. (II Tim. 2: 1, 2, 7, 15.)

Threat To Swiss Cheese

(New York Herald Tribune)

There is much food for thought in the government's decision to alter the minimal size of the holes in Swiss cheese. For the benefit of any Camembert adherents who may have missed the news of this startling action, it may be recalled that the agriculture department has ruled that Swiss-cheese holes may now measure half an inch in diameter, as opposed to the previous minimum of three-quarters of an inch. This means, of course, more cheese to the olive, but it also means less hole to the bite, and it is here that cheese connoscenti find cause for alarm.

Kawartha Literary Pioneers: X

Mrs. S. Moodie Founded Victoria Magazine 1847 To Induce Polite Taste Here

By E. C. GUILLET

The cultural influence exerted by the literary works of these pioneers is intensified in a venture of the Moodies in 1847-48. For some time Mrs. Moodie had been contributing prose and verse to the Montreal Literary Garland, and she expressed the hope that the Victoria Magazine would not be a competitor of the Garland but rather "a Cheap Periodical for the Canadian People."

On behalf of Joseph Wilson, "the sole proprietor and publisher," the Address to the Public expressed the hope that the larger public of those who habitually read only newspapers would be reached and permeated with a taste for general literature. Philosophical or scientific studies were restricted to the few, she observed, but many others might appreciate less abstruse literary material, and for these the Victoria Magazine was intended.

READING FOR REFLECTION

Both urban and rural residents, it was hoped, would support the publication, for while most early settlers seemed to be very busy, there was an undoubted need for culture. While townspeople might seem more up-to-the-minute from their more frequent contacts, observed Mrs. Moodie, yet rural residents, handicapped by less frequent social intercourse, were often more reflective because of their solitary habits. "A little reading with much reflection," continues the Address, "is better than much reading with little reflection"; and the farmer should be a reading man and make books his everyday companions, for he must educate himself.

In order to practise "rigid economy," only gratuitous contributions were to be published, and they promised their best if accorded sufficient patronage. "It is a happy circumstance," conclude the editors, "when the interests of individuals coincide with the interests of mankind"; and with hope and courage they express their belief that "the surest way to obtain is to deserve success."

It was natural that much of the content of the magazine was from the pens of the Stricklands. Some of Agnes's poems, as well as her essays or selections from her books, were reprinted, and Mrs. Moodie and her husband provided much of the rest. But there were contributions from others like "R.A.P."—Rhoda Anne Page of Cobourg—whose verse was considered "chaste and elegant."

"LIBERAL PATRONAGE"

Book reviews, editorials, and comment on correspondence, interspersed with essays and poetry, make up each issue of the monthly and at the close of the year the editors expressed their thanks for "liberal patronage." They hoped to induce "a taste for polite literature among the working classes," and stated that the mental improvement of the masses is "the object nearest our hearts." They believed that "a circulation of talents" had been achieved through the magazine.

While they had tried to avoid politics and other controversial subjects, their opinions, they realized, might seem too liberal for many readers; yet "as the mists of prejudice clear away, . . . some may think that we did not go far enough." They had not been long finding out that "it is only the very worthless who have no enemies," but it was clear that books had a way of living long after detractors were forgotten. While it was hoped to recommence publication of the Victoria Magazine in January, 1849, after a few weeks' interval, the Moodies' notable literary venture was not resumed.

MRS. MOODIE

The contributions of Mrs. Moodie to the magazine were, of course, numerous. Among her prose are the following: "Scenes in Canada" (excerpts from Roughing It in the Bush), "Account of a Hurricane in Douro, August 19th, 1837," "Papers on Practical Jokes," "Rachel Wilde" (a novel), and "Education the True Wealth of the World."

Six compositions in verse are also included, two of which, "Canada" and "The Spirit of Spring," have a Canadian flavour. Mrs. Moodie had a flair for psycho-analysis, as is apparent in her poem, "The Light of His Soul Has Departed," which, she said, was suggested by "the madness of the great composer, Donnizetti, who constantly affirmed that he was dead."

MR. MOODIE

T. W. Dunbar Moodie contributed a simflar number of prose and verse compositions. One essay, "South Africa and Its Inhabitants," was a reprint of part of one of his books, and another was eneitled "The Advantages of Being Ugly." Some of his verse is from the Norse, and but little of any of it relates to Canada. Numerous epigrams, riddles, and charades were composed by him. One essay, "The Hunter's Glen," was contributed by Mrs. Traill, and her verses on the death of William Rubidge in 1843 — "The Father to his Dead Son" — were reprinted in the magazine.

Altogether the Victoria Magazine, short as its life was, must have contributed greatly to the enjoyment and culture of its readers. Like the Literary Garland and the Anglo-American, to both of which Mrs. Moodie and Mrs. Traill contributed extensively, it supplemented the press as an outlet for the literary productions of the educated minority. The cruder aspects of pioneering were leavened and softened through the interests and efforts of those whose background in Britain had been on a more cultured plane.

SET THE TONE

The great and near great whose lives and writings have been described in these chapters were by no means alone in their higher interests, for we find numerous others as well as frequent anonymous contributors to magazines and the contemporary press; but these set the tone and were the leaders of thought and culture in the old Newcastle District, and we know of no Canadian region which can approach "the Back Lakes" in either the amount or the quality of literary leadership.

A number of other literary people in or near this region have been omitted from this book. Rhoda Anne Page and Frederick Rubidge, of Cobourg, have been treated separately. William Telford of Smith Township, born in Scotland in 1828, came to Canada in 1850 and had a local reputation among Scots in the 'seventies and 'eighties, though most of his verse is highly defective, as anyone may see from The Poems of Williaim Telford (Peterborough, 1887).

OTHER CONTRIBUTORS

George Coventry of Cobourg and Caroline Hayward, near Port Hope, contributed verse, much of it patriotic, to the press. James Wicks Dunsford of the Bobcaygeon district wrote considerable lengthy verse and a historical novel, "The State Messengers," which appeared in the Peterborough Gazette in 1845-46.

Dr. Samuel P. Ford, of Peterborough and Norwood, was a poet of some note whose work first appeared in the Waverly Magazine, Boston. Dr. James Haskins came to Canada in 1834 and settled in the Belleville district, at Frankfort on the Trent River.

Mrs. Moodie wrote verses "To the Memory of Dr. Huskins," who, she says, died of over-drinking, "heartbroken and alone" in a log hut "on the borders of the wilderness." "A new country," she observed, "where all are rushing eagerly forward to secure the common necessaries of life, is not a favourable soil in which to

IN THE FOURTH ARTICLE of his series on Kawartha Literary Pioneers, Mr. Guillet referred to Thomas Carr's description of the Indian method of spearing fish through the ice. Mr. E. E. Brumwell, 5 Hilliard Street, and an old-time resident of Peterborough north, brought into The Examiner office the two items Thomas Carr described 110 years ago. Above is the photograph of the iron three-pronged spear without handle) and hand-made, hand-cloured small wooden minnow used as a decoy. It has, as Carr described, "a piece of lead inserted to make it sink about three or four feet deep." Mr. Brumwell says that these articles have been around his house as long as the house has been around them—which is a long while.

St. Valentine and the Heart's Flutter

"Be My Valentine." The expression and wish go back beyond great-grandmother's day, as the engravings here reproduced indicate. The old-fashioned little ladies are not specifically Valentine cards, but St. Valentine would have approved.

They come from an old scrapbook fondly kept by the wife of the Reverend Mark Burnham who was born in Cobourg in 1804, only son of the Hon. Zaccheus Burnham. The Rev. Mark Burnham took charge of St. John's church, Peterborough, in 1852, bringing with him his wife Helen Bostwick of St. Thomas to which he had ministered from 1828.

The demure little girls of more than a century ago sighed and giggled on St. Valentine's day, and their older sisters and brothers took the opportunity, as they do today, to exchange, with bashful anonymity love-missiles in the name of the Saint.

The lads and lassies of all ages who exchange Valentines today probably won't give a thought to the origin of the ancient tradition.

But the comic cards exchanged by the school-children, and the more expensive gifts sent and received by their elders as tokens of affection, are symbols of an old custom.

There were several saints called Valentine, but historians have settled on one as being most closely connected with the day. This is the St. Valentine who was beheaded in Rome on Feb. 14, A. D. 270.

He is said to have been a matchmaker who secretly heard the marriage vows of young lovers defying wartime marriage by Roman soldiers. That is said to be the reason for his execution at Rome's Flaminium Gate.

HISTORIC VALENTINE

In any event, the day has been observed in many countries for many centuries. One of the oldest Valentines known is preserved in the British museum—it was written by the French Duke of Orleans to his wife while he was imprisoned in the Tower of London after the Battle of Agincourt in 1415.

St. Valentine himself never wrote any love songs and he'd turn over in his grave if he could see some of the comic verse that loads the mailman down now. But Charles Lamb called him "the great immortal go-between," and under his banner sentimental love has blossomed for centuries.

The cards nowadays are not so lush as in earlier years, but there's still plenty of the lace-trimmed sentimental type that always attract attention. Along with them go a host of Valentine presents, chiefly candy and flowers, but ranging upwards in expense and variety to suit all purses.

Your Garden:

"One Year's Seeds Mean Seven Years' Weeds"—or More

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

Did you know that orchid seeds are so small that 30,000 of them weigh scarcely as much as a grain of wheat? This surprising fact will mean little more than a raised eyebrow to the back yard gardener.

But when he asks, "Why does grass seed cost so much?" he will understand when told that one pound of bluegrass seed contains more than two million seeds, while approximately 12 million seeds are required to make a pound of creeping bent seed.

Incidentally, because of its scarcity and minuteness, African violet seed, next to that of the hybrid orchid, is the most valuable. Dr. Milton Carleton, head of research for a seed company, reports that the value of African violets grown and sold in this country last year is within $1,000 of all the apple trees grown in nurseries.

"Count to 10 before you complain," continues Dr. Carleton, for the old adage, "one year's seeds mean seven years' weeds," may have to be revised to cover more time.

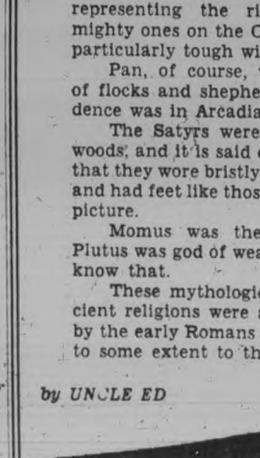
Home gardeners, who frequently complain that seedsmen have supplied weed seed instead of the flower or vegetable seed ordered, fail to appreciate how long weed seeds can survive under several inches of soil. Because a particular weed hasn't been known in the garden for several years, they argue the only source was the seed packet in question.

In 1880, Professor Beal at Michigan State College buried flasks containing seeds of several common weeds to test how long they would survive. The seeds outlived Dr. Beal.

Dug up every ten years, three of the original species buried still are alive. Black mustard and water smartweed germinated when dug up after 50 years, but did not grow on the last test.

Still surviving were mullein, curly dock, and night-flowering catchfly. Crabgrass and plantain survived for 30 years.

Kentucky Bluegrass, formerly known as greensward or simply as bluegrass, was first introduced into Pennsylvania from Europe by William Penn and eventually found its way westward. In the Bluegrass State, some varieties of the famous grass became extremely popular as a permanent pasture forage.



Continuing its way westward, bluegrass was probably brought by the immigrants either for seeding purposes or by accident. The date of the first introduction in the western states will probably never be known.

The bluegrass, northern in origin, ranges far into the Arctic Circle and has migrated from those regions to the temperate zones. Thus, bluegrass is adapted to climates varying from valley bottoms to high elevations.

GARDENING QUESTIONS

Q—We raise sunflower plants for seed for the birds to eat during the winter. If we allow the heads to mature in the field the birds strip them. If we harvest them and store them up in our barn where it is dry and well ventilated they mildew. What suggestion do you have?

Weed seeds can fool you by surviving for many years under several inches of soil.

FABULOUS FINDINGS

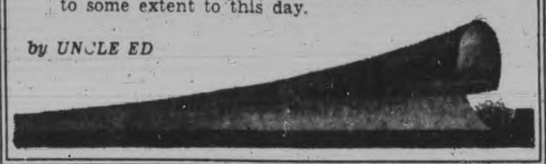
Muses, etc.

Among Grecian divinities were the nine Muses, daughter of Jupiter and Mnemosyne (Memory). Calliope was the muse of epic poetry, Clio of history, Euterpe of lyric poetry, Melpomene of tragedy, Terpsichore of the dance and song, Erato of love potry, Polyhymnia of sacred poetry, Urania of astronomy, and Thalia of comedy.

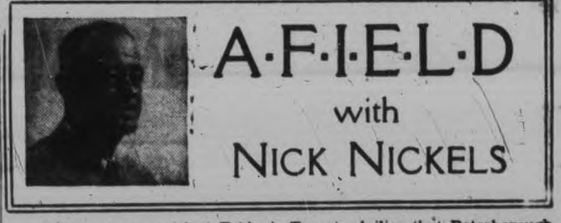
Then there were the three Graces, who presided over social enjoyments and elegant arts, Euphrosyne, Aglaia and Thalia. Three Fates, Clotho, Lachesis and Atropos, spun the thread of human destiny, snipping it off with shears at will! The nerve of them. They were daughters of Themis (Law), who sits by Jove to give him counsel.

Then there were the Erinys or Furies, named Alecto, Tisiphone and Megaera. With heads wreathed in serpents, these goddesses punished by stings the crimes of those who escaped or defied public justice.

Nemesis was also an avenging goddess, representing the righteous anger of those mighty ones on the Olympian heights. She was particularly tough with the proud and insolent.



Pan, of course, was the music-loving god of flocks and shepherds, and his favorite residence was in Arcadia.



The Satyrs were deities of the fields and woods, and it is said on fairly reliable authority that they wore bristly hair, horns on their heads, and had feet like those of goats. Hardly a pretty picture.

Momus was the god of laughter, while Plutus was god of wealth. Any plutocrat should know that.

These mythological Grecian figures of ancient religions were accepted to a large extent by the early Romans and are often remembered to some extent to this day.

An item in one of last Friday's Toronto dailies that Peterborough and Bobcaygeon will have booths in the travel section of the Canadian National Sportsmen's Show needs correction.

From a report of the Peterborough Chamber before me it seems very doubtful that they will be able to participate at all. Nor if their fortunes do not take an immediate turn for the better there will be no Kawartha district folders for distribution, either.

In 1952 the folder printing alone, not counting mailing and distribution costs, were approximately $1,500. Some money was recouped but a $900 deficit was left.

In the same year the booth at the Cleveland Sportsmen's Show went into the red for about $550.

The total of these two losses—roughly $1,500—was whittled down through the year to somewhere in the neighbourhood of $720.

Chambers in other cities have found it necessary to ask for city aid and the Peterborough counterpart canvassed 35 like bodies in the 35,000 to 200,000 population class and find that the average annual grants are $2,919. Kingston put up $2,500; Oshawa, $2,000; Kitchener, $7,500, to quote a few figures.

What have these centres got that Peterborough hasn't had for years and years? It is to be hoped that the city's finance committee takes the skate strap off their bundle and helps the Chamber out of its dilemma.

County officials have already seem the wisdom of lending their financial assistance with a $200 grant. The tallest stack of tourist dollars is spent in the city, so . . .

The first fishing tackle catalogue to remind us that spring and summer are not far off arrived today. It is James Heddon's deluxe edition jam-packed with all sorts of gear for the great sport. Rods, baits and reels—they are offering their own Spin Pal spinning outfit for the first time.

Heddon's devote pages to such useful subjects as Care of Tackle, Filming Fishing Trips, Fishing Tips and 18 illustrated pages of popular salt and fresh water sport fish. The loose-leaf picture of a small-mouth bass ready for framing is worth four times the price of the catalogue which may be had for two bits. Worth sending for, I would say.

Fifty members of the district's first 4H Forestry Club—Lakefield District High School—will meet at the school on Feb. 23. It is being operated jointly by the departments of Agriculture and Lands and Forests and their main project this year will be the planting of 10 acres of seedling trees. Tentative arrangements have been made by directors John Bell and Ken Best with the C.G.E. to plant in the vicinity of the Nassau ski hill.

Skiers need not become excited and feel that their fairway is to be obstructed, directors say, because (if there is ever sufficient snow any more) this area will be tree-free. A mechanical planter will be used for a short period.

Dawn Patrol

Each morning as I leave home for work the family pooch has to be coaxed back into the porch and imprisoned. She would like to follow me to the Bridge.

I haven't taken many steps when cocky black-and-tan Laddie joins me. Rheumy Bonny the Elder would like to tag along but barks at us from his doorway, instead. Presently, Nigger, an awkward black retriever, bounds down through the trees to lead the procession. Two little mongrels with long tails fall in just before pure-bred cocker Moppsie makes his appearance.

Bonny the Younger barks defiance from her lawn but lets us pass. Bud, the old white mastiff, and his pal Sergeant from the Store, shuffle into view.

Now they are seven.

There are few trees, shrubs, fence posts and nigger heads along the Canal that members of my bodyguard don't stop to investigate and leave calling cards at. The Reeve's Dalmatian is the last dog to join my sniffling, snuffling, curious convoy. We have come to the Highway and the squadron scatters.

I wait for the bus and watch the formation wheel for home. It follows the beam persistently to the same landmarks that it visited a few minutes before. It disappears from sight 'round a bend in the River, for another raid on DOGPATCH.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

As a reminder that it's only two weeks till the first spring month arrives, the Ontario Baseball Association announces the annual meeting in Simcoe on March 20-21. Nominations for officers and proposed changes in rules must be sent to the secretary by Feb. 28. He is T. W. Rowdon, 1 Geneva St., St. Catharines. One suggestion made so far is that for cities of more than 15,000 population be required to play senior "B." OBA announces the reinstatement of Maurice Reid of Chatham — remember the Lefty Reid who used to pitch softball here? — as well as these Kingston chaps, who are presently playing hockey for the K's: Ken Partis, Ken Potts, Ed Plumb and Rawlind Aiken. Local club should get busy soon with its re-organization.

Kingston's Mike Rodden (who boasts an elephantine memory) recalls a puck game played here no less than 39 years ago. Mike, as a lad, was borrowed from Queen's to round out the seven-man Frontenacs in that tilt. He tells of "a colored left-winger named Kelly ran unchecked and blasted no less than 11 goals past the unfortunate Kingston cageman in the 17-5 game. Kelly might have approached Steve Vair's all-time record of 188 goals in one game if one of the Kingstonians hadn't grown so tired of such nonsense that he bodychecked the sharpshooter out of circulation and almost precipitated a riot. Frontenacs did not meet the Petes again that 1914 season and were thus deprived of the opportunity to avenge such ill treatment." We've heard that Kelly (the Negro with the Irish monicker) was a chauffeur here then and almost turned white whenever he had to drive over either of the long floating bridges at Pigeon or Chemong Lakes.

Losers Still Playing?

Orillia Pontiacs are out of the senior "B" race now but have hopes of going places in the suggested OHA runners-up competition. They figure the plan will call for senior "A" and "B" and the intermediate "A" losers to mix it up together in the consolation series in what might be termed the "C" senior championship of Ontario. (Incidentally, officials in Orillia say that the fine new Community Centre would be behind the financial eight-ball this season only for the senior puck squad.) No doubt the OHA will work out something for the runners-up, as there's gold in them thar refills!

* * * * * *

Nothing much wrong with that senior "B" puck tilt here last e'en, huh? A goodly gallery enjoyed it thoroughly, and the place should be packed when Belleville Glens and the Petes tangle here Monday. On account of the local's 5-2 win over Kingston last night puts Petes just half a game back of the Glens. Yep, we've got 23 points now while Belleville has but 24, and Kingston isn't too far in front with 26. But time is fast running out, and Jim Ellis' charges have to keep this hot pace up for two more games—the one here Monday and one in Kingston next Friday. We think they've caught fire in the last two weeks and will roar right into the group playoffs. Certainly no team in the group could have beaten them on what they showed in the last two periods last gloaming.

Petes Finish Strong

A speedy, clean joust, with the Petes finishing considerably stronger to nearly skate the tired K's off their feet. Only Goalie Ken Johnson kept the score from being several goals higher in favor of the hungry Petes. Some of Army's shattering bodychecks didn't help their condition any, either. All four local defencemen (Gus is good wherever you put him) turned in a bang-up performance, and our forwards got rolling in the last two heats to play dandy two-way hustling hockey. While Monty and Floyd led in scoring, the sniping was well spread around, and the whole crew clicked well. If they don't let up a bit for another week, they're in the dough blows But it's going to be a mighty close fit either way.

* * * * * *

Basketballs bounced off a bunch of backboards around here last evening. Let's see what transpired. Port Hope senior and junior girls didn't do right by our Nells from the Collegiate in a twin bill. But PCVS senior and junior boys trimmed Oshawa Central to move along the playoff trail. SPS lads tried four jousts but only the midgets triumphed as they took Collegiate. St. Mike's seniors and juniors won their game, and Whitby took a junior verdict against St. Peter's. The Kenner OABA bantams were victorious, while Kenner Rams won from PCVS, but Oshawa Central grabbed a junior "B" decision against their rivals from Kenner. Toronto Central "Y" seniors have a game tonight with male Marines at St. Peter's gym.

AT AN ADVANTAGE POINT—PCVS senior Garnet and Grey guard Murray Grafstein seems to have climbed up Oshawa Central's Yeo's (28) leg for a good look at the ball sinking through the hoop. But actually the stocky guard is coming down after a shot and the ball is partly seen next to Yeo's hip. The Collegians remained undefeated with a 55-46 victory.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

PCVS Seniors And Juniors End Schedules Undefeated

PCVS' Garnet and Grey seniors and juniors advanced into the lakeshore district basketball finals Friday night as they finished the group schedules undefeated. Bev Goulding's seniors finished strong in the second half to squeeze out a 55-46 win over Oshawa Central, while Zoltan Temesy's juniors romped to a 47-27 win over Central. The Garnet and Grey OABA bantams turned the tables on Gord Johnston's Kenner bantams in a low-scoring game 24-13. But in the opening preliminary the collegiate's chances for a perfect night were spoiled when the Kenner Rams, coached by Norm Erskine, won the district lakeshore bantam group with a 39-30 victory.

Goulding's seniors nearly tasted their first defeat. Central early in the first quarter jumped to a seven-point lead and then settled at quarter 12-7 and kept that lead 24-18 at the half.

But Bob Allen and Dave Langhorne led the Garnet and Grey to a comeback in the third quarter and they tied the score 37-all at three-quarters. Central tired quickly in the fourth and PCVS quickly grabbed the lead.

LED THE SNIPERS

Central's Varga led the scoring with 17 points while PCVS' best were Dave Langhorne and Dan Griffin each with 10.

The seniors will now play a home-and-home points-to-count series with Cobourg High for the lakeshore championship, beginning next Tuesday in Cobourg.

Without two stars, Robert and Keeting, the Garnet and Grey juniors had an easier game than expected with Central. They'll now play Pickering High in a two-game series total points for the lakeshore honors, beginning next Friday at PCVS.

Led by Doug Ash, the juniors easily picked up a 15-6 first quarter score and then coasted to the win. They led 23-16 at the half and then 37-22 at three-quarters, with Central never threatening.

HIGH SCORERS

Ash and Courneya took the scoring honors in the junior game with 17 and 12 points respectively.

The Garnet and Grey OABA bantams appeared off to a convincing win in the first quarter when led by Hendry, they took a 7-0 score. But Kenner came back on five points by Darling to tie the score eight-all at the half.

But in the third the PCVS quintet hit their first quarter stride again, and again took a lengthy lead, 17-10 at three-quarters. They added to that lead in the fourth while Kenner's best was three points Hendry's 1st quarter spree helped him lead the scorers with 10 points.

Norm Erkine's Kenner Rams were taking no chances in losing their first game in group play. For in the first quarter, led by Drury with eight points, the Rams took command 12-2.

PCVS had a chance to catch up in the second quarter as the Rams scored only three points but the best the Garnet and Grey could muster was four. The Rams found the range again in the third and went further ahead 24-16.

The fourth quarter was the best, PCVS made a determined rally to win but Drury for a second time kept the Rams out of danger with a scoring spree.

Drury's two outbursts easily made him tops in scoring with 18.

TWO-TIME WINNER — Seventy-three-year-old Peter Gilbert, who skipped a rink to the Ontario Curling Association championship in 1949, is the skip of the Chatham foursome representing Ontario in the Canadian championship which begins March 2 at Sudbury. Two of Mr. Gilbert's sons are members of his rink. One of them, Gordon, plays fourth rocks—normally shot by the skip. Mr. Gilbert shoots the lead stones and holds the broom from then on.

PCVS Lasses Defeated By Port Hope

Friday 13 brought bad luck for PCVS girls' basketball teams in Port Hope. Audrey Hustwitt's Garnet and Grey quintette fell to the strong Port Hope High seniors 17-9 while Mabel Gillen's junior lasses tasted their first defeat, 11-10, at the hands of the Port Hope girls.

Port Hope took a three-point lead in the first quarter, jumping ahead 4-1, and from there in were always in front. They went up 9-5 at the half and then 11-5 at three-quarters. In a thrilling fourth, the Garnet and Grey rallied with a strong offence but their shots were off the mark.

Port Hope's Thompson almost single-handedly defeated the Collegiate colleens, sinking 12 points. Maureeen Fletcher and Joan Naish went well on the PCVS guard line while Janet Collins and Marilyn Vint paced the forwards.

A GOOD GAME

Once again the junior game was the nights' best. In a close-checking duel the lead changed several times with the Port Hope girls ahead 3-2 at the first quarter and then PCVS ahead 5-3 at the half. But the Port Hope girls finished stronger to take the decision.

There were no individual standouts in scoring on either team as Port Hope's Scully won the scoring honors with a low of five. Pat Collins was PCVS' best along the guard line while Bernice Callan and Maisie Shearer were the pick of the forwards.

Lineups:

Senior game—Port Hope High (17)—Thompson 12, Kearns 4, Yates, Austin, Tinney, Cunningham, Haultain 1, Austin, Martin.

PCVS (9)—Collins 3, Cutmore, Dobson, Fletcher, Hayward, McIlraith, Naish, Nixon, Pollock 1, Revill, Thomson 2, Vint 3.

HAILEYBURY (CP)—Carl Horner's Noranda rink Friday night defeated Englehart's D. Paterson to take the Taylor Trophy, first of six competitions to be decided in the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario annual bonspiel. Finals of other events will be played today.

Petes Keep In Playoff Hunt With Win Over Kingston In Streamlined Senior Tilt

Fighting savagely to stay in the race for an OHA senior "B" group playoff berth here last night, the Petes clawed out a 5-2 decision over Kingston Goodyears before some 1,600 fans. The win put the Ellis squad just half a game back of Belleville Glens, who play here Monday in the locals' second last contest of the current schedule. It was strictly Friday 13th for the Goodyears and, especially in the third period, they felt like checking on the rampaging Petes to see if they carried insurance or laying a claim for hit-and-run damages with the Unsatisfied Judgment Fund. The homesters skated them into the ice in furious fashion the last half. It was 1-0 for Peterborough in the initial inning and 3-2 for them as they broke a 2-all deadlock in the second. They pitched home two without a return in the third and were robbed of several more by Goalie Ken Johnson.

LED POINT-GETTERS—Keith Montgomery, left, and Don Floyd led the Petes' point-getters here last night, each being in on two goals, as the locals earned a 5-2 senior puck decision over Kingston to keep right in the thick of the race for a playoff berth. A win over Belleville here Monday would vault them over the Glens by half a game.

FAST SHINNY

Play was streamlined shinny in the first frame, but settled away to fast, smart hockey in the last two chukkers. It was quite clean all the way, the Petes drawing three minor penalties and Kingston's Bob Londry a minor and a misconduct, but neither team scored when the other was shorthanded. The goaltending was first rate on both sides, and the Petes had an edge defensively as well as on the attack. They outhustled their classy opponents by a good margin in the last half and the Goodyears looked tired through the third. The winners had one goal called back on them for offside.

The scoring was well spread around for the victors, singles being notched by Keith Montgomery, Ted Collins, Bert Hill, Dean Wasson and Freddy Mortimer. In assists, Don Floyd led with two, as Montgomery, Morley Spiker, Bill Crowley and Chum Fryia each had one. Clint Tinkess and Jack McKeown scored for Kingston, an assist each going to John Myke, Don Murray, George McGregor and Joe Watts.

A CLOSE PERIOD

Hunter was winded early in the game but recovered. Gerow and later Tinkess were robbed by Harding as Kingston pressed for a space. Play was fast but rather disorganized with the K's having a margin for more than half the period. The Hill line came close on several occasions as play evened up later. At 13:40, Wasson took a pass back from Fryia and blasted a hard angle drive into the hemp from defence to make it 1-0. Gerow nearly notched one near the close of a penalty-free stanza.

Tinkess tied it early in the second on neat combination with Murray and Watts, Harding being out of the net after one save. Hill got that back within seconds on a speedy, smart three-way thrust right in with Crowley and Spiker. McKeown again tied it shortly from Myke and McGregor as they waltzed in on Harding without being checked for a nice marker. Hunter returned from a high-sticking penalty and Hill's goal was called back for offside. Mortimer came close but, with Londry away for tripping (plus a misconduct for arguing too hotly) the Petes failed to cash in, Johnson being tough to beat. Later, Collins took a passout from Montgomery on a play started by Floyd to backhand a bullet at the target and give the Ellis crew a 3-2 margin. Montgomery went over for hooking near the close.

HAD THE EDGE

Greenlaw twice almost tallied early in the third, and then Mortimer tipped in a hard angle shot by Floyd to make it 4-2. Londry and Collins almost tangled, as the Mortimer line kept boring in hard. Montgomery climbed the wall again for interference and Crowley was robbed before he returned. Wasson, Leonard, Crowley and Hill held the driving K's completely at bay and they didn't get a shot on goal in Montgomery's absence. The Petes poured in hard in the last part of the period and were thefted repeatedly at the goal-mouth, though Montgomery finally scored one more in a scramble, the puck caroming in off a defender. Teams:

Kingston: Goal, Johnson; defence, Watts and Londry; centre, Myke; wings, McGregor and McKeown, alternates, Nicholson, Stewart, Partis, White, Gerow, Murray, Ohlke and Tinkess.

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Armstrong and Montgomery; centre, Fryia; wings, Greenlaw and Hunter; alternates, Mortimer, Floyd, Collins, Hill, Crowley, Spiker, Leonard and Wasson.

Referee, J. Crombie; linesman, W. Flint.

Summary:

First Period

Petes—Wasson (Fryia) 13:40
No penalties.

Second Period

Kingston—Tinkess (Murray, Watts) 4:25
Petes—Hill (Crowley, Spiker) 4:32

Petes—Collins (Montgomery, Floyd) 16:27
Penalties—Hunter, Londry 2, Montgomery.

Third Period

Petes—Mortimer (Floyd) 3:29
Petes—Montgomery 13:00

Stirling Triumphs

STIRLING (ENS)—In a TVL tussle here, Stirling downed Point Anne by an 8-3 score. A fair-sized crowd saw a fast, classy contest on good ice. Barney Ingram suffered a possibly dislocated shoulder while playing for Stirling. Wright scored three as the home team led 4-1 in the first period, and Stirling outscored Point Anne 3-2 in the second, adding one more in the last stanza.

Stirling midgets hold a five-point lead over Marmora in the series for the district OMHA title.

Saints Salvage One In Four In Hoop Frays

Coach Johnny Lynh and his St. Peter's High basketball teams aren't superstitious but it will be a long time before they play games on Friday 13 again. The Saints attempted four games on Friday and only managed to salvage one win, that one by the midgets as they upset the league-leading PCVS quintet 47-33.

But in the games against St. Michael's College of Toronto the Saints lost 83-32 in the senior and 59-24 in the junior. The junior Saints also lost earlier in the day 46-33 to Whitby High.

The very convincing loss to St. Michael's seniors was anticipated by all. The Ontario Catholic Conference tournament champions ran roughshod over the badly outclassed Saints in the first half 48-19. Only Doug Galvin was effective against the Toronto quintet.

Then St. Michae'ls were checked more closely in the second half by the Saints, but still they easily ran the score up this time 35-13. Jack Richardson was the Saints' most effective player in that half.

Lynch with 10 field baskets topped all scorers with 20 points while teammate Matsalla had 16. The Saints' best were Galvin with nine and Richardson with eight.

Like in the senior game, the St. Michael's lads were fully expected to win and by a fairly large margin. The Saints managed to stay fairly close at the start, 16-10, but faded quickly as Waters and Chambers led the St. Michael's cagers to a crushing second quarter. That was the game.

St. Michael's distributed the points well with Nash, Flanagan, Callahan, Waters and Chambers the main scorers. Quinlan, Board and Killen were best for the Saints.

Dan Quinlan presented the Saints with their only win in the midget game. Playing his first basketball this year, Quinlan has been averaging about 15 points a game. Friday night he nearly doubled that figure, scoring no less than 29 out of his team's 47.

It was definitely Quinlan's game from the start. With four field baskets for eight points he led the Saints to a 12-9 first quarter score; they held that lead to 16-13 at the half.

Quinlan broke loose again in the third quarter for seven field baskets, 14 points, to put the Saints well out in front 35-24 at three-quarters. He continued to hit the hoop in the fourth as the Saints coasted in.

The Saints juniors were dropped out of the running for the lakeshore district championship when Whitby High won the second game of the home-and-home series 46-33. Whitby also won the first game earlier this week by seven points.

Whitby jumped to an early lead 14-7 in the first quarter and held it throughout, 24-17 at the half and 35-24 at three-quarters.

The Saints were continually troubled with the basket-hanging Barchuk who also was a stab-checker, often turning Saints' passing attacks into Whitby scoring plays. Barchuk sank 10 baskets for 20 poitns as leading scorer. Dave Quinlan did his best to keep the Saints in the game and series with 17 points.

Kenner Loses Out To Oshawa Cagers

Oshawa Central Collegiate's junior "B" basketball quintet rallied in the fourth quarter for 19 points Friday night to defeat Jack Cullis Kenner Collegiate juniors 47-40.

Ben Floyd kept Kenner only two points behind Central in the first quarter as he led the Kenner attack. But Central took advantage of foul shots to take a slim lead 8-6.

But Floyd was joined by Pearl in the second quarter and the Kenner lads tied the score 19-all at the half. Again Central relied mostly upon foul shots for their points.

In the third quarter the tables turned and this time the Kenner quintet took advantage of fouls to take the lead 29-28 at three-quarters. But in the fourth Central's Chestki, Brady and Kocho sank 19 points while Kenner's Floyd and Pearl added only 11. The Kenner cause was lost when Floyd was fouled out.

Floyd took the scoring honors with 23 points, followed by Pearl with 11.

WESTERN TRIMS QUEEN'S

KINGSTON (CP)—University of Western Ontario Mustangs extended their senior intercollegiate basketball winning streak to seven games Friday night by defeating Queen's University Golden Gaels 73-57. Doug McNichol paced the winners with 21 points on five field goals and 11 foul shots.

YUKON ERIC, above, who will team up with Larry Moquin against the Red Mask and Sky-Hi Lee next Wednesday at the Brock. It will be a tag team match and the combination of Moquin and Eric look plenty potent, although the Mask and Lee are a wily combination. The semi-final will feature Pat Flanagan versus Joe Christie, while the opener brings together Frank Valois against Frank Taylor.

'Spoilers' Upset Junior Marlies As Barrie Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts, mired deep in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A cellar, have assumed the role of "spoilers" in the nine-team circuit.

Friday night they upset the league-leading Toronto Marlboros 8-6 while Barrie Flyers were edging the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association Montreal Canadiens 3-2 and moving to within a point of the Dukes' top slot.

Guelph Biltmores defeated the JQAHA Quebec Citadelles 7-5 in another interlocking game while St. Catharines Teepees rallied to down Windsor Spitfires 2-1.

Graham Joyce, Gregg Hicks and Buddy Horne scored two goals each for the Greenshirt cause while Marc Boileau and Ken Collins added the others. Jerry James and Bill Harris notched a pair apiece for Marlboros. Wally Maxwell and Dave Reid shot singletons.

THREE SCORE

Orv Tessier, Don McKenney and Doug Mohns came through for Barrie in its important win while Phil Goyette and Doug Lilley were the Canadiens' scorers.

Jim Connelly tallied three times for Guelph while Bill Tonegusso came through twice. Danny Blair and Birley Dimma added singles. Camille Henry and Raymond Cyr sniped a pair each for Quebec. Jackie Leclerc collected the fifth goal.

Danny Poliziani and Billy Haas were the St. Catharines marksmen while Elmer Skov notched the lone Windsor goal.

Tonight Guelph moves into Oshawa while St. Michael's is at Galt. Sunday Quebec plays in Windsor while Montreal Canadiens meet Marlboros and Kitchener play St. Michael's in a Toronto twin bill. Montreal Royals visit Three Rivers in the JAHA.

Sarnia Tangled In OHA Cellar

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sarnia Sailors are hopelessly tangled near the bottom of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings. With less than a week of the regular schedule left, it appears as if they've lost all incentive to win.

Friday night at Stratford, the Sailors were drubbed 16-8 by the runner-up Indians, one of the season's most one-sided games, equalled only by Hamilton Tigers who have been able to salvage but two victories since the start of the schedule.

While Stratford was going through the motions to move within three points of the idle first-place Owen Sound Mercurys, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen consolidated their hold on third spot with a 4-2 win over the fifth-place Chatham Maroons.

Billy Flick scored four times for Stratford while Herve Dejordy sank three goals. Jackie White, Bill Walsh and Lloyd Ferguson potted two each. The others went to Mickey Roth, Denny Flanagan and Hugh Wilson. Mack Beaton tallied three times for Sarnia. Vern Gardner tallied twice while Tom Emms Al Lewsy and Haddy Haddon notched singles.

Weston Player Barred After Hitting Refs

TORONTO (CP) — Defenceman Kent Douglas of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior B Weston Dukes was automatically suspended Friday night after attacking the two officials during a game in suburban Weston.

Douglas had been given a major penalty for a fight with Brampton's John Slawson. He climbed out of the penalty box to attack the referees.

Weston won 5-2 from Brampton.

La Starza Aims At Title Bout

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Roland La Starza is aiming at a title shot with Rocky Marciano after his split decision over bullyboy Rex Layne in a rugged Madison Square Garden bout.

"I thought I beat Marciano the first time," said the 25-year-old New York heavyweight Friday night in his dressing room. "I feel he is easier than this guy (Layne)."

Jimmy De Angelo, La Starza's manager, led the "we want Marciano" chorus.

"They ducked us after they beat us on a split decision three years ago," he said. "Now we want that rematch."

Marciano must first defend his title against Jersey Joe Walcott at Chicago April 10. Roland and Jimmy both will be pulling for Marciano.

Scrap Tournament Of Middleweights

NEW YORK (AP)—The 11-man middleweight boxing tournament will be scrapped and a new two or three-man plan is to be offered today by Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York state athletic commission in joint action with the National Boxing Association.

Christenberry admitted the field had been narrowed to two or three after a telephone conversation Friday with George Barton, president of the NBA. He declined to name names until he has talked with Abe Green, NBA commissioner.

Jack Solomons, leading London promoter, visited Christenberry Friday, insisting that any bout involving Britain's Randy Turpin must be for the title vacated by Sugar Ray Robinson. Solomons took the stand that he didn't care whether it was Turpin-Bobo Olson or Turpin-Charles Humez as long as it was for the championship. He refused to enter Turpin in any eliminations.

Boston Girl 17 Leads In Women's Skating

DAVOS, Switzerland (AP)—Seventeen-year-old Tenley Albright of Boston, who overcame an attack of polio in 1947, held a comfortable lead Friday in the women's world figure skating championships.

If the pretty blonde senior of Manter Hall, Cambridge, Mass., continues her sparkling performance in the free skating Sunday, she can become the first American girl to win the world title.

After four of the six compulsory figures had been completed, Tenley was 10 points ahead of Gundi Busch, German champion, with 468.5 points to 548.5.

Valda Osborn of England, was third with 456.1, and Suzanne Morrow, 22, of Toronto, fourth with 450.7.

Marlene, Manley Win Fla. Mixed Foursomes

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Medalists Marlene Stewart, Fonthill, Ont., and Hobart Manley, Savannah, Ga., Friday won the mixed foursomes golf championship at the Everglades Club with a 1-up victory on the 19th hole over defending-champions Polly Riley of Ft. Worth, Tex., and J. Wolcott Brown, Manasquan, N.J.

Stewart-Manley were 1-up at the turn, shooting one-over-par golf with 36 for the first nine of the 6,129-yard Everglades Club course where par is 35-36—71. Miss Stewart and Manley won medalist honors with a 69.

Few Valentines Expected In Toronto-Canadiens Game

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

This may be St. Valentine's Day, but Dan Cupid won't get much business around Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens. Montreal Canadiens skate into town tonight for the season's second Saturday night clash against their arch-rival Maple Leafs. There is every indication the meeting could be one of the roughest of this five-game National Hockey League week-end.

The league-leading Detroit Red Wings hold a three-point edge over Montreal and the Canadiens will be driving hard to close the gap. The Leafs, tied for fourth with Boston Bruins, by winning could move into a third-place deadlock with Chicago Black Hawks.

Toronto has won four of its 10 games against the Habs this year while losing five and tying the other. Although only two goals separated them, Montreal has shut out Toronto in their last two games.

BOOM BOOM BACK

Biggest news out of the Canadiens camp was the return of Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, the high-scoring right winger who brought the Calder rookie award to Montreal last season. He injured his shoulder in practice 10 days ago.

Geoffrion will be gunning for his 20th goal of the season.

Toronto's attack will be sparked by the return of key centre Max Bentley, missing for several weeks with a recurring back injury. Bentley will be working between George Armstrong and Harry Watson.

Tonight's other game sends the cellar-dwelling New York Rangers into Boston against the Bruins.

A full slate of games is scheduled Sunday night. Toronto moves into New York while Montreal visits Boston and Detroit is at Chicago.

Red Sullivan Stays At Boston

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Bruins announced Friday that under a directive issued Feb. 7 by the central registry in Montreal they have made George (Red) Sullivan, 23, a member of the club.

To make up for his recall from Hershey the Bruins' assigned winger Leo Labine to the American League team.

Sullivan had been recalled on an emergency basis twice to fill in for ailing forwards

Under an agreement between the National and American Leagues any player recalled in an emergency has to be returned as soon as the parent organization reaches full strength in the player's specialty—forward or defence.

Marmora Atop After Win From The C's

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS). — Marmora TVL'rs moved into first place in the Northern Division on Friday night when they defeated the local team in a thrill-packed game before a capacity crowd in the community arena in Campbellford.

Campbellford dropped back into second place in the league standing as a result of the loss. Ozzie Nelson, Campbellford goaltender, whose efforts kept the visitors from piling up a greater lead, was the star of the game. He turned aside the onrushing Marmora forwards time and time again.

Campbellford led 2-0 at the end of the first. Marmora tied the game up by the end of the second frame, and in a thrilling third period, Darragh scored on an unassisted effort to win the game for Marmora by a 3-2 count.

Referees Jack Carson and Dick Bridgman of Trenton did a good job of handling the game. Teams:

Marmora — Goal, Killian; defence, E. Trumble, E. Leonard; centre, Doran; wings, G. Lavender, K. Trumble; alternates D. Smith, Darragh, Forestell, Jones, Mantle, Gray, Doyle, Maynes.

Campbellford — Goal, Nelson; defence, Baker and Free; centre, Eady; wings, Craig and Payne; alternates, Simpson, Taylor, Jeffs, Wilson, Herrington, Blake, Cole, Pace.

Keene Juves Earn Second OMHA Set

KEENE (ENS). — Keene juveniles took their second round OMHA series from Minden by winning in Minden last night by 10-7, giving the Keene lads the round by seven goals. It was another fast, rugged set-to, with Referee Scott being kept busy but staying in complete command for the entire game. He handed out 17 penalties, including two majors.

Don Bethune again led the Keene team with four goals, Bob Heron and Jim McCarthy poking in two each, with Al Renwick and Ketch Sellaby getting singles; assists went to Sellaby with two, Bob Heron, Lang, Renwick, and Elmhirst.

Hamilton and Kellett each scored two for the losers, with Hewitt, Watson, and Struthers getting the others; Vasey, Struthers and L. Yearwood getting assists. The homesters put up a real battle and the game was tied until midway through the third period when the Keenesters pulled away to add to their four-goal lead from the first game.

All the Keene forwards did a good job backchecking, with Bob Heron, Bethune, McCarthy, and Lang shining and Shelton looked good defensively.

Keene will now meet Flinton in the third round, two-game, total goal series, first game at Keene on Tuesday next at 8:30, with the second game at either Madoc or Tamworth later in the week.

The line-ups:

Keene — Goal, Colby; defence, J. Heron, Shelton, Whalen, Coit; forwards, Bethune, Sellaby, Bob Heron, McCarthy, Renwick, Lang, Edwards, Elmhirst, Shearer.

Minden — Goal, Hie; defence, Creker, Leigh, Vasey, Watson; forwards, L. Yearwood, S. Yearwood, Struthers, Hamilton, Henderson, Hewitt, Kellett, Hodgson.

VETERANS TRIP TIGERS

HAMILTON (CP)—Members of the 1946 Hamilton Tigers, Allan Cup finalists, donned skates again Friday night and defeated the 1953 Ontario Hockey Association Senior A Hamilton entry 3-2 in an exhibition game.

COSTLY TROPHY — The most expensive trophy in Canadian sports, the $10,000 Calder Cleland Memorial, is awarded annually to the winner of the high-school eights sculling championships at the Royal Canadian Henley regatta at Port Dalhousie, Ont. It is emblematic of North American supremacy. The original cup, now mounted on a base with plaques, was presented by Napoleon to the Empress Eugenie of France as a wedding present. Fashioned of gold and silver the cup stands three feet high and is embossed with figurines and crested with the gargoyle of France. Here it is being presented by former Governor-General Viscount Alexander to coach Russ Wood after his St. Catharines team won the 1949 event.

Hopeful Oarsmen Work Out For High School Regattas

By JIM BASTABLE

TORONTO (CP) — About 200 sinewy kids are sweating it out these winter days in the hope that muscle and rhythm will pay off in the summer.

As cold winds blow, fuzzy-chinned youngsters in Ontario, Manitoba and Nova Scotia work out by the hour on rowing machines in preparation for another year in Canada's high school rowing regattas.

It's a tough grind. But, to one crew it will bring possibly the most valuable sports trophy in North America, a $10,000 cup that dates back to the days of Napoleon.

The 200 oarsmen are members of the 18-odd high school clubs in the country. In the summer, some of them will stroke over the old Welland canal Henley course at Port Dalhousie, Ont., for the top prize for eight-oared crews, the expensive Calder Cleland Memorial Trophy.

The prize has been held exclusively by Ontario and United States clubs since it was donated in 1945 by the late W. B. Cleland of St. Catharines. Finances and travelling distances apparently have made it impossible for teams from Winnipeg, Fort William, Kenora, and Halifax to compete.

LARGEST 'SCHOOL'

The largest "school" is in Toronto where crews from five collegiates work out under supervision at the Argonaut Rowing Club. The youngsters are coached by former student-oarsmen who worked up through the ranks to Canada's eight-man crew in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki.

The whole set-up, financed by the Argonaut club which owns the Argonaut football team in the Big Four Football Union, is managed by Harry Kaysmith, coach of Canada's rowing crew at Helsinki.

The club pays the shot, except for a $5 yearly membership fee for each budding oarsman. The boys work out two nights a week. Kaysmith said the club's bill averages about $2,000 a year.

The coaching doesn't cost a nickel, but damaged shells and oars run into money.

Kaysmith says it's worth it. "It keeps the kids off the streets. And you never know when you'll come up with a world-beater. They're around somewhere and we might as well get them early."

SAME IN OTHERS

It's about the same in the other Ontario cities — Brockville, Welland, Hamilton, St. Catharines, and Ottawa. However, the clubs haven't got football clubs for sources of revenue.

In Hamilton, it costs the Leander Club about $500 a year to promote high school rowing. Crews show up from the four secondary schools, Cathedral high, Central, Delta and Westdale. The club pays for a coach and manages to ship a crew twice a year to schoolboy meets at St. Catharines, Detroit and other centres.

The Memorial Trophy is the richest prize in annual competition for any rowing champions. It is the original cup, now mounted on a base with plaques, which was presented to the Empress Eugenie of France on the occasion of her marriage to Napoleon.

Just how the trophy, of silver and gold and standing five feet high, came into Cleland's hands is a bit of a mystery. He ran across it in a London antique shop and presented it as a memorial to his son, killed in the Second World War.

Ex-Ski Champ Wins First Dog Derby Lap

STE. AGATHE DES MONTS, Que. (CP)—A former cross-country skier from Morin Heights, Que., who traded his hickory blades for a sled and a team of Siberian huskies, captured the first lap of the three-day Laurentian-international sled dog derby Friday.

Basil Green, driving a team of nine thoroughbred huskies from the Bryar Patch Kennel of Center Sandwich, N.H., showed his heels to the 15 other starters. His time for the 20-mile run was one hour, 33 minutes and 23 seconds.

Second was Bill Shearer, veteran driver from Boston, who drove his team of 11 "woolies" over the course in one hour, 35 minutes and 13 seconds.

Hiawatha Drops EPL Fray To Keene By 9-7

KEENE—(ENS) —In a close EPL contest before a good-sized crowd here last night, Keene yanked out a 9-7 verdict against Hiawatha. They racked up a 5-3 lead in the first frame, and outscored Hiawatha 3-1 in the second, but had to battle hard to stave off a drive by the losers in the last quarter. There were but two penalties a side in the clean struggle. Young's Point plays Hiawatha here Monday.

In the first period, Colby notched two, and Lockey, Bethune and Burns one each for Keene, as an assist each went to Whalen, Davidson, Steenburgh, Kempt and McCarthy. For Hiawatha, Crowley, Cowie and J. Stock hit the twine, L. Sellaby helping on one. Colby, Whalen and Locke tallied for Keene in the second, with an assist apiece marked to Locke, Whalen, Davidson and Steenburgh. Hiawatha's goal was by Close. The final frame saw Whalen score from Davidson to end the Keene sniping. Musgrave, Crowley and Paudash counted for the losers, an assist each going to G. Sellaby, L. Sellaby and Morgan. Teams:

Hiawatha: Goal, Macdonald; defence, Anderson, Close; centre, Paudash; wings, J. Stock, Cowie; alternates, Thompson, Musgrave, G. Sellaby, L. Sellaby, Crowley, G. Stock, Morgan, W. Steenburgh.

Keene: Goal, Houle; defence, Kimball, Adamson; centre, Whalen; wings, Colby, Davidson; alternates, Locke, McFarlane, Kempt, Steenburgh, Bethune, Burns, Brown, McCarthy.

Referees: S. Heffernan and G. Shearer.

Omemee Gets Win Over Newcastle By 5-3

OMEMEE (ENS). — Omemee Black Hawks won a 5-3 victory over Newcastle here last night in the Lakeshore League. It was a tense game with Newcastle battling to a 3-3 tie at the end of the third period, but losing ground in overtime.

Beatty Evans did a fine job in goal for the home team. The count was 1-1 in the first period, with H. Fox assisted by D. Fox driving in the first goal for Omemee, and Couran scoring unassisted for the visitors. D. Armstrong for Omemee scored the only goal in the second frame, with K. Bryans getting an assist. In the third it was R. Crawford from D. Armstrong for Omemee, and Newcastle replying with an unassisted goal by H. Quinny, and G. Graham tying the score with another solo. In overtime, the slightly shorthanded visiting team appeared fagged and two goals were scored by J. Brown and J. Deyell for Omemee, with R. Crawford getting an assist. There were only three penalties, two for Omemee in the first period and one for Newcastle in the third.

The teams:

Omemee— Goal, B. Evans; defence, G. Fisher, J. Evans; centre, H. Fox; wings, D. Fox, J. Brown; alternates, T. Parsons, L. English, J. Deyell, R. Crawford, D. Armstrong, W. Mitchell, K. Bryans, R. Parker.

Newcastle— Goal, K. Akins; defence, D. Lake, H. Quinney; centre H. Quantrill; wings, C. R. Burley, C. Couran; alternates, G. Graham, T. Ernbly, C. Morton.

Referees—Bell, D. Crawford.

Three Post Maximum At Seigniory 'Spiel

SEIGNIORY CLUB, Que. (CP)—Three rinks posted the maximum total of 10 points at the close of firstround play Friday in the 12th annual irons competition for the Albert MacLaren Memorial Shield.

J. C. Clifford, Montreal Thistle, defeated G. Hay, Ottawa Rideau, 16-3, while S. E. Houston, Arnprior, Ont., downed E. A. Walsh, Outremont, Que., 19-2, and J. B. Daugherty, Buckingham, Que., accounted for H. C. Hogarth, Ottawa Glebe, 15-5.

KEN WATSON'S CURLING

WATCH YOUR FEET! (Part 2)

Sloppy footwork spoils a lot of shots, particularly in the case of curlers who use a fairly high backswing. The rock and the left foot occasionally collide with each other as they slide forward together at the end of the delivery motion. Perfect timing is necessary to synchronize the two motions and hours of practice are required to perfect them. With the true slider, the stone and the left foot never collide after the rock reaches the ice, because the stone is always ahead of the left foot. (Note the illustration above). Sometimes the stone will bump against the left foot if you are off-balance, and the left leg is thrown forward too soon as a result of it.

However, if you tend to set the stone down on the ice with the idea of riding on it, you'll have lots of leg-bumping trouble. Swing your stone (on the forward swing) well out ahead of you, and you will seldom have foot trouble.

When you swing your left leg forward with the stone, the shoe will be flat on the ice, but as you reach forward with your right arm and lower your body closer to the ice, your left knee will bend sideways to the left. This will raise your left heel off the ice and you complete your slide riding on the ball of your left foot.

Now, back to the hack again to take a look at the right foot. Remember the toe of the right foot in the hack should be pointing straight up the ice or at worst, very slightly to the right. Be sure you are solid in the hack. The only thing left to remember about the right foot from here on is to be conscious after you push off from the hack that the right leg and foot are stretched out straight back behind you. Only by being conscious of this will you be right on the broom with your body as well as your mind.

Muskies Whip Barons 14-1

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsay Muskies warmed up for their coming Lakeshore League playdowns Friday night with a 14-1 win over the Bowmanville Barons. The game was played before a sellout ladies' night crowd of 1,200.

Bob Lewis and Orley Crawford paced the high-flying winners with three each, while the other goals were split among eight players. Whiteman scored the only Baron goal at the end of the first period with Muskies playing two men short.

The Muskies led 5-1 at the end of the first, increased the lead in the second to 8-1, and potted six more goals in the rough-house third frame.

Hicks, Green, Al Burns, Corley Kelly, Mike Burns, Sinclair and Davis scored the other Muskies' goals. Corley also scored four assists on Hicks' and Lewis' goals. A total of 23 penalties were handed out, including six majors, in the rough third period. The Muskies drew nine minors and three majors, the Barons eight and three.

OFSAA Holds Hoop Tournament In Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Charles Box, secretary of the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Associations, announced Friday that the group's annual basketball tournament will be played here March 6.

Eight teams representing Ontario school groups will enter. The A group will include the Toronto district, Toronto secondary, Niagara district and Hamilton champions. The B group takes in eastern Ontario, Western Ontario, Northern Ontario and central Ontario.

Box said the OFSAA is particularly concerned with the good and ill effects of athletics on elementary and secondary school students. The Ontario department of education has already granted funds for OFSAA's research into the defects of school sports.

The association hopes to standardize school sports and assist in co-ordinating the efforts of Ontario schools toward athletics.

Bancroft Triumphs Against Madoc, 8-4

BANCROFT —(ENS) —Bernie Shapiro's Pontiacs whipped a do-or-die Madoc club 8 to 4 here in a game that saw only three penalties, two to Bancroft and one to the visitors, and was fast and rugged all the way. Local fans have been served second to none in amateur play all season and are justified in their support of the Pontiacs who have yet to drop a game at home and have lost only one on the road.

Bob Ramsbottom, Norman and Elwood Brough, Ted Maxwell, Bob Comrie and Art Young in the nets turned in their usual top drawer game for Bancroft while Buck Carswell in the nets, Nickle, D. Carswell, Reynald and Naylor stood out for Madoc.

The first frame ended in a 3-3 draw on Bancroft counters by Norm Brough, Elwood Brough and Bob Ramsbottom. F. Nickle, W. Brown and D. Carswell registered one each for the visitors.

Elwood Brough sank his second of the game at 1.41 of the second period to break the draw and end the scoring for the period.

Third period action saw the home club double up the score on the efforts of Elwood Brough, Ted Maxwell twice, and Norman Brough in that order. D. Carswell flipped in the one and only Madoc point of the period unassisted.

Stu stringer and Len Dougall drew the two Pontiac penalties in the second period for rough play. Madoc's W. Brown went off in the same period with Dougall as the result of a little square-off.

It was the second win over Madoc in less than a week, the first in their own rink last week on soft ice. The Pontiacs, well in the league lead, will finish up their regular schedule this week and enter play-off competition early next week.

The teams: Bancroft; Goal, A. Young; defence, L. Dougall, J. Hattin, S. Stringer, C. McAlpine, F. Bruce; forwards, E. Brough, B. Comrie, N. Brough, B. Ramsbottom, T. Maxwell, B. Green, R. Severin, B. Delyea, D. Maxwell.

Madoc: Goal, B. Carswell, defence, G. Keller, W. Naylor, G. Anderson, W. Gemby; forwards, G. Nickle, R. Smith, V. Reynald, W. Brown, D. Carswell, F. Nickle, J. Hewgall, P. O'Neill, E. Alexander, J. Thompson.

Kelowna Curlers Seek Honors

KELOWNA, B.C. (CP)—Tommy Bebb wanted to be a hockey player. Ralph de Pfyffer and Bill Gaddes are skiers at heart

Their common objective: a curling championship.

These three youngsters, along with classmate Don Gillespie, won the provincial title by an unprecedented second chance and will carry the British Columbia banner into the Dominion high school curling finals which open Monday in Saskatoon.

De Pfyffer, playing third, won three titles last year at the Canadian junior ski championships in Vancouver.

Skip Bebb is the only really experienced curler on the team and he turned to the game only after reasons of health conspired to keep him off the hockey rink.

Gillespie, the rink's second, did a bit of curling in his native Dawson City but took it up in earnest only after the Kelowna Curling Club began promoting the sport among juniors last year.

Bebb organized the rink late last autumn and the group clicked. They developed a smooth draw style that has confounded older and more experienced opponents.

Norwood Wins 4-Point Tilt From Lakefield

NORWOOD — (ENS) — In a four-point TVL game here Friday, Norwood swept to an impressive 9-0 victory over Lakefield. Tompkins, Rochetta, Buckton and Robinson proved highly effective on the attack, while the winners had good goal-tending and checking to hold Lakefield off the score-sheet. There was an outbreak in the second period which resulted in major penalties going to Creighton, Rochette, Wasson and Millar. Wasson emerged with a cut nose. In the third, Marshall drew a minor and a misconduct. He refused to leave, so was tossed out of the game. Teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Hill; defence, Marshall and Millar; centre, McCracken; wings, Coyle and Birch; alternates, Sabatino, Wasson, P. Calberry, R. Calberry, Wingett.

Norwood: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Wootton and Tompkins; centre, Rochetta; wings, Stewart and Buckton; alternates, Gardner, R. Robinson, Creighton, Scott and Williams.

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP)—John Donahue, 20, of Arlington, Mass., was arrested today after an all-night hunt for the driver of a stolen car who killed Ernest Morse, Connecticut state policeman. He was charged with murder.

State Police Commissioner Edward Hickey said Donahue admitted slaying Morse last night.

Morse, 33, was shot and fatally wounded in the abdomen after chasing and catching a stolen automobile. Before he died, he was able to say the car was black and had Massachusetts licence plates.

Three hours later a car answering the description was seen and police chased it, firing 13 shots before it crashed into a tree During the chase two youngsters were slightly wounded by ricocheting police bullets.

After the car hit the tree, the man fled on foot. Police found Donahue hiding under a mattress in a garage loft.

COURTROOM IN THE OLD BAILEY entertained the audience at the Normal School Friday night when students of the school presented the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta "Trial by Jury." After the operetta the school's annual At Home was held.—(Choate Studio Photo).

Audience Enjoys Operetta Offered By Normal School

Some of the lilting movement and rare verbal titillations of "Trial By Jury," a Gilbert and Sullivan light opera which is always looked to in revival, was brought to a fair state of satisfaction by pupils of Peterborough Normal School Friday night, before a full auditorium.

Many of the nuances of the music, unfortunately abbreviated by a seven piece orchestra from Campbellford, were lost; but members of the operetta cast evinced ample coaching, and their rollicking verses easily caught approval.

The court-room scenes were particularly convincing, with several lead characters carrying their roles well. The humor of situations was well brought out, and the chorus very well adapted in carrying the lyrics, with right inflection on the words.

Quirt McKinney deserves laurels for successful production of a difficult operetta; one could only wish more ample musical talent was available from the city. Capable assistant direction was noted in performances of most of the lead characters.

The gay, light-hearted parody was lucky in its casting. Dated circa 1870's, it presents a court of justice, similar in some of its procedure to actual trails in the Old Bailey.

Isabel Cruickshank ably took the part of the plaintiff, with James Wagg inimitable, and fully confident, as the defendant. Ross Brock made an imposing judge, dressed in all majesty of robes, including the powdered periwig. Robert Hill used his part well to present key points in the action, as Counsel. The dignity of the court was upheld by William Nichols.

Jurymen comprised James Hill, foreman; Messrs. Chalice, Cooke, Cowan, D. Darling, R. Darling, Davidson, Edwards, Graham, Lowes, Reid, and St. Pierre.

Bridesmaids were Misses Nicholson, McKinkey, Mulhall, Neilson, Ramsay.

Pianist for the evening was Evaleen Coheen, and stage manager was Barbara Dix.

Lighting effects were undertaken by Eugene McDonald, with B. Chaelle, convener of properties, and J. Walden, wardrobe convener. R. Hemmings was in charge of make-up, and R. McKenney house manager.

Incidental music was supplied by Misses Jenkens, Linton and Raddon.

Following the presentation, supper was served in the library, and a social evening followed.

The social committee for the evening comprised Misses Myrna Seymour, Joan Walden and Elaine Spence, under supervision of Mrs. H. C. Turner, dean of women.

Sister St. Pierre supervised decorations and program, assisted by W. Goheen, M. Ramsay and A. Barlow; all under the supervision of Mrs. J. E. R. Munro.

The At Home was sponsored by the Student Society. President is Miss E. Burris; Mrs. J. Deck, past president; F. Smitheram, staff advisor; C. E. Potts and Smitheram as business advisers.

Drinking Among Youth 'Terrific' Says OTA

KING (CP)—R. J. Moulton, organization director of the Ontario Temperance Federation, said Friday that the amount of drinking among young people is "terrific."

He told members of the North York Temperance Federation at their annual meeting:

"Our biggest work is with youth. If the liquor interests consider the ages from 18 to 20 to be in their market, the task in North York was never greater."

The convention commended the Ontario department of highways on the new year's traffic safety campaign against drinking drivers and recommended that these be maintained all year. Another resolution asked that the defence department place all wet canteens out of bounds to apprentice soldiers and to establish dry canteens in buildings separate from wet canteens and wet messes.

Togo Tribesmen Ask Tusk Share

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Blitta tribesmen in French African Togoland have asked the UN trusteeship council to make the French divvy up on elephant tusks.

In a complicated recital of local high finance and low dealing, Chief Lodonou of the Agnanan village of Blitta charged French colonial officials not only confiscated both tusks on elephants shot by natives in his area but also took the huge single tusk found on a one-tusk elephant shot by Chief Lodonou's own hunters.

A French law in Togoland bars killing elephants without prior authorization. The regulation was adopted to keep ivory-hunters from slaughtering elephants wholesale for their valuable tusks.

Chief Lodonou—his letter attested by a fingerprint as signature—said his people have tried for years to explain that elephants cross the Anie river from British Togoland and trample down gardens and plantations.

He said the French finally agreed his people could shoot one elephant in each herd in order to scare away the rest but this resulted in the people running around to friends to borrow money to buy enough gunpowder to do the job.

"Confident that once one of the animals is killed, the value of the tusks will serve to repay the loans, his friends willingly agree to lend him the money," the chief wrote.

"As soon as one of these animals is slain, however, the (French) commandant mercilessly confiscates the tusks and leaves the hunter who killed the elephant burdened with debt which will take all his life to repay."

His complaint was referred to the trusteeship council's committee on petitions for study.

Henry Luce Apologizes For Tone Of Editorial

PARIS (Reuters)—Henry Luce, publisher of Life magazine, has apologized for the "unfortunate tone" of a recent editorial on France.

The editorial compared "Marianne" (fictitious French character) to a lady of easy virtue obtaining money from "Uncle Sam." It also depicted the French National Assembly as a circus. It raised a storm of protest in France.

In a letter to Pierre Lazareff, general manager of France Soir, the largest circulation French newspaper, Luce said: "The offensive passage was nothing more than a joke.

"Let's agree the editorial was unfortunate."

Lazareff, a friend of Luce, contended in an editorial soon after the publication of the Life editorial, that it had harmed relations between the two countries.

What keeps a jet plane from burning up, Dad?

"Nickel alloys, son. The problem with early jet engines was the terrific heat which caused metal parts to warp and crack. Then new alloys containing nickel were developed to stand up under the intense heat. Jet engines became more efficient. Today engineers keep trying to develop better and better nickel alloys to make jet engines more efficient still."

"It's a good thing we have nickel in Canada, isn't it, Dad?"

"It sure is, son. Most of the nickel for planes, battleships and other defence equipment for Canada, Great Britain and the United States comes right from our own Canadian nickel mines."

Discuss Paper For Ontario Hansard

TORONTO (CP)—Hansard, the official record of proceedings in the Legislature, was the subject of debate in the Ontario Legislature Friday.

For many years Hansard has been published on mimeographed sheets, instead of being printed on costlier glossy finish paper. Members complained the mimeographed sheets were too cumbersome.

Premier Frost submitted a motion Friday asking approval of funds to pay for Hansard for the current session on mimeograph sheets.

Opposition Leader Farquhar Oliver said the premier was being "penny wise and pound foolish." He said the government could well afford the extra expense to give members a permanent record of the House proceedings.

Premier Frost said printed copies of Hansard would cost an additional $20,000, an expense he considered a waste of taxpayers' money.

Rugs Add To Home's Decor, Cut Down Accidents

Carpeted halls and stairs bring a finished look to the home that not only spell welcome to family and friends but provide an important noise abatement and safety factor within the house.

Rugs play a major role in the decorating scheme of the home, and must be chosen carefully to complement draperies, lamps, pictures and wallpaper. Chances are you'll want a plain colour or textured effect (a rug that will go with modern or period furniture) or maybe wall-to-wall carpeting or just a room-size rug.

It may take a little while before you find the exact kind of carpet you have your heart set on—but when you do find it you'll want to know what you are paying for. So here are a few "Quality Guides" to follow in selecting a rug.

In comparing rugs remember that each small square on the back represents one tuft. As long as tufts are of the same thickness, close tufts usually mean a denser pile. Check if the pile is made entirely of wool.

QUALITY HINTS

Grasping the rug in your hand, you can usually tell whether what you feel is real strength and body or just stiffness. Wool that is somewhat soft and fine will tend to crush and mat and wear off rapidly while stiff wools will break more rapidly. Rug manufacturers try to select and blend wools to give the stiffness and resilience for longest wear. While pile made of worsted yarn (longer wool fibre) will wear longer than woollen pile, most rugs made today have woollen pile.

Better than 50 per cent. of rugs today are Axminster weave. Better grades combine luxury and price, but quality varies considerably. The finest quality Axminsters have deep pile with about 77 pile tufts in the square inch. A distinguishing feature of Axminsters is that they can be rolled lengthwise only. Axminsters have a rather coarse backing with a certain amount of sizing.

A generation back, the name Wilton meant standard high grade and is still among our high quality rugs. Wilton, too, has many grades, however. Each colour is woven from a separate frame. When the selected colours appear in the pile the other colours are buried deep in the background, giving body to the rug. Thus, while the pile in a Wilton is shorter, a five-colour rug will have nearly half of the yarn, by weight, buried out of sight. This makes it firm to handle. A better quality Wilton may be woven on six frames with about 120 tufts to the inch and will have remarkable durability if made of worsted yarn.

PADS ADD TO LIFE

Underlays or rug pads add considerably to the life of any type of rug by absorbing the shock of the footstep pressures. Shortest pile rugs show the greatest increase in durability when used with pads. Pads should be vacuumed at least twice a year and treated periodically to prevent moths from damaging them.

Rugs should be selected in colour tones that "tie-in" with upholstery and draperies. In figured rugs the colours in upholstery and draperies will bring out the corresponding colours in the floor covering. If possible, it's always a good idea to actually try a rug out in a room before deciding on it definitely.

As shampooing will often bring about a noticeable colour change in pastels, be sure your colour-fast guarantee includes sunlight, dry-cleaning and shampooing.

Old rugs and new ones too, will stay better looking if given the right care. All types of rugs should be vacuumed at least once a week. Rugs that receive especially hard wear need daily cleaning as dirt and grit collecting in the pile will grind together, cutting the fibre. Dirt wears out rugs faster than anything else. Vacuuming is also your best safeguard against moths.

Don't be alarmed when a new carpet or rug "fluffs" for a short time when it is first used. This is because the short fibres left in the pile when the yarn is cut gradually work loose. When a tuft protrudes DON'T try to pull it out clip it flush with sharp scissors.

In the past it was generally considered necessary to take even the very best rugs outside periodically until no more dust came out. What ically and beat them mightily a beating the fibres took. Now we know that beating cuts the fibres and loosens the pile of the rugs. Hanging them over the clothes line isn't good for them either. If a rug is to be aired better to place it on a dry, flat, grass-covered area right side down if it's in sunlight.

Urges Settlement Of Music Rights

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice J.T. Thorson, chairman of the copyright appeal board, said Friday something should be done to settle disputes involving copyright ownership of music in Canada.

In 11 years on the board, he said, he has listened to annual arguments over the copyright ownership of music. The Composers Authors and Publishers Association of Canada and Broadcast Music Incorporated have both been credited with ownership of the same music.

"For heaven's sake do something to end this argument that doesn't stand up," said Mr. Justice Thorson while the board considered some of the fees proposed by CAPAC for 1953.

W. Z. Estey of Toronto, counsel for the Musical Protective Society and of the Hotel Association of Canada, said his clients are prepared to pay their share of the costs of a referee, appointed to settle disputes over copyright ownership.

There was no immediate comment on the proposal.

The exchange occurred after Roy Corbett, managing director of the hotel association, urged a reduction of the fees charged hotels, taverns and night clubs for use of music in the repertoire of CAPAC.

Decision was reserved on the request.

nourish the bright fancies and delusive dreams of the poet."

James McCarroll, teacher, newspaperman, and poet, lived in the district for some years and contributed widely to the press and literary periodicals. Michael Ryan's verse is found largely in the Literary Garland, but some poems of his appeared in Barker's Canadian Monthly Magazine and elsewhere.

Finally there was William McDonnell of Lindsay, who wrote two long narrative poems, several novels, and both words and music of a three-act opera, "The Fisherman's Daughter." Most of these minor authors, were of a later generation or for other reasons fall outside of the scope set by the writer for this volume of Canadian Literary Pioneers.

One Year's Seeds

A—Since sunflower seed is not attractive to the birds until they are nearly ripe, one should cut the heads off when the birds announce they are ready to begin the feast. After cutting off the heads, hang them in an airy place until the seeds are dry enough to be removed. To kill any insects that may be present in the seed, place seeds in pans and subject them to dry heat in the oven, keeping the temperature between 130 to 140 degrees F. for 30 minutes.

Q—How and where should left-over vegetable and flower seeds be stored for the winter?

A—Unused seed should be stored in a ventilated metal box in a dry cold place. Glass jars are likewise suitable if the tops have holes punched in them to permit air to enter.

Prepare Daughter To Meet Adolescent Physical Change

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

It would be a good thing if all parents tried, from time to time, to remember how they felt and behaved when they were the same age as their children are now. Perhaps this is more important when a youngster is in the stage of life known as adolescence than at any other period.

This column is devoted to a few of the problems of adolescence in girls.

The beginning of adolescence in girls is often dated from the first period of menstruation. This event commonly starts around the age of 13, but the physical changes of adolescence in girls do not always come at the same age. There is usually no cause for alarm if there is delay until 14 or 15, or if the menses start before 13.

The age when adolescence begins varies with different families, racial backgrounds, climate and perhaps diet and other factors.

Girls should be instructed before this time as to what to expect and should be told that the changes which occur are a perfectly normal step toward maturity. The mother or a physician should discuss the beginning of adolescence fully and frankly before the definite signs of it appear. If this is not done, menstruation may start unexpectedly and cause a good deal of emotional disturbance.

Information concerning adolescent changes should be given in a completely matter-of-fact way. A girl should be told that she is only one of millions of her own age who are going through the same experience at the same time.

It should be explained also that the changes about to develop are the result of increased activity on the part of those hormones or internal glands which have to do with femininity. As a rule this information comes best from a thoughtful mother.

During adolescence many girls are nervous and behave erratically. They often cry easily, take unreasonable dislikes to people, food or activities, and fly off the handle at members of their family for no apparent reason. The girls themselves often realize this but keep on just the same.

Parents need not give in too much, since it is not fair to others to behave unreasonably, no matter what the excuse.

IGNORE OUTBURSTS

But parents must also understand that these things do happen and they should not worry about the seeming personality change which often develops. When strange behavior on the part of adolescent girls does break out, the parents can often best ignore the outburst altogether, take it calmly and yet continue to be firm about those things which really matter.

Adolescence is often not a happy time either for the girl of her family. Fortunately, it does not last forever and the daughter usually decides eventually that her parents are not so terrible after all.

Heaviest Train

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Heaviest load in the railway history of Newfoundland, 44 cars of newsprint arrived here behind two diesel locomotives. Officials estimated the newsprint alone weighed about 860 tons.

Flood Fund Passes $2,000

FORT FRANCES (CP)—Donations to Fort Frances' blitz campaign to aid European flood victims passed the $2,000 mark Friday night and officials said the money still was "pouring in."

About 500 volunteer canvassers swarmed the streets as fire bells, sirens, locomotive whistles and automobile horns signalled the starting time. Citizens interested in contributing turned on porch lights.

Fort Frances is 250 miles west of Fort William on the international border.

Know Your Wood Before Refinishing

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

The average person understands very little about wood and wood finishes, and for this reason is often reluctant to tackle a refinishing chore on a prized piece of furniture.

Once removal of the old finish is complete, the refinisher should know two things: what type of wood he is dealing with, and what kind of finish he wants. However, he is often at a loss as to what finishes to use on what woods.

There is a wide variety of refinishing materials, but they fall into two main classes: Transparent—those that show the grain of the wood—clear varnish, white and orange shellac, rubbing oils and waxes. And opaque—those that conceal the grain of the wood—dark varnish stains, oil paints, enamels and lacquers.

In most types of lighter wood on which a clear or transparent finish is desirable, stains are either optional or preferred. There are oil stains, water stains and spirit stains—all applied before the finish. When in doubt about stain, the best policy is to experiment with various shades on a sample piece of wood.

There is one other pre-finishing treatment that is used on open-grain woods in particular to fill the pores of the wood and to give a smooth surface. The filler is a white neutral paste often thinned with turpentine. It must be used before finishing.

Among the open-grain woods are oak, walnut, mahogany, chestnut and rosewood. Fillers are used on all these woods. Stain is not required on walnut and rosewood and is optional on oak, mahogany and chestnut.

Mahogany is an exception to the fill-before-finishing rule. It fills better if given one thin coating of shellac before the filler. Cut one part of shellac with six parts of wood alcohol and let dry doesn't need filler or stain is satinwood. Both filler and stain are optional on cherry, beech and birch. Liquid filler is used on yellow pine.

Finally, there are close-grain softwoods on which filler is not used. They include white pine, sugar pine, fir, gumwood, poplar, cyprus and spruce and are optional on the others.

Now for the refinishing. Recommendations made here are not hard-and-fast rules.

Either transparent finishes (but not rubbing oil) or opaque finishes are used on oak, walnut, chestnut, maple, yellow pine, cherry, sugar pine, white pine, fir and cyprus. Mahogany takes either opaque or transparent finishes, including rubbing oil.

Opaque finishes are desirable on ash, gumwood, spruce and poplar. Birch and elm are painted with enamel.

Opaque finishes are not commonly used on satinwood, which takes clear varnish, shellac or wax. Similarly, beech uses those three and also varnish stain. Use clear varnish on rosewood.

Using these tried formulae, you won't waste time experimenting.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—Is there a protective finish for flagstone floors and hearths?

A—Give them a coating of clear, penetrating floor sealer. This gives a semi-gloss finish, brings out the color of the stone and prevents staining. The floor may then be waxed.

for an hour after applying, then sand lightly.

There are also close-grain hard woods that may or may not require filling. Those that do are maple, elm and ash. Stains are commonly used on these woods. One close-grain hard wood that

With a little knowledge of woods and proper finishes to use on them, amateur furniture refinishers can save time and expense.

TV Academy Award Causes Stir

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here we go on the awards circuit again! Statuettes and plaques are popping up all over the place.

Within a few days, there were the TV academy awards, the movie academy nominations and the photoplay award dinners. Also in season are the award events of the Screen Directors Guild, Screen Writers Guild, Redbook, Look, Pic and Click.

The TV academy's Emmy statuette may yet become a full sister to the austere Oscar. That will take a little time, but this year's TV academy event was a professional show. Sole hitch came when emcee Art Linkletter ran through three microphones before finding one that worked.

The TV affair seemed to have even more excitement and electricity than the movie event. Maybe that's because it was held at a dinner, as the Oscar events were in pre-war days. By limiting attendance to a select audience, the sponsors provided an atmosphere that was tense and responsive.

MAY BE MORE INTIMATE

It's possible that the Oscar presentations can be held in more intimate surroundings, now that the event is being televised.

There has been some clamor for the TV academy to make more award categories and honor writers, singers, producers and directors.

The movie academy has insisted on rewarding every creative branch of picture-making. That's nice for the creators, but it merely bores or confuses the public. Why not just cite the best pictures or TV shows and let all the creators take the bows.

TV And Movie Interests Challenge Two Old Chains

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Hotter competition for leadership among the networks, with radio listeners and television viewers the beneficiaries, is expected to result from a merger of the American Broadcasting Company and United Paramount Theatres Inc.

Officials of the two firms, to be merged as American Broadcasting - Paramount Theatres Inc., made it clear this week it will seek to challenge the audience leadership of the Columbia Broadcasting System and the National Broadcasting Company.

The merger, to be effected through an exchange of stock, was given final approval Monday by the federal communications commission in Washington after months of hearings and deliberations. Stockholders of both corporations had approved plans for the merger in July 1951.

United Paramount operates 710 movie theatres and one television station, while ABC owns five standard and five frequency modulation (FM) radio stations and five TV stations. It provides network program service to 76 TV affiliates and more than 350 affiliated radio stations.

The first major wedding of TV and movie interests, the merger is expected to provide ABC with the working capital to put on big shows with name stars and put up a stronger fight for radio and TV audience leadership.

BOUGHT ABC IN 1943

Leonard Goldenson, president of United Paramount, will be president of the merged company. E. J. Noble, board chairman of ABC, will become chairman of the finance committee of the new company.

Noble bought ABC, then a radio network only, from NBC in 1943 for $8,000,000 after NBC had been ordered by the FCC to dispose of one of the two radio networks it was operating. It was known as the blue network and had operated since 1927 separately from NBC's red network. Noble owns nearly 54 per cent of ABC's 1,689,017 shares of common stock.

United Paramount is one of two companies formed three years ago from Paramount Pictures, Inc., under a federal anti-trust consent decree, the other being Paramount Pictures Corp. which produces and distributes motion pictures and is not concerned in the merger.

Because FCC rules prohibit ownership of two TV stations in the same community, United Paramount's station WBKB in Chicago will be sold to CBS for $6,000,000.

Five Years With No Changes In British Television Sets

EDENFIELD, England (CP)—The British Broadcasting Corporation has given an undertaking to manufacturers of television sets not to make any alterations in technique for the next five years, D. Stephenson, regional director of the BBC, said in a speech here.

He forecast, however, that British viewers would have color television and greatly improved picture definition within the next 10 years.

Mr. Stephenson told his listeners that only 10 per cent of current television programs are worth watching. Twenty per cent were hardly worth the viewers' time. The remaining 70 per cent he described as a dead loss.

"Fantastic cost of producing television programs is the main reason for the poor standard," he said. "But when commercial television is introduced the BBC will attempt to be a move ahead of sponsored programs."

Stephenson warned that the owner of a television set must protect himself against the danger of allowing the machine to become his master. Without that discipline, television could become one of the most disturbing factors in the life of the modern family.

Jesus And His Enemies

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

It was Jesus who said, "Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you!" (Luke 6:26).

It might be assumed that a man who is truly good, because of his very nobility of character and love of his fellowmen would have no enemies. On the contrary, those whose hearts and ways are evil will hate the man whose very goodness condemns them.

So, Jesus, the best and noblest of all, had His enemies. And these enemies were of various kinds with various motives.

Jesus spoke of Himself and His disciples as "the light of the world" (Matthew 5:14), and there were those who "loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil" (John 3:19).

These were the enemies of Jesus simply because of what He was and of what they were.

Other enemies had more personal and specific cause for their enmity: They feared and hated anyone or anything that might endanger their power or authority.

Herod hated even a babe whom Wise Men were hailing as a newborn King. Scribes and Pharisees had the attitude of all authoritarians toward anyone who questions their authority and above all toward anyone who seems to speak with an authority that they do not possess.

Also there were those who in addition to their love of power and place were crooked and corrupt, as lovers of power and place, unworthy as they may be, not always are.

These, who abused their power could have only deep hatred for a Teacher, popular with the people, who denounced them and their deeds for what they were, calling them hypocrites and vipers (Matthew 23).

There is an interesting question concerning these denunciatory "woe-unto-you" pronouncements of Jesus in Matthew 23. Did He love those whom He denounced in terms of invective, perhaps as strong and bitter as have ever been spoken?

There remain the enemies whose motives were not so evident. Not among these was Nicodemus (John 3) who came to Jesus by night. Evidently he came as a sincere inquirer under cover of darkness while he was still unsteady to commit himself. Later he was won over.

Insincere inquirers and critics with enmity in their hearts were the people who sought to entrap Jesus by their questioning.

Among these were those who asked Him about giving tribute to Caesar, and the lawyer who questioned Him concerning eternal life (Luke 10:25), though this man may have been a questioning show-off (very common in our own time), rather than a man of insincerity.

We know how Jesus answered those who sought to entrap Him about the tribute by turning the trap and embarrassment back upon themselves.

To the lawyer, whether sincere or not, He answered with the implication of a mild rebuke and proceeded to tell one of the greatest stories of all time, the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

BAHA'I

"In the Word of God there is still another unity, the oneness of the Manifestation of God, His Holiness Abraham, Moses, Jesus Christ, Muhammad, the Bab and Baha'u'llah. This is a unity divine, heavenly, radiant, merciful; the one reality in its successive manifestations."

Abdu'l-Baha.

VOL. CVI. No. 38 — SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1953

Main Street Topics

PERFECT CRIB HAND

While playing cribbage with Babe Fontaine, Clare Connelly had a perfect cribbage hand on Friday night. Connelly had three fives and jack of spades in his hand and then turned up the fourth five.

DAVIES DINNER SPEAKER

Robertson Davies, editor, playwright and author, was guest speaker Friday night at the Upper Canada College Old Boys' Association founder's dinner. Mr. Davies, who attended the college from 1928 to 1932, called his talk "Wild Teachers I Have Known, or Through the Educational Jungle with Gun and Camera."

FLOOR DAMAGED

Damage of $35 was caused to the flooring at the home of Charles Purser, 9 Edgewater Blvd., Friday afternoon when a fire started accidentally while the oil burner was being lighted. A flaming slip of paper being used as a torch got down between the casing and the burner and lighted some fumes, and the oil-saturated flooring also flared up. A chemical extinguisher and a hand pump were used by firemen to douse the blaze.

LUCKY 13TH

Ed Ryan, CNR ticket agent who lives at 275 Reid Street, will think twice before he again mentions anything about Friday the 13th being an unlucky day. Friday night, attending the Capitol Theatre, he won $200 in the Foto-Nite show. He was present in the theatre a week ago when his name was called out, and he returned Friday night with his photo which was auctioned off for $200. He is the first winner in more than six months.

Slippery Streets Blamed For Crashes

Only four overnight accidents required city police attention up to this morning. In only one case was damage serious, and no persons were injured. No charges will be laid.

Two late model sedans collided at a city intersection, where police reported icy conditions existed. Damage to one car was estimated at $75, driven and owned by Wm. R. Scott, Ashby, Ont. The second vehicle, owned and driven by Peter Astle, 563 Elm St., was damaged to the extent of more than $1,000.

A narrow lane at the rear of 269 Rubidge street, in which two cars attempted to pass, caused only frayed fenders and ruffled tempers. The accident occurred shortly after 5 p.m.

Slippery ice, at the corner of Park and Wolfe Sts., was credited with a third crash, but caused little concern. The accident occurred Saturday morning. There were no injuries and minor damages.

Geese Go North

A flock of about 20 geese were seen flying north late Friday afternoon. Believers in the mysterious ways of nature will see this as corroborative evidence of the groundhog's failure to see his shadow. Then again, maybe they were hoping against hope.

Judge Orders New Trial To Settle Case

A new trial has been ordered in the civil action, a two-car motor accident case, involving Lorne Magee, 25, of Bethune St., plaintiff, and Miss Alice Johnson, 54, of Pearl Ave., defendant.

The case was tried last November before a 12-man Peterborough County jury who could not apportion the amount of blame in the accident, though they found both parties guilty to some degree. Just how guilty each one was proved to be the stumbling block.

JUDGMENT

Judge John de N. Kennedy gave this judgment:

". . . The failure of the jury to answer Question 5 (i.e. decide on a percentage basis the degree of blame on both sides) constitutes a disagreement and, having regard to the fact that the jury agreed that the parties were not equally negligent, Section 5 of the Negligence Act is not applicable."

(Section 5 says: "If it is not practicable to determine the respective degree of fault or negligence as between any parties to a action, such parties shall be deemed to be equally at fault or negligent.")

W. B. Gordon was counsel for Magee and Alex L. Elliott, QC, was counsel for Miss Johnson. There is a strong possibility that the case will go to the Ontario Appeal Court—the counsel first drawing up a stated case.

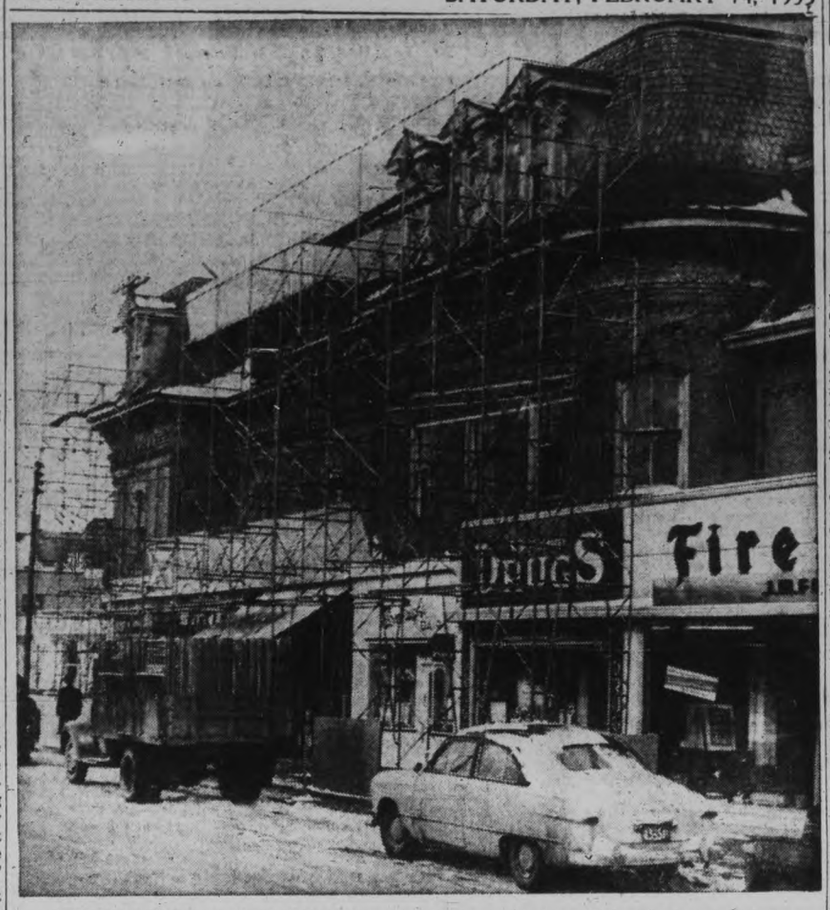
Civil action arose out of a motor accident at Sherbrooke and Aylmer Sts. during the noon hour of Jan. 12, 1951. Magee was driving west along Sherbrooke St., back to the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Co. with two workmates, when he came into collision with a southbound car driven by Miss Johnson as it entered the intersection.

Miss Johnson, a partner in Outram and Co., suffered severe concussion, a cut scalp, and cuts and bruises on her body that hospitalized her for 67 days. Her total damages were assessed at $4,380.

Magee's damages were assessed at $710.

A counterclaim was filed against Magee by Miss Johnson.

The jury foreman, Joseph M. Watson of 29 Aberdeen Ave., said the jury realized negligence was not equal but they could not agree on an apportionment. This was announced after the jury had been out for 4½ hours.



Judge Kennedy asked: "Do you find it impracticable to determine the respective degrees of fault or negligence between the plaintiff and the defendant?"

DEADLOCK

Foreman Watson answered. "No, we didn't answer the question. We have gone over it four times with the jury and those that are in favor of one per cent are definitely adhering to it, the others that are causing the deadlock are definitely in favor of the other percentages".

Defence Counsel Elliott argued that, according to Section 5 of the Negligence Act, this meant that the negligence would be apportioned 50-50 automatically.

Judge Kennedy reserved judgment but finally ordered a new trial.

A SPIDER WEB of steel scaffolding is the first step in modern remodelling of buildings. Here the work is begun on stripping the old mansard roof facing from the building on the northeast corner of Aylmer and Charlotte Sts. The building has a long interesting association with well-known people in Peterborough.

Corbin Fund Turns Over $934 For Family

The Henry Corbin fund, conducted by the Peterborough Examiner since the hit-and-run victim died early in January in the Civic Hospital, was officially closed today with a total of $934.50. The money will be turned over to the Rev. Robert Macdonald of St. Alphonsus Church for distribution to Corbin's wife and family in weekly allotments of $25.

Late on Christmas Eve Corbin, a 36-year-old employee at the Civic Hospital, was struck by a car on Western Avenue and left seriously hurt on the road. Witnesses heard the crash, saw a car stop and then drive off, but they were unable to positively identify the car or the driver.

Corbin was rushed to the hospital where his condition changed from serious to fair, then deteriorated quickly, until he died January 5.

City police sent out an immediate alert for the hit-and-run car, believed to be a green 1951 Mercury, but so far no car or driver has been arrested.

STILL INVESTIGATING

Chief John Thompson said today that "we still are carrying on investigations," and admitted "not too much headway." But the police intend to carry on until something is definite.

Chief Thompson said "we are still in hopes."

Shortly after the accident neighbors gathered about the Corbin family offering help in various ways such as food and clothing. They also started a neighborhood fund which reached $200. At the same time Corbin's fellow-employees also took up a second fund which amounted to about $200.

But some Peterborough citizens and various organizations, headed by the Peterborough Bus Lines' employees, asked the Examiner to form a special central fund. It started off with $34 from the bus drivers, mechanics and office employees.

Since then donations from $1 to $50 have been gradually swelling the fund. Then this week the total jumped $517 thanks to a raffle on a $100 watch, donated by C. B. Neal, president of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company.

BANK MONEY

The purpose of the central fund was to help Mrs. Corbin and her children Edward 4, Gerard 3, and Patrick five months. So Father Macdonald will bank the money and see that the family receives $25 a week until the fund runs out.

At present and since Corbin died, the family has been receiving $25 a week from the neighbors' fund through Father Macdonald. That money was to continue to help the family until Mrs. Corbin received the Mother's Allowance.

But that fund will soon be running out and according to Father Macdonald Mrs. Corbin should soon receive the allowance which will amount to about $25 a week. Coupling the allowance and the fund allotments, the family will be receiving about $50 a week.

There's still a $500 reward offered by the city council for information leading to the conviction of the hit-and-run driver.

Mansard Roof Comes Down As Old Building Spruces Up

By HARRY THEOBALD

Another mansard roof, crowning glory of main streets and residential areas throughout western Europe and America 60 to 70 years ago, is vanishing as archaic architecture at the northeast corner of Charlotte and Aylmer Sts. The building that was once a hotel premises is losing its mansard crest in the second storey alterations job for which O. L. Dalgleish, 506 Parkhill Rd., has let the contract to Locke and Geraghty. Estimated cost of the work is $23,000 in the permit issued from the office of City Engineer Chalmers.

The top comes off with its parapet and decorative gable, a form of false front, and the second storey will be converted into eight apartments.

Tubular steel scaffolding was erected this week on both the Charlotte and Aylmer St. fronts, and the detail of dismantling the roof was under way Thursday. This corner property was for years owned by the late Dr. Fred L. Robinson, veterinary surgeon, who kept a horse and hack livery at the rear, with entrance on Aylmer St. Its big door lines are still recognizable.

Dr. Robinson's home was across on the south side of Charlotte St., on the site of the Ivan Lillico automobile display building and garage.

Two of the successive hotel proprietors were Patrick Clunan and Michael Tooley.

BEER IN A BUCKET

Those were in the days, probably up to 1910, when it was not unusual to see occasional patrons of the corner carrying their beer home in five-quart pails decked with a cuff of froth.

Original owner of the corner property was one John O'Brien who acquired it as a Crown grant of land on June 27, 1836. In October of that year he sold it to a shoemaker named Cottrell Lane. Thirty-three years later, ownership passed by deed from one M. Lane to Edward Robinson, in 1869. It remained in the Robinson name 77 years from 1869 to 1946, and presumably the present building was erected during that possession.

Edward Robinson deeded the property to his widow, Mary Jane Robinson, in his will about 1874.

Mrs. Robinson married Tobias Fitzgerald whose coal and wood business on the south side of Hunter St. at Bethune St., remains still in that family name, although now owned by Kelly and Bamforth.

Eventually, Mrs. Mary Jane Fitzgerald conveyed the corner block on Charlotte St. to W. H. Moore, barrister, in trust for her son, Fred L. Robinson. She died in 1924 at the age of 91. In the meantime, Dr. Robinson became owner in fee simple. He died in 1925, making provision for his widow. Finally, the Trust Co. executors of the estate of Dr. Robinson sold his property to O. L. Dalgleish for $80,000 in 1946.

Tobias Fitzgerald was long prominent in Peterborough. He was the uncle of John E. A. Fitzgerald and Mrs. Edward M. Elliott. That is a sketch of the ownership of the corner from the day 117 years ago when John O'Brien received it by Crown patent.

Fuel Oil Price Drops Half Cent

Peterborough householders who burn fuel oil are going to pay half a cent a gallon less for their oil. This reduction is general throughout Southern Ontario.

A cut in the price from 18½ cents a gallon to 18 cents is expected Monday.

A manager of one of the largest fuel oil retailing companies in the city said today that his company would definitely bring in the new price Monday. Another manager said he was still awaiting official instruction from his Toronto head office but the half-cent reduction would be general.

PLENTY OF FUEL

"There's lots of fuel oil on the market right now," said one of the oil company officials. "The new pipe lines and some other factors have changed the situation quite a bit."

In Toronto a British American Oil Co. spokesman said the drop came as no surprise as "the market in Southern Ontario has been softening for some weeks now, due to the warm weather." Imperial Oil Ltd. announced the half-cent cut, and a McColl-Frontenac official said his company would probably do the same.

The Toronto price drops from 17.6 cents a gallon to 17.1 cents. The difference between Toronto and Peterborough is caused by the extra freighting and handling.

Moving Problem

MONTREAL (CP)—McGill University librarians have begun moving 600,000 volumes from the old Redpath Library into the uncompleted extension. Although the new building will not be used by students until September, the old section was so crowded that the transfer has started early.

Utilities Gas Loses $9,933 In Operations

New Taxation Of Property Chief Reason

Changes in municipal taxation brought net loss of the Utilities Commission's gas department to $9,933.99 in 1952.

Taxes on the commission's gas plant were five times the 1952 amount because of the new provincial act allowing municipalities to assess utilities buildings. Total tax bill for the gas department was $4,223.62.

A reduction in operating costs is expected this year, since current costs during 1952 were high. An extensive leak detection program cut down the amount of gas not accounted for, and there was a 12 per cent increase in plant labor brought on by the need to have several buildings scrapped.

Neither of these costs are expected to be as high during 1953.

VOLUME RECORD

Gas sale by volume reached a record of 54,312,300 cubic feet last year, an increase of 7½ per cent over 1951. Average cost of producing gas was $2.55 per thousand cubic feet, 94 per cent of the 1951 figure.

Sales to domestic consumers remained about the same, although the number of consumers dropped 13 per cent. Commercial consumption was up and the number of consumers down.

Industrial sales of gas increased, while the number of consumers dropped from 14 to 11 during last year.

Bottled propane sales in 1952 increased 312% and accounted for 23 per cent of the gas department's gross revenue. The propane bottling work added an amount to operating costs about equal to the increase noticed in 1952 over 1951.

Sales of gas at special rates for space heating by the end of the year was using 13 per cent of total production.

Repairs continued in high pressure mains and a total of 88 joints were repaired, as a result of which leaking gas was cut to 81 per cent of the 1951 figure.

City Merchants To Hold 3 Dollar Days

Peterborough shoppers will be treated to another three days of outstanding values on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, February 19, 20 and 21 when Dollar Days will be presented once again.

The retail section of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce and the Peterborough Examiner are co-operating in another city-wide sale.

Shoppers will remember the unusual values offered by merchants during Dollar Days last August when for the first time in many years, a city-wide sale was undertaken with unpredicted success.

The three dollar days coming up next week promise to be every bit as worth-while for Peterborough shoppers. A special Dollar Days edition of the Peterborough Examiner will be published on Wednesday, February 18.

WINDOW BANNERS

The response so far indicates that approximately 100 local businessmen are participating and featuring exciting values for these three days. Special Dollar Days window banners will be displayed by stores participating in the Dollar Days promotion.

Each participating merchant will be putting several selected items on sale during Dollar Days at greatly reduced prices.

Dollar Days will be big news for every family—and what family isn't faced with the problem of rising living costs and the necessity of providing clothing and other essentials for the home and every member of the family.

SOMETHING NEW ADDED

County Council's property committee were quick to respond to a suggestion that a little spare cash could be picked up by installing vending machines in the county building. A shiny chrome soft-drink dispensing machine has now been set up in the hallway, and—judging by the number of empties—it has been a hit with the county building employees, the ratepayers and other Peterborough-district people who drop in from time to time. The property committee are also considering the installation of a cigarette machine.

Brotherhood Week To Feature Special Speakers

Brotherhood Week — a week when people of different racial origins and religions stress their common interests and similarities rather than their differences—begins officially on Sunday. A special schedule of events has been planned so as many people as possible in Peterborough can take part.

Three distinguished guests will be here during the week to further the cause of brotherhood: Begum Shaista Ikramullah, wife of the Pakistan High Commissioner; R. W. Keyserlingk, editor, and Ricardo Odaposoff, violinist.

Unofficially, Brotherhood Week began Wednesday night at the "Citizen of the Year" dinner sponsored by the B'nai B'rith Lodge.

WISHED SUCCESS

Present at that community event were representatives of Peterborough's three major religious faiths: the Rev. Charles G. Boyd, representing the Ministerial Association; the Rev. W. C. McCarney, representing the Roman Catholic faith, and Rabbi A. M. Bebb, representing Peterborough Jewry.

All said they hoped that Brotherhood Week would be a success.

The Council of Christians and Jews, which sponsors the week, has as its aim to promote World Brotherhood. Three local residents of Peterborough are on the national executive, Isadore Black, William Hamilton, Fred Overend.

During brotherhood week, all the men's service clubs, church organizations and other groups will devote their time to furthering the aims of "world brotherhood." Churches in Peterborough will celebrate brotherhood week, by holding special Sunday brotherhood services.

PAKISTAN SPEAKER

Begum Shaista Ikramullah, wife of the High Commissioner of Pakistan to Canada will be guest speaker Monday evening at the annual meeting of the University Women's Club, giving citizens of Peterborough a better understanding of conditions in India.

R. W Keyserlingk, editor of Ensign, a Roman Catholic weekly, will be guest speaker at the general meeting of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews Tuesday evening at Queen Mary auditorium. His topic will be the "True Nature of Modern Persecution."

Ricardo Odaposoff will be guest violinist Wednesday night at the community concert, and will represent during brotherhood week, the United States.

The Ontario Film Council is sponsoring the Film Festival, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. They will be showing films of several countries and their religious beliefs.

The film "High Wall" showing the many aspects of racial prejudices will be shown by the Kiwanis club, Thursday night.

RELIGIOUS FILM

George St. United Church will show Sunday evening the film "One God" describing the various aspects of the Jewish, Protestant and Roman Catholic faiths.

Radio station CHEX is being called the brotherhood station of Canada because it is donating free radio time to special programmes, in which prominent Hollywood stars take part. There will be 12, five-minute programs of this type during the week.

Freight Car Collapses On Tracks

Rail Traffic Delayed 5 Hours By Accident East of Tweed

Rail traffic on the CPR line between here and Ottawa was held up for five hours early today when a hopper car on a freight train was derailed at Sulphide, five miles east of Tweed. Nobody was injured.

An arch bar broke on the hopper (an open car carrying a load of cinders) and it collapsed on the tracks, blocking the main line.

The accident occurred about 2 a.m. and held up the eastbound Ottawa train that leaves Peterborough at 1:35 a.m., and the westbound passenger train scheduled to get into Peterborough at 4:55 a.m.

DELAYED MAIL

The delay held up mail delivery from Ottawa and points west and caused other minor inconveniences. The train arrived here at 9:55 a.m., exactly five hours late.

Frank Bowers, station agent at Sulphide, assured the Examiner at 9:30 a.m. that "everything is now OK and traffic normal."

When the arch bar gave way the hopper fell onto the tracks and both east and west lines were blocked until a crane was dispatched from Havelock, 45 miles west of Sulphide. It righted the derailed hopped and through traffic was resumed shortly afterwards.

Butter Selling In Market Building

Butter was back on the market today in the market building, after making few appearances during the winter. It was selling for 67 cents a pound.

There was also a wide assortment of cakes and cookies and knitted goods on sale. According to the farmers trading was a little more brisk this morning. Grade-A extra large eggs were selling for 55 cents, medium large 45 cents, and Grade-A large 50 cents.

It was a good day for fowl also, Spring chickens were selling for 50 cents a pound and hens 40 to 45 cents a pound.

Toronto Market Penny Boom Clings To Life

By HARRY KINGDON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The "penny boom" on the Toronto stock exchange proved this week that it isn't dead yet.

Heavy speculative trading in low-priced mining stocks reversed the downward trend that followed late January's record activity. More than 8,000,000 shares were traded Friday.

Companies with northern Saskatchewan uranium properties and those with holdings in the base metal area of New Brunswick were the mainsprings of the January boom that saw 12,000,000 shares traded in one day. They drew most speculative interest again this week.

Shawkey Mines traded almost 1,000,000 shares during the week, jumped from 14 cents to 36 cents and then slipped back to 16 cents. Behind the upward movement was a rumor that the company had acquired uranium property. The company denied the rumor.

MARKET STEADY

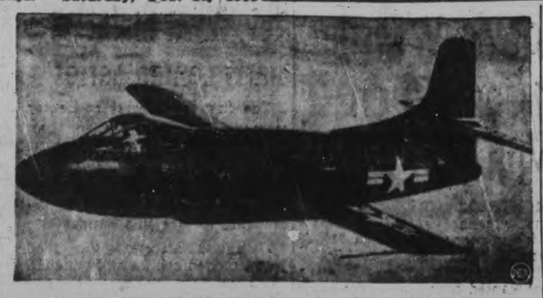
The market as a whole continued to be little affected by the busy penny issues. All sections on Monday completed last week's "corrective decline," then fluctuated mildly for the rest of the week. Industrials showed signs of settling further.

Gunnar continued to lead the uranium stocks, gaining $1.65 on the week to close at $8.40 after reaching a high of $9.60. Chimo traded 1,681,844 shares for a gain of $1.09. It reached a high of $3.30 before slipping back to $2.95.

Some observers suggested that losses in leading uraniums towards the week's close indicated a period of weakness for the issues soon. One observer hastily added: "But in this market, anything's possible."

In New Brunswick issues, New Border U traded more than 1,000,000 shares and gained 22 cents. It closed at $2.31 but failed to reach a previous high of $2.65. Porcupine Peninsular regained three cents of recent losses, closing at 19 cents.

IN AND OUT



Brokers reported that much of the trading continued to be of the in-again-out-again variety. Speculators bought at noon and sold again at 2 p.m. Little selling of long-term securities for money to put into the "hot" stocks was reported.

Toronto prices weakened Monday and in Montreal industrials stopped. Montreal continued down Tuesday while Toronto had a slight recovery until it joined the downtrend Wednesday. Thursday was weaker in Toronto and mixed in Montreal, and industrials led both centres lower Friday.

From Friday to Friday the Toronto exchange indices showed industrials down 2.91 at 318.90, golds up .23 at 81.59, base metals down 2.34 at 178.32 and western oils down .93 at 120.85.

In Montreal, averages banks were down .29 at 33.17, utilities up .4 at 94.6, industrials down 2.0 at 204.6, combined down 1.3 at 87.6, papers down 3.26 at 688.85 and golds down .93 at 64.10.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks on the New York market was unchanged at $112.80.

JET STREAM EXPLORER—The Navy's F3D Skynight jet is also being used as a night fighter against Red MIGs in Korea.

Discovery Of Jet Streams Has Use In War, Peace

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— New discoveries about the "jet stream," a high-altitude weather phenomenon, may soon revolutionize mailitary and commercial flying.

The new information, just turned up by two Navy fliers, is also expected to have an important effect on the use of guided missiles, the country's air defense, and may even result in very accurate, long-range weather forecasts.

Jet streams are described as fast flowing rivers of air in the sky.

They were first detected, six to 10 miles high, by B-29 bombers during World War II. No one knew then what they were. Frequently bombers would be registering zero ground speed, with recorded air speeds near 300 miles per hour.

The same pilots, returning from raids over Japan, sometimes were astonished to discover that their ground speed was twice as much as their indicated air speed.

FAST CURRENTS IN AIR

It wasn't until 1947 that Carl G. Rossby, a University of Chicago meteorology expert working with the Navy, definitely established jet streams as very fast currents of air which follow fairly regular courses at high altitudes.

The early studies also revealed that the jet stream flowed at a minimum of about 150 miles per hour, were sometimes 300 miles wide, three miles thick, normally moved west to east and could circulate the globe in six days.

This data was mostly gathered from weather balloons, an inexact method.

To get more accurate data, the Navy set up a project using Douglas F3D Skynight jet fighters. This is the same plane recently revealed to be flying against MiGs in Korea. The plane has electronics gear which permits the tracking and shooting down of enemy planes without the pilot ever seeing them.

Navy Lieut. Loren C. Whitney and Aviation Pilot R. G. Kirschner were assigned to the project. The electronics equipment enabled them to make very accurate measurements by fixing on ground targets.

They flew from Patuxent, Md., Naval Air Station. Some of their data will take months to analyze. Some of the information will be kept secret.

400 MILES PER HOUR

But it can be revealed that they discovered the speeds of the streams approach 400 miles per hour. At times, while flying with the stream, they were actually making more than 1,000 miles per hour ground speed.

They learned that by close coordination with weather stations the streams can be quickly located in the air. This co-ordination also resulted in more accurate ground predictions on the locations of the streams.

Further, they proved the complete feasibility of making full operational use of the jet stream for military flying. This could be the most important aspect of their study.

It's obvious that proper use of the stream will make all missions faster and save fuel. On the other hand, the need to dodge the stream, when flying against it is also very important.

Concerning the country's air defense, an exact knowledge of the position and speed of the jet streams over the oceans would reveal an obvious road of attack by enemy bombers. When the stream was known to be favorable for an enemy attack, the defenses would have to be put on a special alert, with attention concentrated on the location of the stream.

It is fairly apparent how knowledge of the streams will affect the use of guided missiles. By using the jet stream profitably, the speed and range of missiles could be greatly enhanced. If the stream was unfavorable for reaching certain targets, it would have to be avoided in the aiming and firing of a missile.

WEATHER FACTORS

Ever since the presence of jet streams was determined, meteorologists have speculated that they could be major factors in determining weather conditions on the surface of the earth. Knowing more about their movements and locations, therefore, would give very accurate weather predictions.

Grasping the advantages to them of the Navy's work in this field, the airlines have been making experiments of their own with this phenomenon.

Pan American recently flew a Stratocruiser from Tokyo to Honolulu in 11 hours, an extremely fast time, with the pilot riding the stream.

Both the continental and international airlines can make great use of the stream for cutting down on fuel and speeding up schedules.

Famine Stalking Bombay State, 6 Million Hungry

BOMBAY (Reuters) — Famine has brought hunger to more than 6,000,000 persons in the rural areas of Bombay state, and thousands are on the move from dry, sun-baked farmlands in search of work and food.

Migration from the affected areas is becoming so great that it may upset the rural economy of this heavily-populated state, which extends more than 700 miles along the western coast of India.

Almost 4,500 villages have been declared "scarcity areas" as a result of prolonged drought and the failure of two successive crops. Villagers are selling, abandoning or killing their cattle because they have no fodder to give them.

Neighboring states have expressed concern over the influx of peasants from the stricken areas. Emergency measures have had to be taken in the district of Berar, lying between Bombay and Hyderabad, to aid more than 30,000 newcomers, and officials are worried that the district's economy may be completely upset.

Other thousands have fled west from central Bombay into Hyderabad.

NO FIGURES AVAILABLE

No figures are available on the total displacement of population, but authorities acknowledge that the movement has become so great that steps must be taken to halt it. A decision to this effect was reached last week by the Bombay central famine relief committee, an unofficial body headed by State Governor G. S. Bajpai, and already one party of 8,000 peasants who came to Bombay city is being sent back.

Altogether one quarter of the state's 36,000,000 population is affected by the drought and food shortage, according to Bombay's revenue minister, B. S. Hirey. The heaviest blow is the failure of rice and wheat crops in the fertile northern plain of Gujerat, traditionally Bombay's granery.

The Bombay government has already spent 35,000,000 rupees (about $7,350,000) for creating relief works to provide employment and is making loans available to peasants.

OTHER RELIEF MEASURES

Other relief measures include the building of 38 new emergency irrigation systems at a cost of 27,000,000 rupees (about $5,600,000).

Mrs. Durgabai Deshmukh, wife of the finance minister and well-known social worker, has been asked by Indian Premier Jawaharlal Nehru to organize relief centres in the Maharashtra district.

The Indian government has appointed a famine inquiry commission, which now is touring the affected regions.

All over the state, official and non-official bodies have been organized to collect food and clothing.

Setter's Litter 13 On Black Friday 13th

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A beautiful Irish setter who followed her owner, Mary Parkinson, 18, to the city when Mary entered training as a nurse chose Friday the 13th to present Miss Parkinson and other occupants of the nurses' residence with 13 puppies.

Mary missed the constant companionship of her dog, Sean, when she came here from nearby Riverside to train at Grace Hospital. Hospital officials finally agreed to let Sean take up residence in an old kennel in the back yard.

Sean was moved into the residence basement a few days ago. When Miss Parkinson went to visit her Friday she found the 13 pups. Two died later. The dogs, jet black with fringes of white on the paws, bear no resemblance to their mother.

RCR's Koje Leader Due Home From Korea

OTTAWA (CP)—The man who commanded the Canadians who took the controversial trip to Koje Island is due to arrive at his camp Petawawa home Sunday.

He is Maj. Elliot L. Cohen, 37, of Pembroke, who has completed his year in Korea. It was his company of the Royal Canadian Regiment's 1st battalion which was sent to Koje Island last May to help guard rioting Communist prisoners.

Canada protested to Washington that the assignment was given without consulting Ottawa.

Modest Building Houses Nerve-Centre For Fighters

By MAX McMAHON

ST. HUBERT, Que. (CP)—An unimposing, three - storey brick building is going up on the RCAF base near this town across the St. Lawrence river from Montreal and will become the nerve-centre of air defence for the whole of Canada.

It looks much like any suburban school house, but, in the event of aerial attack, orders will flash from it to fighter squadrons protecting Canada's important industrial centres.

Full-time operational squadrons now are located at St. Hubert, Bagotville, in northeastern Quebec, Uplands, near Ottawa, and North Bay, Ont.

Eight auxiliary squadrons, manned by Second World War fliers who train at week-ends and who can go into action when needed, are located in Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, London and Vancouver.

From this building, too, communication will be maintained with the United States air defence authorities with whom the RCAF air defence command co-operates closely.

The building is only one of a dozen recently completed or nearing completion to house the command, formed at St. Hubert in June, 1951.

The command now operates from war-time buildings sprawled over hundreds of acres around this field, once the site of the mooring mast for the British dirigible R-100.

Today, the field presents a bustle of activity, with Sabre jets and transport aircraft coming and going. Officers, jammed into offices set off from one another by rough partitions, use their cars to "commute" between the various buildings, so widely are they spread.

The other new buildings will accommodate 600 airmen, officers and non-commissioned officers—double that number in case of emergency—and provide expanded messing facilities, a 25-bed hospital and a new school house for some of the 400 children of airmen who live on the station.

Group Capt. R. H. Bray of Ottawa, an engineer and senior technical staff officer, said the RCAF is using all the 80-odd buildings on the base that are serviceable and can be kept in repair economically.

The new construction will bring all the various departments of the command together, enabling them to get their vital work done with a minimum waste of time and in efficient quarters.

People often think of defence in terms of weapons alone. But it's a lot more than that, Group Capt. Bray said.

The base is a fair-sized community and is growing every day. A new water filtration and purification system, capable of supplying more than 350,000 gallons of water daily, and a new sewage system are in the works for the field.

Offices, housing, water, sewage —all are vital to defence. Without them, the operations of the fighter squadrons would be badly impaired.

Metals Market Moves Closer To Being Free

WASHINGTON (AP) — The market in steel, copper and aluminum was closer today to being free than it has been in more than two years.

The Eisenhower administration eased allocation controls Friday and promised to do away with them, except for a minimum to protect defence requirements, by June 30.

Price controls remain on the allocation-free metals, but all price controls are on the way out by not later than April 30.

The new order was warmly greeted by spokesmen for the automobile industry—now relieved of a 1,500,000 limit a quarter on passenger car manufacture.

But a big question was whether more steel could be found by manufacturers now free to buy it.

One informed prediction was that not too much difference would be noted now, but that the buyers would find more of the metal on the free market during the second quarter of this year. A scramble was expected among civilian users to get orders on the mills' books for future deliveries.

STARTED IN '51

The controls machinery now disintegrating went into effect in January, 1951, a little more than six months after Korea fighting began.

Government spokesmen said Friday's order opened up the market in the three industrial metals this way:

The issuance of controlled materials plan "tickets" will cease. Formerly these authorizations had to be obtained from the government by users of the metals. Some got them as much as six months in advance.

Production ceilings, like the one on automobiles, are out.

The only limitation now will be that the government still will see that actual military and atomic energy production gets first call. It will continue to do that even after June 30, on a modified system.

Blind Curlers Form League Enter 3 Rinks

WINNIPEG (CP)—Every Sunday night during the winter, a group of men and women participate in Winnipeg's smallest curling league and the only curling set-up of its kind in Canada.

All 12 curlers on the three rinks are blind.

About a year ago, a few members of the Manitoba League of the Blind decided to try their hand at the game as part of their winter recreation. They received permission to play at the Deer Lodge Club, and now the league has become one of the most popular sporting activities for the blind.

Members of the Deer Lodge Club assist players in lining up shots. They also post the players on where the rocks are lying.

One member, Stan MacDonald, has served as a helper for the league since its inception. He says he is "amazed" at the enthusiasm the players have for the game.

ONE BLANK END

"They've really turned in some surprising games at times," says MacDonald. "In two years of play I've only seen one blank end and in all that time there hasn't been one substitution on a rink."

The helper's main function is to see that the curlers get lined up in a straight line with the house. The players must judge for themselves the proper weight for their shots.

One of the most enthusiastic of the blind curlers—half of whom are totally blind—and the one credited with dreaming up the idea is Les Henry.

His interest in curling is so gerat that he rigged up two pieces of wire in the basement of his home last summer to get in some special practice at "lining up."

Henry, who said he "just decided to go out and give curling a try," was given a lot of assistance by prominent Deer Lodger Doug McNabb. The blind curlers took it from there.

Two rinks see action each week, with the winning team and the idle one meeting the following Sunday.

Caravaggie was lost to Havelock in the second period when his left leg was injured. Goalie Dobson turned in a brilliant net display to hold his rivals down in scoring. Vitarelli of Hastings and Buchan of Havelock led the scoring with two goals and an assist each.

Convict Wrestler In Connection With Payroll Job

MONTREAL (CP) — A professional wrestler was convicted here Friday in connection with a $19,668 payroll robbery while United States police arrested one of Canada's most wanted criminals in the same case.

Benoit Forget, who wrestles under the name Ben Jackson, was convicted in Montreal criminal court for the hold up last Aug. 28 of the cashier of a wholesale biscuit company.

At the same time police announced the arrest at Buffalo, N. Y., of Richard Joseph Lavoie, 38, also known as Phil Martin. RCMP placed Lavoie as No. 9 on their list of most wanted men after the payroll theft.

Lavoie also was sought by Massachusetts state police in connection with a robbery at Whitinsville, Mass., and will be brought to Montreal later to face charges in connection with the payroll case.

In the Montreal court, Forget denied any part in the robbery of the cashier of David et Frere, and Judge Armand Cloutier ordered him held for sentence March 24. The delay was to give his lawyers time to produce fresh evidence.

Forget told Judge Cloutier an acquaintance named Martin had left at the wrestler's apartment a valise containing $8,478 in cash the day of the robbery.

Police told of finding the valise with the money and a pistol at Forget's apartment shortly after the robbery.

Mau Mau Goes Underground In Nairobi

By HUGH LATIMER

NAIROBI—(OFNS)—When a townsman from Nairobi exchanges his urban pleasures for the strenuous life of a police post in the heart of the Kikuyu reserve he finds a general opinion among both black and white races that startles him. It is that the worst of the Mau Mau (anti-European secret terrorist society) thugs are in hiding in Nairobi itself.

When the police raid huts in the reserve and find the suspects they are seeking absent, the relatives left behind say, nine times out of ten, that they are in Nairobi. To ask for an address for them in Nairobi would be useless, for there were at least ten thousand homeless African men in the streets of the Kenya capital even before the current emergency.

Intelligence officers have been testing out this opinion recently, and they find it justified. They have been taking "resistance" men (loyal anti-Mau Mau Africans) from the Kikuyu countryside on week-end trips to the ly picked out seven wanted men in the course of a day's car ride round Nairobi. Of these seven, one had been in Nairobi for only ten days or so, and was found helping to run a tea-shop; another was waiting for a bus. "We gave him a lift," said the intelligence officer.

WOUNDED TWICE

The day's work done, this particular Kikuyu resistance man was taken to his own house in the African location—a huddle of huts of which Nairobi is not proud. That night a gang entered his house and shot him up. Luckily he was not killed, but was wounded twice. Not only is Mau Mau organisation good in Nairobi, but its intelligence also.

Pitched battles or riots, like those in South African towns in recent months, are, however, not expected here. For one thing the defence is too strong. Apart from the regular police and army, 5,500 out of Kenya's 6,600 Home Guards are in Nairobi. About 3,000 of these are Indians. Moreover, pitched battles are not the Kikuyu way of doing things. But the existence of so strong a Mau Mau cell in Nairoib shows up the futility of the widespread sweeps and detentions for screening which are the chief police weapons in Nairobi and as far north as Thika. Such clumsy methods are rarely used now in the Kikuyu reserves, where the police can obtain information and arrest the men they want.

Undoubtedly the attitude of the ordinary police askaris (African constables) who carry out these screening operations has done much to embitter many law-abiding Africans in Nairobi—especially the politicians. "In Nairobi they make no distinction between the tribes," complained the Hon. Mr. Tameno, a Masai member, in the Legislative Council. "We are just Africans."

Meanwhile, in the Aberdare Mountains, extensive operations by the military and by tribesmen co-opted to the Police Reserve have given the gangsters notice that the forests, too, are no longer safe for Mau Mau hide-outs. Military spokesmen declare themselves satisfied with the success of thes eoperations, especially "operation Longstop" which resulted in the capture or killing of 45 Kikuyu in an area where they had no right to be. The men captured were in bad physical condition, having been in the forest for many weeks.

The gangs seemed to have no leader. When interrogated they would form a small committee to answer questions instead of appointing a spokeman. This method of organisation is traditional among the Kikuyu.

ACCOMPLICES ARRESTED

Nor did they appear to have any plans, such as those issued to Communist terrorists in Malaya. A gang simply descends on a farm, tells the local Kikuyu the time has come to carry out their Mau Mau oath to murder and betray, achieves what it can, and clears off. Almost invariably the frightened local accomplices are picked up by the police afterwards. But to find the outlaw gangs is another matter.

Almost the only area, apart from Nairobi, where the situation has not markedly improved, is the settled farming areas of the White Highlands. It is this which accounts for the mounting exasperation of the European settlers. African non-Kikuyu leaders, frustrated because they are allowed to take no part in the current struggle, and exasperated at being treated like Mau Mau suspects themselves, are in no mood to regard settler outbursts philosophically.

Thus a dangerous political situation could develop. The more responsible among the Europeans realise this, and are trying to soft-pedal the settlers' demands for constitutional changes at this juncture.

it's O.K. to OWE us!

Care Packages Stockpiled For Distribution

OTTAWA—Only a housewife can understand the set-back inflicted on the housewives of Britain, Belgium and the Netherlands by the recent floods. Thousands lost all their precious household belongings.

Now that the immediate emergency is over the next step is to get as many families as possible back on their feet and back in their homes. Many will be able to return to their old homes, many will have to go to new homes, but in any case, there will be urgent need for new sheets, pillowcases, towels.

And this is where CARE, the non-profit relief agency, enters the picture. The circumstances which brought CARE into being after World War II apply in some measure to the present flood situation.

After the war, Canadians, Americans and some countries in South America required a safe, economical and reliable channel through which to send food, clothing and other parcels to friends and relatives. Bombings and the like presented serious obstacles. It required the co-operation of 26 national relief agencies to bring a workable agency into existence.

They called it CARE. Since CARE began in 1946, Canadians alone have sent over $4,000,000 worth of food, blankets, household linen, woollen suiting packages, plows, farm tools, books and iron lungs through CARE. Every package carried CARE's usual delivery guarantee. CARE, as well, has contracts with governments of overseas countries which permit the duty, tax and ration-free entry of these parcels.

When news of the floods first broke Canadian CARE released $3.000 worth of food and blanket parcels for distribution in England, Holland and Belgium. Every Canadian who sent a CARE parcel overseas last year indirectly contributed to this fund, made possible by surpluses which must be converted back into relief for just such emergencies.

At the present time CARE has stockpiled in Britain and the Benelux countries a household linen package containing just the items to warm the heart of any flood victim. Two white muslin sheets, large size; two white muslin pillowcases, large size; 1 turkish towel, 1 kitchen towel, 1 turkish face cloth and 2 boxes of toilet soap. CARE also has knitting wool and blanket packages in Belgium and the Netherlands and a blanket package in Britain.

CARE will deliver a parcel in the contributor's name to a friend, relative or to unknown victims of the flood. While keeping in mind particularly household linen, blanket, knitting wool and woollen suiting packages, don't forget that food is all-important too. Much food has been destroyed and farms ruined for some time to come by salt water. For further information write CARE, 73 Albert Street, Ottawa.

St. Paul's WMS Hears Miss Lees

The St. Paul's Presbyterian Church WMS met Friday afternoon with Mrs. J. H. Eastwood in charge.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. A. A. McIntyre.

Miss Margaret Lees was guest speaker. The subject of her address was, Africa, Yesterday and Today. She explained the challenge of Africa to Christian leadership. Miss Lees emphasized the great historical background of the country, its assets, its people and government.

In closing she stressed the fact that only Christianity in action could remove the prejudices that bar the way to lasting peace. Wherever people live there are misunderstandings, false barriers, hatred and division, she said. The only cure for all this is brotherhood in Christ. This is Africa's problem and its basic solution.

Mrs. Fred Hills played the piano for the hymns.

Off-The-Rack Cottons Prove Front-Line Fashion Favorite

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—A front-line fashion favorite for the coming Coronation season is off-the-rack cottons.

The boom started when the Queen included ready-made numbers in her wardrobe for the Australian tour, later cancelled. It picked up momentum late last year when the Duchess of Kent chose similar dresses for wear in the Far East.

Now the firm favored by the royal ladies (Horrockses) has summer styles in the windows of most West End stores. Buyers say that debutantes are shopping early this year to ensure a wide choice.

BUSY WITH DEBS

"We are doing more business now with the debutantes for their presentation than with their mothers for the Coronation," said the manager of one department store. "Many mothers prefer to see their daughters launched before thinking about their own dresses for the Coronation."

It will be a big "season," and cottons already are proving a favorite buy with young society girls unable to afford £50 to £100 for couture models. In any case, this no longer seems important. Well-known manufacturers now produce cotton and woollen dresses cut from couture patterns by such famous designers as Norman Hartnell, the Queen's dressmaker, and France's Pierre Balmain and Christian Dior.

Summer styles by well-known couturiers are reproduced at an average of five to seven guineas. The men who make fashions have long realized their best post-war customer is the woman who buys off-the-rack.

BLOW TO SNOBBERY

"It has taken the snobbery out of fashion," says Peggy Briggs of the Daily Mirror. "Sensible women no longer buy clothes exclusively at an expensive shop for the sake of its name." More and more British women-of-fashion are following the North American lead—cheaper dresses, and more of them.

One Hartnell design now in the stores costs less than £5. It is a shirt-necked, button-front dress with short sleeves and panel pleating. For five to six guineas there are sleeveless printed cottons with wide round necklines—a style chosen by the Duchess of Kent and worn in the Far East—and collarless two-pieces with swinging skirts and fitted waists.

At Buckingham Palace garden parties you may find glazed denims in lilac or yellow embroidered in white. With deep shawl collar framing the shoulders and giving a wide decollete, these are equally suited to summer dances.

Rival Shapes Confuse Paris Styles

By ALISON SETTLE

PARIS (OFNS)—This will be a confusing year in many fashion shops because of the intense conflict between rival silhouettes in the Paris couture dress houses.

There is the unfitted line in which the human figure hardly counts, typified by Jean Desses' "escape line" which 'suggests the figure without moulding the contour". His clothes are built with melon-shaped insets to produce what the designer calls "standaway arches." To this school of design belong the majority of the lesser houses here and it was shown throughout the first days of the dress collections in Paris.

Then came Dior and Balmain with a perfection of body fit and, to the surprise of buyers, Balenciaga, who originated no-fit clothes, has come down now on the side of the mould-the-figure school of designers who wrap, seam, dart, and otherwise fit fabric to the perfected shape of a woman.

COMPLETE CONTRAST

The Dior Princess dresses will send women searching for new diet sheets, new confining corsets and expanding brassieres, new quick-slimming exercises. The strict cut of suits with "effaced hips" is in complete contrast to the other school in which jackets of stiffened shells hung over but away from the body. Dior's princess (or "tulip") dresses with their slim, gored, cut right up to the "poitrine" which appears padded and his widened, down-and-in curving little sleeves all emphasize fragility. Only his coats are still stiffened to stand away from the body and their sling belts are buttoned high on the chest in front and allowed to curve low at the back: this is the only echo in this collection of the popular line of the year, that of "no fit" and "no figure."

The Balenciaga jackets have their low-slung belts rivalled by other straight and very wide belts buckled over the hip-bones. Sometimes the belt is built in and forms a fabric band buttoned low round the figure. But Balenciaga belongs more to the Balmain than to the Desses school of design and uses many curving themes to give his jackets a very neat look with a fitted neckline, classic tailored collars being given black velvet facings.

DICTATED BY THE FABRIC

Loose and easy cassock coats at Balenciaga are dictated not by adherence to the school of fit or the school of non-fit but by the fabrics of the year. A glorified hessian, gauze-like woollens, glistening wild silks are all made into this easy hanging line but fleecy wool coats are left classic in straight cut.

The Balmain dresses are slim for morning, many in navy woollens, also for afternoon, in jewel prints, and for early evening too, in flower prints. They mould hips, waists, and busts, and have elegant skirt slimness broken by sash drapery slung on to narrow leather belts behind. Others have a fisher-girl or Polanaise drape put apron-wise across the front then to fall from the sling belt at the back.

Many lovely flower prints are shown but when the short evening dress is worn, in silk or chiffon, it is discovered that Balmain uses the actual feathers of a guinea fowl and, in another case, imitation rose petals to give the impression of an elaborate print on the wide skirts. Each feather and each petal are sewn on by hand and flattened on the fabric to produce this printed effect.

LOVE FOR ROMANTIC

Pierre Balmain shares with other houses a love for soft, romantic, rose designs in greys, greens, and pinks. It is their fabrics and colours which will give a unity of look to the conflicting fashion lines of a difficult season. The return of prints in small spattered designs for day and large romantic flower themes for evening should please everyone. Grey alpaca is seen everywhere as the most popular daytime fabric and, despite the small foreign import quota allowed to the new English silks, some intricately woven and others romantically printed with flowers, have had a very good showing. Tweeds have changed from a Donegal to a basket-weave type but are still richly colour-flecked.

Although this is primarily a season of white touched with black, orange is a bright colour liked for country and beach wear. Griffe shows it as a fleece coat. Schiaparelli shows it both as a shawl coat and as a linen skirt with a sweater top. Fath uses a great deal of it but prefers to call it nasturtium colour.

There are, however, few startling colours in Paris. It is a season of sand tones, and of pale grey shades for morning, moving on to faded mauves, orchid pinks, and a variety of soft blue tones.

The full evening dress with wide skirt has once again swept aside short evening models. High luxury is shared throughout the Paris houses. Pale satins and tulles, delicate draped chiffons, and jewelled wild silks mould the body into tiny corset forms, then flow out in skirts of incredible width.

Cars will surely have to be enlarged to take by day the huge flat straw hats like cart-wheels which are so generally worn, and to find room by night for these immensely luxurious clothes with their many many scores of yards of exquisite fabric.

Friday 13th Is Lucky Night For IODE Valentine Ball

The Friday nearest St. Valentine's Day this year was Friday the 13th — a day that strikes horror to the superstitious. But Major Bennett Chapter of the IODE continued the tradition of other years and set the date for their Valentine Ball, "throwing caution to the winds."

They proved they were right—Friday the 13th is not an unlucky day. The ball was quite successful with more than 650 guests attending. The Brock Ballroom was most attractive looking for the occasion with a huge red heart and streamers highlighting the bandstand, lace - edged hearts adorning the side curtains and the cabaret tables centred with cupids and hearts.

The convener of the ball was Mrs. Reg. Reid with Mrs. Tom Gaskell as co-convener and Mrs. Ken Gibson as decorations convener. All the members assisted in some way with the arrangements including being on hand to take tickets at the door and give out favors which were very useful items, a plastic soap or gadget box for the ladies and a pocket comb for the gentlemen.

Prizes were given for lucky draws and novelty dances and the winners were: Dr. and Mrs. Donald Aitken, Mrs. William Osborne, Miss Mona Randall and Mr. Euart Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. T. Holyman, and Mrs. Wynn Wilson.

Regent Mrs. Donald Murray received the guests, assisted by Mr. Murray. Also receiving were Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, honorary regent, and Lieut. Col. Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser and Mayor and Mrs. Hugh Waddell.

50 & A Club Gives Diamond At First Valentine Ball

"50 & A Club" is a social organization of the CGE Punch Press Department that is less than a year old, and on Friday evening it sponsored the first big social event in the form of a Valentine Ball at Club Aragon. One hundred and forty couples attended.

Going Cupid one better, on the eve of St. Valentine's Day, the club gave a beautiful diamond engagement ring, to the lady whose ticket number was drawn by department foreman Mr. Neil Collins. This very lucky person was Miss Shirley Goodman.

And for the lucky gentleman, her escort, the door prize was a certificate for a fine new hat of his choice at a George St. haberdashery. He was Mr. Gordon Graham.

The dance arrangements included bar refreshments and supper was served at the tables. Decorations were large Valentines hung on the bandstand.

The executive of this club is headed by Mr. Mart Donaldson, vice president Mr. Bill Floyd, recording secretary is Miss Marion Jones and treasurer is Mr. Donald Hubbs. The chairman of the dance committee was Mr. Llew Clark and Mr. Charlie Foster was in charge of the entertainment.

QUESTION: Will you please give me the recipe for Scottish Black Bun as printed some weeks ago....I especially enjoy hearing about Marianne as I wanted to be a nurse, but illness ran away with my money. I turned to dental assisting and enjoyed many years' work.—Mrs. D. G. MacL.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Thanks for your good wishes....I'm afraid I talk about my two bairns more than modesty should permit....but it will out.

SCOTTISH BUN

(As Contributed by Marion S.)

Crust: 2 cups flour, ¼ lb. shortening or margarine, 1 tablespoon brown sugar, pinch salt.

Cake: 2 cups flour, 1 lb. each raisins (seedless), and currants, 2 oz. mixed peel, 1 tablespoon each brown sugar and ground almonds, 1 teaspoon each cream of tartar, baking soda, ground ginger, cinnamon, mixed spice, "Jamaica pepper" (the 19th century name for paprika), pinch salt. Mix with lukewarm milk to a stiff dough. Grease tin, line with pastry and put cake dough into lined tin. Cover top with pastry also and press well into edges. Brush top with egg, prick all over top with fork, and bake in moderate oven 3 to 5 hours. Use round tin 7 x 3½ inches if possible.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Enjoyed and tried several of your recipes. Would you have one for Sweet-Sour Spareribs? We have tried to make this Chinese dish, but seem to leave something out that puts the zip into the sauce.—Irene S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

SWEET-SOUR SPARERIBS

Cut spareribs so that meat is left on both sides of one rib. The rib is then chopped in half crosswise and dipped in Cover Batter: To 1 beaten egg add ¾ cup milk, 1 teaspoon melted fat. Sift over them 1 cup sifted flour mixed with ½ teaspoon salt and 1½ teaspoons baking powder. Stir until batter is smooth. Fry in deep or shallow fat until golden. Place in baking dish. Pour over them SWEET-SOUR SAUCE: 1 cup sweet pickle vinegar, 1 cup best tomato catsup, ½ cup cold water. Into this stir a mixture of ¼ cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch until thick and smooth, over heat. Add ½ cup chopped sweet pickle, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper. Pour over ribs fried in batter, bake covered at 300 degrees Fahr. for 1 hour. These may be basted once or twice during baking period.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: Follow your column every night.....have misplaced my copy of Brisket with Onion Gravy.....Would you let me know if the top of the Canadian make of Mason fruit jars—the top with the rubber thereon—can be used a second time or not....How long should liver be cooked....I cook pork liver after soaking in cold water 10 minutes and rolling in flour with salt and pepper, by searing it on both sides in hot bacon dripping and then add vegetable water, cover....But I think I cook it too long....I wonder if I could use Love's vanilla, walnut and lemon flavorings in cookies?—Mrs. Gordon C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If the inner rim of the jar top is completely coated with rubber — and none of the rubber worn away—it may be used again. Yes, use the flavorings you refer to in any cookies.

BOILED BRISKET WITH ONION GRAVY

Select a brisket joint weighing 4 lbs. or a piece of rolled brisket. In a large kettle or dutch oven combine 2 quarts boiling water, 1 bay leaf, 2 whole cloves (or more) 2 chopped cloves garlic, 1 small onion sliced, 2 chopped stalks of celery with leaves, 2 tablespoons each vinegar and sugar, 2 teaspoons salt. Bring to boil, add brisket, cover and simmer 4 hours or until meat is tender. Water should always cover meat. Lift out meat and slice on hot platter. Strain broth. Saute 2 large onions in 4 tablespoons butter, BUT DO NOT BROWN THEM; they should absorb the butter and be limp. Sprinkle over 4 tablespoons flour, stir this in, then gently stir in 2 cups of the strained broth. Taste—it may need salt and pepper. Pour over meat on platter. Sprinkle generously with chopped parsley.

Actually liver only needs to be cooked until it is "set." If the liver is tough it will require three hours' cooking to make it tender, But you can overcome this by being very choosy when you buy liver—freshness is of paramount importance. Try to find a butcher who buys young beef and pork, then the livers are tender enough that they may be quick-cooked.

DOROTHY DIX:

Hasty Second Marriage Has Not Proved Successful

DEAR MISS DIX: My first marriage was broken after a silly argument between us. We were deeply in love, but both were stubborn, so I left him, taking our baby. I was an orphan and had no trade, so things weren't very easy for me. We were divorced, and a year later I met a man who loved me, and asked me to marry him. I knew I didn't love him, but he offered so much in security and companionship that I accepted him. I know it was a poor excuse. Then Tim, my first husband, located us and made arrangements to see his daughter once a week. Naturally, I saw him too, and it didn't take long for me to realize that all the love I ever had for him still existed. He feels the same about me.

My second marriage has never been a success. My husband is a fine man, but I don't love him. What shall I do?

BE SURE BEFORE ACTING

ANSWER: First of all you must be sure in your own heart and mind just what you want. It's possible that you have a tendency to yearn for whatever it is you don't have—in other words, the grass on the other side of the street looks greener to you. If you are truly convinced that you and your first husband are still in love, and that you can establish a happy home for your child, I think you should discuss the matter of divorce with your present mate. Your daughter would probably be happier with her own father, though your husband certainly has been most kind to her. It would be tragic, indeed, if you went ahead with a divorce and remarriage only to find that you and Tim were incompatible after all. If you go ahead with these plans, be determined to do everything you can to make your marriage a success. Up to now, it seems that you haven't contributed too much cooperation to either home. You must learn to keep stubbornness in its proper place, and to give as well as take. Every young couple has its quota of foolish arguments, but few of them, thank heaven, lead to divorce.

Your second husband is going to be the one most hurt in this deal, and I hope you know what you're doing when you decide to leave him.

Talk the matter over with someone who knows all three of you—or at least you and Tim. A clergyman, family doctor or a lawyer will be able to give you the best advice.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have been married just a few years and have one child. I have always been a home girl, and don't like to go out unless it's with my husband and child. Naturally, we can't go out too much with the baby, as we always have to have him home early. I don't like the idea of leaving him with a stranger. My husband enjoys going out; he belongs to clubs, the American Legion, etc. Of course, he has to go to most affairs alone, and when he comes home late I am disagreeable and start an argument about it. He wants to stay with the baby so I can go out once in a while, but I don't enjoy myself unless they are both with me.

S.H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: While your devotion to your family is certainly praiseworthy, don't carry it to the extreme of being over-possessive with them. You are making a mistake in letting your husband go out so much without you. There's no reason why you can't trust a competent baby-sitter, and if you accompany your man to some of the affairs he attends, you'll create a much happier atmosphere at home. He won't be moody with you, and you'll have no occasion to fuss at him about the hours he keeps. When he's out, you stay at home building yourself into a state of martyrdom because you are left alone; naturally, when he returns, you let loose with pent-up resentment. Straight yourself out, and get your little family on a more normal basis.

✧ ✧ ✧

Dear Miss Dix: I am 16 and have been going with a boy three years older. We've been dating for two years. We plan to be married in two years, but at that time he'll still have two more years in service and I'm afraid he'll find other girls while he's away. Should I marry him in two years or wait until he's out of service?

S.N.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: At 16 you have lots of time ahead and I wouldn't worry now about what might happen in the distant future—two years is distant at your age. There is no reason why you should distrust the boy; if you love him have faith in him. Wait your two years, then see how you both feel.

British Army Wants More Women In Uniform

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP) — The British Army wants more women. As part of a recruiting campaign, officers are trying to find out why so many girls waste their time in dead-end jobs rather than wear a uniform.

The question is one of many under consideration by a select army committee, mostly women but headed by Lt.-Gen. Sir Kenneth McLean.

Recruiting officers find that an unpromising civilian job paying £4 to £5 a week seems more attractive to most women than the service minimum of nearly £2 for new recruits, rising to slightly more than £2 the first year.

GOES A LONG WAY

"To most girls, that kind of money sounds small," said an army spokesman. "Yet few girls earning £5 a week have that much left just for pocket money." With uniform, cut-price cigarets, canteen facilities and cheap railway fares, army recruits are usually better off than the average typist.

With a new field-green uniform on smartly feminine lines, plusher living quarters and recreational centres, army camps in the south of England are claimed to have a gloss and efficiency that few factories and offices can match.

The Women's Royal Army Corps, known in wartime as the Auxiliary Territorial Service, has fallen from a peak wartime strength of more than 200,000 to under 7,000 now. The army would like 13,000 women as a permanent peacetime force, taking account of the high rate of "wastage." As many as 3,000 women may leave in one year because of sickness, marriage or discharge.

STANDARDS LOWERED

Standards have been lowered to lure greater numbers, but officers keep coming up against that prejudice against a uniform in peacetime.

The war office finds that few educational officers advise a service life as a career for young women. Some instructors are definitely hostile, although the army says that would change if they visited army camps. Despite the fact that the present Queen and Prime Minister Churchill's daughter, Mary, both served in the forces, fee-paying schools do not encourage pupils to think of army careers.

Men whose family names can be found in the pages of Debrett's Peerage still go to Sandhurst—but no boost is given the Women's Staff College opened in 1951. Officers say this might change if newly-commissioned women's officers returned to their civilian schools to stress the advantages of a service career. Junior officers draw nearly £5 a week and allowances.

What's Right?

You hear that a friend of yours is ill at home.

WRONG: Go to visit her without letting her know that you are coming.

RIGHT: Telephone first, to see if she feels like having a visitor.

CAB Head Criticizes Restrictions On Video

VICTORIA (CP)—Criticism of present restrictions on plans for establishment of television in Canada was voiced Friday by Malcolm Neill, president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters.

Mr. Neill, representing an organization of 117 privat stations across the country, flew from Fredericton to report on the C. A. B. to a closing session of the British Columbia Association of Broadcasters.

CBC control of television will not permit licensing of TV stations in centres where the CBC is operating or planning to instal television, he said.

Mr. Neill said CBC's announcement Tuesday that TV applications from private stations must be submitted by Feb. 23 left insufficient time for preparing the applications.

Search Widens For 4 Lost In Light Plane

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—A search widened today for a plane carrying four Niagara University students who set out to "bomb" a rival campus with leaflets.

The single-engine craft vanished Friday on a flight to Olean—70 miles south—where the "target" was St. Bonaventure University. Niagara's basketball team plays the Bonnies tonight.

The plane took off at 1:30 p. m. at suburban Amherst. It carried fuel for 3½ hours in the air.

Authorities fear the plane is down in rugged wooded country in western New York or northern Pennsylvania.

Plan New Pipeline

NEW YORK (AP)—Plans for construction of a 16-inch pipeline to carry gasoline and fuel oils from East Chicago, Ind., to Detroit, with a link to Toledo, O., were announced Friday by Cyrus S. Gentry, president of Wolverine Pipe Line Co. This is the first direct pipeline link between the major refining area of East Chicago and Detroit, centre of civilian and defence production.

Home and School Association News

WOODVIEW SCHOOL

At the Woodview Home and School Association meeting Wednesday evening, President Mrs. G. Hill drew attention to new corner shelves put up by the association, and thanked Mr. E. Reid and Mr. H. Burns for their work on this project.

An electric wall clock had been purchased and was presented to the school at this meeting.

The annual Home and School convention in Toronto, April 7 and 8, was mentioned, and it was decided to send Mrs. Hill as a delegate. The need for help by the people of Holland was pointed out, and it was decided to give $10 from funds to the flood relief fund.

Observance of founder's night was marked by a candle-lighting ceremony in which Judy Masters lighted a candle as representative of the school children, Mrs. S. Bebee representing the Home and School workers, Mrs. Parker on behalf of the teachers, and Mrs. Hill for the national organization. Mrs. A. English was the reader during this service, and Mrs. W. Edwards explained the meaning.

Mrs. E. Chambers of Peterborough, vice-president of the federation, brought greetings from that body and spoke of founder's night as "a rededication to Home and School work." A vote of thanks for her address was moved by Mrs. Bebee.

Mrs. George Craft and Mrs. Harold Lancaster contributed to the program with a vocal duet, "Juanita."

Lunch was served by Mrs. F. Howson and Mrs. H. Howson.

ELM CORNERS

The regular meeting of Elm Corners Home and School Association was held in Rays' School Thursday, with vice-president Jack Lacey presiding.

Mrs. A. Graham read a passage from the scriptures. Fifty cups and saucers were presented to the school board. An invitation to attend the Home and School meeting at Bridgenorth was accepted. The varied Founders' Day program was under the direction of Mrs. A. R. Gariepy, publications convener, and her committee.

Guest speaker Mrs. E. Chambers, vice-president of Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, spoke on the wider aspects of Home and School work pointing out that Founders' Day was a good time to pause and consider whether our aims were still those of the thinkers and doers of the past.

She urged the members to think of their association as a link in the international chain of Home and School Associations working for the welfare of all children.

Home and School groups' outstanding interests at present, Mrs. Chambers stated, were a study of the physical growth of children, a clearer understanding of the newer methods of education, a provincial survey of children's reading and a study of school bus systems.

Mrs. Chambers was introduced by Mrs. Gariepy and thanked by Mr. N. Young.

Mrs. C. Coons, of Lakefield, vice-president of Peterborough Council, was asked to outline the history and value of the Courtice Memorial Library after which a silver collection was taken to further the work of the library.

The pamphlet "Conflicts Between Teenagers and Their Parents" was fully reviewed by Mrs. Orville Loucks of the publications committee.

With Mrs. A. Gill leading and Mrs. A. Nichols accompanying at the piano, the association was introduced to five Home and School songs which were sung to familiar tunes.

A beautiful Founders' Day service was presented by Mrs. G. Carveth, Mrs. A. Gariepy, Mr. J. Lacey and Mrs. G. Knox, with golden, blue and red flowers with green leaves to typify faith, service, loyalty and tolerance, the pillars of Home and School achievement. The flowers were presented to the guest speaker and a boutonniere presented to past president Mrs. Gill. Refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Dunbar and her committee.

Eclipse Of Sun Over China Taken As Omen

HONG KONG (Reuters) — An eclipse of the sun—omen of a catastrophe to the country in the next 12 months — today married celebration of the Chinese New Year for millions of superstitious Chinese.

Communist officials and newspapers beseeched the people not to believe the legend. They explained the clips was a natural phenomenon fully understood by the Communist scientists in Peiping, the Communist capital.

An ancient superstition claims the country faces grave danger whenever the year starts with an eclipse—even a partial one such as today's.

Start of the "Year of the snake" also coincided with the third anniversary of the signing of a friendship treaty with Russia. A mammoth rally was held in Peiping to mark the occasion.

Aside from superstition, there was bad news for the Chinese people. Their government's first five-year plan, launched in January, failed to meet targets for the first month and looked as if it would miss against in February.

The official Communist newspaper, the Peiping Peoples Daily, told the story in its Feb. 6 edition, a copy of which reached Hong Kong today.

Blame Increases In Labor Costs

MONTREAL (CP)Wage increases granted by pulp and paper companies "without regard for the public interest" are mainly responsible for rising newsprint prices, Judge George H. Heon said Friday in written notes accompanying the majority report of an arbitration board which he headed.

The board refused requests for wage increases of up to 20 per cent for 12,000 pulp and paper workers, employees of Price Brothers and Company at its Jonquiere, Riverbend and Kenogami plants. The workers are members of the National Syndicate of Pulp and Paper Workers. Judge Heon said previous wage increases were made without any opposition.

"With the exception of asbestos, nickel and aluminum organizations, salaries paid by this type of industry are the highest among Canadian manufacturing industries," he said.

The board recommended a 44-hour week, with eventual reductions to a 42 and 40-hour week. The union had asked for a straight 40-hour week. The board also recommended time and one-half for overtime work and a six-per-cent hourly wage increase retroactive to May 1, 1952, until a new collective agreement is signed.

Arbitration proceedings have been going on since last year when negotiations between company and union failed.

Average weekly pay for workers in the three plants is $72.50 for a 48-hour week.

Export Prospects Affected By Floods In New Zealand

By E. G. WEBBER

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (OFNS)—Severe flooding in important agricultural districts of North and South Islands during the past week may adversely affect New Zealand's export trade and her ability to fulfil her promise to balance her payments by the end of June.

A cursory estimate of the damage in North Island alone is one million pounds and in South Island it may well be as much again. Much will depend upon whether weather conditions during February enable the waterlogged grounds to dry out quickly. Losses of stock were negligible, and damage, apart from road, rail and other communications, has been chiefly to pasture.

Figures released by the Reserve Bank this week disclose that New Zealand completed 1952 with a deficit in its overseas exchange transactions of just under £23,500,000. The greater part of this deficit was with the rest of the sterling area. In its dealings with the dollar area New Zealand had a small surplus of £200,000.

Hopes of a further improvement in the dollar position received a set-back, however, through the decision of the United States to restrict imports of dried whole-milk and butter-milk. This is expected to reduce the value of New Zealand's exports of dairy products to North America by one million dollars in the current season.

The New Zealand Dairy Commission now expects to sell cheese to the value of 2,400,000 dollars, casein to the value of 1,300,000 dollars and milk powders to the value of 3,750,000 dollars in American markets during the 1952-53 season.

New Zealand's exchange position at the end of 1952 is rather better than pessimists expected and not so satisfactory as optimists predicted. But there is no doubt that the various corrective applied by the Government and the banks to ensure that the country lives within its income are now having a more noticeable effect. One unknown factor is the price of wool which has so far remained at very much the same levels as those ruling during last season.

Development Firm To Survey North B.C.

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Friday that the British Columbia government has given permission to Frobisher Limited for surveys of the B. C. section of a proposed vast water power development which would dwarf the Aluminum Company of Canada project at Kitimat, B. C.

The premier said the government has been approached for water power rights in the big northern watershed but that no options have yet been given.

Frobisher Ltd., a big exploration and development company, proposes to develop a 17,000-square mile area along the B. C. -Yukon border. The watershed has a power potential of 5,000,000 horsepower.

Reds Imprison 6,000 In 'Horror Camp'

BONN, Germany (Reuters) — Communist East Germany has imprisoned 5,000 men and 1,000 women at Waldheim prison, Saxony, under conditions recalling the Nazi horror camps, West German intelligence officials said today.

The chief difference is that Communist authorities have not introduced gas chambers and cremation ovens, the officials said.

Their report was based on the interrogation of prisoners released last October. They said at least 90 per cent of the inmates are political prisoners. Most prisoners sleep on straw sacks on the floor, they said, and some have not had a change of clothing in three years.

Women are housed six to a cell and each cell receives only one can of water daily for all purposes.

All inmates are subject to beatings and "many die partly as a result of their treatment," the report said.

To Face Trial

WELLAND (CP)—A Wainfleet township youth was committed Friday for trial on charges of rape, attempted rape and robbery. William Harold Weatherup, 22, is charged with attacking a 14-year-old Crowland township girl last Monday. He is also accused of assaulting a 24-year-old Welland woman and stealing her purse last Friday.

RCAF, Fishermen Wrangle On Ice

WINNIPEG (CP)—A no man's land of ice in the middle of Manitoba has become a hotspot overnight with fishermen and airmen locked in a wrangle over who hunts there.

The ice is a 240-square-mile patch along the east shore of Lake Manitoba, 55 miles northwest of Winnipeg, taken over by the defence department as a firing range for NATO pilots training at the nearby Macdonald RCAF station.

Despite notices, warnings and bullet-spitting Harvard trainers, fishermen still go out on the ice to string their nets under the ice as they have done for 50 years. They say it's the best fishing spot on the lake and have protested establishment of the range.

Normally, Dakota aircraft tow target drogues above the lake and pilots dive on the targets firing 303-calibre machine guns towards the ice. Recently, pilots have turned away when they spotted men below. The firing has almost stopped and an RCAF official said men are leaving the station without proper training.

It was reported here that designation of the lake as a defence area made trespassers subject to a $1,000 fine or 12 months in jail. Investigation of possible prosecutions was said to be under way. However, authorities were seeking to first determine the RCAF's legal position.

Flowers Placed In Remembrance

Silver Cross Women of Peterborough met Wednesday evening at the YWCA with president Mrs. A. S. Williams presiding. The highlight was her reading of a "news letter" sent by National Silver Cross containing resumes of various chapter's year's work and progress. That of Mrs. N Fee for the local chapter was considered praiseworthy. These letters gave incentive for greater activity.

It was reported that flowers were placed in the chapel at Civic Hospital by Mrs. Gordon Brackenridge in memory of her son Flight Sgt. Gordon Brackenridge, and by Mrs. J. L. Young, in memory of her son Flight Lieut. Griffin Young. Mrs. J. H. Coon's report included thank-you letters for flowers sent to ill members.

Mrs. Williams led in discussion concerning donation of a bursary and decision was left to the March meeting.

Plans were completed for the spring tea being held at the YWCA Wednesday, March 18th, and convener Mrs. T. G. Nice and her assistant, Mrs. Forsythe, asked for the assistance of all members with donations for the candy and home baking tables etc. Mrs. F. H. Patterson is to decorate a grocery basket for a draw and she also asked for contributions.

Mrs. B. W. Harvey acted as recording secretary in the absence of Mrs. Lee.

Hydro Worker Killed

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—George Chornley, 22, of Winnipeg was killed Friday while working on the hydro project here. A spokesman for the project said Chornley was putting a pump in a hole behind a power shovel when the boom swung and pinned him against the wall. His chest was crushed and one arm was fractured.

Kremlin Turning Arab States Against West

BONN (AP) — The Kremlin is using East German Communists to penetrate the Middle East markets and turn the Arabs against the West, a spokesman for West Germany's largest industrialist association asserted today.

He charged that an East German trade delegation now negotiating in Cairo is "a Trojan horse for the Russians."

The East German group moved in while a delegation from West Germany was trying to talk the Arabs out of imposing a trade boycott against the Bonn republic in reprisal for its agreement to pay reparations to Israel.

These negotiations failed, Bonn maintains, because Egypt made exorbitant demands for credits and other economic aid of nearly $1,000,000,000. The West Germans said this was more than they could afford and more than Egypt could repay. With the talks terminated the Bonn delegation is returning Sunday but the rival East Germans are staying in Cairo.

"The East Germans can't really offer the Egyptians or other Arab states anything much," the West German industrial spokesman declared. "They can't even supply their own needs, exploited as they are by the Soviets. But in Cairo they are front men for the Kremlin's penetration of the Middle East. The Russians want to get into the Egyptian market and push out the West. The Arabs respect the Germans and they find even a German Communist more attractive than a Russian Bolshevik."

Massey Launches Plea For Flood Victims' Fund

OTTAWA (CP)—A country-wide appeal to assist victims of the flood disasters in Britain, Holland and Belgium was launched Friday by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, governor-general, who is chairman of the recently-formed Canadian national European flood relief committee.

At a meeting in Government House Mr. Massey said the purpose of the fund is to give Canadians an opportunity to give practical assistance to the flood victims.

"Canadians have a world-wide reputation for assisting those in need," he said. He felt sure the appeal would bring a gratifying response.

LINDSAY (ENS)—Les Braunton was re-elected chairman of the Lindsay Board of Health at the first meeting.

Richard Butler, of the board, was appointed temporary sanitary inspector, on the resignation of Alex Kilner, who has left the employ of the town.

A request from Miss Ethel Lowe, school health nurse, for an increase in salary was deferred by the board until comparison can be made with other towns of similar size.

Dr. Gleeson commented on the low incidence of contagious disease in the town's public schools and congratulated Miss Lowe on her work in keeping the rate down.

Spring Goes To Paris Heads

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

PARIS —(NEA) —The coming Coronation has influenced the nimble hands of top Parisian modistes in their Spring collections.

There is a great variety of wide-brimmed "garden party" type of hat, flatter, smaller and wider than usual. And there are numerous versions of the toque which Queen Mary has made famous in the remotest part of the world.

Generally speaking, the chapeau for informal wear is on the order of a doll's hat—diminutive boaters, bretons, cloches and berets.

Germain Legroux projects all his hats forward, with crowns that merge into brims. Their individuality is in the choice of straws and the handling of color —Chinese blues, a range of delicate pinks, or white trimmed with touches of cocoanut brown, which is a new note.

Albouy's collection was inspired by the Dutch primitives, resulting in pointed and square bonnets with a touch of extravagance. A great individualist, his hats this season are fashioned from snowy cotton damask, terry cloth, kitchen curtains and vivid floral chintzes.

Fath's helmet toque, his deep up-turned Edwardian boater of pale rose petals, and his large mushroom hat of horsehair are destined for the woman who revels in the daring.

Dior, always sensational, has a flat velvet cap with a "beak" extending right between the wearer's eyes. Some of his cartwheel afternoon models were worn over a turban of twisted chiffon.

Desses does the opposite of everyone else. His hats show brims shorter in front, extending almost to the nape of the neck, which follow through his "thrown backward" movements in clothes. They also ripple like many of his afternoon dresses.

SAILOR HAT by Marie-Christiane is of black and white laize with black ribbon.

MUSHROOM dinner hat by Fath, made of horsehair, is for woman who revels in daring.

WHITE PIQUE bonnet by Albouy is influenced by the Flemish school of painting.

Men Lean To Sentimental Women Comic Valentines

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

This Valentine's Day, Canadian women seem to think love's funny.

It's the men who lean to the sentimental side.

A Canadian Press survey today found men still proving their love is true with stacks of satin hearts and lacy Valentines. But women favored comic cards which mock the great emotion.

Tempers were better this year in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland where there was a drop in sales of sour cards, popular in other years. Prince Edward Island was parsimonious toward Valentines and inexpensive cards sold well ahead of luxury items.

In Toronto and Quebec, some amorous men spent from $2.50 to $7.50 for a new-type satin heart bearing a piece of costume jewelry.

But in most places sellers were the comic and comic-mushy types. A particular hit was the "squeeze-me" or animated card.

Sales were almost equally divided between men and women, proving that in Canada love largely is requited.

Heart-shaped sweets for shapely sweethearts brought crowds to candy stores. Some manufacturers kept teen-aged needs in mind and sold heart-shaped boxes especially priced for young lovers.

As usual, flower sales were small until the last day when men preferring such tributes made their purchases. Most flowers sold were red.

A handful of shy men, and more of the sophisticated, bought lingerie for their valentines, but the majority of such buyers were middle-aged and married.

Some of the most smitten, and the affluent, still bought jewelry and the poets once again wrote private verse for whispering in "shell-pink ears."

Nova Scotians Get No Boost In Present Taxes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Premier Angus L. Macdonald had good news for his fellow Nova Scotians Friday: no new taxes, no increase in present ones.

Mr. Macdonald, also provincial treasurer, made the disclosure in his budget address in the Nova Scotia legislature.

British Columbia: For the ninth day the strangest debate in the history of the B. C. House continued. The opposition did most of the talking, making gibes at the Social Credit government. Government spokesmen refused to counter-attack.

No Social Credit private members and only three cabinet ministers, are taking part in the throne speech debate. Premier W. A. C. Bennett said his members, most of them without previous legislative experience, decided to skip the throne speech debate and wait for the budget debate, when they should have a complete outline of government policy and thus be better equipped to discuss it. Opposition members scorned this move.

DEBATE BUDGET

The budget debate continued in the Quebec legislative assembly where Welfare Minister J. M. Paul Sauve said that his province's system of technical and specialized education is recognized across the country and abroad as the best anywhere. He said specialized education in Quebec was not only technical. It also embraced morals, sociology, economy and citizenship.

Premier Macdonald's budget address estimated Nova Scotia's revenue at $47,433,112 and expenditures at $43,218,824. With $3,682,185 going to the sinking fund, that leaves an estimated surplus for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1954, of $532,103.

Revenue for the coming year was estimated at about $2,000,000 more than last year.

Among the estimates, the $15,503,000 earmarked for highways and public works is the greatest in the province's history.

Flies to Hubby

NEW YORK (AP) — Film actress Zsa Zsa Gabor will fly Sunday to the bedside of her husband, actor George Sanders, ill in Italy. The Hungarian-born blonde said her husband was in serious condition in Naples as the result of food poisoning.

How Goes American Prosperity?

No Sign Of Approaching U.S. Recession

(Ed. Note: Alastair Buchan, son of Lord Tweedsmuir, former Governor-General of Canada, is one of Britain's best informed observers of United States affairs.)

By ALASTAIR BUCHAN

WASHINGTON, OFNS—At the beginning of each of the last few years a somewhat nervous stock-taking has been observable in Washington among government officials, economists and foreign observers in an effort to answer one of the worlds' most important questions: "Will there be an economic recession in the United States this year?""

For the health of the American economy is everybody's business. A recession of any size now would not only cause hardship in America, but, if the experience of the minor setback in 1949 is anything to go by, would have a worse effect upon Europe and the sterling area. It would knock sideways plans for increasing international economic co-operation and not impossibly disrupt the North Atlantic alliance at a most crucial stage of its development.

Having made these spine-chilling assertions, it is comforting to be able to report that the consensus of informed and expert opinion is that there are no signs of any recession or decline in American economic activity during the next nine months.

SIX YEAR RUN

The present period of American prosperity has now been running for over six years, and it is arguable that only the enormous defence spending generated by rearmament and the Korean war has kept it going. But the fact is that the size of the American military budget has not only kept prosperity up but has also given the American government a great deal of powef to influence the economy and prevent any sharp recession.

Next year is the year when defence expenditure is planned to reach its peak with an annual rate of expenditure of about sixty thousand million dollars (as compared with fifty thousand million last year), which will continue probably until the end of 1954 and then drop to a steady rate of about forty-five thousand million dollars.

President Eisenhower, by quietly ignoring in his State of the Union message his rash campaign promise to cut twenty millions of the defence budget, and by concentrating on balancing the budget instead, has given a reasonably firm indication that his administration will not take any rash action for political ends which might dislocate the economy.

Equally, by putting the reduction of taxation as a low priority among his economic aims, he has avoided (if Congress will permit him) using an anti-depression weapon immediately when it is not really needed, and has left himself with an instrument that can be used in future years if it becomes necessary to increase private purchasing power to avert a slump.

With reasonable luck and intelligence the new administration has time to effect a plan by which the economy can be readjusted over the next eighteen months to a permanent reduction of some fifteen thousand million dollars in defence expenditure.

DISQUIETING SYMPTOMS

Nevertheless, there are some disquieting symptoms which are not entirely within the government's power to cure or control. The first is that the extraordinarily rapid rate at which American industry has been adding to its capital equipment, factories, plant and machinery cannot be expected to last much longer. The rapidity of replacement, which has contributed so largely to the prosperity of the last six years, was largely necessary to offset the stagnation of the depression and the restriction of the Second World War, and must soon begin to tail off. The second is that the demand for new houses, which have been built at an average rate of one million a year over the past six years, must soon inevitably begin to decline, and housing is an industry in which changes in activity react throughout the whole of the rest of the economy.

Finally, the rate of private indebtedness, that is loans from banks to industry and agrieulture, has doubled in the past six years and repayments could cause quite a serious contraction in consumer demand. These factors might create the conditions for recession even before the rearmament expenditure begins to decline.

The American economy has therefore to be watched like a hawk by all those responsible for the health and safety of the free world. There is, however, a comforting paradox. The Republican Administration now has an armoury of economic weapons to combat a recession which were fashioned by the detested New Dealers and which they will have to use to keep the American economy properly adjusted. One condition they have most to fear is a slump, since the last one, that of the early thirties, drove them from office for twenty years.

John Agar Vows 'No More Booze' In Jail Interview

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor John Agar vowed today that, with the help of God, he'll never touch liquor again.

The 31-year-old actor made the assertion in an interview at Los Angeles county jail, where he is serving four months for violation of probation granted in 1951 after two drunk driving convictions.

"I'm not saying that because I'm scared of getting arrested again," he emphasized. "It's just a decision I've made since I've been in jail. Something that I have resolved within myself.

"It's a great feeling. I feel better than I have felt in years — even though I am behind bars."

Agar is one of 77 prisoners — including rapists, gunmen, forgers — housed in a cellblock built to accommodate 36. As a latecomer, he sleeps on the floor on a six-inch mattress, but "I'm not complaining," he added. "Life in jail is no different from the army — except for the three-day passes."

He hopes to be put on the road gang because that job gives him the opportunity to have a five-hour visit from his wife, Loretta, every Sunday.

FINDS FRIEND

He has found himself a good friend in Hal Makelin, the producer and director of "My Dad, J. R.," a movie which Agar completed just before his Jan. 22 arrest.

Makelin put Agar under personal contract after the arrest.

"I wanted him to have some money to pay the rent. He made a mistake that any of us could make."

After he finishes his current term around May 9, Agar must face a bench trial on charges of driving while intoxicated and driving without an operator's licence. he pleaded guilty Feb. 11 to a charge of intoxication.

He said he had four highballs before his most recent arrest but followed them with a big dinner and felt in condition to drive.

"I guess it was a stupid thing for me to do."

Good Souffle In Young Painters' Show

Not a whole feast, but an astonishing good souffle for the eyes is the exhibit now hanging in the Public Library gallery. Young contemporary artists of Ontario, 24 of them, mostly from Toronto, show 42 pieces. A very heartening as well as interesting exhibit.

They have something to say, different from their elders, and have some different ways of saying it, notably in their color. The color makes itself felt—ranging from blinding "Table By The Window" (E. M. Day)—it should be in a dull light to bear it—to rich reds and dark but not dirty browns. There are few grub alleys.

Another good feature of the show is the number of portraits and figures, strong stuff as well as gentle—an impressionistic Frenchy "Girl Drying Her Hair" (Norman Yates); John Gould's strong-faced "Shopper", Barbara Howart's "Woman In Black Hat" (dark hued), the Portrait of Glen by Bernard McLaughlin, these are all interesting.

There is a "Tired Clown" (Gustav Weisman) which is not a portrait at all, but a fascinating interweaving of lines and lights. "Portrait of a Man With An Egg" (Patricia Gunn O'Brien) is a very odd conception, intelligently done—and sets up some psychological quavers.

Other painters and paintings (most are in oils) are worth seeing; in fact the whole show is the stimulating sort of things that does not come to town very often. Note in your rounds the precision of "Escape" (Jack Whitfield) suggestive of early Renaissance in line and its rich tones; also "Wild Rice" by Alex Millar, evocative in treatment and its browns.

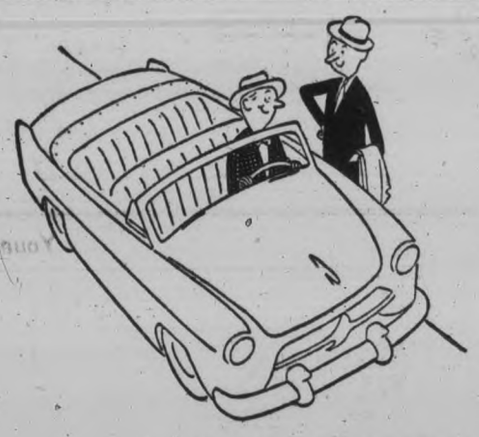
Fine B.C. Players For Tobacco Rd.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Six members of the Everyman Repertory Theatre company were convicted Friday of staging an "indecent play."

The play was Erskine Caldwell's "Tobacco Road," a tale of southern sharecroppers staged here three weeks ago.

Sidney Risk, the producer, was acquitted because the charge, said Magistrate W. W. B. McInnes, does not fit "in connection with this matter."



Theatre owner Charles Nelson was fined $50 for permitting an indecent show.

Magistrate McInnes told the actors, producer and owner that he found the play was produced to satisfy an audience who came to see "filth."

Convicted and fined $20 or 10 days in jail, the maximum sentence, were Tamara Dlugo, Doug Haskins, Edward Babcock, Douglas Hellier, Louise de Vick, members of the cast, and Dorothy Davies, the director.

Defence counsel Thomas Dohm said he would appeal.

Magistrate McInnes denounced the play as "obscene, immoral and indecent."

Casting Difficulties Cause Changes In Drama Festival

By JOHN PATERSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP)—A factory worker recently approached a member of the Stratford Shakespearian Festival Foundation. He had a complaint.

Several times the titles of the two plays to be presented during the five-week festival this midsummer under the direction of four of the top names in English theatre have been announced. Each time circumstances forced a change.

FORCED NEW DIFFICULTIES

"I've read four of these plays already," the worker said.

"Every time they change the program I have to read another play. If they don't soon settle the thing I'll have to plow through the whole works."

Tom Patterson, festival general manager, said one play, "Richard III," has been decided and the name of the second play will be announced shortly. Casting difficulties caused previous changes but these were nearly all ironed out.

The worker's remark is typical of the attitude taken by most of the 18,000 citizens of this small Western Ontario city which, like its English namesake, lies on the banks of an Avon river.

Study groups have been established all over town, with men and women getting ready for the festival. One group of women is holding examinations to ensure the members are really learning Shakespeare's plays.

Professional Canadian actors are being auditioned for supporting roles.

Tyrone Guthrie, director of London's Old Vic, and producer of the Edinburgh festival, will direct. Alec Guinness, famous British actor, will be the star. Assistant director is Cecil Clarke, production manager of the Old Vic.

The stage, designed by Tanya Moiseiwitsch—also of the Old Vic and the Stratford Memorial Theatre—is a radical departure, combining the best features of Elizabethan, Greek and Roman theatres. It has been patented.

PLAIN SETTING

"The main feature," Guthrie said, "is that it re-establishes the intimacy of actor and audience which is necessary before there will be a fresh advance in production of Shakespeare."

The audience will be seated on three sides and front seats will be within four feet of the stage. There will be no curtains, no scenery and no footlights.

There will be a trap door near the front for special effects and it will have an apron and four wide steps leading to the stage.

Mr. Guthrie decided against an open-air presentation to avoid possible distractions during the performance. The theatre will be in a tent or a building.

The festival, to be staged annually, will cost $150,000. It grew out of civic pride and because of "an association of the name of Stratford with Shakespeare's birthplace."

Performances will be given in the beautiful Shakespeare's gardens, a replica of those at Stratford-On-Avon, England.

200 INTERVIEWS

More than 200 Canadian actors in Canada and abroad have been interviewed for parts. Mr. Guinness has agreed to act with an all-Canadian cast, or with one or two of the leading roles played by imports.

The committee, Mr. Patterson included, had no theatrical background before going into the plan. Foundation president Dr. H. A. Showalter, a business executive, is also a Baptist Sunday school teacher.

Other committee members include an Anglican clergyman, a bank manager, other business executives and housewives.

One of the committee has a habit of referring to the cast as "the staff."

Two Counties Favor Equalized School Rolls

Packinghouse Union Will Seek Increases

TORONTO (CP)—Officers for some 16,000 members of the United Packinghouse Workers (CIO-CCL) said Friday they will recommend the national conference this summer seek wage increases and a guaranteed annual wage. They did not specify the amount they will seek.

Norman R. Riches of Calgary, western director of the union, said Canadian packers can "easily afford" a wage increase without increasing the price of meat to the consumers.

John Lenglett, research director, said a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase means a one-tenth increase in meat costs. Toronto packinghouse workers earn a minimum of $1.35 an hour for men and $1.18 an hour for women. Rates are slightly lower in other sections of Canada.

41,601 Canadians Getting Pensions

OTTAWA (CP)—A total of 41,601 Canadians between 65 and 69 were receiving pensions under the Old Age Assistance Act at the end of the last fiscal year—March 31, 1952.

The new act, effective from Jan. 1, 1952, provided for pensions to needy persons in the 65-69 age group. The provinces can fix the maximum amount of the pension, but the federal government pays 50 per cent of the cost of pensions of up to $40 a month.

A report tabled in the Commons Friday by Health Minister Martin showed that the highest average monthly pension is paid in Quebec —$38.61. No figure was given for Newfoundland where the federal-provincial agreement did not take effect until April 1, 1952.

The average pension in other provinces:

Alberta $37.36; British Columbia $38.28; Manitoba $38.45; New Brunswick 36.91; Nova Scotia $34.04; Ontario $37.28; Prince Edward Island $21.72; and Saskatchewan $36.93.

Mr. Martin tabled a separate report dealing with pensions to blind persons. The federal government pays 75 per cent of the cost of $40-a-month pensions to needy blind persons between 21 and 69. Once they reach age 70, the blind persons are covered by the Old Age Pensions act.

The report said there are 19,076 blind persons of all ages registered with the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. At March 31, last, 8,079 were receiving pensions under the blind persons act.

The average monthly blind pension in Ontario was $39.20.

Howe Expects Plan On Cuban Sugar To Work

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Howe said Friday he would be "surprised" if his plan to keep refined Cuban sugar out of Canada's sugar-beet areas in Western Ontario and the Prairies doesn't work.

He was commenting on a statement by G. Harry Wilson, former chairman of the Ontario sugar beet growers marketing board, who said he couldn't see "how the plan can possibly work."

"Once sugar is unloaded in Saint John or Halifax and the duty paid, it becomes free sugar," Mr. Wilson said in a statement at Chatham, Ont., Thursday. "There's nothing to stop it from being shipped across the continent."

Mr. Howe, who obtained agreement from Cuba not to ship refined sugar into Canadian sugar-beet areas, said "we will have to wait and see how the plan works."

"I say it will be effective and I'll be surprised if it doesn't work."

Warn U.S. Still Vulnerable To Russian Bomber Attacks

Russian-Type Planes Chased Over North Japan

TOKYO (AP)—Two United States jet planes challenged two Russian-type fighters over northern Japan today, damaged one in a brief skirmish, and chased both intruders to the Soviet-held Kurile Islands, the Far East Air Force said. It was the first time Soviet-type planes had appeared over northern Japan since the Japanese government, with strong U.S. backing, warned Russia Jan. 13 against such unauthorized flights. The air force identified the planes as La-11s, a Russian-built prop-driven single seat fighter in the 400-mile-an-hour class. The American planes were F-84 Thunderjets, fast planes but considerably slower than the MiG-killing Sabre jet veterans of MiG Alley.

The air force announcement said the Thunderjets intercepted the La-11s near Nemuro on the eastern tip of Northern Hokkaido this morning. They signalled the intruders to land. One Thunderjet opened fire when the order was ignored.

FLED TOWARD KURILES

One of the La-11s was hit in the fuselage and wings.

Both planes fled toward the Kuriles.

The Thunderjets broke off the chase "to avoid violation of Russian-held territory," the air force said.

It is only 4½ miles from Nemuro to the nearest Russian-held island. Japan's air boundary is only 2¼ miles from the tip of the peninsula—just brief seconds in a jet.

The Thunderjets were on a routine patrol mission when radar operators on the ground spotted the intruders. The radar men flashed the signal that sent the U. S. planes roaring in pursuit.

It was in the same general area, within sight of the Kuriles, that a U. S. B-29 Superfort was shot down Oct. 7. Russia protested to the U. S. that the Superfort violated Russian territory and opened fire on Soviet planes. The U. S., in reply, denied both charges and said the Superfort was not armed.

The FEAF gave few details of today's action. It did not speculate on the nationality of the LA-11 pilots. In the Japanese foreign office, a spokesman said "your guess is as good as mine" about identity of the pilots.

Expect Congress To Repudiate Secret Pacts

WASHINGTON (CP)— Senator Robert Taft said today he expects Congress will pass "within a reasonable time" a resolution to repudiate secret agreements made by the United States at the Big Three Yalta conference during the war.

Taft, Senate Republican floor leader, said progress on drafting the resolution was made at today's 40-minute meeting of President Eisenhower and State Secretary John Foster Dulles with Republican leaders in Congress.

In Eisenhower's state of the union message he said he would shortly ask Congress to repudiate any secret agreements of the past which involved the enslavement of free peoples anywhere.

YALTA AGREEMENT

Taft said Eisenhower was referring primarily to the Yalta agreement signed by President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

He said Congress will not be asked to repudiate any complete agreements but only those parts of agreements which indicate any acquiescence on our part or the suppression of freedom in satellite countries or elsewhere."

Taft said that he was not aware of any secret agreements entered into by the United States which had not since been made public.

He said he believed Eisenhower's reference in his state of the union message to repudiation of secret agreements had meant agreements which the United States had entered into secretly at the time but which had since been revealed.

The heads of Senate and House of Representatives foreign affairs committees attended today's meeting but Taft said there was no discussion of Far Eastern policy as had been speculated.

Execution Date Set For March

NEW YORK (AP) — Execution of atomic spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg today was set for the week of March 9.

Federal Judge Irving R. Kaufman scheduled the new execution date for the husband and wife, whose appeal to the President for clemency has been rejected.

The couple was convicted nearly two years ago of conspiring to transmit atomic information to Russia. They have been in Sing Sing prison's death house ever since.

Dr. Bernard Loomer, dean of the University of Chicago's divinity school, said Sunday night he had mailed a letter to the President renewing a plea by some 2,300 Protestant clergymen from every state for commutation of the Rosenberg's sentence.

The Rosenbergs Saturday spent two hours with their two sons, aged five and nine, in the death house of the prison.

Badly Injured Airman 2 Days In Wreckage

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — A seriously-injured airman who remained undiscovered for two nights and a day in the snow-packed wreckage of a giant B-36 bomber greeted his rescuers with a quip.

"I was getting tired of eating snow," said Master Sgt. Carroll W. Butin, who had been officially announced as killed in the Thursday night crash near Goose Bay, Labrador.

He was found Saturday morning under three feet of snow in the tail of the plane with his legs entangled in the wreckage.

Rescuers were using axes to chop through bulkheads when they heard muffled cries.

Two men were killed and 15 injured in the crash.

British Destroyer Aids Italian Tanker

PLYMOUTH, England (Reuters) The British destroyer Knaresborough Castle today went to the aid of the 3,500-ton Italian tanker Drepahum, on fire 45 miles off southwest England.

The tanker, bound from Liverpool to Rotterdam with a cargo of oil, said in a first message that she had stopped with engine trouble and wanted assistance.

A subsequent message referred to fire on board.

Believe Chiang Plans To Adopt U.S. Strategy

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Future Nationalist military operations against the Red China Mainland probably will be fitted into the broad aims of United States strategy, centred mainly on getting the Chinese Reds to call it quits in Korea.

Although no official statement has been made, there is every reason to believe the Chinese Nationalists are willing to co-operate fully with the United States and will not undertake any military actions without approval in Washington.

For example, there probably will be no Nationalist air raids on Red China unless the U.S. says OK. And it is generally assumed in Taipeh the Nationalists are not going to take any action deliberately calculated to embroil the U.S. 7th fleet with the Chinese Reds.

A world-wide impression seems to have grown up in the wake of President Eisenhower's deneutralization order that Formosa is poised to strike at the mainland. It isn't so, and it isn't likely to be so for months and maybe years.

Oshawa Rink Trips Agincourt

TORONTO (CP) — Lou Ross' Agincourt rink, last year's winner of the Royal York Trophy, today was edged out of this year's running for the trophy when it fell 10-9 before D. W. Holden's Oshawa quartet in the first draw of the opening round of the 26th Ontario bonspiel.

The Oshawa rink defeated the defenders in an extra end.

Civil Defence Too Slow Officials Say

Enemy Could Strike With Little Warning Eisenhower Informed

WASHINGTON (AP)— The U.S. civil defence administration said today Russia could send 400 planes against any spot in the United States and drop numbers of atom bombs capable of inflicting 110,000 casualties with each blast.

Such an initial attack, the agency said, would come practically without warning, probably during working hours, and would be aimed primarily at crowded industrial areas.

It would be backed up by psychological warfare, to spread panic and weaken the will to fight, and biological warfare, to add disease to bombed-out devastation.

NOT GOOD ENOUGH

The civil defence agency's annual report was sent to President Eisenhower and Congress by acting administrator James J. Wadsworth.

"Make no mistake about it, America's civil defence is not developing fast enough to meet the threat that now faces us," the report said.

The report quoted the air force as saying 70 per cent of an enemy bombing mission would get through the country's defence.

The agency assumed 400 bombers would strike, with no more than 15 minutes warning if any, among the 67 areas it has designated as most likely targets.

The bombers, it said, would carry conventional bombs as well as atomic bombs 2½ times as powerful as the one dropped on Hiroshima.

In a daytime attack, it said, such A-bombs would kill or wound 110,000 persons, about half of whom eventually would recover.

Police Recover $4,000 Loot

TILLSONBURG (CP)—Arrest of two men charged with stealing $400 worth of tires led to recovery by police Sunday of between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of loot stolen from half a dozen Ontario centres, including Mayor Allan Lamport's home in Toronto.

Dean Rhorer and Leonard Reginald Bourgeois were charged with stealing the tires from Pearce's garage here Feb. 8.

Police indicated that other charges will be laid. Toronto detectives have been called in to assist in identifying some of the stolen articles.

Police recovered four or five refrigerators, household furniture, radios, electric clocks, and other articles believed stolen from Toronto, Hamilton, Sudbury and other Ontario points in a widespread series of thefts within the last month.

5-Year Sentence

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — A five-year sentence for forging and uttering forged documents in a number of southern Ontario centres today was imposed on Ernest Benjamin Gallen, 25, of Niagara Falls, N.Y. He pleaded guilty to 15 charges of forgery and uttering in this city, Tillsonburg, Fort Erie, Dunnville, St. Catharines, Welland, and Chippewa, and to a charge of false pretences in Galt.

Mechanical Heart Keeps Boy Alive During Operation

DETROIT (AP)—Amazing plastic surgery rebuilt a bad valve in a boy's heart while a pulsing mechanical heart kept him alive, it was learned Saturday.

With the whole right side of his heart empty of blood, Harper Hospital surgeons calmly rebuilt the valve which had threatened to kill 16-year-old Charles (Chuck) Moses of Detroit.

This plastic surgery is apparently a medical first. It opens prospects of ability to repair human hearts much as plastic surgeons now rebuild a nose or ear or hand.

The "Michigan heart," the glass-metal - and - rubber device that works like a 12-cylinder automobile engine, made the surgery possible.

SECOND PERSON

Chuck, who dreams now of becoming a big-league baseball player, was the second person so far disclosed to have been attached to this machine.

Last Oct. 17, Dr. F. D. Dodrill and associates told of using the heart for 50 minutes to put the left side of a man's heart on vacation. For the man, the machine pumped his blood through his body while surgeons repaired a bad valve in the left side of the heart.

Bypassing the right side of the human heart was more difficult. It meant taking blood being carried back to the heart through the veins, and pumping it into the lungs. The Michigan heart did this for Chuck for more than an hour during the 7½-hour operation last Oct. 21.

Today, Chuck's heart is back to normal size, and he has every prospect of living a normal life. That includes hopes for a try-out with Detroit Tigers some day.

FIDO'S NOT IMPRESSED by this stalwart member of the Grenadier Guards on duty at Buckingham Palace, and little mistress Karen Marshall, five-year-old daughter of Flight Lieutenant and Mrs. Alan Marshall of Peterborough, can't seem to make Fido look at the guard that thousands of Canadians will troop to Buckingham Palace to see this coronation year.

Dust Storms Batter Three States

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Winds up to 80 miles an hour scoured up black blizzards Sunday similar to the dustbowl blows of the 1930s in parts of Nebraska, Kansas and Colorado.

They swirled dust 12,000 to 13,000 feet high in western Kansas, smashed windows and pushed over trees in western Nebraska and tore down telephone and power lines in Colorado.

No loss of life was reported.

Whistling grit cut visibility practically to nil in the plains areas of the states and stopped or slowed highway travel.

Gales jamming through northern Colorado's Rockies pushed snow into road blocks and made travel hazardous on highways through three passes.

Wind, snow and bitter cold forced postponement of the U. S. ski jumping championship at Steamboat Springs, Colo.

MORE COMING

Continued blasts were predicted for the three states today.

"It's the worst storm in a long time — probably since the 30s," Ted Clarkk, newspaperman at Holyoke in northeastern Colorado, told the Associated Press. The telephone report was interrupted at times as wind whipped lines together. He estimated gusts at 65 miles an hour.

Most Of Canada Has Cold Wave

TORONTO (CP) — Old Man Winter gave the back of his hand to most of Canada during the weekend, sending citizens scurrying for snow shovels or buckets of sand.

Soggy wet snow or freezing rain swept back into most Eastern Canadian regions while light flurries followed by continued below-zero temperatures were Western Canada's fare.

An Atlantic coastal storm poured freezing rain over most of the Maritimes during the night. However, temperatures are rising in its wake and extremely mild air is spreading into the area with temperatures in Nova Scotia rising into the 40s.

Light snow and freezing rain peppered most of Ontario Sunday with the eastern sections of the province due for more snow today. However, northern and central sections will have mostly sunny skies with near-zero temperatures.

It was 25 below zero at Prince Albert, Sask., this morning while Winnipeg reported 18 below and Saskatoon 13 below.

Battered Seawalls Hold Against New Spring Tides

LONDON (AP)—The battered sea walls of England, The Netherlands and Belgium held fast against still-rising spring tides today and forecasts of calm or only light winds raised hopes that the vast flood disaster of two weeks ago would not be repeated. In both countries, however, an emergency army of military and civilian workers stood by or toiled to further bulwark the soggy sea defences, breached at hundreds of points and only temporarily plugged.

The BBC warned people living in the low-lying coastal areas to continue on the alert.

Holland's waterways director, August Maris, toured his country's stricken southwest area — where some 1,400 persons died two weeks ago—and termed it "very, very vulnerable."

PROVISIONAL JOB

"Many of the holes in the dikes have been plugged, but it is only a provisional job," he added.

Forecasting no wind in the flood area, however, the Dutch weather bureau said there was "no reason for alarm."

British forecasters charted light or moderate westerly winds for their endangered east coast.

The morning high tide passed in both countries without a major new break in the defence system.

Another peak was due this afternoon, with two more potentially critical heights Tuesday.

TIDE FALLS SHORT

At Britain's hard-hit Thames estuary island of Canvey, the morning tide fell six inches short of the predicted level.

The tides flooded hundreds of acres of uninhabited marshland Herne Bay, where a stretch of the sea wall knocked down in the Feb. 1 storms has not yet been repaired.

In central London, the Thames rose above the level of adjoining streets and moored ships floated high above nearby residents, but the water did not flow over the high embankments. The water was two feet lower than two weeks ago, when there was extensive flooding.

15 Homeless In Ottawa Fire

OTTAWA (CP) — Fifteen persons were left homeless early today when fire destroyed a business and apartment block in west-central Ottawa.

There were no injuries, but four families driven to the street in nightclothes barely escaped.

Mrs. Donald Mears, one of the occupants, said a "bad dream" awakened her in time to see flames shooting through a furnace register into the room between her bed and the crib of her two-year-old daughter Jacqueline.

The fire was less than a foot away from the child's crib and the crib already was scorched by the flames when she awoke. Minutes later the whole apartment was a mass of flames.

In addition to the apartments, a confectionery and a dry-cleaning store were destroyed. Damage was estimated at $40,000. Cause of the blaze has not been determined.

Charges Lamport Defies Council

TORONTO (CP)—Acting Mayor Leslie Saunders today accused Mayor Allan Lamport, now holidaying in Florida, of defying the will of city council.

He made his accusation as the city council went into a caucus and special meeting with Toronto members of the legislature over the coming report, which recommends creation of a metropolitan council for the Toronto area.

Controller David Balfour walked out after unsuccessfully trying to have the caucus adopt a resolution that the meeting had been improperly called in the mayor's absence.

Saunders said Mayor Lamport, by not calling such a meeting himself, had not followed the will of the council.

Last Life Raft Found Empty, 46 Believed Dead

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)— A fourth life raft from the National Airlines DC-6 plane that plunged into the storm-tossed Gulf of Mexico with 46 persons aboard was found empty today "apparently ending all hope for survivors." Three other life rafts—all empty—were found bobbing on the choppy waters yesterday by an armada of planes and ships that combed the waters. The U.S. Coast Guard said the fourth raft was recovered, "accounting for all of the rafts and apparently ending any hope for survivors." The raft had never been inflated.

VERY ROUGH

The Coast Guard said even if survivors had managed to get on the rafts that the rough waters would have probably washed them overboard.

The ill-fated four-engined plane, flying in 100-mile-per-hour winds, was en route from Tampa, Fla., to New Orleans when it crashed Saturday afternoon less than five minutes from possible safety.

PROMINENT PEOPLE

Many persons prominent in business and society were aboard the big airliner when it left Tampa at 4 p.m. EST Saturday for the 419-mile run across the Gulf. It was due in New Orleans at 6:25 p.m.

A search, started when the plane failed to arrive, expanded hourly despite 20-foot waves which hampered rescue vessels.

S O S signals were heard early Sunday in New Orleans, at Gulfport, Miss., Biloxi, Miss., and at Mobile. They were sent by a hand-cranked "Gibson Girl" transmitter of a type carried by the DC-6. They stopped before a direction finder could establish the point of origin.

It was the first fatal crash by U.S. domestic airlines since a National DC-6 fell at Elizabeth, N.J., Feb. 11, 1952.

SUGGESTS TORNADO

At Miami, Fla., National's vice-president in charge of operations, Capt. E. J. Kershaw, said the DC-6 in Saturday's crash may have met "tornado conditions."

Kershaw, a veteran pilot, said in a statement that preliminary examinations of conditions during the flight and of some debris recovered had not revealed any malfunctions in the plane.

Kershaw noted that Capt. E. A. Springer, pilot of the DC-6, met turbulent weather conditions about the time of his last report, causing him to descend from 14,000 feet to 4,500 feet.

Besides plane debris, rescue workers found such items as a mail bag containing Valentines, clothing and personal items.

Victoria's Sea Monster On Prowl Again

VICTORIA (CP) — Victoria's famed sea monster, Cadborosaurus has made his first public appearance of 1953 at Qualicum Bay.

R. D. Cockburn of Victoria said he watched it for five minutes in the bay, some 75 miles north of here.

"I'd never believed any of the stories about Caddy that people told me here," he said. "But what I saw Friday was absolutely fantastic."

"At first I doubted what I saw," Mr. Cockburn said. "I could see a head and three humps but I thought it must be three or four seals cavorting about. But then the thing reared up a few feet out of the water and I could see it was just one animal."

Doctor Declares Man Dead Found Alive 2 Hours Later

NEW YORK (AP) — An 80-year-old man was found alive in an embalming room two hours after the family doctor had issued a death certificate.

William C. Brossman was taken to hospital where he died early today, more than 14 hours after being pronounced dead.

Dr. David Blumenfeld had listed arterio-sclerotic heart disease, generalized arterio-sclerosis and senility on the death certificate.

Assistant District Attorney George E. Regan quoted the doctor as saying he found no heart beat, pulse or any other indication of life when he twice examined the patient Sunday morning.

NOTICED FLICKER

After the death certificate was signed, Brossman was taken to the Queens funeral home of Charles Morton and placed in an embalming room. Morton and his aides noticed a flicker of the eyelids and an apparent slight exhalation.

The funeral men wrapped Brossman in a blanket and called an ambulance. An ambulance doctor was able to restore breathing sufficiently to permit Brossman's removal to Wyckoff Heights Hospital Brooklyn. There he was given shock treatment, oxygen, and blood transfusions but failed to rally.

Issuance of a new death certificate will be up to the city medical examiner's office, a hospital spokesman said.

Relatives of Brossman, a retired clothing cutter, said Blumenfeld had been treating him for a considerable time and made lengthy and careful examination before pronouncing him dead. Brossman, who retired from his trade 30 years ago, had been ill for a long time.

Ted Williams Crash-Lands Burning Plane

SEOUL (AP)—Ted Williams slid home today—safely.

The famed former Boston Red Sox slugger, now a marine captain and pilot, crash-landed his burning Panther jet fighter-bomber at a forward base after taking part in a 200-plane strike in North Korea.

Williams, on his first Korean combat mission, fought his plane back across the lines and belly-landed when his wheels stuck.

On the harrowing flight his radio went out, his ailerons stuck, his plane was on fire and his air speed indicator quit.

But he was able to walk away from his damaged plane. There was no indication he suffered any injuries.

Williams said his pass over the target, a sprawling Red troop and supply centre near the Red Korean capital, Pyongyang, was "a smooth run."

CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT

"I can't understand it," he said. "I didn't feel a thing hit me."

Fellow-pilots, however, said Williams' plane was blazing when it left the target, and flames were seen coming from the brake ports all the way back to the forward base.

Presumably the plane was hit by Red ground fire.

"As I came off the target, my light indicator showed that my wheels were down, but I got them up all right," Williams said. "Then the stick started to shake like mad in my hand.

"I tried to call one of my companions to get a visual check but my radio was out."

Williams then climbed to gain altitude and headed toward the nearest Allied air base.

"As I neared the base the aileron started to get stiff so I turned off the hydraulic boost. I had to use both hands on the stick on the final.

Buy French Liner For Empress Run

LONDON (Reuters)—The Canadian Pacific Steamships Company has bought the 20,000-ton French liner De Grasse to replace the Empress of Canada, which was destroyed by fire in Liverpool last month, it was announced today.

The purchase was announced in a joint statement by Canadian Pacific Steamships and the Companie Generale Trans - Atlantique. The price was not disclosed.

The De Grasse, built at Birkenhead, England, in 1924, can carry more than 700 first and tourist class passengers.

She will be put into service with the Empress of Scotland and the Empress of France to maintain the Canadian Pacific weekly service between Liverpool and Montreal.

Her maiden voyage under new ownership is expected to begin from Liverpool April 28.

Bad Weather Halts Search For Plane

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Mist over western New York and Pennsylvania forced temporary abandonment Sunday of the air search for four Niagara University students missing since Friday in a rented airplane.

Hundreds of policemen, firemen, fliers and volunteers moved out on the ground, slogging through snow in rugged terrain with dwindling hope of finding the college men alive. Snow mixed with rain fell steadily in the search area.

The youths, piloted by James G. Sweeney, a 19-year-old freshman from Elmhurst, N.Y., took off from an airport near here Friday. They planned to fly over the campus of St. Bonaventure University in Olean to drop leaflets.

The single-engine plane failed to return.

Keswick Couple Die In Florida, As Boat Capsizes

KESWICK.—Mr. and Mrs. William Ivan Tomlinson were drowned in the Hillsborough River near Tampa, Fla., Saturday, when a 12-foot outboard motorboat capsized, relatives learned Sunday. An Oakville couple, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Strachan, leaped into the river as the boat overturned and managed to swim to shore. Friends of the Tomlinsons for many years, Hugh and Gladys Strachan had arrived by plane in Florida on Friday to spend a few days with them. They were expected to return home at the end of February.

As soon as he got his 34-year-old wife to shore, a distance of 100 yards, Strachan started back towards the overturned boat to which William and Mabel Tomlinson were clinging.

Before Strachan could reach the boat it sank and the Tomlinsons disappeared. Firemen dragged the river Sunday for the bodies. The sheriff's office at Tampa said the small boat had been overloaded.

Owner of the Tomlinson Cartage and Coal Co. in Keswick, Tomlinson, 34, was to complete the purchase of King's Coal and Builders' Supply Co. in Sutton on return from his vacation.

CHILDREN WITH RELATIVES

Father of 10-year-old William Jr. and 5-year-old Elizabeth, who attended Keswick public school, Tomlinson was vice-president of the Optimist Club of Keswick.

An active worker in boys' community activities, he was also chairman of the Easter Seal campaign for Keswick to aid crippled children and he organized both hockey and baseball teams in the Lake Simcoe area.

Both Tomlinson children were left with relatives when the couple left for Florida on Jan. 24. Mrs. Tomlinson was the former Mabel Dalton of Uxbridge.

Operator of a milk transport business in Oakville for the past four years, Strachan, 37, and his wife, formerly lived in Queensville, north of Newmarket. They have two children, Gary, 14, and Linda 3.

Besides his mother, Mrs. Ross Tomlinson of Newmarket, Tomlinson leaves seven brothers, Carl, Lloyd and Bruce of Toronto; Bert of Queensville; Ben of Keswick; Herbert, Jackson's Point, and George of Cannington.

Mrs. Tomlinson leaves two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Banks of Greenbank, and Mrs. Sidney Bradley of Brampton, and one brother, George Dalton, of King.

Advance Plans Revealed To Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. Navy did something practically unheard of Saturday night.

It announced in advance the probable line-up of ships that were to bombard the Red Korean port of Wonsan today.

"Ships which will probably be at Wonsan next Monday, Feb. 16," the Navy announcement said, "include the destroyers USS De Haven and USS Samuel N. Moore.

"Conducting (mine) sweeping operations in the harbor and surrounding area will be the USS Gladiator and USS Dextrous, assisted by the fleet tug USS Takelma and the landing ships USS Whetstone and USS LST 901."

Such a public announcement, contained in a two-year summary of the seige of Wonsan, would have caused military security officers of another day to turn pale. But evidently in this case the Navy feels the Reds are in no position to retaliate, even if given such specific information.

Train Hurtles Switch, 22 Die

BENEVENTO, Italy (AP) — Speeding at 65 miles an hour, the Bari-Naples express crashed into a closed switch here early Sunday and nine of the 10 cars hurtled off the track. At least 22 persons were killed and 80 injured, 23 seriously.

Police arrested the engineer and his assistant. Authorities blamed the train's excessive speed through a heavy rainstorm for the accident.

Most of the 300 passengers were bound for Naples, where they had booked passage for Venezuela and a new start in life far from overpopulated Southern Italy.

Witnesses said the train raced into Benevento through darkness and rain that cut visibility almost to zero. The engineer hit the closed switch apparently without seeing signal warnings, the witnesses said.

The locomotive plunged onto the station platform, halting on its side. The mail car rammed into a building, injuring a number of workmen standing there. All but the last of the 10 coaches were derailed.

NEAR AIRFIELD

Billy Lavender, photographer for the Mobile Press-Register, said after a flight to the scene of the crash that the plane went down about 12 miles short of Fort Morgan, site of a small airfield.

"Land was less than five minutes flying time from the spot where the plane crashed."

The plane came down in water 90 feet deep. Heavy seas caused it to break up and allow bodies of the victims to float to the surface.

OBITUARIES

MRS. THOMAS E. STRONG

Mrs. Thomas E. Strong, of Millbrook, died at her home on Sunday following a short illness. She was born in Manvers township, Elizabeth Emma, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Nicholson. Following her marriage she moved to Western Canada where her husband homesteaded at Sceptre, Sask. They returned to Millbrook four years ago.

Her husband is the only living survivor. Five sisters and two brothers of Mrs. Strong's predeceased her. She was a member of Millbrook United Church.

Funeral service will be held on Wednesday at the MacPherson funeral home at 2 p.m. The Rev. A. M. Butler will officiate and burial will be at Pontypool cemetery.

200 Bombers Smash Red Troop Area

SEOUL (AP)—More than 200 Allied fighter-bombers smashed at a huge Communist troop and supply buildup area in North Korea today and turned it into a mass of smoke and flames.

Sabre jets, flying a protective screen for the massive raid, clashed with Communist MiG jets deep in northwest Korea. Pilots reported one MiG probably destroyed and two damaged.

The Sabres, outnumbred 45 to 22, shot down two MiGs Sunday, probably destroyed a third and damaged four. They were shielding Allied fighter - bombers which knocked out two generators at the big Suiho hydro-electric plant on the Yalu river boundary of Manchuria.

More than 500 planes turned the giant Suiho plant — the world's fourth largest — into a pile of junk last June 23, but the Communists evidently had rebuilt it.

Salvage Ship Locates Rich Haul

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—A 600-ton British salvage ship has nearly finished salvaging a £250,000 cargo in deep waters off the Australian coast.

A year ago the specially-fitted ship Foremost 17 came to Australia to salvage nearly 2,000 tons of lead, zinc and copper ingots in the sunken freighter Cumberland. The vessel was lying in 300 feet of water off Green Cape, near the New South Wales-Victoria border.

The Cumberland sank in 1917 after hitting a German mine. A salvage expedition in 1938 failed to find her but the Foremost 17, using asdic, found the wreck at the first attempt.

LAYS STRING BUOYS

The Foremost 17, with 31 trained salvage men aboard, laid six permanent buoys in a circle 800 yards across with the wreck in the centre. The ship then was manoeuvred exactly above the Cumberland. This was necessary because the depth and exposed position made ordinary diving methods impossible.

The divers, working from a diving bell and by telephone, supervised the laying of explosive charges and later the actual salvaging. This is done by a 3½ ton "grab" operating from a derrick. When the diver in the bell sees a load in the jaws of the "grab" he signals for them to close and the salvaged material is hauled up and unloaded on deck.

DIVERS REWARDED

The copper has come up as untarnished as the day it left Sydney bound for Britain 35 years ago.

Weather has been the main difficulty. Even a slight swell makes the "grab" swing about the wreck like a pendulum. And in such conditions the diving bell also could be smashed against the side of the wreck. In the first three months' operations there were 29 gales in the area.

When the weather is fine the crew of the salvage ship works day and night. When it roughens she makes for the little port of Eden and every few weeks comes to Sydney to refuel, restore and unload the ingots.

The crew get much more than ordinary seamen and claim they earn it. Last year, after a few months of successful operations, the company flew them all back to Britain for a holiday.

Prices Slip Slightly On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO (CP)—Prices slipped slightly and trading slowed in early afternoon stock market dealings today.

Volume for the first three hours totalled 3,936,000 shares. Low - priced mining issues traded heavily to account for most of the volume.

Strength in papers, utilities and banks bolstered industrials while textiles and miscellaneous issues weakened. Traders Finance A added $2.50 in active trading.

Senior and junior golds were mixed and holding companies followed. Frobisher dropped 45 cents while Inspiration gained.

Higher-priced base metals led the list lower. Cassair, Noranda and Estella weakened.

Family of 9 Left Homeless In Asphodel Fire

NORWOOD (Special)—A man, his wife and seven children escaped from their burning home five miles west of here early Saturday morning without injury. The parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Dugan, who live on the 5th concession of Asphodel township, and the children are William, 14; Lois, 13; Jim, 12; Leone, 11; David, 9; Carol, 7, and Donnie, 3. The two-storey house of frame and log construction was completely destroyed by flames.

Cause of the blaze was thought to be overheated stovepipes from a kitchen stove which ignited the roof of the dwelling. Owner of the house is Richard Coughlin, R.R. 3, Norwood.

Most of the family's personal belongings, including a quantity of recently-purchased bedding, were lost in the fire although they managed to remove some furniture and clothing from the house before the blaze made it impossible to re-enter.

CHILDREN WAKENED

Dugan said that one of the children woke up at about 5:30 a.m. and shook him awake. He ran outside and saw flames bursting through the roof. He turned in an alarm and OPP Constable Tom Armitage, who was first on the scene, said the flames were beyond control when he arrived.

Dugan said he looked at the kitchen stove before retiring Friday night and it contained only a few live coals at the time.

Neighborhood farmers supplied eight boxes of clothing to the homeless family, who were given accommodation in farm homes. The father is a mechanic employed at Richard Patterson's garage in Norwood.

COBOURG (ENS) — Harvey Liggett and Mrs. Liggett, of R.R. 1, Port Hope, were remanded when they appeared on two arson charges. Crown Attorney Harry Deyman asked for a remand while arrangements were made for a mental examination. Magistrate R. B. Baxter remanded them for one week.

2 Doctors Fail To Find Youth Mentally Ill

COBOURG (ENS) — The 15-year-old Collegiate pupil who set three fires to the school on December 11 last and also stole a car on the same date was remanded again Friday when he appeared in police court. The boy has been remanded several times. At the outset, enquiries were made to see if he could get mental treatment through the boys' training school but later the parents informed the court that the services of a Kingston doctor had been secured to treat the boy and prior to the most recent remand, the Kingston doctor filed a report that the accused was neither mentally ill but that his behaviour might be adjusted by mental treatment. This report coincided with an earlier one from Dr. H. C. Moorehouse, of the Ontario Hospital, and Magistrate Baxter made the latest remand in order to see if the boy could be treated through the facilities of the training school without being routed through as an actual inmate of the school.

"I agree with Dr. Moorehouse and Dr. Scott, of Kingston, that the boy needs a mental course of treatment and I think that the only way under the circumstances is by committing him to a boys' training school. He has admitted setting the fires, a very serious offence. The main interest of the court is the welfare of the boy, not his punishment, but I don't feel that he should be released without some control over him, because the court has a duty to the public," said the magistrate in remanding him for one week.

President of the hospital this year is W. F. Scott. Honorary president is H. M. Donald; vice-president is R. J. Locke. Directors are Dr. C. A. Bright, Dr. R. Joliffe of Warkworth, F. S. Linton, Mrs. Jesse Locke and Mrs. R. E. Fox. Secretary is F. S. Linton and the treasurer is R. D. McDonald. The auditors for the year are Coehrane, Bureau and Company.

A. J. Meyers is chairman of the building committee, and Percy White, R. J. Bale and F. G. DeCarroll are members of the committee.

Chairman A. J. Meyers of the building committee gave an estimate of the money needed to complete the new hospital. He gave a statement of assets and liabilities, and in the assets included the present hospital and its equipment, valued at $7,000.

Other assets of the new hospital include $5,708 on deposit in the bank and grants outstanding of almost $106,000. There is an outstanding grant from Seymour township of $10,000 and one from Percy township of $2,500. Pledges not yet paid are $3,000.

OWE $31,500

In the liabilities of the hospital, Mr. Meyers included $31,500 still owing on the General Building Contract. There is $2,400 due on electrical wiring and a little over $1,000 on the installation of plumbing. Estimate for finishing the terazzo floor is $3,200 and for electrical fixtures, $2,000. The installation of ventilators and ducts and motors amounts to $1,700 and a service elevator will cost about $7,500. A dumbwaiter will cost another $500 and insulation on water pipes and other parts of the heating system will run to about $1,500. Land capping the grounds will cost another $1,000.

Painting and decorating the inside walls will cost about $3,000 and the amount necessary to complete and equip the chronic patients ward, with 24 beds, will cost about $15,000. The architects fees on the building are $14,000. A reserve for extra equipment of $45,000 is also listed, as well as a reserve for contingencies of $4,600.

AUTOMATIC ELEVATOR

In discussing the estimates, Mr. Meyers pointed out that the board might consider an automatic type elevator, instead of the one allowed for in the estimates, and that if the automatic type elevator was installed, it would cost nearly double the $7,000 allowed for the elevator.

Grants from the Dominion Government amounted to $1,500 per bed, and from the Provincial Government, the grant averaged $2,000 per bed.

All accounts outstanding were passed for payment at the meeting. Mrs. R. E. Fox reported 10 bolts of drapery material for curtains had been purchased at a cost of about $1,000. The curtains will be made up by members of the Hospital Auxiliary. She reported that so far there are not enough blankets or pillows for the hospital, but that the board had lots of sheeting on hand.

Kitchen equipment and furniture quotations are still coming in, so no decision has been reached on what will be purchased in these departments.

Mr. Percy White read a letter from the Atkinson Foundation, which said that the fund would in all probability make a donation to the hospital, but not until the building was open, or about to open.

Mr. Meyers reported that the plastering would be complete in the next few days, and the walls would be ready to decorate. The terazzo floor needs some polishing, but this also will be completed before the end of February.

It was decided to advertise for the services of a supervisor for the hospital, and that this be done immediately.

Take Down The Photograph, Then

In the large and lofty foyer of Peterborough's handsome new City Hall, beside the sweep of marble steps, above the inlaid floor whose design alone cost several thousand dollars, on the wide and otherwise empty side wall, is a small tinted photograph. Perhaps you have not noticed it—so insignificant is it in the spacious entrance. But that, ladies and gentlemen of Peterborough, is the way Peterborough recalls and honours the visage of your fellow-citizen who left some half million dollars to you and his beloved native city that Peterborough might have a worthy city hall. This is how Peterborough shows its gratitude to the late W. G. Morrow, its munificent benefactor.

* * *

Surely not! you say in consternation. Is not the entire building his memorial? It is, but not in the personal sense of the inscription in St. Paul's to Wren its builder—'if you seek his monument, look about you'. You who attended the opening of the city hall in the late autumn of 1951 will remember the building as a gift, and remember the donor. Will your children and their children so remember? But, you say, there is an inscription—a plaque—with Mr. Morrow's name. True; it is a just and decent tribute. However, there is also the small tinted photograph, so mean in size, so lost in space, an afterthought which has become a shaming forethought. Whether we wish it or not, or like it or not, that photograph becomes for the foyer and whole building the visible record of his city's thanks, the measure of its gratitude. Is Peterborough's heart as small as the photograph?

* * *

The matter was discussed briefly in the Council last week. A citizen had written suggesting that an adequately proportioned good oil portrait be painted to hang where the belittling photograph now specks the wall. Ah! but such a painting might cost $1,500. Well, what if it did? (It need not, by the way.) Why should the city shy away from an outlay like that, a city which has received half a million dollars as a gift to build the hall and which, wisely, afforded to spend several thousand dollars for a map in the floor of the entrance? Pupils of a former principal of the Collegiate have raised more than enough money to secure an oil portrait of their teacher to hang in the new Kenner Collegiate. Are Mr. Morrow's service and generosity not worth the price of similar recognition?

* * *

It has been said that Mr. Morrow was a "very plain man and would have approved the plain photograph". It has been said that the council of 1951 "did as much as Mr. Morrow and the public would have expected". Did it, would they, would he? Time and again in other matters Peterborough people have shown that they are not people of small heart, reluctant gratitude, petty generosity and unconscious of the past and of their debt to those who have served and benefitted this place. The point is not what Mr. Morrow is guessed not to have wished, but what his fellow-citizens wish to do to thank and honour him. We doubt, also, that a man whose achievement in finance and the esteem of his city was as great as Mr. Morrow's, was "plain." He was certainly not as undistinguished as the appearance of the photograph in the foyer.

* * *

Another argument against a portrait is that the architects felt that ornaments or additions of any kind to the walls inside or out would detract from the general effect of the building. We have respect for this opinion, so much so that we think that the small photograph should be removed forthwith to another place where its proportions will not be incongruous—to the Mayor's reception room, for instance. On the other hand, and with due regard for the craft of the architects, are hired advisors of the city (superior ones, of course, for the architects were well paid) to dictate to the people of Peterborough what form their expression of gratitude shall and shall not take? Is the building so perfect as a work of art, so remarkable, that they have this privilege thereby?

* * *

If the city hall is not to have an oil portrait, the citizens and Mr. Morrow should at least be spared the ignominy of a little tinted photograph in the palatial foyer. The photograph may be a good one, in a proper place. Now it offends against good taste, civic pride and thankful hearts.

Mardi Gras

Tomorrow brings an end to a carnival that is probably the longest and gayest held annually anywhere in the world, the New Orleans Mardi Gras. The name—its literal translation is Fat Tuesday—and the carnival both originated in Europe; some historians place the conception of the latter at about 1200 A.D. The carnival is also celebrated in Italy and South America, but not on the same scale as in New Orleans, where is begins on Twelfth Night and gradually builds up to a ten-day period of parades and balls which ends at midnight tomorrow night.

According to reports, New Orleans and the entire State of Louisiana have surpassed all previous efforts this year, and have made the carnival a magnificent spectacle. This year marks the 150th anniversary of what Louisiana citizens call "'America's Best Buy—the Louisiana Purchase", and the anniversary is being celebrated in various ways throughout the year. The territory was bought by the United States in 1803, after it had been transferred from Spain, and the Louisiana citizens are undoubtedly right about its being America's best buy. The U.S. took title to a million square miles of perhaps the most fertile agricultural land in the world for about four cents an acre, and sixteen states, in part or in whole, were carved from the territory.

So Mardi Gras this year has been more brilliant, more expensive and more enthusiastically celebrated than ever before. There was even a Mardi Gras ball in Washington last Friday night, the most elaborate and spectacular ever held outside New Orleans, according to reports. But the "real" Mardi Gras Ball will be held tomorrow night, capping a day which will see a great city at play—a day of elaborate parades and costumes, of capers which include general masking of the public from sunrise to sundown, of merrymaking and make-believe—the last day of feasting and festivities before Lent begins on Ash Wednesday.

Holy Living and Holy Dying

A week ago near New Delhi a man was found dead. In India where death is as commonplace as life this was not extraordinary, even when the dead man was a holy man. The manner of his death was strange and the disclosure of his corpse caused riots.

The man, aged 56, was a yogi, that is, a believer in yoga, a Hindu system of philosophy the essence of which is meditation. In life the mystic never cut his hair or his fingernails. During trances he would live on air, the faithful believed, through a technique by which air is said to be sucked in and made to work like food inside the stomach. In recent years the yogi had taken to going underground to experience his trances.

At the end of last year the yogi decided to go underground to pray for world peace. In preparation he spent two months sitting motionless on a plank above the ground, living on bananas and milk. Two weeks ago the holy man was placed in a wood-lined pit and covered with a mound of sand a foot deep. Thus he was buried alive, without food, without water, and with only the air in the pit to sustain him.

Last week, nine days later, police cleared the sand, lifted the boards from the roof of the pit and found the yogi sitting hunched on a plank inside, garlanded and clad only in a white loincloth. He was dead. A police surgeon examined the body and said that the yogi had been alive in the pit for eight days. Yet there was enough air to suffice only one day.

The feats of Indian holy men are incredible to most westerners whose philosophy of religion is at best Jeremy Taylor's Holy Living and Holy Dying. The holy living of a Yogi is disquieting, his holy dying ridiculous in our clinical, rational civilization. And yet our marvellous science tinkering with the infinite has not attained to the marvels which a yogi achieves in his own transports. On the other hand, the yogi dug up last Saturday did die. Perhaps that is only a scientific assumption; his devotees protested to the police who prepared him for cremation that the holy man was really still in a trance. Well, if a mistake was made the Yogi will have a chance to attain all eight stages of perfection in his soul's other lives.

Cop On The Hill

A coy comparison is made by Time magazine between a highway cop on a hill and the Eisenhower administration's policy. "The psychological warrior supreme is the highway cop who ostentatiously parks his big white car marked POLICE on the brow of a hill, for all drivers to see and worry about. He is no bluff. And he has a tremendous effect on the stream of traffic, and seldom has to get out in hot pursuit. Similarly, last week the Eisenhower Administration went forward with its psychological offensive against the Communist enemy in the Far East, letting enough news of U.S. military potentialities leak out to make its threat a real one."

The analogy is a dangerous simplification. The U.S. is not a cop with a siren but a nation with jet fighters and A-bombs. The Communist enemy is not a citizen owing subjection to U.S. laws, and the "stream of traffic" is not on a U.S. highway (despite U.S. power implications), but millions of people at crossroads of the world.

Musical Notes

By PETER PIPER

THERE IS little doubt that the general public is becoming more interested in opera in English-speaking, countries than ever before. It is unfortunate that ever since the days of Dryden and Addison opera in England has never flourished. There are several possible reasons for this state of affairs. Puritanism has been blamed, though Puritanism has never been able to suppress the spoken drama. It is possible to regard opera and the "legitimate stage" as mutually antagonistic, but this need not necessarily be so. Nevertheless there may be some truth in the theory that opera in its infancy was severaly handicapped by the prior existence of the towering genius of Shakespeare; the young sapling's growth was stunted by the spreading branches of the mighty oak.

◇ ◇ ◇

AS A RESULT this opera came to be looked down upon by the English-speaking intellectual world as "an irrational entertainment" unworthy of serious consideration. The disease was aggravated by the fact that the Italians had by now secured a virtual monopoly in this art form, and opera was always sung in Italian. The few feeble attempts to establish English opera by Arne and others were doomed to failure for lack of public suport. Only in the realm of opera buffa, notably in the case of the Beggars' Opera and later the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas did anything racy and significant arise until quite recently.

◇ ◇ ◇

WE MUST be careful not to overestimate the revival of interest in opera in the English-speaking world. The old prejudices are by no means dead. It is significant, though, that there is a movement towards the revival of the poetic drama, away from drawing-room naturalism towards a more "operatic" conception of the stage. This often entails a considerable use of music, raising it to more than "incidental" status.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE OTHER DAY I attended for the first time in my life a film version of an opera. Actually there were two operas in the one programme for that evening. There have been several other occasions in the past two or three years when I might have attended similar functions, but each time I had been hindered by previous engagements. Quite frankly, though, I was none too keen on going and seeing opera made into mincemeat on the screen. Many of my fears, alas, were too well grounded. Opera on the screen is a very poor substitute for the real thing at the best of times. The music, which after all is the most important component part, all comes out of one loud speaker, and the quality of sound cannot possibly be compared with a live performance.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE TWO operas that I heard were mercilessly cut to enable them both to be shown in the course of one evening. To fill in the gaps and explain the action to an English-speaking audience the characters turned narrator from time to time. It seemed a strange convention for the same characters to sing in Italian and narrate in English. Some time was lost at the beginning of "La Traviata" with an explanation of how Verdi conceived the idea of using the true story of a celebrated Parisian courtesan, Augustine du Plessis (apparently no relation of the Quebec leader), when the exquisite music of the prelude would have explained matters far more satisfactorily; in fact the explanation was confusing to the novice, for Verdi's "Lady of the Camelias" is named Violetta Valery. On the other hand it was not made clear to the average film-goer that Violetta was at the beginning of the opera at any rate a "lady of easy virtue": the over-sumptuous setting and the extreme courtliness of the guests in the first scene gave an impression of the haut monde rather than the demi monde. Thus the objections of Germont pere to Violetta's alliance with his son and her renunciation of her lover, which are difficult enough to sympathize with in these days of the decline of parental authority, are made doubly inexplicable.

◇ ◇ ◇

AS FOR FAUST, why a French opera filmed for the English-speaking world had to be sung in Italian (with a commentary in English spoken by the actors) passes my comprehension, though doubtless it will please those halfwits who turn up their noses at opera unless it is sung in a foreign language! To my mind the greatest obstacle to the acceptance of opera as a living force is this stupid insistence on presenting opera in a foreign language, regardless of whether it be the original version. Strangely enough the famous aria "Even Bravest Heart" was omitted from the film version. As a point of interest this aria was not in the first version of the opera but was composed specially by Gounod to be sung by the famous English baritone of the nineteenth century, Santley, in the first English performance of the work at Covent Garden. The original lyric was written in English, but when the opera returned to France French words were added, and even English-speaking singers seem to prefer to sing it in French at recitals or on records—or perhaps they are just pandering to this morbid craving for an unknown tongue.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN SPITE OF all these strictures I would not like to give the impression that I disapprove entirely of opera on the screen. If I lived in a centre where I could go to live opera performances regularly I would not bother about opera films; but I am acutely conscious of the proposition that half a loaf is better than no loaf at all. Perhaps it is not quite accurate to say no loaf at all, for I shall shortly be seeing a performance by the opera school of the Toronto Conservatory, which is visiting various centres in Ontario. They will present Mozart's Cosi fan Tutte in English, I am glad to report. Unfortunately they will not be bringing an orchestra (Mozart's operatic orchestration, though unobtrusive, is a delight in itself), but will be relying on two pianos. I am looking forward to an enjoyable evening, thanks to the local branch of the Rotary Club, which is sponsoring the venture.

◇ ◇ ◇

CONGRATULATIONS TO Dr. Ralph Vaughan Williams, Grand Old Man of English music. He has recently written a new symphony entitled "Sinfonia Antartica" (Antarctic Symphony), incorporating some of the memorable music he wrote for the film "Scott of the Antarctic", which you must have seen and heard. He employs a large orchestra including piano, bells, wind machine, xylophone, vibraphone and organ. He has also married again (his first wife died in 1951)—not bad for a youngster of 80! As a composer VW is still developing and delving further into new possibilities. He might well have taken as his motto the title of his first big work—Toward the Unknown Region. At the risk of sounding too ecstatic I would venture to say that there is something thrilling in the thought that we still have this great man living and producing new and significant music; may he long be spared.

A FUTILE HOPE?

PAKISTAN FISHERMAN

Disturber With 50 Wives

By RAWLE KNOX

AN ILLITERATE fisherman with an estimated fifty wives is still managing to spatter pebbles into the calm waters of Burma-Pakistan relations.

He is Cassim, self-styled "ex-Major" (army unknown), leader of the Mujahids, or Muslim crusaders, who have for years been marauding up and down the Arakan coast of Burma. A recent push by the Burma Army in the Naaf River area has successfully scattered Cassim and his followers, but has not ended diplomatic exchanges. The Burmese believe that Cassim is now in East Pakistan; the Pakistanis that he is still in Burma.

The Burma-East Pakistan border is indifferently demarcated and not always known. Even where the frontier is certain the forest and jungle are so dense that it is impossible to guard effectively everywhere. In these conditions it is hardly surprising that units and planes of the Burma Army, in their current campaign against Cassim, have occasionally perhaps violated Pakistan territory. Earlier this month Pakistan was forced to lodge three protests on this score in two days.

◇ ◇ ◇

EVERYTHING HAS now been settled (apart from the whereabouts of Cassim), except for the ownership of one of the twenty-one small islands in the Naaf River where it forms the boundary between Burma and Pakistan. Here a Pakistani administration is in occupation and the local commander of the Burma Army has been calling on it to surrender.

Pakistan claims that she has been administering this island since her independence in 1947, and that the Bengal Government had jurisdiction there from 1935, when Burma was separated from India. But the Burmese have a map to prove equally soundly that the island should be Burmese.

Pakistan has proposed a joint boundary commission, but Burma has declined the suggestion. Presumably she considers Cassim has caused enough trouble already.

The disagreement would never have arisen but for the suspicion in Burmese minds that some Pakistan officials in East Pakistan had been helping the Mujahids who, since 1947, have been claiming that a section of the Northern Arakan should be given to Pakistan.

Pakistan has always denied utterly that any official help has been given to Cassim on her side of the frontier. Last week an East Pakistan judge sentenced six Mujahids, who had been arrested, to long terms of imprisonment.

◇ ◇ ◇

UNOFFICIAL HELP for the Mujahids has been unavoidable. Citizens of both countries move daily to and fro over the loosely demarcated border and have relatives on either sides. When, in 1942, during the period of semi-anarchy following the British retreat from Burma, Cassim began his campaign in the name of the Arakan Muslims, he was popular. The Arakan Muslims had always felt themselves discriminated against in favour of the Buddhist Burmese and Christian Mughs. By 1950, in a campaign of terror, Cassim had almost entirely cleared the whole area of Buddhists and Christians, and was looking to further conquest.

Unfortunately for him he chose to begin on the daughters of prominent local Muslims. Acting on the statement of his private maulvi (priest) that he was the new Caliph, Cassim annexed wives where he wished. He had also married other girls to his followers with the professed object of forming a "new aristocracy" in the Arakan. Soon, Muslim refugees, fleeing into East Pakistan, began to turn the tide of feeling against the Mujahids.

At the end of last September, Cassim had his northern area commander, Akter Hussain, with whom he had become reconciled after a split, clubbed to death. He was beginning to feel that every man's hand was against him.

By November he had been forced by the Burma Army's advance to evacuate his Taungbro HQ and to retreat to Alethangyaw, near the Pakistan border. Now the Government has occupied Alethangyaw and, so long as the Burma Army is able to garrison the Arakan, the Mujahids are beaten.

But Burma and Pakistan are still politely arguing about the island which, but for Cassim, would have worried no one.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version).

The Lord gave the word: great was the company of those that published it. (Ps. 68: 11.)

◇ ◇ ◇

These things write I unto thee, hoping to come unto thee shortly: but if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth. (I Tim. 3: 14, 15.)

◇ ◇ ◇

What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him? Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works. (James 2: 14, 15.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Shew me thy ways, O Lord; teach me thy paths. Lead me in thy truth, and teach me: for thou art the God of my salvation; on thee do I wait all the day . . . All the paths of the Lord are mercy and truth unto such as keep his covenant and his testimonies. (Ps. 25: 4, 5, 10.)

Letter To The Editor

CARE OF CROWN OF THORNS

Sir: Replying to your inquiry re—Crown of Thorns (Euphorbious Splendous).

Having had one twenty years, I found that the leaves fell off every year at this time even while in bloom. They like a moist atmosphere, but not much water, about twice a week. Do not allow the dirt to get over-wet or muddy. I have had them four feet high, then cut them in half and plant the top half, but you have to be sure and put earth on the part you cut off and the remaining part too. Once every three weeks I give them Fertabs.

Hoping this will prove satisfactory, I remain,

Sincerely,
MRS. F. R. ARMSTRONG

MAKE CORONATION GIFTS

Sir: Not often would it seem that the former King Farouk deserves a pat on the back—but a recent news item told of the cancellation of elaborate plans for a party in order to send the $2,500 (the proposed cost of party) to aid flood victims in Holland.

It appears to me that some citizens of Peterborough are whipping, or are allowing themselves to be whipped into a Christmas-like frenzy over the Coronation—and are forgetting as usual the basic reason for celebration.

The Wise Men bore gifts to the Christ Child for their celebration—would it not follow that our love, pride, and goodwill for our Queen and her Duke be shown by bearing a gift—say for flood relief operations in the recent storms? This work must be of deep concern to Her Majesty.

This talk of paper and tinsel decoration of our city is but show—no profit to anyone—except perhaps the manufacturer and distributor of the materials. I shudder to think of more pink birthday cakes.

Why not spend this otherwise lost money on something to celebrate—as proof of our maturity and warmth of heart in giving instead of the pomp and callousness of showing?

Sincerely,
A LOWLY HOUSEWIFE.

IN VICTORIA: "But I gave all our party members maps of how to get here . . ."

Five Firms Bid To Sell Gas To U.S. Northwest

WASHINGTON (CP) — Five companies go before the Federal Power Commission here Monday with proposals to serve the Pacific Northwest of the United States with natural gas. Four of them propose to use the gas which lies like buried treasure under the soil of Western Canada.

The growing Pacific northwest is the largest geographical area in the U.S. still without natural gas. The FPC, considering the application in a consolidated hearings, may grant any of the five companies authority to serve the area.

Of the five applicants, two still need Canadian permission for exporting from the Dominion the gas they propose to pipe to markets in the states of Washington, Oregon and Idaho. Two others have already received Canadian approval and a fifth company would tap U.S. resources in the San Juan basin of Colorado and New Mexico.

The question of Canadian approval was one of the big questions when the applications first went before the FPC in hearings last July. They were opposed by various U.S. railroad and coal interests and by a Canadian firm, Trans-Canada Pipe Lines Ltd

George Horning, counsel for Trans-Canada, said at that time that Canada's policy was to discourage gas exports to the U.S.

Charles Shannon, counsel for Westcoast Transmission Company, Inc., Wilmington, Del., one of the applicants, said Canada had more gas than it could possibly use and more was being discovered daily.

PEACE RIVER

Since then Westcoast Transmission Company, Ltd., a Canadian associate of the Wilmington firm, has received provincial and Dominion approval to tap the vast Peace river field for export

Now the Wilmington firm is linked in its application with Trans-Northwest Gas, Inc., of Spokane, Wash., which also proposes to get its gas from Peace river.

To move this gas to market, the Canadian firm would build a 960-mile pipeline from the Alberta-British Columbia border to Vancouver and the U.S.-Canada line. The whole project to tap the Canadian fields and serve the Washington-Oregon market would cost in the neighborhood of $147,000,000.

The companies still lacking Canadian permission for export are Northwest Natural Gas Company, New York, and the Glacier Gas Company of Butte, Mont.

The fifth company is Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corp., Houston, Tex., whose plans call for a main 1,466-mile pipeline from Ignacio, Colo., where it would tap the San Juan reserves.

India To Nationalize Airlines April 1

By HAROLD K. MILKS

NEW DELHI (AP) — India has set April 1 as the target date for starting nationalization of its internal and international airlines.

At the same time the government has increased its pressure on the United States and other countries with airlines operating to India, for curtailment of their services to give India a greater share of the international travel business.

India has nine privately operated airlines and one government company.

Patterned after the British system, India plans two state-owned corporations, one to handle its internal air services, and the other its international routes.

India's government had two stout clubs backing its nationalization program.

One was the threat to cut off government subsidies which since India's independence have kept the private airlines alive. The other was the withholding of government loans to finance the purchase of modern transports to replace existing equipment, most of it dating back to the Second World War.

The nationalization scheme involves payment of an estimated 40,000,000 ($8,400,000) to shareholders of the private companies, against paid up capital of 60,000,000 rupees ($12,600,000) in the nine airlines.

Boss of India's international air services is J. R. D. Tata, Bombay industrialist and present head of Air India, International, the country's Bombay-to-London air service, and of Air India, the nation's largest internal airline.

Selection of a chairman for the internal airlines corporation is still under discussion.

With the approach of nationalization, India is seeking a guaranteed market, especially for its international air services.

Basic contention of the Indian government is that Article IV of the Indo-American air agreement signed November 14, 1946, which says "the primary objective is the provision of capacity (of seats) adequate to the traffic demands between the country of which such airline is a national and the country of ultimate destination" means that American airlines should primarily serve only direct passengers between India and the United States.

INSIST ON RIGHT

Both the U.S. government and the American flag airlines insist that "orderly development" of air services gives them the right to carry unlimited passengers from way-points to or through India.

Indian regulations already ban the carrying of passengers between two points within India by foreign airlines.

Developments expected to follow the nationalization include purchase of modern multi-engined aircraft. British-built Vickers four turboprop Viscounts or American twin-engined Convair 340's have both been considered as basic for India's internal services. Internationally, Super-Constellations appear to be first choice.

Another development is expected to be expansion of international services of Indian flag planes westward across the Atlantic to the United States or Canada, and eastward from Calcutta to Tokyo via Hong Kong.

Believe Pope Pius XII's Successor To Be Italian

By PATRICK CROSSE

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—The eventual successor of Pope Pius XII as supreme pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church is almost certain to be an Italian, according to experts who have studied the new composition of the college of cardinals.

The college was brought to its full strength of 70 for the first time in nearly 200 years at ceremonies held by the 76-year-old Pope in January.

One of the main functions of the college, meeting in secret conclave, is to elect a new Pope when necessary.

For many years, Pius XII was said to be planning to transform the college, giving non-Italian cardinals an overwhelming majority.

This would have greatly increased the possibilities of a non-Italian pope. The last such Pope was a Dutchman, Adrian VI, who reigned briefly in 1522 and 1523.

BREAKS WITH TRADITION

The present Pope broke sharply with tradition when, at his first consistory in 1946, he gave the college of cardinals a non-Italian majority.

But in his selection of 24 new cardinals Jan. 12 he did not promote the non-Italians to the critical point at which they alone could choose the next Pope.

In the list of some 262 popes, only about 35 have been non-Italians. Sixteen of these were French, five Syrian, four Greek, three German, two Spanish, two Portuguese, one Dutch, one English and one Dalmatian.

The majority of Italian Popes have been Romans, as is Pope Pius XII, scion of a family ennobled nearly 100 years ago by Pope Pius IX.

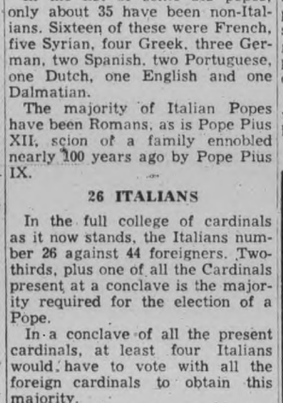
26 ITALIANS

In the full college of cardinals as it now stands, the Italians number 26 against 44 foreigners. Two-thirds, plus one of all the Cardinals present at a conclave is the majority required for the election of a Pope.

In a conclave of all the present cardinals, at least four Italians would have to vote with all the foreign cardinals to obtain this majority.

But experience has shown that Italian cardinals usually vote together, not necessarily because of national feeling but because the Italian cardinals meet each other occasionally and those in Rome, engaged in helping the Pope in the central government of the church, know all the other cardinals.

Thus when the conclave meets, there is a nucius of well-informed Italian cardinals from whom th foreign cardinals are often glad to take the lead.



POLITICAL IMPORTANCE

Furthermore, even if the nationality of the Pope would be of little importance from an administrative point of view, it is always likely within the foreseeable future to have a certain political importance.

At the end of the war, for instance, there was speculation here on the chances of the next Pope being an American. International political developments since then, however, appear to have made this improbable.

From the political point of view, the non-Italian countries best placed to proffer a candidate for the pontifical throne seem to be the small Catholic nations such as Belgium and Portugal, which cannot play a decisive role on the stage of world affairs.

But the cardinals of such countries have little chance of being known to all their colleagues.

ADJUDICATOR—Pierre Lefevre, who has an international reputation as an actor, will adjudicate the Dominion Drama Festival finals at Victoria, B.C., May 4-9. Mr. Lefevre, who adjudicated the regional finals last year, was born in New York City and has appeared on the stage in England, Holland, Belgium and other European countries. He served for a time in the French army during the Second World War. He landed in Normandy as a war correspondent right after D-Day and later was accredited to Canadian army headquarters for a time.

Swanson Derides 3-D Films As Flash In Pan

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gloria Swanson today threw a damper on Hollywood's enthusiasm for three-dimensional films.

"They will be a flash in the pan," she remarked. "After the novelty is over, the film industry will be faced with the same big problems."

Miss Swanson is uniquely equipped for commenting on the film industry. She is one of Hollywood's all-time great stars and has spent the majority of her years in and around the film business. But she has remained detached enough from the movie whirl to keep it in perspective.

"After I made 'Sunset Boulevard' in 1950," she said, "I went on a 35-city tour to exploit the picture. I talked to people in all walks of life and learned some startling things about the picture business.

"One of the things I learned was that the older generations had abandoned the movies. They could no longer identify themselves with the movies since they could not see their favorites of their own age. Hollywood aimed its appeal at youth and neglected the millions of more mature citizens.

TOO COSTLY

"Another thing I found out — it was just too much trouble and expense for many people to go out to the movies. It's a major production for a couple to attend a theatre.

"The industry will still have to face these problems when the thrill of new-dimensional movies has past. That's why I think the only real future for films is in developing some kind of box to collect money for movies on TV."

While peering into the future, the actress predicted that life again will be centred in the home. She cited the great increase in home buying and the decentralization of cities.

"It is the greatest thing that could happen to us," she commented. "It will mean bigger families and happier people. We will get back to the basic qualities of life and not be forced to seek entertainment away from home."

Holstein's Lucky 13th

STRATFORD (CP)—Friday the 13th proved a double luck day for Lenni Brae Betty Posch, six-year-old Holstein cow. She gave birth Friday to her second set of heifer calves within three years. The cow, owned by Clarence Innes, RR 2, St. Pauls, is strictly a heifer producer. In 1950 a single heifer was born. In January, 1951 she gave birth to a set of twins. This was followed last year with the birth of a single heifer and then Friday's twins.

Says Way Of Life May Provoke Many Cases Of Heart Disease

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—Three words —way of life—may hold the key to help us escape heart diseases, says Dr. Paul D. White, prominent heart specialist of Boston.

Way of life includes the food we eat, the work and exercise we do and don't do and attitudes, he explained in an interview.

All have changed radically in the last 30 to 40 years, during which heart and blood vessel diseases have become leading killers.

How much, Dr. White asks has the change in our way of life brought about the rise in heart diseases?

He urges research to find out. There's good evidence that wealthy people suffer more from heart attacks, high blood pressure and hardening of arteries than those who have a different way of life, said Dr. White, Harvard University medical school professor and executive director of the National Heart Advisory Council.

MORE EXERCISE NEEDED

Today most of us do less physical work than formerly. We ride autos instead of walking or bicycling.

"We ought to study what this change means. It might be good for the hearts of men and women to do more of their own chores. They would get exercise, learn more humility—and save some money."

The tempo of life has cnanged, he continues. Would peace of mind, equanimity, patience, bring better chances for longer life and less debilitating disease?

Dr. White, who just won the first Albert Lasker award for distinguished achievement against cardiovascular diseases, urges study of people abroad whose way of life differs sharply inside the same countries.

NO HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

One study of 1,000 agricultural workers in Brazil—persons 18 to 80 with a great number of them middle-aged—found not a single one with high blood pressure. But high blood pressure is fairly common among well-to-do persons who eat better and do much less physical work.

Another study finds more coronary heart disease among Jews coming to Israel from European countries than among Jews emigrating from the Middle East and North African areas. Why?

By enough of this type of research, we may find that our way of life is killing us with heart ailments, he said.

"Are we really civilized living this way? We have conquered many infectious diseases, and banished much malnutrition—but find all that replaced with cardiovascular diseases. Is that really civilized?"

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

A couple of Norwood hockey fans, Leo Flaker and Yarley Sunstrum, have a few things to say to criticism by Manager Rutherford of the Campbellford TVL team directed against Norwood early last week in this pillar. They say Mr. Rutherford is to blame for Norwood not being allowed to use players Robinson and Ferguson to make five Norwood players in the lineup. And they add that Norwood has but five players of the former Eagles. Nor did they use four different goalies since the screening of Jan. 11— though they admit Wootton dropped back from defence one game to replace Nicholls, who received a bad cut, the sub-goalie not being present.

* * * * * *

"Rules were certainly changed two or three times this season, otherwise all this rumpus wouldn't have been caused," they pointed out. "To our knowledge games have not been delayed due to Norwood players not being on time. The few hockey fans may have been misinformed but we think Norwood has had harsh criticism, which was unnecessary, and we hope that Norwood fans are not guilty of the profane language which has been heard from other fans in this league." They argued that junior Oddfellows came to Norwood of their free will and were not played on nights of junior games. Another thing claimed was that Norwood let two home players go to Campbellford, feeling one wasn't as good as could be obtained and because the other was unable to make up his mind where he wished to play. The pair told us that Mr. Rutherford couldn't form his own league without approval of other TVL officials. As a final kicker they stated "Mr. Rutherword didn't mention that he asked Bob Thorpe to coach Campbellford for $25 a week salary, after him raising cain because Norwood wanted to play him."

Glens Fight Hard, Too

Belleville Glens are fighting furiously, too, to grab a senior "B" playoff berth, and they downed Stouffville 2-0 Saturday to move up to a 26-point tie with Kingston. Petes have 23 points but could narrow the Quinte lead again to half a game if they can yank out a win o'er the Glens here tonight. This is the last home scheduled game for the Ellis squad, and they have one more away next Friday in Kingston. Both are of the utmost importance as it's a three-way fight right down to the wire, only two of these clubs making playoffs. The battle here tonight is the big one—and should be a real sizzler.

* * * * * *

A few extras on tap at Civic tonight, along with this bangup senior puck scrap. Besides the draw for the car, the Jimmy Drummond Memorial Trophy will be presented by Dit Clapper to the Petes' most valuable player (as picked by Walf Smillie, Bud La Branche, George Ludgate and The Examiner sports editor) with a smaller replica to keep. Also flowers for that player's wife or girl friend. Gus Leonard won the cup last year. Lenore Drummond put this trophy up in memory of her hockey-playing husband who died here several years ago, and it's for the local senior puckster judged most valuable in his team during the current season. Player prizes also will be given tonight by the Hockey Club, by the T-P-T (sponsors), Black's, Silver's, Labatt's and Clapper's. A large evening.

So, It's IOOF And Vics

OHA sub-committee decided at a meeting Saturday that there was no time for a Lindsay-Oddfellows' series to settle third and fourth places in the group standing, so IOOF-ers take over third spot due to having a better average during the season in goals for and against. That means Lindsay and Belleville tangle in one set of the best-of-five group semi-finals, with Oddfellows and Kingston in the other series. Doug Mortimer's young men are off to Kingston tonight to open play. Second of the sawoffs will be back here Friday, and there must be a winner declared within two weeks. Time runs along.

* * * * * *

Larry Moquin, the hard-hitting pro grappler, who climbed into the ring here last week to maul both the Mask and Hi Lee when they gypped Whipper and Yukon Eric to win the main bout at the Brock, has been matched with Eric. They go as a team against Lee and the hooded one in the top bout of the grapple card this Wednesday in the Brock bump emporium— no, we didn't take in the big dance there last Friday. Moquin throws fists like Dempsey in his prime, and is a real tough hombre in the ring. He and huge Eric should do okay against the villains. Pat Flanagan tackles Joe Christie in the semi-final, while Frank Valois faces Frank Taylor in the prelim.

Greenshirts Upset Marlies 2-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The small fry of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series are having themselves a time, at the expense of the big boys, as the schedule draws to a close.

Sunday the cellar-dwelling Kitchener-Waterloo Greenshirts delighted a sellout crowd of 13,132 fans in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens, by swatting the third-place Toronto St. Michael's 2-1.

In Windsor, the eighth-place Spitfires defeated Quebec Citadelles 5-0 in a junior interlocking game that saw a total of 138 minutes in penalties handed out.

The leaders of the Ontario and Quebec loops, Toronto Marlboros and Montreal Canadiens, met Sunday and the Canadiens won 4-2.

GENERALS WIN

Action in the OHA Junior A series Saturday saw Oshawa Generals down Guelph Biltmores 6-5 and St. Michael's defeat Galt Black Hawks 3-1 in overtime.

In the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association Sunday, Three Rivers Reds shut out Montreal Royals 5-0.

Kitchener's victory Sunday came on goals by Ken and Harry Collins. Jack Caffery scored for St. Mikes.

In the first half of the Gardens' double-header Henri Richard paced Montreal Canadiens with two goals. Guy Rousseau and Yvon Chasles scored the others. Gerry James and Billy Harris counted for the Nilies.

Windsor's penalty-studded game (34 minors, four majors and five misconducts) was Dennis Riggin's fourth shutout of the season. It was Quebec's third straight loss on their current Ontario tour. The Windsor goals went to Bob Brown with two, Joe Zorica, Ed Louttit and Ted Reid.

OVERTIME GOALS

St. Mikes' win Saturday night was credited to overtime goals by Jim Logan and Ted Toppazzini who also scored Toronto's first goal. Hec Lalonde tallied for Galt.

Bob Attersley paced Oshawa to victory with a pair of goals. The others went to Jack Armstrong, Stan Parker, Bill Stewart and and Roger Maisonneuve. Guelph scorers were Jim Connelly, Danny Blair, Chuck Henderson, Ron Murphy and Bill Shack.

In Three Rivers Yvan Houle led the Reds' victory with three goals. Ray St. Cyr and Gerard Bergeron notched the others.

There is no action in either league tonight. Tuesday Quebec winds up its Ontario tour at Galt. Oshawa is at Windsor, St. Michael's are at St. Catharines and Guelph is at Kitchener.

Montreal Royals meet Montreal Canadiens in Tuesday's Quebec action.

Curling Rinks Make Playoffs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Len Haw's Calgary Glencoe Club rink will represent Alberta in the Canadian curling championships at Sudbury starting March 3.

Haw's foursome gained provincial laurels Saturday night by turning back Matt Baldwin of Edmonton Granite Club, the northern champion, 12-10 in an extra playoff match. The two squads wound up the four-team round-robin with identical records.

Jimmy Hill and his northern Delisle rink captured the Saskatchewan championship and the right to play at Sudbury by defeating Harold Clayton of Regina 11-6.

The Reg Stone rink from Trail won the right to represent British Columbia at the Canadian championships by edging the Dan Topping rink of Summerland 7-6.

Ralph Noble's rink of the Moncton Beaver Curling Club took the New Brunswick title by edging the R. T. McCully rink of the same club, 10-8. The winners will represent New Brunswick at Sudbury.

Mercurys Clinch Top Spot In Senior OHA

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Final placings in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series were established during the weekend, with Owen Sound Mercurys leading the seven-team loop.

Five games are to be played this week to finish out the 169-game schedule, but they will not affect the present standings.

The four leading teams begin the semi-finals next weekend: Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen and Stratford Indians start their best-of-seven series Saturday. The series between Brantford Redmen and the Mercurys will get under way Monday, Feb. 23. The two winners will play a best-of-seven final for the OHA championship. The titleholder will then meet the winner of the Northern Ontario Senior A southern group, starting March 30. That winner then faces the titlist of the Eastern Canada Senior loop, starting April 11.

DATES DRAWN

The dates were drawn up at a meeting of all senior A clubs but Hamilton.

The meeting agreed with an OHA executive request that dressing-room accommodation in Brantford and Hamilton arenas be cleaned up and made presentable.

The meeting also unanimously approved a motion that the OHA executive obtain from the present sponsor of Hamilton Tigers assurance that he will ice a team of senior A calibre next season or that sponsorship be turned over to other parties.

The semi-final dates:

Series A: Feb. 12, Kitchener at Stratford; Feb. 25, Stratford at Kitchener; March 4, Stratford at Kitchener; March 6, Kitchener at Stratford; March 7, Stratford at Kitchener; March 9, Kitchener at Stratford.

SERIES B

Series B: Feb. 23, Brantford at Owen Sound; Feb. 24, Owen Sound at Brantford; Feb. 27, Owen Sound at Brantford; Feb. 28, Brantford at Owen Sound; March 3, Brantford at Owen Sound; March 6, Owen Sound at Brantford; March 9, Brantford at Owen Sound.

The Mercurys clinched first place Saturday night by whipping the fifth-place Chatham Maroons 13-4. The win gave them 67 points. They have two more games on tap. Tonight they meet the last-place Hamilton Tigers and Tuesday they play at Kitchener.

Stratford was assured of second place despite a 6-3 defeat suffered Saturday at the hands of the Dutchmen. The Indians now have 62 points, three more than the third-place Dutchies with 59 points. But the Dutchmen, with only one more game scheduled, cannot move out of third place. Brantford Redmen were idle during the week-end but with their 50 points and two more games to go (against Hamilton on Tuesday and Thursday) they are assured of fourth and the last playoff spot. Chatham is in fifth place, with 43 points, and has one more game to play with Stratford Wednesday.

The third game Saturday saw Sarnia Sailors defeat Hamilton 5-4 and finish their season in sixth place with 41 points.

DISASTROUS SEASON

The Tigers are rounding out a disastrous season. They have won only two of 45 games and have two more to go.

First place in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Senior A southern group was assured last week for Sudbury Wolves, but the fight continues for second spot in the four-team loop. North Bay Trappers Saturday moved into a second-place tie with Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds by defeating the Hounds 3-2. But Sunday they missed a chance to take over sole possession by suffering a 5-4 defeat from the last-place Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians.

The Hounds have the better chance of sniping second place with two games on hand, against the Wolves Tuesday and the Trappers Wednesday. The Wolves and Indians round out the season Wednesday.

In Owen Sound Saturday Bill McComb and Mike Bukacheski paced the Mercury win with three goals each. Buck Forslund added two and the others went to Tommy Burlington, Jack Ingoldsby, Andy Grant, Jerry Reid and Ray McCallum.

Ernie Dick scored a pair for Chatham and the others went to Reg Campbell and Ed Didone.

KITCHENER GOALS

Kitchener's goals were fired by Jack McKenzie and Paul Oliver with two each, Maurice Leveque and Doug Verity.

Mickey Roth scored two for Stratford. The other went to Pat Wilson.

Coach Vern Gardiner and Harry O'Connor paced Sarnia's attack with two goals each. The other went to Don Emms. Hamilton scorers were Bill Hammond, Jim McWhirter, Stan Ritchie and Ron Morgan.

Saturday's NOHA game saw Don Hogan, Bert Hogg and Bill Dwyer tally for the Trappers. Roy Hexiemer and Ron Lay counted the Hound goals.

Sunday defenceman Dan O'Connor tallied a pair for the Indians. Laurie Petersen, Johnny Lumley and Vip Palladino notched the others. Hogan potted three for the Trappers and Chick Cecchini got the other.

Toronto Squeezes Out Win In Overtime Cage Tilt Against Outboard Marines

Basketball fans' hopes for an Ontario championship this year were brightened Saturday night when the Marines forced Toronto Central YMCA into overtime before losing out 70-68. The two-point loss to one of Toronto's strongest YMCA teams and the fact that Marines matched Central point-for-point all the way indicates that Peterborough has a possible contender for the Ontario intermediate "B" title this year.

Central YMCA has played in a senior Toronto league with Tri-Bells and other senior clubs during the past several years. But this year Central Y dropped to intermediate "A" and in four starts have remained undefeated.

Central came within seconds of losing their first as Marines threatened to tie the score and go ahead in the five-minute overtime session, but time ran out.

SEWED IT UP

In the last 35 seconds of regulation time, Doug MacPherson's Marines whipped in three points to tie the game at 61-all. Marines went up three in the opening overtime minute but faded and Central went up five as the Marines' passes went astray. In the final 10 seconds, Gord Burns dropped in two foul shots. Just as Marines took possession the buzzer went.

Although the passing wasn't good at times, the shooting by both teams was the best this season. The Central and Marine players were making one-hand and two-hand shots from all difficult angles, playing hooks and shovel shots with ease. Oddly enough, Marines failed to capitalize on the layup shots as Central hurried or checked them up.

Both teams concentrated on offence in the first quarter with Central emphasizing excellent shooting, especially by Rolf Sheel, and Marines the quick break, featuring Bill Edger. But Central took a 19-16 quarter score.

Within two minutes the score was tied at 21-all as Chum Frise and Warren Smith worked the hoop from close in. Marines still paced by Frise and Smith took the lead by five points but Central came back to tie the score 32-all at the half on foul shots.

CHANGED HANDS

The lead changed hands no less than three times in the third quarter with both teams having leads as much as five points at times. Ab Stewart and Smith rallied the Marines twice, while Central's Bert Novis and Marley Hughes paced the Toronto "Y" cagers. But despite their efforts the quintettes were deadlocked at 48-all at three quarters.

Novis continued to hit the hoop regularly in the fourth quarter as Central went up five points only to have Marines again tie the score on points by Hugh Dibben, Al Northcott and Stewart. Novis again put Central up but again Northcott and Stewart combined to tie the score at 61-all in the last few seconds.

Long passes during the last two minutes of over-time were off the receivers and Marines failed to overcome Central's slight lead.

LINEUPS

Marines (68)—Edger 9, Dibben 9, Stewart 15, Trimm, Frise 5, Burns 5, Smith 13, Gillespie 4, Northcott 8.

Central YMCA (70)—Novis 13, McGuire 9, Hughes 15, Zenter 7, Scvheel 18, Wiley 8.

Henry Defeated In Finals By Toronto Pair

SUDBURY (CP)—Don Smythe of Toronto Boulevard Club and Marjorie Schedd of Toronto Carlton Club Sunday retained their Ontario Badminton Association singles titles.

In the finals Smythe defeated Bev Wescott of Toronto Badminton and Rackets Club 15-7, 15-8.

Joan Warren, also of Toronto Carlton, gave Miss Shedd her title by default. Miss Warren twisted a knee in the first game of the final, after picking up a 5-0 lead.

The women's doubles title went to Marjorie Shedd and Joan Hennessy by default.

DOUBLES HONORS

Smythe teamed with Bud Porter of Toronto Badminton and Rackets to capture men's doubles honors. They defeated topseeded Grant Henry and Dick Sebben of Toronto Strathgowan, 13-15, 15-5, 15-9.

Barbara Ince and Dick Birch of Toronto Carlton retained their mixed doubles championship with a 15-8, 15-13 victory over Edith Marshall and Porter.

Sudbury players won most of the consolation titles. Harvey Nadeau of Sudbury took the men's singles consolation, and Noreen Cossar of Toronto Strathgowan won the women's consolation.

Bill Parkes of Woodstock was knocked out by Smythe in the men's singles semi-finals, 15-3, 15-1.

Hockey Talent

REGINA (CP)—A record registration was established this year by the Saskatchewan Amateur Hockey Association. A total of 206 teams entered for the annual playoffs, compared with the record of 184 a year ago.

Wings Down Hawks As Howe Gets 200th Goal

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

The largest crowd of the National Hockey League season paid tribute Sunday night to hockey's newest super-star. If there was any doubt about Gordie Howe's status before, the big rightwinger from Floral, Sask., silenced any detractors Sunday with the show he put on for 16,518 fans at Chicago. Undoubtedly a large proportion of the crowd came to see the 24-year-old sharpshooter make another try for the 200th goal of his career, after failing to make it in two previous tries.

It took Howe a minute and four seconds to convert Ted Lindsay's pass into No. 200, becoming the 25th man in NHL history and the eighth now active to accomplish the feat.

Howe then yielded the spotlight to team-mate Tony Leswick, who rattled in two goals in 40 seconds. But early in the third frame Gordie put the finishing touches on Detroit's 4-1 victory over the Hawks with his second goal of the night.

CAN COAST NOW

That left him with 16 games in which to get the 10 goals he needs to break the one-season record of 50 set by Montreal's Maurice Richard eight years ago. That mark was set in a 50-game schedule—as against the present 70—but against lower-calibre wartime competition.

Also within easy reach is the total-point record of 86 for a single season, set by Gordie himself two years ago, and equalled last season. He needs 13 points to improve on that mark.

The only break the Wings gave the partisan feelings of the Chicago crowd Sunday was in allowing Bill Mosienko to score the goal that averted a shutout.

The victory enabled the Wings to increase their NHL lead to four points over the second-place Montreal Canadiens, who battled Toronto Maple Leafs to a rugged 2-2 Saturday and took a 1-0 beating from the Bruins in Boston the next night.

The Bruin victory, coupled with a 3-4 victory over New York Rangers Saturday, enabled Boston to leap-frog Chicago into third place. The Leafs, picking on the Rangers for a 2-1 victory in New York Sunday, elbowed the unhappy Hawks down another notch and claimed the fourth rung. The three clubs are single points apart.

The Leafs and Canadiens slugged it out with abandon, earning 66 minutes in penalties. Bobby Hassard and Sid Smith of the Leafs and Butch Bouchard and Dick Gamble of the Habitants looked after the scoring.

Boston's Fleming Mackell came within a second of equalling an NHL mark when he scored the first goal against New York just nine seconds after the opening whistle. The Bruins rattled home three more against Leo Reise's singleton in the free-scoring period, Jerry Toppazzini, Ed Sandford, Hal Laycoe and John McIntyre finding the mark.

The Rangers spent the rest of the game climbing uphill. A tally by Wally Hergesheimer and two by Ed Kullman narrowed the gap, but that was all.

NESTERENKO STARS

Leaf rookie Eric Nesterenko provided most of the bright spots in a drab game at New York Sunday as he accounted for both Toronto goals. Reise was the lone Ranger marksman.

Milt Schmidt tipped in a long shot by defenceman Bill Quackenbush at the half-way mark of a goaltenders' battle for Boston's lone goal against the Canadiens.

The Montrealers fired 31 shots at Sugar Jim Henry, who marked up his seventh shutout of the season. Canadiens' Gerry McNeil turned aside 23 Boston drives.

Chicago travels to Detroit in tonight's only action.

Gordie Howe, who scored the 200th and 201st goals of his National Hockey League career Sunday night as Detroit Red Wings routed Chicago Black Hawks 4-1.

Eric Nesterenko, who scored both Toronto goals Sunday as the Maple Leafs defeated New York Rangers 2-1.

Milt Schmidt, whose second-period goal was all Boston Bruins needed Sunday to edge Montreal Canadiens 1-0.

Jack McIntyre, whose first-period tally proved the winner Saturday as Boston outscored New York 5-4.

Sid Smith, whose marker in the final period gave Toronto a 2-2 tie with Montreal Saturday.

Close Curling Match Being Predicted

SASKATOON (CP)—If there was a favorite in the 10-rink field it was being kept a secret as the provincial representatives prepared to open the Canadian high school curling championship here today.

The ice, five sheets in the hockey arena here, will be strange to all competitors in the four-day, round-robin event that ends Thursday night.

"This could be one of the closest races we've had for the championship," said Ken Watson of Winnipeg, chairman.

Watson and several other officials watched the young rinks in practice rounds and said they thought it might be one of the best matched fields since the Canadian school championship became official in 1949.

WATCH REGINA

Because he eliminated the two-time champion Saskatoon Tech rink this year, Dennie Cochrane's Regina Scott Collegiate foursome is being mentioned frequently as the one to watch. However, the Reginans defeated a much different Saskatoon rink from the one that won the Sifton trophy at Nelson in 1951 and again at Moncton in 1952.

A procession from the Bessborough hotel through downtown Saskatoon to the arena, led by the Saskatoon Light Infantry pipe band at least let everyone know the young curlers were on the way to start their championship matches. Inside the gaily decorated rink there were opening ceremonies before the first draw, which will drop five rinks from the unbeaten class.

In the first draw Manitoba met Nova Scotia and the defending province, Saskatchewan, took on Northern Ontario, Quebec was against New Brunswick, Ontario against British Columbia and Prince Edward Island against Alberta.

A second draw today scheduled for the evening shaped up as follows: Prince Edward Island vs Northern Ontario; New Brunswick vs Alberta; Saskatchewan vs British Columbia; Nova Scotia vs Ontario and Quebec vs Manitoba.

Canadian Women Win Ski Tourney

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—Canadian women Saturday won the annual Canada-United States ski tournament and took the Kate Smith Trophy from the U.S. for the 11th time in 17 years.

The Canadians amassed 1,337.84 points to 1,285.63 scored by the American team. Ten skiers from each country competed, with only the top seven scores on each side figuring in the result.

Versatile Monique Langlais, 22, of Mont St. Castin, Que., won the downhill and slalom to pace the winners.

Swedes Decide After 9 Years To Have Liquor Without Rationing

By THOMAS HARRIS

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — After pondering the question for nine years, a government committee has decided it will be all right if the Swedes started getting their liquor without rationing.

The little brown-backed ration book, a certificate of sobriety and a mark of respectability since the First World War, is to go, if the committee's recommendations are carried out—and indications are that, after due consideration, they probably will be.

When that happens, people dining out will be able to order as many drinks as they can consume and—a revolutionary concession—it will no longer be illegal and immoral for restaurants to entertain their guests with crooners.

The 11 - man committee has decided that John Swede—after 36 years ration - enforced sobriety—now is wothy of the freedom of the bottle.

Getting a ration book under the present system is a complicated procedure. The applicant must fill in forms and forms, present himself politely for an interview at the Alcohol Monopoly and submit to inquiries at police headquarters on his personal character.

LIMITATIONS REMAIN

Even if he gets the book, the Alcohol Monopoly may recall it at its pleasure. For example, if he is in arrears in his income tax it may decide that, if he can't pay his taxes, he can't afford to drink.

What's more the proud possessor of a ration book can only buy as much as the Alcohol Monopoly thinks he can safely use. If he buys too much, he gets a sharply-worded letter to cut down or else.

He may buy at restaurants but they are limited on how much they may serve him. And the restaurants can't have jazz entertainers. Jazz and drink, the present law claims, have a dire effect on the baser impulses of the Swedes.

The committee's recommendations would change all this

But even though the committee spent nine years on these recommendations, they will not come into force until Parliament has debated and approved them—next year.

Until then, the patient Swede will continue to slake his thirst in the manner prescribed by the Monopoly.

Or he may slip off for a spree in Denmark where there are fewer restrictions, less drunkenness and, many Swedes say, more happiness.

Flaxen-Haired Girl Likely To Be Danes' Second Queen

By EIGEL ANDERSEN

COPENHAGEN (AP)—A flaxen-haired, blue-eyed girl of 12 who has worn the same dress to school for more than two years likely will become the second queen in the history of Denmark.

As a queen, Princess Margrethe Alexandrine Thorhildur Ingrid, eldest daughter of King Frederik IX and Queen Ingrid, would be Margrethe II. Queen Margrethe I died in 1412.

It is up to the Danish people to decide if Princess Margrethe ever will be a queen. The constitution bars it now but the major political parties are backing an amendment to change it.

To do this, the change first must be approved by Parliament, then by a majority of voters in a plebiscite and then again by a second parliament after a general election.

Denmark will go through this complicated procedure in May and the chances are that it will be thumbs up for Margrethe.

ASK CHANGE

The major parties in Parliament decided the constitution should be changed because King Frederik has no sons. Margrethe has two royal sisters. There was a general feeling the right of succession should be given to descendants of the ruling monarch in direct line, regardless of sex. The heir presumptive has been Prince Knud, the King's brother.

Margrethe is a typical Danish girl. She attends a private school with hundreds of other daughters of well-to-do Copenhagen families. The King and Queen encourage her to invite her school friends to the palace to play.

Margrethe is doing well at school but she is no wonder child. In one field, however, she is well ahead of her classmates. Like her mother and grandmother, she is a natural language student.

Chiang's Younger Son Tough Professional Soldier

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—President Chiang Kai-shek's younger son, Wego, visiting the United States this month for a special orientation course, is a tough professional soldier, once a buck private in the German Army.

Maj.-Gen. Chiang Wego—rose the hard way to his present post as commanding general of the Chinese Nationalist armored force command.

He speaks Chinese, German and English. He is a skilled horseman, an experienced hunter and knows how to fly a plane. He is a hard worker and a good mixer. Friends vouch for his sincerity when he says, "I love people."

Wego's units fought their last battle on the mainland at Shanghai, in 1949, then were withdrawn to Formosa for reorganization.

Wego told them to develop still further "the skill and will to kill, especially the will." Today that's the unofficial motto of the armored force.

ENLISTED AS PRIVATE

Wego was born at Shanghai in 1916. In 1936, a year before hostilities started between China and Japan, he was sent to Germany where he enlisted in a mountain regiment as a private. It was at that time that he chose to call himself Wego instead of Wei-kuo.

He took part in the German march into Austria and the occupation of the Sudetenland. He quit the German Army in 1939 when the Axis was formed among Germany, Italy and Japan. China was fighting Japan.

Wego then paid his first visit to the U.S. He attended an Air Corps tactical school, was graduated, then spent some weeks at an armored training center.

At the end of 1940, he was called home for active service against Japan and commissioned a second lieutenant of the first division.

SAW MUCH ACTION

In service with two divisions, he was in action many times.

He was appointed chief of staff when the armored force command was activated at Nanking March 1, 1948. The next year he was made deputy commander. On March 1, 1950, in Formosa, he became commanding general.

Wego's father, Chiang Kai-shek, has never spoiled him. Wego never enjoyed special privileges during his Army training.

He is spoiling for a chance to go back in action against the Chinese Reds whom he hates fiercely.

"Never speak of ours being a civil war," he says.

"It's not a civil war. Chinese are not fighting Chinese. When a Chinese becomes a Communist, he ceases to be a Chinese."

Alaska Volcano Has Erupted

KODIAK, Alaska (AP) — One of Alaska's slumbering volcanoes awoke with a roar Sunday in an eruption that sent a column of smoke nearly six miles into the air.

Ash and smoke filtered into nearby valleys, reminding oldsters here of the eruption of fabled Mount Katmai in 1912. But whether the volcano was Katmai or one of two other long-threatening peaks in the Valley of 10,000 Smokes was not determined immediately.

Nor was there immediate word of whether villages in the thinly-settled area might be threatened.

Military fliers first reported the eruption. They said it was on 7,500-foot Mount Katmai. Observers who flew to the vicinity of the smoking mountain later said it could be Mount Trident or Mount Mageik.

Mount Katmai's last big rampage in 1912 covered Kodiak Island, 110 miles to the southeast, with two feet of ash and deposited 500 feet of ashes in the Valley of 10,000 Smokes close by. The towns of Katmai, on the peninsula, and Kodiak had to be evacuated.

Prince Of Wales Rangers To Hold Second Reunion

Old comrades of the 1st Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers, are going to hold their second post-war reunion in Peterborough on the weekend of March 14-15.

The date was purposely chosen as it is almost exactly the 11th anniversary of the day recruiting was opened here under Col. J. A. Dewart.

Geddes Harper, president of the association and one of the committee in charge of arrangements for the reunion, said they hope to have 150 former battalion members here for the weekend.

Altogether some 2,000 men went through the Prince of Wales Rangers, later the 12th Canadian Infantry Training Battalion. Of these, 229 were from Peterborough and district; the others were mainly from the Niagara district (St. Catharines, Welland, Thorold and Toronto), and from Western Canada.

MET IN 1947

The previous reunion in Peterborough was back in 1947. The usual yearly get-together is less ambitious; it consists of a one-night outing. Last year 87 of the ex-Rangers went to Buckhorn for a dinner and celebration.

Recruiting for the 1st Battalion opened on March 10, 1942. In the spring of the year they left for Niagara-on-the-Lake, and in June they moved for Prince George, British Columbia, with Major Dr. Ralph Honey in charge of the advance party.

The battalion set up camp and continued training. They were one of the units of the 1st Brigade to open the Wainwright training camp. Later they went back to British Columbia and camped at Nanaimo.

At Courtney, B.C., they took part in combined operations with Col. R. J. Bolton taking over, successor to Col. Dewart. Col. Bolton remained in charge until the unit went overseas in December, 1944, under the command of Major Robert S. Allin.

Once in Great Britain they learned that they would not fight as a unit. The name of Prince of Wales Rangers gave way to No. 12, CIBT—an infantry training battalion.

Officials of the association explain that there will be registration and a social time on Saturday, the 14th, and there will be a dinner Sunday. It all depends on the turnout whether or not there will be a church parade.

Invitations are going out to all former members of the battalion who can do so to attend the celebration.

Stone Of Scone Thief Hints More Trouble

SEOUL (AP) — One of the Scots who helped engineer the theft of the Stone of Scone two years ago said with his tongue in his behiskered cheek today: There "might be some trouble" unless Queen Elizabeth II is crowned Elizabeth I of Scotland.

"Vague rumors are emanating from Scotland," said Lieut. James (Jamie) Hunter, a Royal Navy carrier flier.

Scottish Nationalists maintain there never has been an Elizabeth I of Scotland; that the first Elizabeth ruled only England.

Hunter was quick to tell a reporter "be sure to emphasize the humorous aspect of this."

Mrs. Ellen Conroy, 93 Still Leads Active Life

Mrs. Ellen Conroy, 253 Dalhousie St., celebrated her 93rd birthday Sunday at a family dinner party at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas O'Connor, 168 Hazlitt St. Still bright and cheerful, Mrs. Conroy walked downtown to the postoffice Saturday morning to mail a parcel to her son James, who lives in Victoria, B.C. She frequently goes on shopping expeditions and does much of the housework in the apartment which she shares with Mrs. Margaret McLean.

Despite her years, Mrs. Conroy is an avid reader of her daily newspaper. In addition, she knits, crochets, does all her own sewing and still enjoys playing euchre.

She was born on the boundary of Douro and Otonabee townships, Feb. 15, 1860, the daughter of Patrick Heffernan and the former Elizabeth Slattery. She attended school in the building on George Hall's farm, also on the boundary.

Oliver Urges Force Drivers Carry Insurance

TORONTO (CP) — Opposition leader Farquhar Oliver said today he may bring the question of compulsory auto insurance for Ontario motorists before the current session of the legislature.

Mr. Oliver said in an interview the unsatisfied judgment fund, which provides for damage payments to motorists in accident cases where the driver responsible has no insurance, is a "double indemnity" on responsible drivers.

"Why should we pay on our regular insurance policies and then contribute again through the unsatisfied judgment fund for irresponsible drivers who carry no insurance?" he asked.

TOO EXPENSIVE

Highways Minister Doucett said last week compulsory insurance would prove too expensive in relation to its value. He said it would carry no provision for redress in the case of out - of - the - province drivers involved in accidents in Ontario.

Mr. Oliver said the number of cases of the kind mentioned by Mr. Doucett were infrequent, "certainly not enough to make the whole plan of compulsory insurance impractical."

RMC Withdraws From OABA Play

TORONTO (CP)—Wilf Crowley, vice-president of the Ontario Amateur Basketball Association, today announced that Royal Military College of Kingston, eastern Ontario junior A finalists, has withdrawn from further OABA play this season.

It is reported military orders prevent the officer cadets from advancing into higher play.

Toronto Nortown Comets, Toronto district junior A champions, were scheduled to meet RMC, but will advance on against the winners of the St. Catharines Stars-Windsor AKO series. Windsor won the first game of that points-to-count series 68-47 Saturday night.

First game of the series with Toronto is scheduled for the week of Feb. 28.

Couple Hurt As Car Rolls End Over End

Soft Shoulder Flips Auto On New Highway

Two Peterborough people were injured while driving home from Toronto on Saturday night. Their car hit a soft spot on the shoulder of Highway 401—the new double-lane highway between Oshawa and Newcastle—and went out of control, rolling end over end for 175 feet.

In Civic Hospital with a possible fractured pelvis is Mrs. Shirley Kilborn, 22, of 377 Water St. Immediately after the accident she was taken to Oshawa General Hospital where it was learned that she had been badly bruised internally with the possibility of a pelvic fracture.

Mrs. Kilborn was brought to Civic Hospital on Sunday. Though still suffering from shock and pain, she is reported to be in good condition.

LEFT HOSPITAL

Driver of the car was Fred Hayes, 26, of 169 London St. He is suffering from shock and bruises and is now resting at home. He was discharged from Oshawa hospital Sunday.

The couple had gone to see the Maple Leaf-Rangers hockey game in Toronto on Saturday night but they were unable to get tickets; so they started back for Peterborough. Near the Farewell Ave. underpass Hayes ran into a soft spot on the muddy shoulder of the highway.

The car went out of control and rolled over about six times, down into a 25-foot ravine, narrowly missing a creek at the bottom. The 1941 model car was completely wrecked.

Mrs. Kilborn was thrown from the car as it rolled over and over while Hayes managed to get out of the wreckage unassisted.

Heraldry Man Has Suggestion

HALIFAX (CP)—An authority on heraldry has suggested now that the Queen has been designated specifically as Queen of Canada the arms of Canada therefore are the arms of the Queen of Canada and can be displayed as such.

This fine point of heraldry has been uncovered by Forbes Thrasher, Halifax hotelman whose hobby is the study of arms. In considering Coronation decorations for his hotels, Mr. Thrasher, a wartime service corps major, wrote his Scottish herald friend, Sir Thomas Innes of Learney, Lord Lyon King of Arms.

Sir Thomas replied: "It is difficult to see how the arms recorded for Canada cannot be regarded as those of Her Majesty as sovereign of Canada. The quarterly British Royal Arms with England in the first and fourth quarter are, however, those which Her Majesty is accustomed to use to indicate her personal presence.

"Of course if you are making up a decorative scheme you could use the Canadian Arms, and the quarterly Royal Arms, both Scottish and English versions."

Two Peterborough People Among Five Hurt As Car Crashes Into Ditch Near Brantford

Five people—including a Peterborough couple—were injured early Sunday when their car crashed into a ditch, 25 miles east of Brantford.

John E. Fitchett, 21, of 565 Spruce Ave., is seriously injured and in [illegible]tford General Hospital [illegible]ssible broken neck and scalp lacerations.

His wife, Kathleen, received only minor injuries. So did another passenger, Mrs. George McIntosh of Castleton.

Douglas McIntosh, 47, of Vernonville, was cut on the head and received shoulder and chest injuries. Isabel McIntosh, 41, also of Vernonville, which is 12 miles northeast of Cobourg, has a possible fractured back, a fractured right hand and cuts on the right arm.

Fitchett, a clerk at Canada Packers, was driving his car along Highway 5 near Clappison's Corners when the vehicle went out of control. It crashed into the ditch, overturned and was wrecked.

A passing motorist took the injured to St. George, 12 miles from the accident. There they were given first aid by Dr. J. W. Weldhen and later taken by ambulance to Brantford hospital.

The Fitchetts have no children.

Quarter-Finals Draw Announced In London

LONDON (Reuters) — The draw for the quarter-finals of the Football Association Cup made here today resulted as follows:

Aston Villa vs Everton; Arsenal vs Blackpool or Southampton; Gateshead vs Bolton Wanderers; Birmingham City vs Tottenham Hotspurs.

The matches are to be played Saturday, Feb. 28 with replays if any on or before the following Thursday.

QUEEN ELIZABETH presents a radiant picture as she arrives at a reception given by the Royal Academy at Burlington House, London, England. Escorted by Sir Gerald Kelly, president of the Royal Academy, the Queen wears a gown of silver brocade trimmed with glittering sequins, a diamond tiara and the Star of the Order of the Garter.

Streams Running Underground Hold Up Work

Underground streams which keep pumps in operation 24 hours a day are delaying installation of concrete floors for the new federal building

The new structure is being built on ground containing a large percentage of coarse gravel which increases the difficulty of keeping the water out.

Workers are now completing the floor in the boiler room and coal bunker at the deepest part of the building. On the other side of the east wall there is an underground stream flowing by.

As protection against this they have had to lay a three-inch waterproof floor, made up of tar-coated matting. On top of this another 18 inches of reinforced cement was poured.

COLD IS PROBLEM

Another of the problems which workers have to deal with is the cold. All the cement that is laid has to be at a certain temperature. This requires them to lay all their concrete under a tarpaulin, which they keep heated at a fixed temperature.

The pile of gravel and stone which they use to mix their own concrete is also heated by pipes that give off steam under the pile. It is the vapor from this pile of dirt and gravel which is seen on cold days. Concrete has to be kept at about a 65-degree temperature for 72 hours after it has been laid.

By the middle of the week, they hope to be able to start pouring cement for the east wall and the men on the job feel that once the hazards of winter are over and the floors are down the building will start to show signs of progress.

Dig Through Rubble For 'Quake Victims

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Black-robed villagers dug through the crumbled remains of the mud town of Torroud today in search of survivors of last week's disastrous earthquake, which is believed to have taken at least 1,400 lives in the area 200 miles northeast of Tehran.

Rescue workers were trying to restore shattered water-supply canals, care for sick and injured and prevent starvation and disease that have threatened the area since the quake struck last Thursday.

Smoke is still rising from Torroud and other tiny villages which lie between the forbidding Iranian mountains and the desert. Not a single building in Torroud is intact.

Iron Ore Found In Seymour

Year of Drilling Indicates Good-Sized Deposit

The permanent long-range program of the Bethlehem Steel Company at Marmora has long since sparked the interest of many of the largest Canadian and American companies.

The Trent River Iron Company, a subsidiary of the W. S. Moore Company of Minnesota, have been shaping up a magnetite (magnetic iron oxide) ore body two miles north of Campbellford, for the past year on the Neill Hooper and adjoining farms. Company officials are now able to report after a year of diamond drilling that a substantial tonnage body has been outlined and looks as though it may be an underground operation. It may lead to early production, they say.

The company's second property in Eastern Canada is located 40 miles east of Ottawa in Quebec and is also proving of interest.

Another company, Algoma Ore Properties, is developing an important ore body near Renfrew.

The Moore Company are old hands in the iron ore field. As a mining and contracting company, they mined 750,000 tons for itself and 500,000 tons for other companies in the United States in 1952, all iron ore.

Car Hits Pole, Tree, Driver Escapes Unhurt

Though his car hit a telephone pole and smashed into a tree, 35-year-old Ken Hunt of RR 1, Peterborough, climbed out of it without a scratch after a freak accident on the Sandy Lake Road, Saturday night.

Hunt was driving east along the road, four miles west of Lakehurst, when he met another car approaching at the brow of a hill.

He pulled to the right to avoid a collision and the right front wheel caught in a ridge of 18-inch-high snow, pulling the car to the right. It crashed into a telephone pole, broke it off, and then veered across the road where it smashed into a tree.

Altogether the vehicle travelled some 125 feet out of control

Damage was $300. The front left fender, bumper and grill were caved in, and the rear right fender and door were also damaged.

OPP Constable Harold Armstrong investigated.

Charges Howe Uses Unfair Tactics

SARNIA (CP)—J. W. Murphy, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Lambton West, criticized Trade Minister Howe Sunday for "unfair tactics in castigating parish priests and others unable to defend themselves in the House of Commons."

Mr. Murphy made the statement in a regular Sunday radio report to his constituents of the sugar beet producing region.

Mr. Howe said in the Commons last Wednesday that he had been subjected to a pressure campaign to stop the flow of Cuban refined sugar into Canada.

UNFAIR CHARGE

The campaign was led by W. J. McGregor of Chatham, president of the Canada and Dominion Sugar Company, Mr. Howe said, and included "telegrams and letters, obviously all written by Mr. McGregor or his staff, and signed by parish priests, by organizations of growers, by individuals and by various other people. . . ."

Mr. Murphy told his constituents: "It is unfair to the clergy that a senior officer of any government should chastise parish priests, saying they had signed telegrams at the instigation of a sugar refinery executive whom he had already castigated as being 'a man without integrity for whom I have no respect.'"

Completes Tour On Horseback

VICTORIA (CP)—Bill Martsch, 20, of Kitchener rode into Victoria Saturday on his trusty sorrel, Rocky, completing a coast-to-coast jaunt on horseback.

"I've covered a few miles," was his modest comment.

Bill, who was born in Eatonia, Sask., worked until last spring cutting alfalfa for a Kitchener dehydrating plant.

He quit his job when a doctor told him he had a weak heart and was swallowing too much dust. The doctor said he should get plenty of fresh air.

Last May Bill saddled up eight-year-old Rocky and went east. He reached the Maritimes in June and stayed there until August. Then he left Prince Edward Island for Victoria.

Horse and rider have logged an estimated 6,000 miles. They averaged 32 miles a day during the summer and 27 miles during the winter.

Soldier Remanded For Mental Tests

MILTON (CP)—Pte. Hugh David Walker, 19, of Hamilton and stationed at Camp Borden, charged with setting fire to a lodge at the Mount Nemo boy scout camp last Dec. 28, was remanded Saturday to Feb. 27 for a mental examination.

Walker told Judge A. Cochran he set fire to the lodge to "get even" with scout officials after they fired him from his scoutmaster's post following a disagreement.

"All my hopes and plans and all my hard work had been destroyed by this decision," he said.

President Re-Elected

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP)—Federico Chaves, 72, was re-elected president of Paraguay Sunday, without opposition. He was the candidate of the Colorado (which means Red but not in the Communist sense) party, the only legal party in Paraguay. Chaves has been president since Dr. Felipe Molas Lopez, a dentist, was forced out of office on Sept. 11, 1949. His new term is five years.

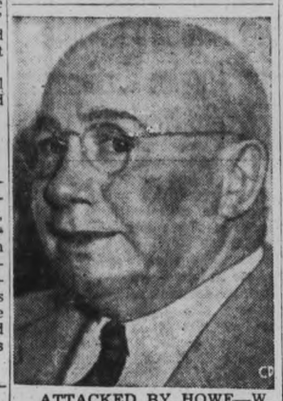
DEFENCE SCIENTISTS—Physicists and engineers at the Canadian armaments research and development establishment hold an administration meeting at Valcartier, Que. (top). They are engaged in tri-service firepower research. Established by the defence research board, the scientists are at work on developing new weapons and improving old ones. They provide proof trials of weapons and shells for Inspection Services of Canada and Canadian Arsenals, Ltd., who also are in the Valcartier plant. Mazes of statistics are fed into the electronic brain at Valcartier (lower), reducing the time-consuming job of computing complicated higher mathematical problems. The machine, largest of its type in Canada, predicts muzzle velocity, types of propellant and loading methods. Louis Richibaud (left) and Reynolds Mitchell analyze the answer-curve to an equation on a weapon's performance.

Rubber Boots, Diapers Sent To Flood Victims

By PETER BUCKLEY

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada is sending everything from rubber boots to diapers and thermos bottles to army mattresses to the flood-harassed peoples of Britain, Belgium and Holland.

The supplies, coming in the tens of thousands of pounds, are being shipped to Montreal by the Canadian Red Cross from many parts of Canada. Then they are flown to overseas distribution points.



At latest count, approximately 38,000 pounds of relief goods, valued by a Red Cross official at $70,000, have been sent overseas. Air lines and shipping companies have volunteered to fill available cargo space with relief cartons. About 10 flights have been made.

The most important item included is blankets. Woollen blankets, sheets and quilts make up most of the shipments.

BABY LAYETTES

Some indication of the thorough manner in which the relief goods are designed to clothe and care for the flood victims is given by the contents of one carton, which contains 20 layettes for babies.

Each layette consists of eight diapers, two nightgowns, two flannelette vests, a woollen jacket, a pair of bootees, a face cloth, towel, a tin of baby talcum, a bar of toilet soap, a bar of laundry soap, a blanket and six safety pins—enough to equip an infant from head to toe.

ATTACKED BY HOWE—W. J. McGregor, president of the Canada and Dominion Sugar Company, Chatham, was the subject of a severe verbal attack in the Commons by Trade Minister Howe. Mr. Howe roughed up the industrialist off and on for a half hour after accusing him and his company of steaming up a "pressure campaign" to have the government stop the import of Cuban refined sugar. Mr. McGregor made no immediate comment.

Fire Empties Movie

DETROIT (AP)—Two hundred youngsters filed safely out of a movie theatre Saturday as fire destroyed a nearby lumber yard in suburban Birmingham. The children, given passes for this week's shows, quietly left the Bloomfield Theatre. One end of the Lawson and Sons Lumber Co. yard is only 30 feet from the rear of the theatre, which escaped damage. The company estimated the loss at $150,000.

Peter Lawford's Father Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Peter Sydney Lawford, who once objected to his son's acting in movies but later not only approved but did a bit of acting in them himself, died Sunday. He succumbed at 87 after a relapse of influenza.

He objected when Peter acted in several British movies as a boy but thought his son might get the acting bug out of his system. Later, after world travels, the family settled in Florida. With family funds frozen by the Second World War, Peter worked as a parking-lot attendant and later, in Hollywood, as an usher. Then an agent landed him a role in "Mrs. Miniver," and his Hollywood career began. The family moved here in 1940.

In recent years Sir Sydney—tall, dignified, white-haired, mustached—played bit parts for a lark in several of Peter's films. He was a barrister in "Kitty," a clubman in "The Picture of Dorian Gray," and a general in "The Rogues' March."

Jailed 14 Months On Seven Violations

KINGSTON (CP)—Roy E. Bilow of Kingston was sentenced Friday to 14 months in jail on seven violations of the Customs Act.

He was charged with selling automobiles illegally imported from the United States and on which no duty had been paid.

Bilow pleaded guilty to the charges and was fined a minimum in each case, the total fine amounting to $950 plus court costs. He was given the jail sentence of two months on each charge in default of payment of fines.

Constable J. A. Bourque of the Kingston RCMP detachment said seven cars had been brought into the country from northern New York state centres.

It was not revealed how the cars were smuggled across the border.

Beast Wrecks Factory

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—A series of explosions followed by fire wrecked a block-long factory Saturday and wiped out four frame houses and two stores in a congested section of this industrial city. The blasts destroyed the three-storey building of the Wire Corporation of America. Flames leaped across the street to the 2½-storey frame homes, setting them afire.

Crowds Jam Car Show In Toronto

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The man who hadn't attended a motor show in some years was surprised.

"People," he said, "were standing on slushy pavements in a line two blocks long, waiting to pay 50 cents to give somebody a chance to sell them a car. And, when they got inside, the place was already packed."

The man was referring to Saturday night at the national automobile show now being held (Feb. 13-21) at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto.

Whether or not the people would buy, they were seeing the most gleaming spectacle of motor-cars ever shown in Canada—a revival on a grander scale of the shows staged in the pre-war years 1932-39.

SIDE BITS

As side bits, they might see a fashion show and models wearing $250,000 worth of furs, or hear entertainers.

Even such eye-filling attractions, however, could hold attention for only a little while from the 200 streamlined creations of motordom which made the car-owner think of trade-ins, and wore to a wafer the sales resistance of others.

Along with the new is a showing of old-time cars dating from 1896 to 1914 and, as museum pieces, some of these had higher price-tags than the highest-priced beauties of 1953.

The gleam and glitter, we are told, are not just for pleasure but to put an attractive garb on rugged mechanisms with which people go about their work-a-day life.

For, research men say, pleasure driving accounts for only one mile in 10 which the average Canadian car owner drives.

"Mr. Average owner," they add, "bought his car for work or business, for travel in connection with his livelihood, or some necessary purpose."

Restrict Broadcasts

TORONTO (CP)—Radio station CKEY has decided to ban all between-election broadcasts by Communists or their fellow travellers, program director Don Insley announced Sunday night. A board of management will decide, after reading proposed political speeches, whether they are pro-Communist, he said.

Fruitless Break-In

BELLEVILLE (CP)—The Belleville collegiate institute and vocational school was entered during the weekend. A hole, 12-by-20 inches, was chopped in the brick wall leading to a safe in the principal's office which was broken open. Nothing was missing or destroyed, Principal George E. Currie said. There was nothing of value in the safe.

TICKETLESS TRAFFIC COPS — These model traffic policemen have acheived a record which makes them favorites of old and young alike. With a combined total of 29 years at a busy Montreal street intersection, they haven't issued a single traffic ticket. In addition, Constables Alexander Danis (left) and Armand Rheault are never too busy to give care and attention to children attending the nearby School for Crippled Children. They were guests of honor at a celebration by a group of Montreal motorists and given certificates making them life governors of the school.

Police Raid Dance Seize Cases Of Beer

PICKERING (CP)—Police raided a St. Valentine's dance party at the Rouge Hill Golf Club Saturday night and seized 67 cases of beer.

Lockhart Trinnell, Pickering police chief, said the names of 200 guests were taken down by the officers and charges of being found-ins will be laid.

The party was being held by the AFL union representing employees at the Johns-Manville Company plant in Scarborough, a Toronto suburb.

Spring Harbinger

WOODSTOCK (CP)—Mrs. Elsie Morton of nearby Embro is satisfied that spring is just around the corner. Near her farm home she found pussy willows blossoming amid the snow Friday.

Brotherhood Stressed By St. Laurent

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Sunday that Canadians must be ever vigilant against "bigots or false prophets" if they are to preserve the bond of unity that holds them together.

Particularly in this supersonic age, he said in a trans-Canada CBC radio address, Canadians need "the friendship of those millions of people who live in South and Southeast Asia and who in this divided world are not sure which way to turn."

"We are trying to gain their friendship and respect not only because we of the western world need all the friends we can get but also because we have a sense of brotherhood toward our fellow man."

The prime minister's speech opened Brotherhood Week, a period devoted to the Canadian spirit of brotherhood, despite differences in religious beliefs, racial origins and cultures.

Strike In B.C. Ties Up Prairie Wheat

VANCOUVER (CP) — Millions of bushels of Prairie wheat, destined for world ports, were tied up today by strike action in two British Columbia ports.

The strike, by 250 grain handlers, stopped movements from four giant elevators in Vancouver and one in nearby New Westminster.

Grain loading in the two ports stopped at 8 a. m. when the day shift took up picket lines.

The five elevators affected are Alberta Wheat Pool, Pacific Elevators, Kerr-Gifford and United Grain Growers, all of Vancouver and Searle Grain of New Westminster.

Pacific and Alberta had round-the-clock crews working.

VOTE TO STRIKE

The strikers, members of the Grain Elevator Workers Union (TLC), voted to strike Sunday night.

Edward C. Sims, international representative of the union, said the men voted overwhelmingly to strike to back up demands for a five-cent-an-hour wage increase.

Sims said the companies had refused to negotiate further after turning down a majority recommendation of a conciliation board.

Besides the five cents an hour the majority award gave the union 10 cents dust premium for certain jobs, eight instead of six paid statutory holidays, double time for all overtime over eight hours a week and insertion of classifications in the agreement.

The companies have elected to hold the line at the present $1.50 an hour wage scale.

Port officials said there are 7,500,000 bushels of grain stored in Vancouver's elevators and 250,000 in New Westminster.

They added that they will stop another 5,000,000 bushels, due to arrive here this week.

Use Of A-Weapons In Korea Will Be Discussed

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Whether atomic weapons should be used to win the Korean war is certain to be among the questions asked of Gen. James A. Van Fleet when the former 8th army commander goes before congressional committees next month.

There was some speculation the same question was up for discussion at a top-level White House meeting today. If it was, presumably several new factors would be taken into account:

The stockpile of A-bombs for tactical use on a battlefield is growing;

The army has a new big-calibre gun it claims can shoot atomic shells;

Intensified pressure at home for ending the war.

VOTE AGAINST IT

So far, the answers of most military leaders have been against using nuclear weapons, for both military and political reasons.

Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, repeated in an interview recently that he sees nothing to be gained now by using the atomic bomb tactically.

The views of Bradley and others who recommended against employing such weapons in Korea generally seem predicated on these ideas:

There are, at present, no really good targets, neither tactical (on the battlefield) nor strategic (the sources of enemy war goods production in North Korea.)

Atomic explosives can kill everyone above ground within the great radius of the blast, pulverize equipment and burn what is left. But the 155-mile line of the Chinese and Korean Reds is dotted with bunkers ranging from 20 to 50 feet in depth, capped with earth and sometimes concrete. Except for a virtually direct hit, they would withstand atomic attack.

Bombs or shells set to burst upon impact with the ground, however, could produce highly-effective cratering and earth-shock results.

GROWING TALK

Since the army announced last fall that it has new 280-millimetre guns capable of shooting atomic shells, there has been growing talk about the possibility of using such weapons in Korea.

While a few such guns are in existence and have been demonstrated in firings of conventional ammunition, there is nothing to indicate that the first experimental atomic shell has been fired. That may be tested this spring at the Nevada proving grounds.

Aside from the tactical factors, military men do not discount the possible bad effect through the whole Asiatic world — enemy, neutral or friendly — of using the mass destruction weapon on Asians.

Nor can the possibility be ignored that Soviet Russia, with its own A-bombs, might take this as a signal for joining in and making it a world war fought with nuclear weapons.

Korean Fighting Not War

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruled Saturday that the fighting in Korea —legally or constitutionally—is not war.

In a disputed 4-2 decision the court ordered the Pennsylvania Mutual Life Insurance Co. to pay beneficiaries of two soldiers killed while in the uniform of the U.S. Army. One died in Korea, the other in a train crash.

The ruling affects insurance policies with war-risk clauses which call for no payments in the event of war-connected death during a period of officially declared war.

Chief Justice Horace Stern reviewed the background of the Korean conflict, pointed out that Congress, which has exclusive rights, never declared war and declared "it is clear that the action being waged in Korea is not a 'war' within what may be termed the constitutional or legal sense of the term."

Pair Wed 60 Years Give Their Recipe

GUELPH (CP)—Advice on how to pick a wife or husband was given Saturday by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Edward Owen at their 60th wedding anniversary party.

Mr. Owen, 80, said a wife should be picked for her common sense rather than her good looks.

The couple was married in Walsall, Staffordshire, England, in 1893, and came to Canada in 1910.

Then one of the men came up behind him and tore the leather-belted purse from his shoulder, climbed in the car and sped away.

2 Wives Die Of Cancer Plans Park Monument

TRENTON (CP)—Henry Burton, 72, whose two wives died from cancer, says he is going to erect a monument in the town park in the hope of enlisting support to help fight the disease.

Mr. Burton, an expert stonemason, has permission from town council to erect the cairn which he will fashion himself.

Skelton Tells Story

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Indications of how pre-historic humans carved a cave-man's rib roast from a slain mammoth have been found on a ranch near Estancia, N. M. It bore indications that a 300-pound rib roast had been hacked out by some flint instrument. Folsom man is a pre-historic human believed to have lived in this area about 10,000 B. C.

Omemee Scouts Attend Church

OMEMEE —(ENS)—Omemee's first Scout Troop and Cubs, accompanied by Scout Master John Joyce and Cub Master Mrs. Geo. Stephenson, attended morning service Sunday at Trinity United Church where they were addressed by Rev. V. E. R. Zufelt.

The scout master read the scripture lesson from Eph. 6, and the scout promise was given by Alvin Robertson. Mr. Zufelt took for his text "Because you have been faithful in a very little you shall have authority over ten cities."

He discussed the Scout promise and the ten points of the Scout law in the light of their relation to the text.

The little duties of the Scout, he said, faithfully performed would result in big men, who would be trusted with big things. It is a big thing to do small things for others. Fulfilling one's duty to God and helping other people at all times meant being a Christian, and that, he said, was a life size job.

Manitoba Trappers Plan Biggest Festival Blowout

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — The modern counterparts of dangerous Dan McGrew are gathering in this northern Manitoba town for the biggest blowout since old Dan breathed his last in the Malemute saloon.

The northern Manitoba trappers' festival, to run four days starting Tuesday, has all the color of a county fair combined with the excitement of a wild-west rodeo.

The big event of the festival is the Canadian open championship dog race, a rugged 200-mile test over snow-covered countryside.

The race goes in four laps, run in four days. The mushers will travel from The Pas to Cranberry Portage, from there to Flin Flon, then back to The Pas, stopping again at Cranberry Portage.

First prize is $1,000 and a trophy. A second prize of $700 and a third of $400 plus prizes of $100 a day for the fastest laps provide further incentive for the racers.

The race will bring memories of other days to old-time winners like Bill Grayson of Island Falls and William (Shorty) Russick of Flin Flon who topped them all when the event went 200 miles across unbroken trails and a musher slept in a wind-protected snowbank, rested on the open trail and kept his energy up with tea or coffee.

The rollicking party offers a number of tests of skill and luck including a net-setting contest, a dog handling competition in which contestants do not use either their hands or a whip but guide the animals by voice alone, a fishing-through-the-ice contest and tea-boiling, trap-setting and rat-skinning contests.

The more athletic will be attracted to the greased pole climb in which the men, dressed in moccasins and parkas, must climb a slippery pine pole.

A torch light parade and grand opening ball will start the festival. Other evening activities include a vaudeville show, numerous modern and old time dances and on the final night, the queen's ball, which will feature the crowning of the Fur Queen of the North, from among numerous candidates of northern towns.

An Indian trading post will be set up in the town featuring beadwork, silkwork and leatherwork.

Army and RCAF detachments will provide artillery fireworks and flares and low formation and stunt flying.

Warns Papers No Comment On Sentence

HALIFAX (CP).—Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley of Nova Scotia warned newspapers recently against commenting on a court sentence whil the case is still pending.

He referred to the Nov. 28 issue of a Sydney weekly which carried editorial comment on a sentence imposed on Ralph Waldo Gregor, New Waterford bandleader found guilty on a reduced charge of manslaughter in the death last July of his wife Olive.

The Crown appealed the seven-year sentence and the Supreme Court raised it to 15 years, finding the original punishment "inadequate."

CAN'T MAKE COMMENT

Chief Justice Ilsley said the editorial appeared 10 days after sentence was imposed "and of course before the time for appeal had passed.

"I should like to make it clear that any comment on a sentence should not be made while the case is still pending, otherwise it may be adjudged contempt of court. A case is still pending until the time for appeal has passed or until the appeal has been heard and judgment pronounced."

Bonarlaw Card Party

BONARLAW (ENS) — Owing to the storm which passed over this county on Wednesday night only seven tables of progressive euchre were played in St. Mark's parish hall, Bonarlaw.

Kenner Collegiate Holds First Dance In Gym

The first dance in the new Kenner Collegiate gymnasium was the Valentine party held on Saturday evening by the students. They had decorated, of course, with hearts and valentine motifs at the bandstand, but streamers over the heads of the dancers were in the school colors, gold and blue.

The program included a number of novelty dances, with prizes going to the winners and there were also several door prizes. Winners of an elimination dance were Gail Middleton and Tom Crowley. Spot dances were won by Dick Frise and Gail Wood, Helen Lancaster and Colin Ray, Miss Winnifred Barlow of the teaching staff and Jack Smith, Doug Sanders and Joan Poast, Gerry Montgomery and Betty Baird, Bob Hollingsworth and Lois Corner and by Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Neftall.

A door prize of cosmetics was won by Jim Heffernan, Margaret Bowman won a chicken and Alice McKay a picture.

During the intermission the guests were entertained by a skit put on by Ron Ward and Alice McKay of the Drama Club, called "O No, No," and Al Pratt, the school magician put on a good act which included a trick with principal Dr. Ray's tie—a trick in which the magic somehow failed to put the tie in one piece again after it had been cut. As compensation, Dr. Ray was handed the tie which had been slated for a door prize.

A gift of perfume was presented to Mrs. Ray and Mr. Gordon Johnson, the history teacher, was given a birthday gift of cuff links.

Arrangements for this affair were made by the various clubs in the school, Camera Club, Drama Club, Record Club, Music Club, and the girls' and boys' Athletic Associations. Camera Club members were particularly busy during the evening taking pictures of the couples in an upstair lounge and also pictures on the dance floor which are intended for a club scrap book.

Abbott Unveils Budget Thursday Night

OTTAWA (CP)—The government document that means dollars and cents to Canadian taxpayers will be unveiled in the Commons this week.

At 8 p.m. EST Thursday, Finance Minister Abbott will present his budget, outlining how he proposes to set the rates of taxes, duties and other sources of government revenue for the fiscal year starting April 1.

It already is known that government spending will be some $29,000,000 higher in the next fiscal year than in 1952-53. But the government will end the year with a bigger-than-expected surplus—about $100,000,000 to $125,000,000—so the betting is strong that the budget will bend toward lower taxes. This is generally expected to be the last budget before a general election.

POSSIBLE MOVES

Here are some of the ways Mr. Abbott could lighten the taxpayer's load:

He could cut personal income taxes; scale down the impost on cigarettes, tobacco and spirits; eliminate the annual $2.50 radio licence fee and trim some of the duties on consumer goods.

At a special meeting a petition signed by 90 per cent of the cattle owners in the township asked that a bylaw be passed under the Warble Fly Control Act, and council passed the bylaw requiring all cattle to be sprayer or brushed.

Bylaw 596 was passed authorizing borrowing of $10,000 from bank until current taxes are collected and on motion of Councillor Norman Willan and Merton Thompson all council were to attend the Good Roads Convention in Toronto.

British Expedition To Launch Attack On Everest

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Within a few months a 12-man British expedition will launch one of the most scientifically - planned attempts to scale the ice-encrusted, blizzard-whipped peak of 29,002-foot Mount Everest, the world's highest mountain.

Already members of the advance guard of the expedition have begun arriving here.

Behind this 11th attempt to scale the still-unconquered mountain lie months of "pencil work" in London collating the experience of previous Everest expeditions.

While training in England for the new attempt, the British team has been practising on 3,560-foot Mount Snowden in Wales under the 42-year-old leader of the expedition, Col. John Hunt.

They have experimented with a revolutionary new type of lightweight climbing boot made of rubber and canvas and lined with kapok and have tested out three new types of oxygen equipment as well as devising an especially lightweight pack frame to carry oxygen tanks.

GIVEN GOOD CHANCE

Even though it would take more than eight Snowdens stacked on top of one another to equal Everest, Swiss climbers, who failed in two attempts last year, give the rigorously - trained and scientifically equipped Britons a good chance of reaching the peak — if they have good weather.

Hunt has never been on Everest before, but several members of the British team have, including three who accompanied Briton Eric Shipton on a reconnaissance trip in 1951 establishing the possibility of a route to the top from the Nepal side. Previously expeditions started from the Tibetan side, now closed to explorers.

All of the members of the expedition are expected to reach here by the end of the month and they will start the trek across Nepal in early March so as to reach the Everest area by the end of March. This will give them three months practice climbing before base camp is established on Khumba glacier at the end of April.

From there they will follow the route up the ice fall pioneered by Shipton and used by two Swiss expeditions last year, and beyond that the way lies across the snowy western cum, or hollow, which slopes upward to 23,000 feet, below the south col, lowest point on the range which links Everest with neighboring Lhotse.

800 FEET OFF

It was on the top of the south col that the Swiss launched last spring's assault which took them within 800 feet of the top. The Britons will try to place their last camp slightly higher up than the Swiss did last May.

If they can gain even 100 feet, it will give them a little extra leeway to achieve the 1,400 feet to the summit and back, at heights where the climbing rate is less than 300 feet an hour.

But only if there is a late monsoon, preceded by calm, clear weather in late May and early June will they have a chance — no matter how good their equipment or how scientific their planning.

HALF-DEAD AT 40? GET RENEWED VITALITY

Read how you may help blood renew worn-out body cells, tissues, this amazing way!

Today, thousands of people over forty are living half-dead lives. They are tired-out, rundown, jittery, because their body cells and tissues are not being renewed by their blood. Yes, their blood may be literally tired out—from lack of certain lifegiving elements needed by every human being, every day.

Why are these people always tired? Here's the answer. Normal healthy blood teems with red cells which carry lifegiving substances to every cell in the body. But during middle life, the red cell content of the blood may range as much as 10% to 20% below normal. When this happens, you start feeling tired more often.

Then two things may start to take place. First, your blood may not be able to carry needed lifegiving substances to your body cells and tissues quickly enough to renew them faster than they die. Second, these lifegiving elements may be "burned up" for energy to offset your tired condition, thus further depriving your body cells of the substances they need for renewal. Result—you stay tired all the time. What you may need is a balance combination of B-Complex vitamins, minerals and medically known "trace" elements—if their deficiencies in your blood and body have caused your trouble.

Such a balanced combination is now provided in RYBUTOL. Exclusively compounded in Gelucaps to speed absorption! Your blood—aided by RYBUTOL—can carry these lifegiving elements to every cell of your body within a short period. Result—you start to look better, feel better, think and act better. RYBUTOL is highest-potency B-Complex formula available in drug stores at its low price, $1.98. You may never know how good you can feel, until you try RYBUTOL. Over 620,000,000 RYBUTOL sold; proof of remarkable success.

ACCEPT FREE OFFER: Try RYBUTOL absolutely free. Mail name and address to Dept. P216, Harco Laboratories Ltd., 489 King St. W., Toronto, and receive generous physician's sample postpaid. Offer limited; don't delay.

Friends Stage Auction Sale At Surprise Party

"Early Canadiana" was the theme for a surprise party given Saturday evening for Commander and Mrs. Anson Fowler at 565 Gilmour St. Having gone out for the evening, the Fowlers were lured back to find a group of Peterborough friends had invaded their home and a pseudo auction of the treasurers gathered by Mrs. Fowler, an ardent collector of early Canadian pieces, about to begin. Amid much hilarity, and in true auctioneer style, the objects d'art were auctioned by Mrs. J. Duncan to the highest bidders.

The last item auctioned was a woollen couch throw which turned out to be the gift brought for presentation to the Fowlers. Commander Fowler has now completed a tour of duty at N10, CGE, Peterborough and with Mrs. Fowler and their two small daughters will return to their former home in Westbury, Long Island, on Friday. They say they are going with a feeling of nostalgia for Peterborough and the hope of returning soon.

Although they complained bitterly the guests were all persuaded by Mrs. Fowler to return their "purchases" to her before leaving. They were Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Clare Stuart, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Gibson, Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Gordon, Major and Mrs. J. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Mackey, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Kennedy, and r. and Mrs. Blain Till.

Many Young Ladies Seek To Become Coronation Debs

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—Among Coronation problems for the staff of the Lord Chamberlain is an unusually large number of applications from those eligible to attend Buckingham Palace presentations and royal garden parties.

Apparently every young woman who has not yet been presented at court yearns to be a Coronation debutante. Many 17-year-old girls, who normally would wait until their 18th birthday, are among those applying for presentation.

During the next few months the Lord Chamberlain, the Earl of Scarbrough, will decide on the lucky ones. Crested invitations will go from his office in St. James's Palace, the red-brick building next to Marlborough House where Vincent Massey, now governor-general of Canada, attended last February's proclamation council on the accession of Elizabeth II.

LATE FOR CANADIANS

Despite a crowded diary, the Queen has decided on a short Coronation "season." This will include three presentation parties and two garden parties, the last one July 23.

Most coveted date for those who can make it will be July 16, first presentation party after the Coronation. This has been allocated to Commonwealth and overseas debutantes, many of whom will have to turn it down.

Since July 16 is some six weeks after the Coronation ceremony June 2, many Canadians will have returned home. The alternative is a garden party May 28, an informal affair generally for mothers with married daughters. The first presentation parties March 25-26 are for British debutantes only.

A representative of Canada House said it is unfortunate the only presentation party open to Canadians should come so late. Decorations in Buckingham Palace make a formal party impracticable in May, and July 16 is the first date open to the Queen in a heavy post-Coronation schedule.

Garden parties don't always afford an exciting opportunity to see the Queen at close range. Guests cluster on the lawns of Buckingham Palace, generally numbering up to four figures. Although the Queen moves freely among her guests, she meets only those who happen to be in the right place at the right time. Only a special few are singled out for definite presentation.

PALACE MORE FORMAL

At presentation parties, debutantes are called individually, move across the red-and-gold state ballroom and curtsy to the Queen at a raised dais.

Among Canadians now in London, hoping a crested invitation will drop through their letter box, are two sisters from Ottawa. Dorothy and Mary Wurtell came to London last September for the wedding of brother Douglas, who married an English girl. They decided to stay for the Coronation.

The Mr. and Mrs. Club of George St. United Church held a very successful tea Saturday afternoon in the Sunday School auditorium.

This was the first tea to be held by the club and is one of the main projects of the year The unique feature of the tea was the assistance given by the husbands who worked both in the tea room and in the kitchen.

The auditorium was beautifully decorated in the Valentine theme with hearts and cupids and red streamers on the walls and pillars. The tea table was covered with a red cloth and was centred with a bouquet of gladioli and carnations. White candles completed the table decorations. Individual tea tables were each centred with Valentine centre pieces of hearts and a small bouquet of flowers.

Guests were received by the Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Rowland and Mr. and Mrs. Archie Townsend, co-presidents of the club. Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Gilmore were co-conveners of the tea.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Long and Mr. and Mrs. Scott MacFarlane poured tea. Mr. and Mrs. George Gatfield, Mrs. Russ Foster and Mrs. Charles Allen were tea room host and hostesses.

Mr. Charles Allen, Mrs. I. Ellicott and Mr. Gilmore provided background music on the piano.

Arrangements were made for children coming with their parents to be entertained in a separate room where they were shown films and served cookies and milk. Mr. C. Bullock operated the projector. Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Nancy Townsend, Douglas Townsend and James Foster were in charge.

The servers in the tea room were Mr. and Mrs. W. Weir, Mr. and Mrs. G. Howden, Mr. and Mrs. H. Mather, Mrs. Russ Foster, Mr. and Mrs. D. Gray, Mr. S. Bowman, Mr. I. Ellicott, Mr. D. Replenishing of plates was done by Mrs. I. Loveless, Mrs. G. Frederick, Mrs. H. Cunningham, Mrs. H. Barnard, Mrs. D. Gillespie, Mr. D. Baker, Mrs. D. Hamblin and Mrs. E. Mason.

Mrs. James Tinney made tea assisted by Mrs. Ray Kelcey. In the kitchen were Mrs. H. Reynolds, Mrs. B. Maloney, Mrs. Douglas Baker and Mrs. H. Barnard.

MR. ALPHONSE LEVASSEUR and his bride, the former Miss Shirley Bagnall, who were married Saturday morning at St. Alphonsus Church. —(Choate Studio Photo)

Shirley Bagnall Is Bride Of Alphonse Levasseur

In a double ring ceremony at St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic Church Saturday morning, Shirley Mae Bagnall and Alphonse Arnold Levasseur pledged their nuptial vows. The mass was said by the Rev. R. A. MacDonald, who also performed the ceremony.

The bride is daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bagnall and granddaughter of Mrs. Charles Scates of Peterborough. She was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Fred Scates. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Levasseur, also of Peterborough.

Lovely spring flowers banked with ferns formed the setting at the altar. Wedding music was played by Mrs. Joseph Stewart and during the signing of the register Mrs. C. Viscoff sang "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus."

Miss Bagnall chose a gown of star white fine lace and taffeta, fashioned with a fitted strapless bodice edged with a narrow ruffle and the skirt was scalloped about the hipline, from which the wide, circular folds of net fell to a back sweep. She wore a cutaway bolero of the lace which was finished with a pointed collar and long sleeves. Her veil was in heart shape and was of silk illusion with Chantilly lace trim and she carried a muff covered with red roses.

Miss Marjorie Wood and Miss Noreen Delong were bridal attendants in gowns of coronation purple made with ballerina length skirts of net over taffeta and strapless bodices with matching jackets of the net featuring standup collars. They wore headdresses of mauve feathers and carried muffs of yellow daffodils and other spring flowers.

The groomsman was Mr. Gerald O'Rourke and ushers were Leon Gosselin and Roy Fitzgerald.

The wedding reception was held at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club. The bride's aunt, Mrs. Gordon Wood, received, wearing a black silk crepe dress with corded silk trim and black feather hat and her corsage was of red carnations. The groom's mother assisted, wearing black crepe trimmed with velvet and a black felt hat and her corsage was of pink carnations.

Leaving later on a honeymoon motor trip to Toronto and the New England States, the bride wore a blue knitted suit with white and black accessories and a blue topcoat with grey squirrel neckpiece, and had a going-away corsage of white carnations.

PARIS SPRING FASHIONS

Glamor Challenges The 'Sloppy Look'

By ALLISON SETTLE

PARIS (OFNS) — The laurel wreaths of the Paris dress collections, as so far seen, go to Hubert De Givenchy, a designer whose house opened only a few seasons ago.

He has discarded the casually young, slung-together look, which has brought him past success, with his vivid coloring and emphasis on "amusing" detail, and this week reaches the top rank of designers with a measured, finely made collection of clothes, the style of which will be recognizable all over the world. This house's collection is the sanest of all that have been shown so far.

His suits are the nearest to the gentle, classic tailoring of London, and, in a season where collars are discarded or are put back-to-front with openings sliding down the spine, he makes suits which are finely tailored with neat collars and normal closings. The sleeves are set in these elegant suits which are free of eccentricity, made in cream, beige, grey, taffy and black, the neutral shades so dearly loved this year.

REPLACE STIFF TAFFETAS

Givenchy puts emphasis on soft fabrics which are replacing the stiff taffetas and failles of past seasons' dresses, and considers tiny prints of prime importance. His dresses have prim puritan capelets of black jersey, gripping shoulders, akin to the little black jersey boleros with which he covers the backward-sliding decolletes of evening dresses.

The sea is his theme, with oyster-shell prints and colors, and he mounts pearls in the centre of each printed shell for evening wear. His moire effects, used even in fur coats in palest grey and white lamb, are intended to look like waves. Tortoise shell designs replace his "pussy prints" of last season.

Hair vanishes totally under shining caps of plaited straw, but an angled parasol, as worn by Victorian ladies in the 'sixties, may be used to save the complexion in midsummer. And when the sea theme seems unsuitable to country life, dresses are white cotton embroidered all over with peapods.

Although he, too, puts decolletes reversed to face backwards for day and for evening, this is his only concession to the season's current topsy-turveyness.

The Balenciaga germ of a few years back has spread all over Paris. Balenciaga then made jackets that fitted nowhere, necklines that seemed made for a far bigger woman, and sponsored a deliberately sloppy look, using above all what the Americans love, the "middy line" of a tunic bodice that only touched the human frame on shoulders and hips. Balenciaga has neatened up his line, but Paris still apes what he did those years back.

SUIT COLLARS MUST FIT

Fath now brings the sloppy line out as if it were new. Suit collars must fit nowhere. Coats are given a deliberately mean look underarm, then widen out. His "signature line" for coats has seven pleats disposed round to the back and hips at a low level, held in by seven pairs of contrasting buttons. This line, replaces any belt which might be looked for. The lovely fabrics he uses include waffled pique with a gleam in the design of a bird's neck plumage, sometimes in neutral tones on white, sometimes in vivid green on black.

Under the coats go middy dresses in which the all-pleated skirt is replaced by inch-wide strips of fabric hanging free. The distinction between coats and dresses is deliberately blurred.

But Jacques Fath's evening dresses are gracious, despite the reversal of the bodice look, with the front put to the back. Strapless bodices in pale satin (pale blue above all) are worn with elegant stoles, earrings vaster than the human lobe should be asked to bear, without necklaces, and with wrist-length satin gloves. These clothes do not disdain femininity and elegance, and are lovely.

Most creators have discarded collars, but Castillo of Lanvin only clears them away from coats. His clothes follow the London line of forward-blown, restrained fullness at the centre front. His jackets are unfitted with inverted pleats back and front buttoned down low to give a drop waist effect.

LOOK LIKE SILKS

At Lanvin, as indeed at most houses, cottons are printed to look like silks, silks are luminously printed, and synthetic organdies and wool satins alike are slightly hairy. All this confuses fabric identification, which has never been more difficult. All houses applaud the return of prints, but are cautious and use very tiny prints, chiefly black spatterings on white. And all are bringing back softer fabrics for dresses.

Embroideries like jewelling have always been a specialty of Lola Prusac and this year her slim, almost Chinese, line allows of the richest possible embroidery in wool and jewel beads. For evening, fullness is given to this house's slim line by blown-back panniers, like birds' tails. Many of the Paris designers have designed with birds in mind. Manguin calls her collection "Bird Display" and buttons or cuts back the front of coats to show gay dresses in bird feather colors underneath.

Serge Kogan has come up high in the designing list. This is another young house, which opened at the same time as Givenchy and its designer came out of the same training school as Dior and Balmain. His suits are greatly liked. They have stiffened backs produced by folds at either side, held in by a brief back belt. He shows stiff silk dandy waistcoats, uses pin-striped flannel for his suits and for afternoon dresses brush - stroke prints in neutral shades. Griffe is another lover of the casual middy bodice, a hipband holding his sailor blouses at the hips. Busts, says this house (perhaps a little arrogantly), have "no importance," and his waists dip. But when evening comes, a woman is allowed some glamor with sheath dresses that actually outline the figure, cut down to the waist at the back, though cut high in front.

But the Paris collections are far from being over and buyers anxiously await what Dior and Balmain may do to restore fit and femininity.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Make Meringues Next Party

Before I start with the meringues and with a calm, quiet voice in the wilderness of mail, I raise a feeble bleat: Would you please enclose stamped envelopes when you want return mail? This is only addressed to those who forget, and I forgive them.... but....

✧ ✧ ✧

You may remember that I promised to give you a meringue recipe from Yvonne S. I have tried it now and find it all that Yvonne claims: She said: "I have a very simple recipe for meringues that I have used all these years. It is foolproof and so easy a 10-year-old would have good luck. I very often whip up a batch when my neighbors drop in to give me a hand with a quilt, and we all end up in my kitchen having a cup of tea and sampling the said meringues. Here it is in all its glory...."—Yvonne.

YVONNE'S MERINGUE

Beat 2 egg whites with a little salt until they peak, then add, oh, so slowly, ½ cup sugar in which you have put half teaspoon of baking powder. There's the secret—beat and beat. Add ½ teaspoon vanilla so slowly it goes in drop by drop as you beat, also ½ teaspoon vinegar drop by drop as you beat some more. I pin wax paper on my oven rack, scrub my hands and my nails and drop the "goo" from the tip of a spoon peaking them. I use my finger to push it off, but you can use another spoon if you'd rather, but I could never master the art. Put them in a slow oven of 200 degrees Fahr. (very, very slow) and let them stay there until they change color and are firm to the touch (I try one) . . . it takes about 30 minuntes. Let them cool before taking off the paper, otherwise they will stick.

Those are lovely and all that Yvonne claims for them.

✧ ✧ ✧

Yvonne and many others asked for more skim milk powder recipes. I have chosen those that I think will be most useful for you at this time of year.

QUANTITY TEA BISCUIT MIX

(Using Milk Powder)

(Make this up to store in refrigerator. You take out 2 cups of it to make 1 12-biscuit batch later. See below.)

Eight cups sifted all-purpose flour or 9 cups sifted pastry flour, 4 tablespoons baking powder, 1½ tablespoons solt, 2-3 to 1 cup skim milk powder, 1 cup shortening. Mix and sift sifted flour with the baking powder, salt and skim milk powder. Cut in shortening until mixture is fine like sifted breadcruumbs. Store in covered container in refrigerator or other very cold place. To make into

TEA BISCUITS

Measure out 2 cups biscuit-mix (above) and to it add slowly 2-3 cup water or enough to make a soft but not sticky dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and roll lightly to ½ or ¾ inch thickness. Cut with floured cutter, place on buttered baking sheet and bake at 450 degrees Fahr. for about 12 minutes. Break one open before removing them to see that it is baked to the centre.

BAKED CUSTARD

(Using skim milk powder — makes 4 individual custards):

Two eggs slightly beaten, two tablespoons sugar, dash of salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups reliquefied skim milk (I advise using ½ cup skim milk powder to 1½ cups water for this), nutmeg. Beat eggs just enough to make them smooth, then stir into them the sugar, salt and vanilla. Scald the milk and slowly stir it into the egg mixture. Pour into lightly buttered custard cups in pan containing 1 inch hot water. Bake in slow oven of 300 degrees Fahr. until when silver knife is inserted near centre it comes out clean—it takes about 45 minutes. These are good both hot and cold.

Let me know if you want me to keep on with these skim milk powder recipes.

DOROTHY DIX:

Father's Rules Too Strict Girl Complains

DEAR MISS DIX—I am writing this letter with great faith that you will be able to help me. I am 14 years old but am always taken for 16. My mother is dead. I live with my father who is very good to me as far as buying clothes, etc., but he is very strict. I am not allowed to use lipstick, as do my girl friends of the same age. We have a community center at our school and although I am allowed to attend, I must leave before the affairs are over. They usually end at 10 o'clock but I must be home by 9.30. I have the same trouble about going to the movies. I must be home before the others. More than anything else I want to be like the other girls, but my father's restrictions make this impossible.

SUE C.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER—Adolescence is the age of conformity; teen-agers who must act, dress, or be treated differently from their contemporaries are distraught, heartbroken and doomed to a life of utter tragedy. Oldsters may smile condescendingly at the situation, but it is an acute problem for young people and should be given understanding consideration.

THOUGHTFUL RESTRICTIONS

Sue's father is restricting her plans not because he wants to be cruel, but because he is in the delicate position of rearing a motherless daughter, and is uncertain of his ground. It is much better for him to err on the strict, rather than the lenient, side, and this difficulty is one which Sue must learn to appreciate. A girl who considers herself old enough to use lipstick, to attend dances and movies is also old enough to accept responsibility. In this case, the responsibility of a daughter is to realize the difficulties of her father's position, and give him all possible co-operation.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been going with a girl for seven months and we get along very well. We plan on being married next year but want to save our money until then to put into furnishing an apartment. I gave her a friendship ring, but want to get an engagement ring. However, she prefers that I put the money into the furniture fund. My friends keep asking me if I'm giving her a ring, and seem to think I'm cheap when I say, "no."

M. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER—The wishes of the girl, not your friends, should govern your decision. Most girls are very anxious to have an engagement ring, and it is a tribute to her that she's willing to sacrifice this token of betrothal for a future home.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow of 63. I have raised a large family and they are all married, leaving me quite lonely. Recently I met an old friend, 64, whom I have known for over 30 years, but haven't seen in some time. He is a widower, also with grown and married children. Do you think it would be wrong for us to resume friendship? It's true our mates have been gone just a few months (they died within a week of each other), but we would like to have a home together.

H. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER—Just to be sure that your mutual attachment is due to sincere affection and not merely a desire to assuage loneliness, it would be better to wait a year. Why not take the matter up with your clergyman and get his advice? Since he is in a better position to know you and your family, he can gauge your chances for happiness more clearly than I can.

Trans-Atlantic Chess Played At $9 a Game

TORONTO (CP —Chess players at Toronto's A. V. Roe Aircraft Company plant are engaged in a trans-Atlantic contest with players at the Thomson-Houston company in England that costs about $9 a game.

But they have lots of time—48 hours—to think over their moves.

It began with a visit of Tony Deakin of Toronto to friends in the English company. The Thomson-Houston firm has a flourishing chess club and suggested a correspondence match with Avro. Deakin agreed and 10 games were arranged with J. R. Collacott of Toronto, captain of the Canadian team.

Players use an airmail form for each move. A player enters his move and mails it to his opponent. The form must be mailed within 48 hours of the receipt of one from his opponent.

Mr. Collacott said the average match lasts 30 moves, and each mailing costs 15 cents so at two mailings a move the average cost comes to $9 a game. But, he said, some matches may run to 70 moves. In any event, most matches won't be completed until next summer.

What's Right?

You meet a friend on the street who tells you that he has been ill and in the hospital.

WRONG: Say: "I was telling so-and-so just the other day that I was afraid you weren't well; you looked so bad the last time I saw you."

RIGHT: You may have made that statement—but don't repeat it to the person who has been ill. None of us likes to think that our acquaintances are talking about how bad we look.

Boy With Artificial Legs May Soon Be Team Goalie

TORONTO (CP) — A 12-year-old boy whose legs were amputated two years ago may soon be playing goal for an East York hockey team.

Bobby Hutchinson was run over by a freight train. Parts of both legs had to be amputated below the knee. But he promised himself: "I'll skate again."

Doctors fitted artificial legs and the boy was soon able to walk. He learned to use his bicycle again after weeks of falls and bruises.

Last summer he played first base for his baseball team at Plains road public school in suburban East York. Stan Wadlow, recreation director of the community, says the boy also played pitcher and catcher for the team at various times and when he was at bat other boys ran the bases for him.

HOCKEY BIG INTEREST

"Bobby has relearned to swim and plays goal in soccer," Mr. Wadlow said. "But his biggest interest is hockey."

Bobby now is in training for probably the biggest thrill of his life. He is taking his first strides on skates with his artificial limbs, and next month he'll be given a chance to try out with one of the East York pee wee teams.

Fat Persons Are Offered New Approach To Reducing

By LEONARD RUPPERT
NEA Staff Corespondent

NEW YORK (NEA)—The overly plump woman was distressed. She shrugged her shoulders and looked around the room for sympathy.

"What could I do?" she whimpered. "If I didn't take a bite, I'd insult them."

She told of holiday parties, piles of cake and candy and her final surrender to temptation. Her equally plump listeners nodded sympathetically. Then they told her how to avoid such pitfalls in the future.

"It's all right to take a bite," they advised, "but make sure it's only a nibble. Make it last all night—as a social drinker does a martini. Or, better yet, ask for an apple."

Like similar groups in Boston, Akron, Berkeley and other cities, thse women were talking their way to slimness. The method is called Group Weight Control. It might be called Carbohydrates Anonymous. It offers fat persons a new, safe and pleasant approach to the reducing problem and the results have doctors excited.

Often dubbed "conversational reducing," Group Weight Control is not a cure-all. It doesn't always work. Even when it does, it's usually a lengthy haul. But it's fun and hundreds of fat folks swear by it.

The plan was devised by Dr. A. L. Chapman of the U.S. Public Health Service three years ago. It's actually quite simple. Persons who need and want to lose weight first get the go-ahead from a doctor. They then meet weekly with other reducers and keep one another on the diet-wagon.

Some groups talk about food only occasionally. They spend most of their time trying to get at the emotional problems that cause their constant hunger pangs. These are the "psychotherapy groups," usually led by a psychologist or psychiatrist.

BOUTS WITH TEMPTATION

Nutritional groups talk about food almost exclusively. They teach their members about calories, what foods are good for them, what foods to avoid. They swap recipes and tales of their bouts with temptation.

Both types are proving successful. A psychotherapy group led by Chapman in Alexandria, Va., lost an average of 17.6 pounds per member in 20 weeks. Nutritional groups of New York's Public Health Department are doing equally well under Dr. Norman Jolliffe.

A typical meeting in New York began with the group leader going over each member's diet chart. Those doing well were commended. Those slipping behind were asked what had happened.

Most knew exactly where they'd failed and admitted it sheepishly. Those who didn't know, or would not admit it, needed a different approach. By going back in detail over the week's nibbling incidents, counting up calories, and in general conversation, the others gradually drew them out.

One woman said her husband objected to eating her diet foods. ("Keep on the diet yourself," she was told, "but cook him a regular menu.")

Another woman wasn't eating the right foods because she didn't know how to make them appetizing. (She was flooded with recipes.)

MAJOR HEALTH PROBLEM

Interest in the plan is high, as excess suet is a major U.S. health problem. Some 30,000,000 persons are now "seriously" overweight—10 per cent or more above normal. The reason for fatness is simple—overeating. The common excuse that it's "gland trouble" usually doesn't hold water. Fewer than 10 of 1,000 fat persons have glands bad enough to influence their food usage. And even they can reduce by dieting.

The reason for overeating itself isn't so simple. Many doctors now believe it has emotional causes. The fat person may eat too much because he's bored, underloved, frustrated or in some way mentally upset.

Others pooh-pooh the emotional emphasis and say it's usually a matter of ignorance. Fat folks just eat the wrong foods, they explain, and must be taught to change their dietary habits.

Both sides agree that there's only one way to reduce. Just as eating too much brings fatness, eating less brings slimness. Going on a diet is a must. But often the reducer isn't determined enough, or doesn't know how to cope with the emotional upset that led him to fatness in the first place.

This is where the group comes in. Sitting down together once a week in comfortable surroundings, giving each other pep talks, sharing advice on diet and personality problems, plump persons from coast to coast are finding that it's easier to fight their fat together.

The method isn't expensive. If not offered by the local health department, it can be started easily by churches, Ys and other groups with the members themselves paying for it. The key to success is a qualified group leader. Ten to $15 a member for a 10- to 16-week course usually is enough to attract one.

Judge Resigns As Chairman In Conciliation

TORONTO (CP)—Judge E. Cross of Woodstock has withdrawn as chairman of a conciliation board scheduled to consider today a wage dispute between the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) and the Federal Wire and Cable Co. Ltd. of Guelph. The hearing will be held later.

Eamon Park, an official of the union, recently sent a letter to J. B. Metzler, deputy labor minister, in which he said the union would boycott the hearings unless Judge Cross were removed from the chairmanship.

It will be necessary for the representatives of the company and of the union to recommend a new chairman.

OFFERS NO REASON

Judge Cross, in his notice of resignation to Mr. Metzler, offered no reason for his sudden withdrawal.

The union recently objected to the refusal of Judge Cross to submit his views on the recent Canada Machinery Corporation Limited case at Galt to the union's representative on the board. The judge submitted his report to the labor department without the union nominee knowing its contents.

SETS 3-MILE MARK

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—Leslie Perry, a slight 125-pound training companion of mile champion John Landy, Saturday bettered the 15-year-old Australian record for three miles. Perry covered the distance in 13 minutes, 57.8 seconds. The old Australian Mark, set by Cecil Mathews of New Zealand, was 13:59.6.

LAST LEAP—In an unusual camera study of a horse in action, Rose Park, Jockey B. Marshall up, was all alone moving up and over the last hurdle to cop the February Handicap Steeplechase at Hurst Park, England.

American League Schedule Listed

CHICAGO (AP)—The American League's 1953 baseball schedule—bulging with 224 night games, eight more than last season—was announced today.

After-dark contests make up nearly one-sixth of the total of 1,232 games to be played by the eight clubs.

The champion New York Yankees go to Washington for the 1953 pre-opener Monday, April 13, with the full league going to bat the next day.

Home sites will shift April 16.

The all-star game is set for Tuesday, July 14, with Boston Braves as the host club. The American League winds up its campaign Sunday, Sept. 27.

Of the 224 night games scheduled this season, 50 are on tap at Washington to top the list.

Plan Formation Here Of A Water Ski Club

An open meeting is being held at 7.30 tonight in the YMCA to organize a Peterborough water skiing association. Water ski movies will be shown, officers elected and plans outlined for an important provincial meet likely to be held on Little Lake some weekend this coming summer. Jim Fraser of the Chamber of Commerce is chairman of the meeting.

Alf Pink some time ago put in an application to the Canadian Water Ski Association to have the Ontario open championships held here possibly Aug. 1-2 or Aug. 8-9. He was given to understand that the application was being viewed favorably by the officials. If this meet is held here, winners would advance into the world competitions to be held at the CNE.

Grove Teams Split In Puck Twin Bill

In the Lakefield Arena on Saturday, Appleby College defeated the Grove Firsts by 3-2, while Grove Seconds won 2-1 from their Appleby rivals in two fine hockey contests. It was the first time Appleby won from Grove Firsts in the history of the Grove School, and play was quite good on rather heavy ice.

Verge scored from Kennedy in the first period, but Grove evened it next stanza when Ramsay tallied on Uren's pass. Oliver made it 2-1 but Appleby replied with two in the third, Stark getting one from Verge and the latter scoring on a solo in the clean tilt. Teams:

Appleby: Goal, Frewey; defence, Northey, Benson; centre, Verge; wings, Stark, Kennedy; alternates, J. Douglas, B. Douglas, Keirf, Bateman, Young, Holden.

Grove: Goal, Hellyer; defence, Whittemore, MacDonald; centre, Uren; wings, Ramsay, T. Ryder; alternates, A. Ryder, Staples, Little, Rashleigh, Pearce, VanBuskirk, Oliver.

QUITE CLOSE

Play was not too fast in the other game, owing to the ice, but the contest was close all through, and with only one penalty handed out. Gordon counted for Grove in the second period. Fitzsimmons got the only Appleby goal from Chaffe in the third, but the Grove Seconds won it in the last few minutes when Calderwood tallied a neat one, aided by Creelman and Caldwell. Teams:

Appleby: Goal, Yates; defence, Brown, Wellumsen; centre, Fitzsimmons; wings, Chaffe, Hardwick; alternates, Gunyon, Davis, Keirf, Deacon, Puddicombe, Smith.

Grove: Goal, Birchard; defence, Gordon, Grant; centre, Creelman; wings, Caldwell, Calderwood; alternates, Galambos, Regan, Carter, Creswicke, Hibbard, Cline, Grey, Delamere, Easson, Friend.

Marmora Gets TVL Win

MARMORA (ENS).—The postponed TVL fixture played between Lakefield and Marmora on the latter's rink on Saturday evening resulted in a win for the Marmora team by 9-3.

Played at short notice and with limited publicity the attendance was affected, only 280 fans being present. The visitors were minus a third line and for the first period, although playing hard, failed to register, while Marmora tallied five times. All went harmoniously until the middle of the second when the visitors protested over what they considered a disallowed goal. Eventually Wasson got into the altercation with referee Bell, who issued a match misconduct. Wasson disobeyed the order and police intervention was necessary before the game could proceed. Of a total of 11 penalties awarded Lakefield six were incurred in this period. Marmora's number for the game totalled seven. Other than the misconduct incident, the game was interesting to watch, with each team in turn initiating good movements. Marmora lacked the services of Lavender after the first through an earlier injury giving him trouble. Jones and Doran were most successful for the home squad getting two goals apiece and Jones an extra point on an assist.

Jopling scored twice for Lakefield and Fawcett got their third. Birch, Sabatino, Knox and P. Calberry were also aggressive for the losers.

Lakefield: Goal, Wingett; defence, Sabatino, Wasson; centre, Birch; wings, Fawcett, Jopling; alternates, Knox, R. Calberry, P. Calberry, Wilford Miller.

Marmora: Goal, Killian; defence, E. Trumble, Gray; centre, Doran; wings, Lavender, K. Trumble; alternates, Maynes, Darrah, Loveless, Jones, Mantle, Forestell, Doyle.

COUPLE REUNITED—Laurent Dube, 32-year-old Quebec City wax salesman, found in Halifax two years after he disappeared, is reunited with his wife at Levis, Que., on his way home. Dube was declared dead by Quebec Superior Court less than three months ago, and an insurance company made payments totalling $6,500 to his wife and father and a bank which had some claim on the account. The RCMP found Dube, apparently a victim of amnesia, working in a Halifax hospital under the name of Paul Dupuis.

Austrian Wins Skiing Crown At Temiskaming

TEMISKAMING (CP)—A former Austrian Olympic performer and the younger half of a crack Owen Sound brother team, emerged with Class 1 combined laurels in the Ontario Senior skiing championships held here during the weekend.

Karl Martitsch, living in Sault Ste. Marie since he came to Canada from Austria, captured the jumping and cross-country events to take Nordic combined honors handily.

Ripping off a dazzling second run to walk off with the slalom, Jim Georgas of Owen Sound finished third in the downhill to annex the Alpine title.

Temiskaming's Sid Ringrose salvaged the only skiing glory for the home town crew, making two fine runs to earn a clear-cut decision in the downhill.

STUDENTS WIN

Student skiers from the University of Toronto won both combined and individual championships in Class 2. P. A. Bowen was top man in the Alpine, taking convincing wins in both downhill and slalom. Wally Schwenger was best in Class 2 jumping and finished fifth in the cross-country.

Jean Guy Pharand of Temiskaming raced off with the Class 2 cross-country, bettering by five minutes the time set by Martitsch. Pharand's time for the gruelling 10-mile run was 1 hour 22 minutes 51 seconds.

Georgas whipped down the 1,000-foot slalom run on his second time as if he was jet-propelled to nose out Ian Rogers of the University of Toronto. His time for the two runs was 72.7 seconds.

In the downhill Sunday, Ringrose raced down the 2,000-foot slope twice to nose out Arch Jones of Huntsville.

In the jumping events, Martitsch gained a total of 202.7 points to shade the Temiskaming quartet of Ken Therien, Einar Lund, Ringrose and Don Brazeau, who followed him in that order. Martitsch executed the longest leap on his second try, travelling 109 feet.

Alton McKnight of Cobalt suffered a broken ankle in the downhill and was rushed to hospital.

Lack Of Reserve Troops Great Allied Weakness

By JOHN RANDOLPH

SEOUL (AP)—What real chance would a big United Nations offensive have right now?

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, the retired commander of the 8th army, says it could certainly succeed and he seems to be thinking of a big engagement fought fairly soon, after reasonable planning and with some, but not extraordinary, reinforcements. He does not think it would broaden the war.

But other high military authorities are not sure. Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the U.S. joint chiefs of staff, told the Senate armed services committee the 8th army would have to reinforce heavily, and that an offensive would bring heavy losses and a grave risk of touching off a third world war. He was described as glum over the chance for a quick victory.

TWO SIDES TO STORY

It is possible to add up strong points and weaknesses of both sides and get a fairly good idea of what might happen.

The United Nations forces in Korea total 22 divisions with about 350,000 men in combat formations and about 150,000 in supply and transport services. These 500,000 troops are supported by the 5th Air Force with nearly a dozen fighter and bomber wings and by the navy's air and sea power off Korea's coasts.

The UN army has two great strengths, its essential command of the air over North Korea, and its superiority in weapons and equipment.

GREAT WEAKNESS

The UN army's great weakness is lack of reserves to exploit a victory or support bold strategy.

As for the Communists, they apparently have a little more than 1,000,000 men in Korea. Three-quarters are Chinese Communists and the rest North Koreans. About half of these men are at or near the front.

The Communist army has two grave weaknesses, its lack of bombers, and its lack of mobility.

Apparently the key to Allied victory is to get the war back into the open again—either by breaking through the Reds' fortified crust or by one or more end runs with amphibian or airborne troops.

Furnace Explodes

TORONTO (CP)—Twelve persons fled from a three-storey house Saturday night when a fire started as a result of an oil furnace explosion. Bruno Garresto, 32, suffered a cut hand when he broke a window to escape from his bedroom down a fire department ladder. Firemen estimated damage to the house at $5,000.

Baby's Body Found, Charge Parents

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP)—Police searching through brush-tangled woods near here Saturday night found the body of a baby whose mother claimed it had been destroyed in a fiery furnace.

The body, in a brown paper shopping bag, was uncovered while police pressed an investigation of the baby's death and disposal.

Police said the mother, Mrs. Viola S. Opanowich, 42, was being held on a murder charge. Her husband, Peter, 55, was held on a charge of being an accessory before and after the fact.

Mrs. Opanowich stated the child was born prematurely about a week ago and did not live. She told police she baptized it and placed the body in the flaming furnace. She said her husband was not the baby's father.

The husband said he had no knowledge of the baby.

Photographers Becoming Big African Game Hunters

By ASTLEY HAWKINS

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters)—Big-game hunting expeditions in East Africa, once almost exclusively out for trophies to hang over the smoking room fireplace, now are more and more "shooting" with cameras for science and fun.

About a quarter of all big game safaris fitted out in Nairobi, the Kenya capital, since the Second World War have been for photography alone.

Scientific organizations, museums and movie companies out for backgrounds of wild life now are often the biggest clients of East Africa's famous "white hunters," the professional game experts who organize and manage the expeditions in the field.

Once they stood by with heavy bore guns to cover a client if he muffed his shot at a charging beast. Now they do the same job for a man who could not hit a clay pipe in a shooting gallery but who is an artist with a camera.

HARDER TO FIND

Game, though still abundant, is becoming more difficult to find every year, the professional hunters say, partly because of the creeping progress of civilization into primitive Africa.

Game licences for visitors — costing £75 a year—now are closely controlled and the species and quantity of the game allowed to be killed is also strictly limited. Special licences have to be obtained for hunting and killing elephants and rhinoceros.

Costs of going on a big-game safari have increased about 50 per cent since the war. A safari for two persons with the services of a professional white hunter and 10 Africans to run the camp now costs about £1,000 for a month, normally the minimum period.

This includes the hire of tents, transport, camping equipment, and the drivers, cooks, gunbearers and skinners among the African retinue. Rifles and ammunition are usually extra.

On a month's safari out of Nairobi, a party can meet more than 30 varieties of game, ranging from lions, buffalo, elephants and rhinoceros to a variety of monkeys and deer.

Poland Trying To Build Fleet

By RICHARD O'REGAN

VIENNA (AP)—Under Moscow's direction, Communist Poland is straining great industrial effort to build up a merchant fleet second only to Russia's behind the Iron Curtain.

Poland also has begun a strategic project of inland waterways for commercial and military use that will link Russia with the coal and steel of East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Both developments have been disclosed in official announcements of the Polish government reaching here. They apparently are part of the Soviet Union's efforts to build up an integrated economic system behind the Iron Curtain that one day may seriously challenge the West's economic dominance.

Poland's growing fleet now is being used for trade between Russia, China, the "peoples democracies," South America, India and the Far East. It is reported to be moving Czech armaments to China via Portuguese Goa and Macau.

Of military importance, too, is the plan to build a canal connecting the Vistula and the Bug rivers and to widen the wild, unproductive Vistula from the Baltic to Warsaw, where a new inland port is being built.

TO AID SHIPMENTS

The waterways will provide the means whereby Silesian coal and steel can be shipped to Russia.

Before 1938, Polish navigation was insignificant. At the end of the war, port installations were almost completely destroyed. What Polish shipping had escaped Russian and German confiscation was sunk or dispersed.

But now, along Poland's 300-mile Baltic sea coast, the Communists say a shipbuilding "revolution" is taking place, the first phase of which will be completed in 1956. The Communists claim ports have been repaired and expanded, wrecks have been salvaged and new ships are coming off the ways faster than ever in Poland's history.

Gydnia is the main headquarters of the Polish merchant fleet.

According to United Nations statistics, Poland had 101,000 gross tons of shipping in 1938. By June, 1949, she had 43 ships with 161,312 gross tons. Nineteen of these ships were loaned by Russia.

In June, 1952, according to the United Nations, Poland was estimated to have increased her gross tonnage to 241,000. A Communist announcement said the new ships include ocean-going cargo and ore and coal carriers, as well as smaller cargo ships for "Baltic traffic"—meaning traffic between East Europe and Russia's Baltic ports.

OPTIMISTIC PLAN

By 1956, Poland's optimistic plan calls for a "six-fold increase in the capacity of our fleet over prewar," said a recent government statement.

Behind the Baltic coastline, say the Communists, workers are extending the network of roads and rail lines connecting Stetin and and Danzig.

Diplomatic reports say thousands of workers also are engaged in building naval installations about which nothing appears in the controlled press. These installations will be of primary value to Russia's expanding Baltic fleet.

Tough Sardinians Give Up 'Vendettas'

ORGOSOLO, Sardinia, (AP)—The hard-bitten men of this town have sworn on the cross to give up vengeance after generations of following their island code of an "eye for an eye."

Their oath may mean a radical change here where "vendetta" is a deep-rooted tradition. "Vendetta" is the primitive law of avenging by blood a wrong done to a member of the family. Honor is handed down from father to son, like family wealth.

It wasn't easy to convince Sardinians to give up what they consider a sacred obligation.

The task was undertaken by well-loved Dr. Leonardi Monni, the town physician.

The doctor talked to each family in the town. He reminded these proud people that 16 persons were assassinated in the last few months of 1952. Unless the chain of vengeance was broken, he said, 33 more citizens of Orgosolo would wind up in their graves this year.

SECRETARY KILLED

In April, 1950, a "death list" of 40 names was smeared on the walls of the town's church. Each name was labelled "spy" or "traitor." Several days after the secretary of the commune ordered the list whitewashed, he was killed.

Since then seven of those marked for death on the church wall have been murdered.

No important arrests were made. The Italian government sent General Ugo Luca, Italy's leading bandit buster, to put an end to the killings and wipe out banditry. The killings continued. Bandits continued to block roads and hold up travellers.

Mouths are sealed because by talking one may betray his own blood. If he speaks, he may be killed or kidnapped and held for ransom. So powerful is the code of silence that island journalists will not write about banditry.

Monni knew many of the outlaws were members of families he approached.

There was the widow Maddelena Masuri, whose husband was killed in Sept. 1950. There were Mr and Mrs. Taras, whose three sons were killed a year ago.

When these showed a willingness to follow the doctor's suggestion for peace, others followed Dr. Monni persuaded the heads of 50 of Orgosolo's most influential families to lead the movement to abolish banditry and revenge.

FORMED PEACE COMMITTEE

Heads of families formed a peace committee. The older men sported long mustaches and carried stilettos in their belts in keeping with an old tradition that no man should be caught without a weapon to defend his honor.

These decided to take an oath on the crucifix to give up vengeance. They decided they would talk to the outlaws hiding in the mountains of this central Sardinian province and try to convince them to give up their reign of terror.

On Jan. 3, these Sardinians marched in a body to the main square of the town.

Most of the town's 3,000 inhabitants crowded the square.

After a special mass the heads of Orgosolo's leading families, approached a table on which had been placed a crucifix. Each man touched the cross with his right hand and took the oath.

Synthetic Fabrics To Make Brave Show At Coronation

LONDON (AP)—Sheen of velvet and gleam of ermine will make a bright show in Westminster Abbey at the Coronation June. 2.

Robed peers and peeresses, with coronets gleaming, will make a grand spectacle.

But, it is confessed in abbey circles, all that glitters isn't ermine, and some of that velvet is going to be velveteen. Many peers, of lower grades, are going to be thanking synthetic textiles for that stately front which they will present to the world.

The reason of course is the expense of the outfit, and it isn't cheap even if it's chemistry.

A peer may figure on having one or maybe two opportunities in a lifetime to wear a coronation robe, which isn't often for an expensive suit which is quite worthless for any other occasion. A robe which is absolutely correct and in the best coronation tradition costs about £1,250, the outfitters estimate.

TOO COSTLY

Such an expenditure in times like these is quite beyond many peers and peeresses, so concessions have been made. The concessions permit rabbit fur, called miniver to make it sound better, and synthetic fabrics.

A robe bought by a peer really bent on economy can be had for as little as £245.

Even such a sum is a burden to some of the 941 hereditary peers.

The concessions to have robes of materials other than the traditional velvet and ermine does not apply to the higher grades of the peerage.

The peerage has five grades, dukes at the top and then, in descending order, marquesses, earls, viscounts and barons.

NO LAW

There is no law in the matter, but there is an unwritten understanding, with the force of the unwritten British constitutjon, that in the matter of robes the dukes, marquesses and earls, a company of about 250, must wear the traditional costume, and no substitutions allowed.

Many of these more exalted peers are lucky because they already have robes.

Coronation robes and the coronets which go with them need to be worn only by those taking part in the procession inside the abbey, and who will occupy the most conspicuous seats.

Dress regulations were drawn up after consultation with Norman Hartnell, fashion designer for the Queen.

The makers of synthetic materials will have more scope within the abbey than at the many receptions, presentations, balls and dinners which will be a part of the coronation season.

For most other functions the tip to British women is that the gown must be silk. At balls and receptions gowns are subject to closer scrutiny than in the congestion of the abbey. At recent fashion shows by London's 11 top designers the emphasis was on silk.
